On day of opening, parade of the "Sons of the Legion" drum corps was held, 95 boys gaily uniformed carrying big banner tieing-in with picture held on main street and played 15-minute program front of theatre. The book offered another excellent road to good exploitation: Three leading bookshops ran newspaper ads, while dozen or more gave complete window displays; public library and 10 circulating libraries distributed bookmarks. Pretty girl carrying huge facsimile of book boarded street cars and buses, apparently reading, but obviously giving story of picture and theatre on outside of cover.

Cleveland's "Pinocchio" Inducted as Y.M.C.A. Member

"Pinocchio" opening at Hippodrome Theatre included gratis publicity, ads, and art breaks in numerous foreign and community papers. "Pinocchio" made member of Y.M.C.A. in connection with their annual Spring membership drive. Tie-up with Gillette Razor Blade Company whereby 8 by 20-inch streamers were spotted in drug store windows, heralds distributed by Victor record agency, and counter and window displays at dealers.

Exhibition of Disney drawings at Cleveland Museum of Art, and story in art columns of papers, sheet music displays at dealers, streamers on cigarette vending machines, displays in all Cleveland public libraries, and story released by libraries to Cleveland papers; ads, tieing-in with Cleveland News classified department totaling over 1,100 lines. Ten "Pinocchio" windows in downtown department stores, also displays in neighborhood stores. "Pinocchio" in St. Patrick's Day parade, Cleveland press carrying art on this feature; plugs on department store radio program, on air five times weekly, tie-up with WGAR netting numerous announcements; plugs on Victor's "Music You Want" program nightly over Cleveland radio station. Barricade with 24-sheet in front of Lake Theatre. Special publicity stories in columns of book review, music, business record, children's page and magazine editor's columns. Trailers two weeks in advance and snipes at Allen and Palace Theatres currently and News classified contest on the above, in addition to regular numerous avenues used advantageously.

Campaign put over also put on by David Bachner and Arnold Nathanson, Cleveland advertising department.

E. C. PEARLSTEIN,
Advertising Manager, Warners, Cleveland.

UTICA LIGHT FAILS ON "LIGHT THAT FAILED"

Arnold Stoltz swears that he had nothing to do with it; yet, oddly enough, the Utica, N. Y., power plant failed on the opening night of "Light That Failed" at the Avon.

Stoltz called the newspaper's attention to the coincidental happening and title of the picture which was rated sufficiently newsworthy for a page one box.

Memphis Orchestras Plug "All Came True" on Radio

Harvard press stories on "It All Came True" at the Warner, Memphis, were blown up and used on street and lobby three weeks in advance. Bands from local hotels plugged the numbers used in the picture on every broadcast three weeks in advance, with special spot announcements on picture. Leading bookstores carried display of all Bromfield's books with cards showing date and theatre. Special trailer ran two weeks in advance. Exclusive front on all street cars used week in advance and during showing date. Serialization daily for six days in advance in Daily News. Advance reviews and stories in Press-Scimitar and Commercial Appeal through special advance-screenings critics. Special book front display in advance lobby. Display ads commenced six days in advance. Special gag for red-headed Texas girls used in a special folder for distribution in office buildings. Displays in all hotels tied in with the picture.

Contests Featured For "Fighting 69th"

Highlights of Bob Neilson's "Fighting 69th" campaign at the Cambria in Johnstown, Pa., included nightly broadcast by members of the American Legion on national defense, screening for executive committee of the Legion, V.F.W. and other service organizations in addition to parade and concert in front of theatre opening night.

Contests included one in lobby which featured officers' uniform insignia, passes going to winners and a movie quiz contest which was planted in both dailies, wherein prizes went to those correctly answering questions pertaining to stars in the picture. Newspaper coverage also included teaser ads ten days ahead.

"LET'S HEAR FROM YOU"

Edison Relics Promoted For "Young Tom Edison"

During the current showing of "Young Tom Edison" the Michigan Theatre borrowed from Henry Ford one of his most prized possessions, a 12-foot glass case containing a number of the first of Thomas A. Edison's inventions. A card directly over the case carried billing on "Edison the Man," which will also be shown at the Michigan.

A display directly to the right of the glass case showed lamps from the time of the caveman up to and including the greatly improved modern light fixtures. Patrons waited in line to view these relics, and very good comments were received.

"Rebecca" Ushered In By Numerous Contests

Journal-American was tied to the "Rebecca" opening at the New York Music Hall through a contest which was planted three days ahead of opening. Prizes totaling five hundred dollars were awarded to readers of the paper who submitted the best letters describing the scene that affected them most in the picture.

Another contest run in conjunction with R. H. Macy was to find the girl who, in the opinion of the judges, looked most like Rebecca. Prize on this was a screen test by Selznick International, the final judging being held at Radio City Music Hall.

"LET'S HEAR FROM YOU"

Store-wide "Pinocchio" Tiein Promoted by French and Morton

As part of Manager George French and publicist Bill Morton's campaign on "Pinocchio" at the RKO Albee, in Providence, leading department store turned over entire shop to that character for their Easter theme, rather than a bunny. Four days ahead windows featured "Pinocchio" figures with playdates and art, the same thing stressed in all departments throughout the store.

Studio bands at WJAR, WEAN and WPRO were furnished with music three weeks ahead with gratis theatre and picture plug daily three days ahead. Largest jeweler in town featured display of the original art work, buying co-op ad to plug it and dairy companies bannered their trucks and used milk bottle hangers.

Merchant Tieins, Parades, Feature Easter Egg Hunts

Since the weather at the time was against outdoor activity, Manager Tommy Martin of the Uptown Theatre, a suburban situation in Minneapolis, worked with Ev Olsen of the Minnesota Amusement ad forces to switch his Easter Egg hunt to a tiein with local merchants wherein their windows were used to display the eggs. Some 200 colored eggs were used in 15 different stores, cash and theatre tickets given as prizes for those counting the correct number of eggs in each window and entering the number on an official entry blank at the theatre.

The stunt was put on over a three-day period during the school Easter vacation, the theatre running a trailer a week ahead and, in the lobby, a one-sheet listing all necessary information and cooperating merchants. In turn, each store displayed cards in their windows to the same effect. Schools were covered with colored teaser heralds outlining the plan. Ads were used in the neighborhood weekly, the paper also carrying extensive publicity for the promotion.

Parade Featured by Campbell

An important annual event for the youngsters in Brampton, Ontario, is the Easter Egg hunt put on by Jack Campbell at the Capitol, the event this year being put on by the Round Tabler at a cost of five dollars, most everything being promoted.

Top feature was the egg hunt which took place on Saturday morning, some 350 kids assembling at ten o'clock to parade up the main street escorted by local police and led by the town band. Children carrying theatre banners were led to a centrally located vacant lot where at a given signal from Campbell, they broke ranks to search for small bags containing slips entitling finders to prizes.

Star Presents Prizes

With John Bowles making a personal appearance in Syracuse, city manager Gus Lampe prevailed upon the star to present prizes to youngsters in connection with the annual Easter Egg hunt sponsored by the RKO-Schine theatres and the Department of Parks. First 50 awards were records containing the musical sound track of "Pinocchio," then current at the Keith, lesser prizes being bunnes, writing tablets, etc.

Another tieup in which the star featured was presentation of Easter corsages to the first 25 women attending show at the Strand, manager Harvey Cocks on hand to aid in the ceremony.

"LET'S HEAR FROM YOU"

Swenson's "Blondie" Lobby

Gag lobby display was used by Harvey Swenson, Strand, Minot, N. D. for "Blondie Brings Up Baby," consisting of one sheet cutouts, slates, boxing gloves, etc., etc. Gloves were for first shiner received by Baby Dumpling, slates for starting school carried tiein copy. Cooperation of leading baker was sought on the distribution of heralds carrying the slogan "Blondie Brings Up Baby on Blank Bread."

Students Promote Date on 'Lincoln' For Course Credit

"To give the students practical experience and definite responsibilities, similar to those they will meet in real life, as well as a real opportunity to show what they can do with an actual problem and to let them see whether class instruction can produce results."

Thus, the Ithaca, New York, newspapers recently quoted Prof. Bristow Adams of Cornell University's journalism classes as a reason for accepting the promotion offered by RKO on the local date at the State: the campaign was handled entirely by the college classes.

Tiein was made by Louis J. Allemann, home office exploiteer, on the basis that the picture was of sufficient merit to rate this rarely obtained cooperation. With this in mind, the entire set-up was carried through by the students themselves with Allemann assisting further in addressing some of the classes in journalism, and Manager C. E. Hollander arranging for a preview to further aid the students in their work.

All ads, newspaper publicity, exploitation stunts, created by the individual students were so identified and credited in the class work. The embryo journalists were given wide latitude in the creation of these endeavors.

Mayor Declares "Lincoln Day"

The unique arrangement was elaborately publicized by the Cornell Daily Sun in addition to the Ithaca Journal, the Sun running front-page news shots and stories on the progress of the promotion. The Journal also cooperated extensively with a page tiein carrying a three-line banner head and editorial praise for the picture. The full page stressed proclamation by the Mayor, setting aside opening day as "Lincoln Day" and also reproductions of letters to Professor Adams from S. Barret McCormick and Manager Hollander praising the effectiveness of the work done by the collegians.

Among the lead exploitations conceived by the students was a tiein on opening day wherein new Lincoln pennies were distributed by the banks and circulated widely around the city.

"LET'S HEAR FROM YOU"

Giant Street Bally Used On "Earl of Chicago" Date

Effective stunt used on "The Earl of Chicago" at Loew's New York Criterion Theatre took place when 6'7" Hugh Douglas, doorman dressed in complete Easter outfit, top hat, cutaway coat, etc., strolled up and down the Broadway sector, stopping at hotels, restaurants, stores, etc., leaving his calling card on the counters, in mail boxes and letter boxes in the neighborhood.

Douglas joined the Easter parade on Fifth Avenue and for the entire afternoon distributed cards to the crowds. Newsreel cameramen glimpsed him above the crowds and "shot" his picture from all angles.

Credit for the stunt goes to Manager Seligman, his two assistants, Messrs. Brunner and Lindner, and publicity man Phil Laufer.

FIRST OF THE SECOND

With the 1940 Awards turning the first Quarter, results of which were announced last week, the second period on the way finds entrants well up on their toes with 45 taking down 41 honors in the first Fortnight of the second Quarter. As to be expected, new faces to the competitions continue to make themselves felt in keeping with those who have scored previously.

To be repeated: Entrants who earn Fortnight Appointments most frequently in the two-week Fortnights will obviously be expected to receive further consideration from the Judges in the voting for Quarter-Master Plaques, Medals and Citations. It is of advantage, then, to enter material in as many of the Fortnights of each Quarter as possible.

Grimes Offers Solo Screening For Contribution to Charity

Extra publicity was garnered by Ken Grimes in advance of his showing of "Ninotchka" at the Warner, in Erie, Pa., through his offer to hold a special screening of the picture to anyone donating $50 to the Infantile Paralysis Fund.

Contests were also highlighted by the theatreman who concentrated on the kid angle by distributing large numbered placards reading "Garbo Laughs." These were handed out week ahead at the Saturday matinee and children had to retain the cards and bring them with them the following week. Guest tickets went to those holding numbers corresponding with ones called by Grimes from the stage. Stunt rated stories and art.

Another contest was arranged whereby candid camera fans were invited to take shots from the screen of Garbo laughing.

College Queen Sought By Paramount on "Days"

Five prominent artists and illustrators will serve as judges of Paramount's all-American college queen contest now under way in universities and colleges throughout the nation.

From photographs of entrants, McClellend Barclay, Russell Patterson, Jaro Fabry, Dean Cornwell and Armando will select a representative from each state. From the 48 girls chosen, 12 will be selected by readers of Movie and Radio Guide magazine to attend the world premiere of "Those Were the Days," at Galesburg, Ill., on May 21. Knox College, the "Old Siwash" of the story, will be host.

Following the premiere one of the 12 girls, chosen as all-American college queen, will go to Hollywood for talent tests by Paramount.

Exploitation Briefs Here & There

Since the song "Sweet Genevieve" is quite prominent in the picture "Young Tom Edison," Ed Fitzpatrick at Loew's Poli, in Waterbury, Conn., contacted Station WBRY and made arrangements to have this number used as the theme song on Wally Newberry's daily organ broadcasts each morning direct from the theatre. Picture received good advance daily plugs along with theatre credits.

With the Motion Picture Council carrying considerable weight in Northampton, Mass., Round Tabler George Laby secured cooperation of president of that organization who addressed an open letter to "Movie Goers" which ran in daily papers recommending the film.

Tying up with local cafe, Jimmy Redmond at the Bonham in Fairbury, Neb., promoted a "Gone With the Wind" Sunday dinner. Printed on blue mottled stock, card carried cut of Gable and Leigh together with title playdates, etc.

For his street bally on "Fighting 69th," Hal Grott at the Met, in Baltimore dressed a boy in soldiers uniform and stationed him in front of local restaurant peeling potatoes. Back sign read "My name is O'Malley. I am doing K. P. duty and I can't see 'Fighting 69th' until I'm finished, but you can see it at the" etc., etc. Four National Guardsmen were on duty at the theatre during run to answer all questions pertaining to display of guns and other war paraphernalia on display in the lobby.

Wrecked car promoted by Chief of Police, was appropriately bannered and used for street bally as advance on H. L. Friedman's "Drunk Driving" engagement at the Etna, in Etna, Pa. Traffic violators were issued tickets ordering that they witness the film after which the cards were punched by manager and returned to Chief of Police. Bags and napkins were imprinted week ahead and numerous window displays landed.

Five days ahead of opening of "His Girl Friday" at the Byrd, in Richmond, Va., ad man Kamsky planted a 96-sheet on main thoroughfare, date changed to "now" on opening day. Three sheets were posted near entrance to high schools ahead, spot announcements were landed on WRVA, WMBG, WRTD and WRNL and picture mention made over commentator's program, etc.

Recently when Jeanette MacDonald was making a personal appearance at an opposition Toledo theatre and expressed a desire to see the film showing at George Brady's, Savoy Theatre, the theatreman jumped aboard the publicity bandwagon and saw to it that a reader was planted in local papers to that effect. In addition, the star graciously autographed some photos for Brady which he shall use to good advantage at some future date when playing a MacDonald picture.

Teaser Stunts Highlight Niles' "Ninotchka" Date

Arranging a special screening of "Ninotchka" at the Chateau, in Rochester, Minn. Manager Ray Niles and Woodrow Praught, advertising manager, distributed comment cards which were used for publicity purposes and lobby display. Outside coverage included teaser snowbird cards and a sixfoot beaverboard title stencil was made up and used on snow banks around town. Doorknob hangers also carrying comments were planted, postcards sent to special list and teaser window cards spotted.

Newspaper publicity included generous review based on the screening, art spread, regular readers and novelty layout listing a dozen ways to mispronounce the title, followed by copy "pronounce it any way you like, but it is still the gayest," etc.

"LET'S HEAR FROM YOU"

Popularity Contest Proves Successful for Johnson

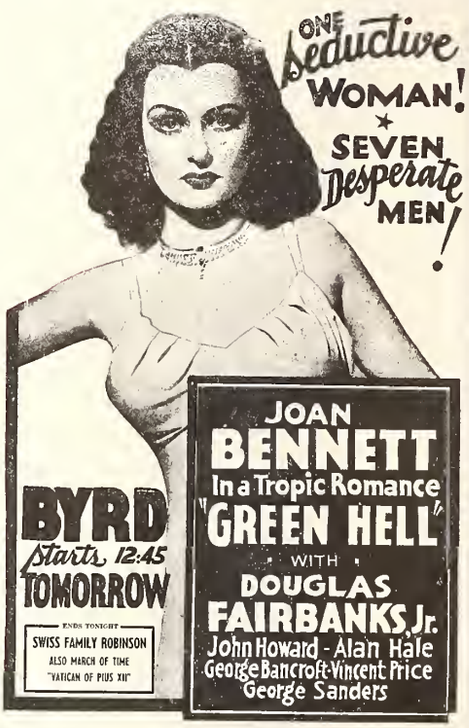
Reported as the first time a town-wide popularity contest had been staged was the one recently arranged by Bill Johnson at the Opera House, in Millinocket, Maine, sponsored jointly by the newspaper, theatre and group of local business establishments.

Ballots good for 500 votes each were distributed with each purchase made at any of the cooperating stores. The standings of the contestants were announced from time to time on the bulletin board of the paper, final results being announced on stage at conclusion of the contest.

Each merchant contributed $15 for participating and Johnson promoted hotel reservations and part of the transportation costs for the winner and a companion to Boston and return; balance was paid for out of money collected from the store so that entire tieup was costless to the theatre. Entertainment was also provided for during the Boston stay. Three local prominents acted as judges.

"LET'S HEAR FROM YOU"

Grott's "Allegheny" Stockade



Entire front of the Met Theatre, in Baltimore, was converted into a stockade for Harold Grott's "Allegheny Uprising" date. Lettering for the title covered top and below, in black and red cutout letters were the names of the stars. In addition, Grott constructed a display board consisting of cutout figures of Claire Trevor and John Waynes dressed in deerskin breeches and jacket, holding long barreled guns in their hands. Spot announcements were made twice daily over WFBR for a week ahead and attractive heralds selling the show were distributed.

"LET'S HEAR FROM YOU"

Davis' "Treasure Island" Tieup

Visual Education received a boost in Mt. Vernon, Ind., when Louis Davis, manager of the Vernon Theatre, sold newspaper idea to take credit for teaching the town's school kids via the screen. With The Daily Democrat reaping the glory, the newspaper's editors sewed up the public and parochial schools to dismiss classes during school hours, that the children might see the re-issue of "Treasure Island." Newspaper gave 688 lines of publicity, including three page-one stories and two mats of scenes from the picture.

NEWSPAPE

ADVERTISING ON LATE DATINGS

WOMETCO THEATRES ARE YOUR BEST ENTERTAINMENT

On this and the following page appears an alphabetical index to the titles of all features listed in this week's Release Chart, with additional information for the exhibitor.

The number immediately following the title is the production number. Also given is information regarding the classification of the subject matter. A melodrama is denoted by the abbreviation Mel., Comedy by Com., Comedy-Melodrama by Com.-Mel., Musical by Mus., Musical Comedy by Mus.-Com., Western by West. If the production is made in color, the letter "C" appears in parenthesis after the classification. Thus: Com.-Mel. (C) denotes a Comedy-Melodrama in Color.

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features now in work or completed for release later than the date of this issue are listed under "Coming Attractions." Letter in parenthesis after title denotes audience classification of production: (A) Adult, (G) General. Numerals following audience classification are production numbers. Dagger (†) symbol indicates picture is of the 1939-40 season. Asterisk (*) after title of feature denotes first appearance of picture in Release Chart.

NOTE: The totals for running time are the official figures announced by the home offices of the distributing companies.

When a production is reviewed in Hollywood, the running time is as officially given by the West Coast studio of the company at the time of the review, and this fact is denoted by an asterisk (*) immediately preceding the number. As soon as the home office has established the running time for national release, any change from the studio figure is made and the asterisk is removed.

Running times are subject to change according to local conditions. State or city censorship deletions may cause variations from the announced and published figures; repairs to the film may be another reason.

MARTIN QUIGLEY, Editor-in-Chief and Publisher

Vol. 139. No. 3 — April 20, 1940

HOME TOWN, U.S.A.

INTO the flow of a desk burdened with tidings of lawing and legislations, bickerings and bitings, criticisms and condemnations, came today from out in Indiana in mid-continent a bit of reassuring note, a re-statement in behalf of the significance of the motion picture theatre in the American community.

It is a newspaper report, transmitted appreciatively by Mr. Harry M. Palmer of the Majestic and Little Theatres in Seymour.

"Because of the automobile and good roads, smaller Indiana business centers are fighting for existence and prosperity," remarks the Indianapolis Star. "To these communities Indiana University offers a nine point program to restore and maintain healthy business conditions."

First and foremost of the nine points, the community "must maintain a good movie house."

The schedule is an utterance from Professor Albert Haring, head of the School of Business of the University. Second to the picture theatre he lists "one good eating place", and, in order, parking facilities, window displays, a sound local newspaper, lights, cleanness, competent lines of merchandise, and, "above all, for merchants to keep any promise made to a customer".

The implications of social responsibility for both the motion picture and the house that shows it are inevitable—and constitute the one abiding opportunity and asset of the screen.

DEAF also DUMB

A CURIOUS indifference to sound pervades the exploitations of the sound picture. Hollywood production has long given sound and musical components of most pictures usually competent and often lavish attentions. It goes into the can and thereafter nothing happens until the customers hear it. There have been exceptions, so few as to be conspicuous.

Alone among publications dealing with the art Motion Picture Herald has down the years presented from time to time reports and discussions of especially notable musical scores and treatments in the pictures. Mostly they have been written by Mr. Joseph O'Sullivan, who, by reason of orchestral, operatic, motion picture and exploitation experience, is especially equipped.

Now comes Mr. O'Sullivan, with somewhat ironic glee, bearing in hand an article from Mr. Aaron Copland in the New York Times in which he observes:

"It is common knowledge that the United States is the world center of musical activity. There are 2,000,000 concert goers annually, in addition to the millions of radio and phonograph fans. It seems curious that little or no effort is made in Hollywood to interest this vast audience in the elaborate musical backgrounds of the major films.

"Seriously, I think the principal reason so few people are consciously aware of the music they hear from the screen is that audiences have not yet been informed on the subject. Only a few years ago most filmgoers were not conscious of the importance of direction, either; yet today there are several Hollywood directors whose names have a greater drawing power at the box office than those of many stars."

Meanwhile, ignored or not, music will have its way. Last week's presentation of the tidings of the new special and "spatial" recording and reproduction systems under development and on the verge of exploitation by the rival Radio Corporation of America and the Telephone company is evidence enough. The screen is going to get more and bigger sound, whether it wants it or not. The public will.

"HOT PINK"

FOR several years now, advertising experts, mainly agency chieftains, have been discussing the decline of status and authority of copy presented on the printed page. Every convention has a committee and a symposium on the subject.

For the next one—also for the attention of Mrs. William Brown Meloney, experienced and conspicuously able editor—we submit a specimen from the magazine section of the commonly proper New York Herald Tribune of last Sunday.

"NEW LIPSTICK gives MOUTH THAT SEXY LOOK. - - - Lick your lips . . . see how sexy this makes them look. . . . But of course, you can't do this repeatedly . . . it would fade your lipstick. . . . "

Mrs. Meloney would not print an article or story which started like that. Maybe she'd better speak to the advertising manager.

GABRIEL HESS

THE passing of Mr. Gabriel Hess this week ends a career of service to the institution of the motion picture industry, remarkable for its actual but unproclaimed intensities. He was notable in his expression for a lucid incisiveness, and in the scholarly order of attention he gave to the concerns of his office. He was inwardly most impatient with sheer stupidity, which he inevitably observed often. Commonly he spoke softly, made public utterance rarely, yet was widely known through his labours. He will be missed.

CARTOON APPEAL

THE most conspicuous development in advertising technique is the comic strip drawing, which, despite its kinship with the motion picture, has been used so far mostly for breakfast foods. Figures emanating from the office of Hawley Turner, of Lennen & Mitchell, indicate that this type of advertising has increased more than 40 per cent in the first quarter of this year. It was Mr. Turner who introduced the comic strip technique, starting with a "Grape Nuts" campaign, January 5, 1931. So far, he estimates, $80,000,000 has been spent on space for advertising using this device of presentation.

This Week in the News

Product Promises

FOREIGN losses caused by the war and trust suits and bills pending in Congress apparently have not caused producers to cut either the number of pictures or the amount of money to be spent on them, according to announced plans, which promise that the ten large American companies will spend "about $200,000,000" on some 500 features for the 1940-41 season.

Even though negotiations for a "consent decree" in the key New York anti-trust suit indicate that changes might have to be made in the selling policy, companies are now scheduling annual sales conventions.

The major distributors, with but a single exception, unnamed, have virtually abandoned hope of an out-of-court settlement of the Government's "key" New York anti-trust suit, Broadway heard late Wednesday. Except for the unnamed company, there has been no contact between the defendants and the Government in Washington in connection with a possible settlement.

The story of the new season's product lineup, as reported to date, together with data on conventions, starts on page 12; that of new trust suit developments, on page 33.

The New Extras' Deal

HOWARD PHILBRICK, a former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, who participated in a five-month investigation of Hollywood's Central Casting Corporation (which allots extra jobs for the major studios) was appointed head of the corporation on Tuesday, succeeding Campbell McCullough. Mr. Philbrick has full power to reorganize operation.

The appointment is the result of the investigation, concluded two weeks ago, of extras' charges of favoritism, abetted by bribery and rough treatment to objectors. The investigation had been instigated by the Screen Actors Guild, Mr. Philbrick being one of several private investigators. Two weeks ago the Association of Motion Picture Producers ordered a reorganization.

The association and the corporation this week stated that they did not expect the appointment to "solve overnight the problems on which the energies of the industry have been concentrated for several years," that extras "should not expect reorganization will mean that all work that is wanted will be available," and that the appointment "has not changed the mathematical problem of trying to spread approximately 900 average daily jobs among more than 7,000 extras."

Mr. Philbrick recently had been state director of motor vehicles for California.

Money for Korda

A LOAN of $3,600,000 from the Security National Bank of Los Angeles and the Bankers Trust Company of New York to finance some U. S. film production by Londoner Alexander Korda, United Artists partner is being arranged. Of this sum, $3,200,000 would be used to make four pictures in this country, the remaining $400,000 would be set aside for the production of two films in England.

Announcements that the loan for Korda was underway and that "United Artists is headed for its biggest year" were to have been made by Maurice Silverstone, UA chief, at a meeting of the board of directors in New York Wednesday, but the meeting was postponed until next week.

Other business expected at the board meeting is a discussion of the appointment of a general sales manager. At present the company does not have one. Harry Gold is head of the eastern division and Jack Schlaifer of the western division.

Now Look

LOOK MAGAZINE, tabloidish picture semi-monthly, after nearly a year of experimentation, has entered the motion picture business on a rather unusual basis. Unlike Time magazine, with its the March of Time shorts (RKO) Look has no financial interest in the films which will bear the Look banner. "Outstanding" documentary features and shorts, "more human and less documentary" than the March of Time pictures, are planned.

One short every five weeks and a feature every nine months is the "production schedule." The shorts are being made by American Pictures Corporation, which is headed by one Barrett King, identified as a Chicago investment broker. The films are being produced at the old Ince-Pathe studio on the West Coast, where one David O. Selznick also makes pictures, like "Gone With the Wind" and "Rebecca."

The first picture to bear the "Look-Ampix" (Look magazine-American Pictures) banner is "Lights Out in Europe," documentary feature made by Herbert Kline and being released by Mayer-Burstyn, New York. The editorial staff of Look saw the film and decided it was the type the magazine wanted to sponsor, so overnight the picture became a "Look-Ampix" production, even though Look and American Pictures, Inc., had nothing to do with the film in the first place.

Paramount, which tested two "Look-Ampix" shorts some time ago, has yet to give a decision whether it will release "Look-Ampix" films.

Television & Mrs. F.D.R.

THE PHILADELPHIA Motion Picture Preview Study Group assembled Wednesday at luncheon at the Warwick Hotel in that city for its annual meeting, to hear its "key speaker," Thomas F. Joyce, vice-president of RCA in charge of television sales, stress the point that "television will be a complement and supplement to motion pictures, rather than competition"; that television will be the most valuable medium of exploitation for motion pictures, sponsoring televised previews of new pictures in every city, direct from the studio. He said RCA hoped to show exhibitors large screen (9 by 12 feet) television for theatres this summer.

Mr. Joyce sat down. The luncheon guests were astir. The wife of the President of the United States had just arrived, unscheduled. She addressed a message to the motion picture business, to give drama and color to the "better things" in pictures, just as the motion pictures does for the criminal, gangster, chorus girl. However, the first lady does not feel that the "blood-and-thunder," crime or murder pictures today are doing any harm to the youth of the country. "They shed the impressions at the door of the movie house," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "Our responsibility is to make character building things just as glamorous to our youth in motion pictures."

Mrs. Arthur Goldsmith, president of the Study Group, was chairman of the luncheon, which included among its guests Julius Haber of RCA; Walter Krause, RCA account executive for Lord and Thomas; Sidney Samuelson of Allied of Pennsylvania, and local independent exhibitors and exchange managers.

Tightening the link between motion pictures and television, Paramount this week announced that its DuMont Laboratories would begin transmission about September 1st. (See page 14.)

Abstract vs Modern

THE "AMERICAN Abstract Artists," housed down in the cloak and suit belt at 13 West 17th street in New York, this week paraded and picketed up in 53rd street before the Museum of Modern Art—which same includes the Film Library—in protest that the museum is not modern enough. The picketers distributed handbills, tossing about the names of the Rockefellers and Whitneys. They also expressed annoyance at the inclusion of an exhibit of art for "PM.," the working title of a new newspaper about to be born in New York. Examination of the membership list of the Abstracts indicates that they may average a shade to the left. The museum staff includes some most expertly informed on that school of politics.

Sawyer Returns

UP FROM the Sunny South, Wednesday, came word about another Florida motion picture project, Colonnade Pictures, Inc., another Florida motion picture studio, the Colonnade, a Spanish-type building on the northeast corner of Coral Way and Ponce de Leon Boulevard, in Coral Gables. Chief Colonnader is Arthur H. Sawyer, the Sawyer of the nickelodeon days of exhibition, of early Kinemacolor (funeral pictures of Edward VII), of Sawyer and Lubin Pictures, producing with Petrova, for early Metro, Barbara La Marr, for early First National, the Sawyer who, again with Herbert Lubin, built the Roxy theatre in New York and operated until William Fox took over, around 1927.

"Duke" Tareyton, an assistant to Rex Ingram, Maurice Tourneur, et al, in the production days of old, will be Mr. Sawyer's production manager.

Their building, the $250,000 Coral Gables 1927 real estate sales offices of George Merrick, will now house both Colonnade Pictures and the Coral Gables First National Bank.

Herbert Lubin is now in Dallas participating considerably in OIL.

Rivera, Producer

MEXICO, WHICH pigeonholes notes from Cordell Hull about the expropriation of American oil properties, has money for movies on the subject. Just now an appropriation of about $85,000 has been made so that Diego Rivera, artist of red fame, may write, direct and produce a picture with the oil issue as its theme. All that Senor Rivera knows about oil would be perhaps what he contracted while he was painting the scurrilous murals never unveiled in Rockefeller Center. Incidentally he did a job of kindred nature, devoted to cruel caricature of President Roosevelt, at the Hotel Reforma in Mexico City. Since the hotel was to open for the special enticement of American tourists, and since red gun men would not permit revision, that job was covered with plaster. It was Rivera, you'll be remembering, who was host to Leon Trotsky quite a while.

Democrat

DOWN AT BURGAW in North Carolina it begins to look like a safe forecast that Roy Rowe, Rowe Amusement Company, will be going back to the State Senate to succeed himself. The outlook is based on the fact that he is unopposed in the Democratic primaries, and that no Republican has even even ventured to file in the district. It just isn't done down there.

Star Broadcasts

MANY AN EXHIBITOR has wondered why Hollywood motion picture stars, for the most part, do not heed their pleadings to stay off the air. The basic reason noted is simple. A typical case is at hand. Each and every one of the 200 stars and featured players who have appeared on the present series of "Gulf Screen Guild Theatre" programs, on Sunday evenings over CBS, received a check averaging $2,850, for a comparative few minutes "work." And that is by no means top money for the show. (Bette Davis' price was $5,000 each for three broadcasts.)

There is the occasional star air appearance without payment, on a special film tieup or as "guest" for a chatter columnist. But on the whole, radio's commercial sponsors pour millions into the purses of screen stars.

When the curtain is rung down on the present "Gulf Screen Guild Theatre" series, Sunday evening, at 8, a total of $570,000 will have been paid by Gulf Refining for the appearances of 200 players—in this instance, however, the money is turned over to Hollywood's Motion Picture Relief Fund. CBS says that the talent used in the series is "conservatively estimated to be worth $787,000." Fifty-seven stars and players whose studio contracts ordinarily forbid radio appearances have been heard on the program.

The program has paid Hollywood players $10,000 a week for the 82 weeks, excluding summer suspensions, that it has been on CBS since July 13, 1938, a neat little bundle of $820,000, all going for charity.

Americanism

MEMORIAL DAY a-coming will be set aside in many a motion picture theatre as a day dedicated "To be Thankful That We Live in America."

The General Federation of Women's Clubs, largest concentration of womens' organizations in the country, dedicated to "adjusting democracy for human welfare," called the other day on exhibitors to set aside May 30th "to be thankful," the Federation's motion picture committee's chairlady, Mrs. Arretus Burt, St. Louis, asking owners to exhibit on that day "films that embody the essential elements of American democracy."

Distributors had supplied Mrs. Burt with these candidates from among their releases: Warner Bros., 12 short subjects; MGM, 12 features, 11 shorts; 20th Century-Fox, 7 features; Republic, 2 features; Columbia, 7 shorts; Paramount, 1 feature; Universal, 1 short; United Artists, Monogram, and RKO, each 1 feature; March of Time, 4 shorts; National Screen, 2 trailers.

Edward L. Kuykendall, from Columbus, Miss., sent word to Mrs. Burt that the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, of which he is president, would cooperate.

Muni on High-Pressure

PAUL MUNI, who has been interspersing his Warner Brothers motion picture starring, of late, with stage plays, evidently is becoming annoyed with some of Hollywood's "high-pressure" exploitation methods practiced on its stars. He claims that certain kinds of publicity ballyhoo tend to destroy the sympathy between actors and audiences.

In a Philadelphia dressing-room discussion on the state of the nation, cinemawise, and while between-the-acts of "Key Largo," at the Nixon, in that city, Mr. Muni opined that the constant probing of screen personalities' lives tends to remove the illusion desirable around creators of most things cultural: motion pictures, the stage, music, literature, and thus destroys an appreciation that might otherwise be possible.

That Second Feature

USE of stage stock companies, both in summer and winter, in motion picture theatres, as a "second feature" in lieu of dual-films, seemed this week a growing idea, as the Music Corporation of America, in New York, turned its attention in that direction.

The Artists Bureau of the National Broadcasting Company for several weeks has been testing the plan on the road, one of its specially organized stock companies having played an abbreviated version of "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" in Stamford, Providence and Cambridge.

ON-THE-SPOT PREMIERES AND PRODUCTION

WORLD premieres, like production, used to be endemic to Hollywood. Now they are on-the-spot premieres and epidemic across the land. And recently a new symptom, on-the-spot production, has appeared. Presumably both are prevented from becoming pandemic only by the war. Recent manifestations, illustrated on this page, include the opening of Paramount's "Biscuit Eater" in Albany, Ga., where much of it was filmed with local characters; the arrival of a Columbia troupe at Williamsburg, Va., to make "The Howards of Virginia", and Republic's "Dark Command" at Lawrence, Kan.

'BUDGETS' OF 200 MILLIONS FOR 500 FILMS REPORTED

Approximate Last Year's Investment and Output Despite Court and Legislative Disturbances and War Losses

Next season's product from the large American companies will be as numerous as for 1939-40 and "budgeted" at about the same figures, according to preliminary information and promises, this despite pending Governmental and Congress anti-industry actions and the foreign rental losses on account of the European War.

Final product data are not available until the annual conventions. Twentieth Century-Fox opened the meeting season last weekend in Chicago when 52 pictures, 52 shorts subjects and 104 issues of Movietonews, "budgeted" at $27,000,000, were announced. Monogram's convention is being held in Dallas this week. The eight others will follow in comparatively short order.

The ten large American companies are expected to spend nearly $200,000,000 on about 500 features and westerns for the 1940-41 season.

Allow for Suit Effects

A few of the companies have delayed setting convention plans on account of possible changes in sales policies which would be required if the "key" New York anti-trust suit were settled out of court. Last year Warner Brothers and MGM held conventions in March; the first sales meeting this year was last weekend, and so a few weeks later.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer again heads the list with the largest amount of money announced for production for the new season. That company will spend between 42 and 44 millions on an elastic schedule of between 44 and 52 pictures. It is the company's usual practice not to set a fixed number of films, for, as William F. Rodgers, general sales manager, said, "If we promised 52 films, we would have to deliver 52." He also said that no decision had been made on whether to hold a national or regional conventions this year, or whether the meeting would be in May or June. Last year MGM met on March 21st for the annual sales convention. Furthermore, Mr. Rodgers pointed out, the salesmen are now busy selling "Gone With the Wind."

RKO Convention May 27–30

RKO has the next definitely scheduled convention: May 27-30 in New York. Republic and Universal also plan May meetings.

James R. Grainger, president of Republic, said that the budget and final product arrangements for next year would be set at a meeting to be held shortly on the Coast with Herbert J. Yates. Republic has announced the same number of pictures for next year, 26 features and 24 westerns.

Columbia has not yet completed plans for the convention or for the new season's product. It is reported that the company plans about 48. A. Montague, general sales manager, will decide within the next week or ten days whether a national or several regional conventions will be held.

Universal plans two sales conventions, one in Atlantic City and the other in Chicago. W. A. Scully, general sales manager, said the company would release 58 pictures in 1940-41, which is the same number scheduled this year. The conventions will be held in May.

Six Distributors Already Have Set Conventions; Little Change in Dates

(a) To be decided by A. Montague within a week or ten days.
(b) MGM may hold a national or regional conventions in May or June.
(c) To be fixed after conferences on the Coast by James R. Grainger and Herbert J. Yates.
(d) Tentative.

Warner Summer Convention?

According to reports Warner Brothers may hold a summer convention. Last year that company opened the season's sales drives with a convention March 13-14. No details on the new season's products are available.

United Artists is reported to be planning four regional conventions. About the same number of features is scheduled for 1940-41, but the production budget has been increased by almost one-third. Harry Gold, eastern division sales manager, said that the convention details probably would be determined this week.

Paramount has not announced convention plans yet; last vear the meeting was held in Los Angeles in June. The company is expected to have about the same number of pictures on the schedule this year as last. Barney Balaban, president, said some time ago that the company would make as many "top-budget" pictures as always, 30, and as many other pictures as possible.

Overseas Plans Go Forward

The large companies are scheduling foreign sales conventions in the usual ways. The war has not forced any great changes, although some representatives probably will not be able to get to the meetings. Paris and London will be the scene of foreign division meetings of several American companies. In some cases foreign representatives attend the domestic conventions.

Territorial conventions of MGM will be held as usual; the time and place of the meetings will be set by the local executives.

Sales meetings probably will be held in London, Paris and Sydney.

W. J. Hutchinson, foreign manager for Twentieth Century-Fox, and John W. Hicks, Jr., foreign head of Paramount, are both scheduled to visit Europe this spring. Mr. Hutchinson is to go to Cuba for the Central American convention opening April 25th and plans to leave for Europe shortly after his return to New York, if war conditions permit.

Seven New Independents Other Developments

The week brought several new season product developments both from majors and independents, Twentieth Century-Fox making the first 1940-41 product announcement (April 13th issue of MOTION PICTURE HERALD, pages 27-28) and holding the first 1940 sales convention. (See page 24, this issue.)

Monogram Pictures followed with its annual product announcement (page 29), preliminary to its annual sales meeting, to be held this Sunday and Monday in Dallas.

New life continues to appear in independent production for the new season, with the formation this week of seven new companies from which product is expected for 1940-41: National Pictures Corporation, Gateway Productions, Hollywood Productions, Feature Pictures, Bronston-Roosevelt Productions, Leonard-Green Films, Fortrade Corporation.

Mary Pickford this week also let it be known that she's ready for that comeback as a producer, and Film Alliance in New York disclosed plans of expansion for the new season.

Morros Forms New Company

Boris Morros and Robert Stillman have dissolved Boris Morros Productions, Inc., and formed National Pictures Corporation. The first picture to be made by the new company is "Second Chorus," which will feature Paul Whiteman and his band. H. C. Potter will direct. No release date has been announced.

The new company is headed by Mr. Morros; Mr. Stillman is vice-president and treasurer, and Sam Rheiner, secretary. Board members include John Stillman and A. Robert Simon, the company's attorney. Mr. Morros is no longer connected with Jacques Grinieff, French producer, with whom he produced "Flying Deuces."

Weiss-Kahn Start Negro Film

Louis Weiss and Richard Kahn, heads of Hollywood Productions and Gateway Productions, have started production of a 15-episode serial with an all-Negro cast. Two Negro features are in preparation. The group also plans to make four roadshow pictures with white casts. The company also is making a series of 12 contest shorts, titled "Guess Who?" The shorts show famous stars in silhouette and the audience attempts to identify the stars. Mr. Weiss and Mr. Kahn have been in New York making arrangements for distribution.

New Firm To Produce in New York

Feature Pictures, Inc., has been incorporated in Delaware, to produce motion pictures in New York. Louis Grimm, 2d, is president; John J. Yrigoyen, vice-president, and Ann M. Cervantes, secretary-treasurer. Gordon Wiles is producer director. Mr. Wiles has been art director for United Artists, Fox and in 1937 for Columbia. In 1931-32 he won the Academy art direction award for "Transatlantic."

The company plans to shoot about 50 per cent of the first production outdoors against New York backgrounds. Interior scenes will be made in a local studio. A budget of about $260,000 has been set for each film. The company is negotiating for major release. Temporary offices are at 70 Pine Street.

Roosevelt-Bronston Merger

James Roosevelt's Globe Productions and Samuel Bronston Productions have been merged to provide a release for the Bronston company and greater capital assets for Globe. Mr. Bronston remains president of the company and Mr. Roosevelt becomes chairman of the board. Other officers are Edward H. Schwab, chairman of the executive committee; Frank Perry, vice-president; William O'Connor, secretary and treasurer; John J. Bergen, director; Henry Henigson, assistant to Mr. Roosevelt and associate producer, and Hal Hall, advertising and publicity director.

Globe Productions will confine its activities to the making of 16mm films for the Mills Novelty Corporation. The Bronston company will produce features for United Artists release. James Roosevelt will be in charge of production and all features will be released as "James Roosevelt Productions."

The first film, "The Bat," which Alfred Hitchcock may direct, is to go into production on June 15th. As previously announced the sec-

PARAMOUNT IN TELEVISION, FIRST ACTIVE FILM TIEUP

Formally Entering Field on or before September 1st when New DuMont Station Opens in New York

Paramount Pictures late Tuesday formally disclosed its intention of becoming a telecaster, through Allen B. DuMont Laboratories, Inc., in which it has substantial interests.

Paramount, in conjunction with Allen B. DuMont, will formally enter the television field on or before September 1st when the new powerful DuMont station opens in New York. Paul Raibourn, treasurer of DuMont and executive of Paramount, in making the announcement pointed out that the new station will be the only telecasting unit in New York operated in conjunction with the motion picture industry.

The announcement came from Paramount's own pictures press department at its home offices in Times Square, New York, and followed last week's Senate discussions, started by David Sarnoff, president of RCA, over Paramount's DuMont holdings.

Opening Shots at Hearing

Motion picture industry interest in television received formal attention during the hearings of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee last week on the Lundeen resolution for an investigation of the Federal Communications Commission. Opening shots were fired in what might turn into a battle waged by film companies for an interest in television which some consider potential competition for theatres.

The "battle" broke out when Mr. Sarnoff told the committee that Paramount controlled the DuMont company. Washington circles were surprised that the RCA head introduced the picture company-factor into the television hearing, for RCA has a large interest in RKO. If film companies and television are to cooperate, it was said, RKO is already covered by RCA television.

Answers Sarnoff

William A. Roberts, counsel for the Allen B. DuMont Laboratories, Inc., attacked Mr. Sarnoff's charge in an arraignment of RCA. He denied that Paramount was in control of DuMont, although he admitted it held a large block of DuMont stock. He further said that, far from being a situation to decry, the Paramount interest was valuable in that it had saved DuMont from the RCA monopoly. The arrangement also may have potential advantages in supplying talent and programs, it was asserted.

Barney Balaban, president of Paramount, said last month that the company held about a half interest in DuMont Laboratories but was merely watching television. He said, "No one knows what form it will take."

Station Permit Granted

On Saturday the FCC granted the DuMont application for a construction permit for a television station in New York, through which that company plans to launch the system it has developed in competition with RCA. This action, it is expected, will answer Mr. Sarnoff's contention that it would be futile to spend the extra money required to make receivers flexible because another system will be in operation.

The new station will be powerful enough to cover the whole metropolitan area within a radius of about 40 miles. The transmitter will be erected at the top of 515 Madison Avenue. The DuMont company has leased the top floor of that building for its studio. A representative of the company said that when the antenna is erected on a mast atop the building it will be just about the same height above sea level as the Chrysler Building where CBS has its television transmitting station.

In announcing the powerful DuMont station Mr. Raibourn issued a statement on the developments at the FCC television hearings saying:

"This marks a significant victory for those forces in the television field that have been fighting for a flexible system of broadcasting and receiving and against the plan of the Radio Manufacturers Association to 'freeze' television in the form advocated by the Radio Corporation of America.

Calls Free Enterprise Assured

"Coupled with RCA's recent announcement that it can and will build television sets capable of receiving programs telecast by DuMont and other rival systems as well as its own, this action removes the danger that television will become petrified in its elementary stages, assures the public that free enterprise and competition will rule television in the future as it has automobiles and radio in the past and means that America's most promising young industry can go fullspeed ahead with its vast program of giving workingmen jobs, investors new opportunities and millions of potential set-buyers the thrills and amusement made possible by science's newest miracle.

"The promise of the major radio manufacturing companies that they will build flexible receiving sets and the FCC's grant of a telecasting license to DuMont, which has rejected the uniform telecasting standards proposed by the Radio Manufacturers Association, is not simply a guarantee to the public that it will be able to tap the entire program flow. It lays the specter

ROOSEVELT WOULD REORGANIZE FCC

The Federal Communications Commission was included in the list of government agencies to which President Roosevelt wishes the reorganization law extended. The fourth reorganization proposal submitted by the President gave no indications of the disposition to be made of the FCC. The present law expires on January 20th, coincidental with the end of the President's second term.

The President's request for power to reorganize Federal agencies, including the FCC, comes at a time when that commission has been under fire of Congress, the press and part of the radio industry over its actions on television.

FCC Rides Storm of Criticism in Senate and by Industry and Press; Roosevelt Indorses Commission

Moving with tornado-like speed, a "blitzkrieg" aimed at the Federal Communications Commission last week struck the impenetrable wall which is official Washington and was dissipated into thin air.

Continues Television Inquiry

Results of a Senate, industry and press attack on the commission were:

1. The commission continued unperturbed with its investigation of the television situation.
2. The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee suspended action on the Lundeen resolution for an investigation, with strong probability it has been permanently sunk.
3. President Roosevelt gave the FCC a clean bill of health and disclosed that he is concerned lest television be monopolized.

Predicated on the charge that suspension of its order permitting semi-commercial operation beginning next September 1st had halted television in mid-stride, the attack of the industry, supported by the Lundeen resolution, failed under the weight of Chairman James L. Fly's assertion, backed by the White House, that there were possibilities of monopoly in the RCA advertising campaign which precipitated the storm.

Commissioner Absent

Hearings on the Lundeen resolution "blew up" when FCC Commissioner T. A. M. Craven, who dissented from the suspension order, failed to appear to testify. Mr. Craven, in a letter to Committee Chairman Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, explained that he could not leave the commission's hearings during the presentation of technical testimony, although he would be glad to appear later, if asked.

He explained that while he had voted in opposition to the suspension he had filed no written dissent to the majority action, since it was not usual to do so in other than judicial proceedings.

However, he said, "I gave my reasons orally to the commission at that time, and suggested that the commission postpone action until sufficient time had elapsed for second thoughts. Furthermore, I urged the chairman personally not to take the action which the majority had taken. I also suggested to the chairman that if the majority was insistent upon taking some action, it modify the original action taken."

Questioning of Mr. Sarnoff and Commissioner Fly by members of the committee brought out the fact that the whole controversy revolved around the development of a flexible receiver—one that would be able to accept the transmission of programs by either RCA or any of the other companies which are working on different systems.

Commisioner Fly indicated in his testimony before the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission that television should be ready for full commercialization within a year but said the industry cannot "safely go ahead today with extensive sales promotion."

Mr. Sarnoff accused the commission of unfair tactics. He asserted that the commission had cited the RCA sales promotion campaign as its of monopoly, as it was vividly pointed out last week by President Roosevelt when he said that no one company should control television and that owners of television receiving sets should be able to use them to pick up telecasts on any radio bands with any type of set.

"The company headed by Allen B. DuMont, whom James Lawrence Fly, FCC chairman, called 'the second most important research man in television,' is uniquely fitted, from both the technical and program standpoints, to operate one of New York's telecasting stations. For, with National Broadcasting and Columbia holding similar licenses and technical considerations of available channels and the present state of engineering knowledge precluding more than a few stations in the area, the responsibility of each telecasting outfit is a heavy one.

On Flexible Plan

"Following the principles which in the past have guided it in its manufacture of receiving sets, DuMont will build its sending station on the flexible plan. In contrast with the rigid 441-line definition proposed by the Radio Manufacturers Association, DuMont sets are built to receive, and the DuMont station will be built to transmit, pictures of from 200 to 800-line definition, depending upon the type of program telecast.

"The desirability of the flexible line definition advocated by DuMont is illustrated by the company's plan to telecast Broadway shows from the theatres direct to the homes. If the 441-line definition of the RMA code were used, and the entire stage shown, the facial expressions and small movements so vital in a play would be completely lost. But DuMont's 600-800-line definition will present the play to the television audience as vividly as to the theatre audience.

Operating Experimental Station

"A pioneer in the field of television, DuMont has gained telecasting experience by operating an experimental sending station in New Jersey. Its New York commercial station will be capable of transmitting programs anywhere within a 30-mile radius.

"The progress made by DuMont in its manufacture and sale of television receivers is the wonder of the radio industry. In contrast to RCA, which claims to have sunk $10,000,000 in television, and CBS, whose bill is estimated at $2,000,000, DuMont, which went in for little advertising or high-pressure promotion, has sold as many sets in New York as any other company!

"DuMont, a company backed by leading figures in the theatre and screen world, will be able to secure the cream of American entertainment for its television programs. A list of the men interested in DuMont shows the lead this company will have over its rivals on the production end of the business. Behind the company stand such men as Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee of Paramount Pictures, chairman of the board of Madison Square Garden and backer of numerous Broadway plays; John Hay Whitney, financier of Selznick-International Pictures, producers of 'Gone With the Wind,' and the bankers of the Lehman Brothers firm, which has important connections with the film industry.

"With its location tentatively set at 515 Madison Avenue, the DuMont station will be ready to telecast by September 1, the date originally set by the FCC as the start of limited commercial telecasting. Programs now being envisaged for next Fall include sports events, leading Broadway shows, political speeches by 1940's presidential candidates and variety shows starring the top celebrities of Broadway and Hollywood."

Meanwhile the Paramount-DuMont group acted to strengthen itself in the television field by participating in the reorganization of Majestic Radio & Television Corporation, Allen B. DuMont Laboratories, Inc., is one of the three underwriters in the proposed reorganization plan. Leo T. Norville, attorney for Majestic, said that DuMont is owned 50 per cent by Paramount Pictures, Inc.

Had DuMont License

Majestic acquired a DuMont license about a year ago. Under the new plan the Majestic facilities would be used for mass production of DuMont television receivers. It was said in the New York office of DuMont that the laboratory in Passaic could not even keep up with the demand for DuMont receivers in the New York area and no receivers could be made for other cities where television is available. If production of the receivers starts in the large Majestic facilities the demand all over the country could be met. Majestic was, at one time, one of the most famous names in radio and sold millions of radio receivers.

Under the plan DuMont would receive access to patents and licenses owned by Majestic. The new debentures would total $165,000 to provide the company with additional working capital. DuMont and the other two underwriters, Allied International Investment Corporation and Automatic Products Corporation would receive an aggregate fee of 82,500 shares of common stock. Also the DuMont company would receive an option to buy 100,000 shares of new common stock.

The DuMont company is guaranteeing its sets against obsolescence up to Jan. 1, 1942. All changes required to that date will be made free of charge and changes after that will be done at cost. Mr. DuMont testified at the FCC hearing that his company had sold 500 receiving sets. Sales are showing a gradual increase and the company is reported to be delivering between 15 and 20 sets a week. The present DuMont transmitter has a range limited to about ten miles because the power is only 50 watts.

Financial Report

The Allen B. DuMont Laboratories, Inc., reported a net loss of $95,105 for 1939. Assets totaled $706,758, of which $345,018 represented cash on hand or in banks. Fixed assets are valued at $100,570; patents and patent applications at $89,174; net sales during the year $117,010. The cost of sales, less extraordinary manufacturing expenses of $22,717, was $85,577. General, administrative and selling expenses were $88,261, resulting in a net loss of $79,546.

Mr. DuMont said that an increased volume of sales of television sets should provide "a much better showing this year." The company's television station was on the air about 400 hours for test purposes in 1939.

It was "all quiet" on the other motion picture fronts in so far as television matters are concerned. Twentieth Century-Fox and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer through their interest in Gaumont-British may be expected to have a potential television ally in Baird Television. Last year that company demonstrated "big-screen" television for use in motion picture theatres but there have been no recent developments in that line.

Warner Brothers also is "keeping an eye" on television but no action is planned at present. Herman Starr, vice-president of Warner Brothers, is the company representative who is watching television developments.

NEW TELEPHONE SERVICE STARTS

Bell Telephone Company operators in Mercer, Pa., will hereafter answer inquiries about shows in town, other entertainment, bus schedules and similar information heretofore confined to radio and newspapers. The new "information please" service is scheduled to be extended to various small cities in western Pennsylvania.

Fight over FCC Decision Fades

reason for suspending its order to permit limited commercialization beginning September 1st and then confined the present hearings to the one point of whether the date should be postponed. Mr. Fly answered by saying that the commission felt that it had no jurisdiction over advertising of receiving sets.

It was practically demanded by Chairman Wheeler that the commission and the industry get together and develop standards which would permit television to continue, even if it required the pooling of patents, with provision for entry into the field of Philco, DuMont or any other company which is working on systems different from RCA.

Hearings Concluded

In the light of this demand, the FCC television hearings lost much of their point and, while they were continued to a conclusion last Friday, it was pretty well agreed that the commission was in the saddle and would revamp its original order to meet the situation as it saw it.

Freed from the menace of a Congressional investigation, Chairman Fly immediately hastened to the White House to acquaint the President with the situation. Although it was reported a week ago that Mr. Roosevelt was rather concerned with the precipitate way in which the commission had acted, he came to the chairman's support and, at his press conference on Friday, expressed fears that there might be monopoly in television had the commission not moved to prevent it.

Wants Privilege of Choosing

The President told the press he wants the privilege of choosing, when he gets his television set, between a prize fight and a town meeting, if offered the same night, although the two are much the same in his estimation, and between foreign and domestic programs when the art develops that far.

What he fears is that one company, further advanced in its experimentation than its competitors, might "hog" the market so that others undertaking to broadcast with a different method would be unable to obtain an audience. There must be no monopoly in television in the United States, he insisted.

Mr. Roosevelt commented further that unless the various methods of transmission were permitted an opportunity to demonstrate their relative merits, television broadcasting naturally would tend to be concentrated in the hands of the company first on the market. He expressed doubt as to whether, under such conditions, there would be the choice of programs which is desirable.

It was disclosed that the President's interest in the matter originally had been aroused by a prominent radio official, not identified at the White House but said to be a Philco representative, who complained that RCA might flood the market with receivers capable of handling only RCA transmissions and closing the field to Philco, DuMont and others with different systems who are not yet on the air.

Following his visit to the White House, Mr. Fly indicated that the go-head "green light" might be turned on again in the near future but later, when informed that RCA stock had reacted favorably to that report, denied that he had predicted what action the commission would take.

Wheeler Reviews Fight

The television fight was briefly reviewed in the Senate last Friday by Senator Wheeler, who inserted in the record a statement issued by Manton Davis, counsel for RCA, announcing that the company is prepared to build receivers that will accept signals from any transmitting system, although doubtful that the adoption of such a course would be of advantage.

Efforts by the commission to trace a "leak" through which RCA was acquainted with its suspension order before it was formally issued were dropped when the publicity representative of the company, himself a former newspaper man, testified that he had been advised of the order by telephone by a newspaperman but could not recollect who his informant was.

The commission also went into the correspondence between the RMA and RCA officials and subpoenaed the papers after Bond Geddes, executive vice-president of the Radio Manufacturers Association, refused to surrender them.

The commission present position is summed up by Mr. Fly's statement, "as soon as the industry is ready to go ahead the FCC is."

Senator W. W. Barbour of New Jersey last Wednesday introduced a bill to strip the FCC of jurisdiction over research and development, or the use, manufacture or sale of broadcasting or television equipment. He said the bill was designed "to end the present horse-and-buggy control of a rapidly developing new industry by a bungling and brazen bureaucracy. Unless Congress knocks some sense into the commission, millions of Americans will be deprived of an early opportunity to get television programs." It was expected that no action would be taken on the measure.

RCA Officials State New Television Plans

Manton Davis, RCA vice-president and general counsel, told the Federal Communications Commission, that his company is now prepared to build receivers that will receive television programs from any transmitters licensed, using standards in addition to those now in use, if such standards are designated. It was said that the offer was made to "help the Commission to overcome the present deadlock which is retarding the progress of the new and promising industry and thus create employment for idle men and idle money, on a wide, competitive basis."

Two days before David Sarnoff had told the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission that RCA is now developing in its laboratories home television receivers "giving pictures as large as 18 by 24 inches." He also stated that equipment will soon be ready for projecting television pictures on full sized motion picture screens.

FROM "SPOON-FED" TO "THINKING" PATRON

The metamorphosis of the motion picture fan "from a long-suffering, thoughtless person who looked to Hollywood for spoon-fed film entertainment, to a thinking, demanding, discriminating individual" was discussed last week in St. Louis at a radio forum.

Participants were Fred Wehrenberg, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of St. Louis, Eastern Missouri and Southern Illinois; Harold W. Evens, manager of the Loew's State theatre; Mrs. Arretus F. Burt and Mrs. John F. Noble, honorary and active presidents, respectively, of the Better Films Council of St. Louis.

Mr. Wehrenberg said that the number of persons who today appreciate films has doubled since 1929. Both public taste and the serious output of the industry has soared, he said, making the "supercolossal spectacle of a decade ago the program film of today."

Indiana Indorsers' Officers Reelected

All officers of the Indiana Indorsers of Photoplays were reelected at their annual convention in Fort Wayne, Ind., this week. They are Mrs. B. J. Roberts, Fort Wayne, president; Mrs. Fred Lucas, Greencastle, first vice-president; Mrs. E. L. Burnett, Indianapolis, second vice-president; Mrs. C. J. Finch, Indianapolis, third vice-president; Howard Rudeaux, Indianapolis, fourth vice-president; Mrs. Joseph McCord, Greencastle, treasurer; Mrs. H. D. Tutwiler, Indianapolis, auditor; Mrs. L. A. Fonner, Fort Wayne, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. E. D. Campbell, Fort Wayne, recording secretary.

Mrs. R. Earl Peters, Fort Wayne, was reappointed parliamentarian. Speakers included Professor Preston H. Scott, assistant in the language department of Wayne University, Detroit, and Mrs. W. Clyde Quimby, Fort Wayne theatre operator.

Universal Shares Sold by Cochrane

A total of 70,500 shares of Universal Corporation stock was acquired from R. H. Cochrane, former president, by the syndicate of 10 company executives in the deal consummated recently. The purchase price was reported to be in the neighborhood of $350,000.

The stock is about 20 per cent of the Universal Corporation shares outstanding and was distributed pro rata among 10 Universal executive purchasers.

Lightman's Son Appointed

M. A. Lightman, Jr., 25 year old son of the former Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America president, will manage the Orpheum theatre, Memphis, which is the city's largest theatre and which was recently acquired by the Lightman circuit in partnership with Paramount. The theatre is undergoing renovation and will be renamed the New Malco.

ond picture will be "Pot o' Gold," based on the radio program. Two more pictures, to be made by John Stahl, will complete the first season's program.

Leonard-Greene "Hobby" Shorts

Leonard-Greene Film Productions was to begin work on a series of shorts based on the radio program, "Hobby Lobby," at the Fox Movietone Studios in New York on Thursday. Dave Elman, originator of the program, will appear in the pictures. The continuity is being prepared by Burnet Hershey. The films are being made in association with Audience Participation Productions.

New Company for Foreign Films

Fortrade Corporation of America, a new company formed to distribute foreign pictures, is headed by Marcel Robich and Mirko R. Boyan. Eugen Sharin is executive vice-president. The company was capitalized at $100,000. The new organization plans to import a minimum of 20 French pictures for the new season. Mr. Sharin is on the Coast in connection with the sale of remake rights to some of the films owned by the company.

Mary Pickford Plans Return

Mary Pickford announced last week that she would return to the screen both to star and produce "as soon as arrangements can be completed." She said that she would be co-starred with several other women as well as a male player. No story has been selected. It was reported that Miss Pickford's representative attended a private showing of the French film, "End of a Day."

Alliance To Sell Remake Rights

Nat Wachsberger, vice-president of the Film Alliance of the U. S., announced that in addition to the program of 50 British pictures, the company would handle remake rights of French productions. On his recent trip to Europe, Mr. Wachsberger acquired the remake rights to 23 French films which he said will be made available to large producers.

Weshner Wins Warner Drive

Winner of Warner Theatres' "Fifth Annual Managers' Parade" drive in the Philadelphia territory is the district headed by Dave (Skip) Weshner, Ted Schlanger, zone manager, announced Wednesday. The cash award of $1,000 will be split among the managers in the territory: Maurice Gable, Boyd theatre; Ray Robbins, Karlton; Jack Goldman, Keith's; Bill Israel, Earle; Al Reh, Stanley; Elmer Hollander; Stanton; Harry Torrante, Aldine; Harold Seidenberg, Fox theatre.

Brown Stays as Trustee

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard in New York Wednesday upheld William L. Brown as trustee of Educational Pictures against a removal application filed by creditors.

The War's Ramifications

INDUSTRY SEEKS TO REMOVE "WHITE COLLAR" WORKERS FROM LABOR ACT

MPPDA Definition Proposal Would Exempt Thousands from Time - and - One - Half Payment for Overtime

Thousands of persons employed in the motion picture industry may be taken out of the groups covered by the U. S. Fair Labor Standards Act through a revision of definitions now under study by the wage and hour division of the Department of Labor at Washington.

Definitions now proposed at the hearings by the organized industry, via the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, would exempt from the requirements for the payment of time and one-half for overtime the thousands of "executive workers who, in addition to other qualifications, receive salaries at least $50 per week," administrative "employees who receive a minimum of $30 a week," and professionals who are "engaged in work predominantly intellectual" and receive $200 a month or more.

Suggested by Industries

The suggestions of the film industry are among a number of recommendations submitted by various trades for the easing of the definitions promulgated by Elmer F. Andrews, former wage-hour administrator, for executive, administrative and professional workers.

The salary requirements suggested by the industry are, of course, in addition to stipulations as to the type of work done by employes in the categories under consideration.

The purpose of the hearings is to develop a basis for new definitions of "white collar" workers who are to be exempted from the minimum wage provision and the requirement of one and one-half regular pay for overtime provided in the Wage-Hour Act.

Series of Hearings

As written by Mr. Andrews, these definitions have been the cause of much complaint by employers generally and of much criticism in Congress and have been the basis of suggestions now pending for amendment of the act to make its application more specific. In an effort to avert such an action, however which proponents of the law fear would practically emasculate it, the new administrator, Philip B. Fleming, has been holding a series of hearings in Washington on the definitions of "executive," "administrative" and "professional" workers, with a view to rephrasing them so as to meet objections.

The hearings are being devoted to the definition of those employees in the wholesale distributive trades, but the same definitions as applied to industry will later be taken up.

The subject is one of major importance to all branches of the motion picture industry. It is a particularly difficult question, however, in the production branch, where are employed large numbers of experts whom the companies feel are professionals; efforts to secure a ruling that such workers were not subject to the wage-hour act, however, were unsuccessful a year ago.

Under the definitions issued by Mr. Andrews, the great majority of executive, administrative and professional employees in industry and trade were covered by the hour provisions of the law, although comparatively few benefited from the minimum wage requirements. Employers complaining of the rulings held that they went far beyond the intent of Congress to protect wage earners against exploitation.

At the hearings last week several proposals for revision were offered. The American Retail Federation, for one, recommended that the definition of executive workers be amended to except any person in a position of responsibility which has to do with determination of policy or requires special financial, merchandising or other technical skill, who is paid a salary of not less than $30 per week.

The Southern States Industrial Council, for another, suggested that administrative employees excepted from the act should include bookkeepers, stenographers, auditors and other office help regularly employed on a straight salary basis and given vacations and sick leave with pay, and the Council of National Wholesale Associations proposed that executive employees be defined as those directing the work of others, with authority to hire and fire, who receive not less than $35 per week; administrative employees as persons exercising discretionary powers and receiving not less than $25 per week, and professional workers as persons engaged in tasks requiring the consistent exercise of discretion and judgment, of such a character that the output or the result accomplished cannot be standardized in relation to a given period of time.

MANUFACTURERS ASK LABOR LAW REFORM

H. W. Prentiss, Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, in a speech in Philadelphia to industrialists last week, called for changes in the National Labor Relations Act, because the act is "blind, and willfully so, to intimidation, coercion and worse on the part of labor racketeers and professional agitators," while, at the same time, it "sees evil in the minutest details of an employer's relations with his employees."

The NAM president declared that three groups oppose a "thorough overhauling" of the act:

1. Labor organizations which the act "has armed with clubs while it was chaining balls to the ankles of employers."
2. "Bureaucrats and job holders . . . want to prolong their spree."
3. Politicians "playing both ends against the middle."

Balaban & Katz Reports 1939 Net of $1,329,964

Balaban & Katz Corporation reported this week the 1939 profit of $1,329,964.15, which compares with the 1938 figure of $1,270,000. The operations included Balaban & Katz Chicago Theatres, Publix Great States Theatres and Balaban & Katz operated houses in Toledo, Hammond, Marion and South Bend, Ind. The circuit has acquired the Tivoli in Aurora, Ill., which it operated for some years.

The present board of directors was re-elected and the board will meet in May to elect officers.

Move to Speed Consideration of Labor Act Dropped to Avoid Embarrassment Because of Two Bills

A bitter fight over adoption of amendments to the National Labor Relations Act is in prospect when the House of Representatives begins consideration of changes proposed by the House Labor Committee.

Speedy Consideration Waived

A suggestion that speedy consideration of the Act be obtained by a motion to suspend the House rules was abandoned this week when it became evident that it would cause an embarrassing situation. Due to the fact that while the bill, prepared by the House Labor Committee, carried only four amendments, there are pending also some 17 amendments as proposed by Representatives H. W. Smith, of Virginia, chairman of a special committee which investigated the National Labor Relations Board, which also would come up for consideration.

For the same reason, it is possible that the House Rules Committee will not be asked to approve a rule making the legislation the order of business, but that a petition may be offered to discharge both committees from further consideration of the matter and bring it up for House action.

Norton Bill and Films

So far as can be forecast, the situation of the motion picture industry would be affected somewhat by the Norton bill, which carries only four amendments to the act. Briefly, those amendments would add two members to the National Labor Relations Board; would provide that in any case where the majority of the employees of a particular craft shall so decide, the NLRB shall designate such craft as a unit appropriate for the purpose of collective bargaining; would permit employers to petition the board for an election to determine the appropriate bargaining unit in cases where rival unions are fighting for the right to represent employees, and would prohibit the Board from changing the bargaining unit for a period of one year after it has been established by the Board as the appropriate unit and has entered into a labor contract with the employer.

While the Norton bill carries only these four amendments, Representative Smith, who would have half of the time allotted for general debate, has submitted his measure with 17 proposals which would change the entire setup of the NLRB, dividing the administrative and judicial functions so as to leave the latter with the Board but transfer the former to an administrator who would decide what cases should be brought before the Board for settlement and initiate and prosecute all such cases.

In addition, the bill would remove the present restriction placed by the Board of the free speech of an employer in prohibiting him from any mention of union activities before his employees.

Another provision would prohibit the Board from the selection of an appropriate bargaining unit if there is a fight between rival unions for the privilege of representing the workers, until such time as the rival unions have come to an agreement among themselves.

His bill also would limit proceedings of the Board to the rules of evidence applicable in the Federal courts, and would provide for court review of all board proceedings.

The Norton bill has the support of the AFL, and the Smith bill, it is charged, is an effort to emasculate the law.

MARYLAND WOULD LABEL CHILD FILMS, QUEBEC SEES RELIEF FROM ITS BAN

Children Would Be Barred from All Films Except Those Adjudged "Family"; Start Statewide Campaign

Maryland would be the first state in this country legislatively to bar all children within its borders from attending the showings of certain motion pictures, if a movement started by citizens and clubwomen is successful. The sponsors are the Citizens League for Better Motion Pictures. Participating with them are the Baltimore district of the Federation of Women's Clubs and the Maryland Congress of Parent-Teachers Associations.

Chicago's Restrictions

Chicago is the only other place in the country where actual legislation outlaws child attendance at so-called "pink" labeled pictures, as designated by that city's censor board. In some other cities and towns, local authorities independently set up prohibitions against youngsters' attendance upon the "occasional" picture.

The "pink" labeling of pictures barring child attendance is widely prevalent in Europe, however, and in Quebec the province strictly enforces a prohibition against youngsters' attendance at any theatre, a law which grew out of the Laurier theatre fire of 12 years ago when scores of children lost their lives. At various times since then, exhibitors there have attempted to have the barrier lightened, at least, if not lifted, but church and other officials have prevailed. (See third column.)

Maryland Amendment Sought

Maryland's proposal would affect all under 16, and a statewide campaign to gain passage of such an amendment to the state censorship law in the 1941 legislature was started this week.

Mrs. Howard D. Bennett, president of the Citizens League for Better Films since its inception and leader in its past programs against Sunday shows and for stricter censorship, said the aim of the league is to have the censorship law amended so that pictures will be labeled "family pictures," if suitable for children under 16. If a picture does not have this label, according to the proposal, it can only be shown to those above 16.

Theatre Executive Attacks Plan

Citing the written testimony of child psychology authorities, that motion pictures do not create young criminals, noting that a Minnesotan recently proposed admittance of youngsters to theatres at a ten cent admission on Saturdays to "keep them out of mischief," and charging that the motion pictures have been used as a "scapegoat" by uninformed groups who find it easier to blame the films than the homes, William Saxton, of the Loew and United Artists Baltimore Theatres circuit, in a radio address Tuesday attacked the proposals to restrict child attendance.

Pressing his contention that there is no proof that pictures promote criminality, Mr. Saxton said: "Society at large needs to accept no responsibility for a motion picture or radio program, and unloading the sense of responsibility on a movie or radio program, is a gratifying pastime."

"There ought to be a law," he said, "to require sincere but uniformed groups of this kind to study the facts. . . . Perhaps there ought to be a law to legislate parents into greater supervision of their children's activities."

COMMENDS REVIEW LIST ON COVER

To the Editor of the Herald:

Dear Sir:

I have just received the April 13th issue of the Motion Picture Herald, and note that you have listed on the front cover the names of the feature pictures reviewed in that issue.

I wish to express my approval of this extra service, as it will be quite a time-saver to people like me, who are constantly referring to your publication for reviews on pictures. —W. M. Griffin, Booker, I. W. Rodgers Theatres, Gem Theatre Building, Cairo, Ill.

Maryland Censorship Fight

The Baltimore City Court has been asked to overrule a rejection by the State Board of Motion Picture Censors of the motion picture, "The Pace That Kills." The board had held that the film is "obscene, indecent, inhuman, immoral and tends to debase morals and incite crime."

The appeal proceedings were instituted by the Rose Road Shows, distributing agent for the picture, through Michael F. Freedman and Ben Weintraub, local attorneys. They contended that the movie is "moral and proper" and is "educational and for public entertainment."

The papers stated that the picture was rejected by the board and after a reexamination was granted, it was again rejected. It was argued that the Virginia board and others have accepted the film. Chief Judge Samuel K. Dennis set April 25 as the day for the hearing.

Providence Bans "Cargo"

Following the action, three weeks ago, of Detroit's police censors, George W. Cowan, police censor in Providence last Saturday banned "Strange Cargo," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film starring Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, which was shown at first-run theatres there for two weeks. Independents protested the action.

The ban came 23 days after the first-run showings were concluded and seven days before the 30-day lapse of time required between first-run and second-run showings. It had been billed for at least two second-run houses.

Captain Cowan, amusements inspector, said he had banned the picture after receiving a delayed report from the Legion of Decency, which has now classified "Strange Cargo" as a Class C, or "condemned," film.

In its delayed report, which Captain Cowan said guided him, the Legion of Decency said: "This picture, in which religion is the prominent issue, presents a naturalistic concept of religion contrary to the teaching of Christ. Irreverant use of Scripture. Lustful implications in dialogue and situation."

Only two eliminations, the fewest in many months, were ordered by Ohio's censors for the week ending April 12, when a total of 137 reels was reviewed. However, during the same period seven reels were rejected, the first rejections since June, 1939.

Attorney General of Province Prepares Measure to Reorganize Censorship Barring Unattended Children under 16

by R. J. O'LEARY
in Montreal

Announcement Tuesday from the Provincial Legislature in Quebec City that the attorney-general, Hon. Wilfrid Girouard, is preparing measures for the reorganization of motion picture censorship, is seen as the most hopeful sign yet displayed for early repeal of the 12-year-old law which prohibits children under 16 from attending any theatres in this province

Although it was definitely stated at Quebec that Mr. Girouard had given no inkling of the nature of the proposed changes, he recently outlined rather thoroughly in an interview a possible solution.

New Form of Control

The law would be succeeded, it is believed, by a new form of government control. It is expected that the Government will appoint a censorship board composed of a Protestant minister, a Roman Catholic priest and other community leaders interested in the educational development and moral safeguarding of minors. They would select suitable pictures and children would be permitted to attend the showing of these pictures.

The new government of Prime Minister Adelard Godbout already has distinguished itself by passing a law, in the face of the strongest opposition, giving Quebec women the franchise. It is not expected that, following that, there will be any difficulty in so simple a matter as repealing a law which has become unpopular on all sides, especially when the substitute reform will give the Church a strong say in the type of pictures children will be allowed to see.

Ties Government's Hands

A few months ago the newly elected attorney-general said that the Government is not looking askance at suggestions that the law be changed.

As it now stands, the law ties the hands of the Government and no permission is supposed to be given for the admittance of minors to moving picture theatres. There have been notable exceptions made for special children's pictures such as "Pinocchio," "The Bluebird," "Guilliver's Travels," "Snow White," and the royal tour of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

This is not the first time the law seemed on the verge of repeal. Near the end of 1938 a strong but unsuccessful effort to have the law revamped was made by two prominent members of the Quebec Legislature, Hon. T. J. Coonan, minister without portfolio, and Dr. Albiny Paquette, secretary of the Province. A similar attempt 18 months earlier, by a member of the House, had failed.

The present drive has already shown marked progress. Large public and religious groups previously opposed to or at least disinterested have thrown in their support, and newspapers, both French and English, are backing the move in news and editorial columns.

Among members of the Roman Catholic clergy, hitherto considered in opposition to a change of the law, enthusiasm has developed.

DALLAS DISHES UP HOSPITALITY IN TEXAS STYLE FOR 950 FROM FILMS

National Variety Club Party Draws Guests from East and West for Frontier Fiesta, Parade, Golf and Banquet

Southern hospitality, Texas style, was dispensed freehandedly for the annual national conclave of Variety Clubs, which opened in Dallas, Texas, Thursday and was to continue until early Sunday morning.

Three airliners from Hollywood brought big name stars as guest entertainers for the party, billed in all Texas newspapers as the biggest event of years. They will see flowers unsurpassed in the Pasadena show, two freight carloads of Texas Bluebonnets, 30,000 rosebuds and hundreds of other flower displays. The entire rose crop of Smith County, famed Texas rose country, has been taken by the show and hauled here in truckloads for the occasion.

A Chamber of Commerce count, which can't be wrong, said a half million people from all over Texas would witness the 10-mile-long parade Saturday afternoon.

Cup for Largest Unit

Tuesday noon 683 reservations had been made for the affair and none of the local Variety men had been included, with Chief Barker Bob O'Donnell predicting 950 visitors would attend the affair.

A cup, valued at $1,000, was to be awarded the tent bringing the most men the most miles. The cup, engraved with a highly decorative map of the United States, shows the location of the 22 tents of Variety in the country.

Friday was set for the Frontier Fiesta, with an entire city block in front of the Dallas Athletic Club roped off for the chuck wagon and the John Guthrie wild west shows. The local tent will supply the hats and regalia for visitors adding to the western atmosphere.

Inside the club, two floors have been remodeled, one a small western town and the other a Mexican village.

Thursday's sightseeing trip was to include the Freeman Memorial Clinic and Hope Cottage for babies, both maintained as a charity by the Dallas tent. Later the guests were to visit the ranchero of Dick Andrade III, millionaire Dallas oil man and horseman. Barbecue and a fish fry were to be included. Later Thursday Universal was to be host at a cocktail party in the Variety Club in the Hotel Adolphus.

Golf Tourney Saturday

Saturday morning 16 golf champions from various tents of the nation will tee off in the first flight for the national trophy. Saturday night's banquet at the Baker Hotel will feature the presentation of the Variety award for national humanitarian work, which is to go to Martha Berry, Georgia woman who established a school for poor children. Father Flanagan, subject of MGM's "Boys Town" and winner of the award last year, will be a guest.

Gracie Allen, radio and screen comedienne, was to be among the speakers at the Saturday banquet; she was scheduled to be made an admiral in the Texas Navy, and to deliver a campaign speech for the presidency. Her appearance at the affair was arranged by Robert "Bob" O'Donnell, general chairman of the convention, and Paul Short, vice-chairman, during their recent Hollywood visit.

William McGraw, former attorney general of Texas, was to introduce Miss Allen. George Burns, Miss Allen's partner in the comedy team of Burns and Allen, is to receive a Texas Ranger's commission.

Among the other Hollywood luminaries invited were Ken Murray, Ricardo Cortez, Dorothy Lamour, Ann Sheridan, James Cagney, Edward G. Robinson, Ray Milland, Alan Jones, Roy Rogers.

While some Variety Club members arrived in Dallas on Wednesday, the greater part were expected Thursday morning, for the official welcome. The special 33-car train, starting in Boston, was to arrive Thursday morning, at the same time as other special trains from Denver and Kansas City. Two chartered planes were to bring some of the Coast contingent; two planes, one chartered, brought a group from New York; and three motor car caravans were to arrive Thursday morning from Atlanta, Memphis, and Oklahoma City.

New York Group by Train

From New York, on Tuesday, in a special group of Pullman cars, the following traveled: Leonard Goldenson and Sam Dembow, Jr., of the Paramount theatre department; David Palfreyman, of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America; Edward Golden, general sales manager of Monogram; Steve Broidy and Ben Welansky, Monogram franchise holders in Boston; Rube Jackter, Columbia assistant sales manager; Carl Leserman, assistant to Warner Brothers' general sales manager Gadwell A. Sears; George West and John Harrington, of Monogram; John Flinn and Charles Lewis.

On a special American Airlines plane from New York on Wednesday, the following went: Ned E. Depinet, general sales manager and vice-president of RKO; A. W. Smith, Jr., and Cresson Smith, RKO sales executives; A-Mike Vogel, chairman of the Managers' Round Table; Herman Robbins, president of National Screen Service; Austin C. Keough of Paramount; Harry Gold, of United Artists; James Mulvey, of United Artists; Harvey Day, of Terrytoons; Mitchell May, Jr., insurance broker; Oscar Morgan, of Paramount; William Brenner, of National Screen Service.

Executives of the film companies, early this week on the coast, were expected to fly to the convention. Among these were Mr. Sears, sales manager of Warner Brothers; W. Ray Johnston, president of Monogram.

Abe Montague, sales director of Columbia Pictures, ieft Chicago Wednesday for Dallas.

On a train for Dallas, leaving Atlanta on Tuesday, were more than 60 members of the local Variety Club, headed by Chief Barker William K. Jenkins. Among the group were Harry G. Ballance, first assistant chief barker; Charles E. Kessnich, second assistant barker; R. B. Wilby, Dough Guy, and E. E. Whitaker, property masters; John Ezell, Harold Wilkes, Paul Wilson, R. L. McCoy, Walter Anderson, and W. A. Finney, directors.

About 35 members of the Kansas City tent boarded their special train for the convention.

The Pittsburgh contingent, which left Tuesday, on four special trains, included about 46 members of the local club, about one-third of the local membership. They were headed by National Chief Barker John H. Harris.

FOX STOCKHOLDERS RATIFY ZANUCK CONTRACT; $27,000,000 BUDGET SET

Executives Explain Flexible Selling; Appeal to Exhibitors to Help Increase Revenue to Offset Losses Overseas

A budget of $27,000,000 will supply the fuel for the 52 features and 52 short subjects to come from Twentieth Century-Fox in the 1940-41 season, the convention was told in Chicago last weekend. Executives explained the flexible selling terms and appealed to exhibitors, asking them to help increase revenue to offset foreign losses. (The product announcement appeared on page 27 of the April 13th issue of MOTION PICTURE HERALD.)

18 to 20 at Million Each

Darryl F. Zanuck told the convention that 18 to 20 pictures will cost $1,000,000 each. This is four more than the number budgeted at this figure for the 1939-40 season. He pointed out that the production program will be flexible to permit the inclusion of stories relating to topical events.

"Despite foreign losses, we are not stinting on our program," Mr. Zanuck said. "The bulk of revenue in the industry will have to come from the domestic market. This will be a year of many changes, and we must keep abreast of the times. Our company is not curtailing its program in any respect. The keynote of our program will be showmanship."

Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board, asked for exhibitor cooperation. "Exhibitors must be sympathetic to the producers and distributors and share the burden with producers by giving proper terms for pictures and extended playing time," he urged. "If we must recapture the lost foreign revenue in this country, and we must do so if the industry is to exist as it is today, exhibitors must help us pay the freight."

Urges Exhibitor Cooperation

The relation between exhibitors and producers also was stressed by Mr. Zanuck. "We cannot cut production costs at the studio," he explained, "without greatly impairing the quality of our pictures and this we refuse to do. But if exhibitors expect us to deliver to them the big pictures they want, they must help us with the proper terms and extended playing time."

Herman Wobber, general manager of distribution, who presided at all the sessions, said that the company's sales policy would be flexible and each individual deal would be separately handled. Terms and policy will be set for each situation to assure the most revenue possible. Mr. Wobber also spoke of the exhibitors' part. "Exhibitors must make up their minds that they must get more out of big pictures than ever before. The loss of foreign revenue is a serious problem confronting the entire industry."

He also said: "Our production executives are approaching the problem with courage and determination. Exhibitors must help them share the burden by using more showmanship, by increasing admission prices on the bigger pictures, and by giving proper terms and playing time."

Spyros Skouras, head of National Theatres, urged higher admission prices, holding that higher prices must be charged to compensate producers and distributors for foreign revenue losses. On the other hand, Mr. Skouras pointed out that the producers must give exhibitors improved product to warrant increased admission scales.

Mr. Skouras suggested that exhibitors experiment with higher prices on outstanding attractions.

Charles E. McCarthy, advertising and publicity director, also addressed the meeting. It was reported that the advertising budget for the 1940-41 season will be approximately $2,700,000.

Cites Radio Plans

"A very full and effective radio campaign will be a part of Twentieth Century-Fox's advertising program, according to Mr. McCarthy.

Walter J. Hutchinson, director of foreign distribution, told the domestic sales staff that revenue from the foreign market is down to the 1934-35 level. The weekly foreign business is about $450,000. Mr. Hutchinson pointed out that the loss is due to depreciation of foreign currencies.

He said: "Based on foreign currency business today is greater than ever before abroad, but as far as returns to the company in American dollars are concerned, it is much lower than the past four-year average." Business in England and throughout the British Empire is excellent, although the company's receipts are lower. Central American is rated next to Britain in revenue, with Mexico also good and South America following, according to Mr. Hutchinson. He said that returns from the Far East were record-breaking.

Sales Winners Announced

Awards in the Sidney R. Kent Drive were announced by Morton A. Levy, district manager at Minneapolis who was reappointed drive leader for 1940. First award went to Harry Ballance, Southern district manager. He received the President's prize. A total of $21,000 was distributed to 448 employees in 16 branch offices.

In the National division Lester Sturm and the Detroit branch took first place and the prize of three weeks salary to the branch employees. The Washington Branch, headed by Sam Wheeler, was second and received a two weeks-pay bonus. In the international group, Ernest Landaiche's New Orleans office was first and C. L. Walker's Seattle branch finished second. A total of 24 prizes were won by branches, in feature, shorts, news and ad sales competitions.

Other speakers at the convention included Paul Terry, producer of Terry-Toon cartoons; Harvey Day, vice-president of Terry-Toons; Felix Jenkins, general counsel, who discussed contracts; William J. Clark, in charge of short subject sales. William Sussman, W. J. Kupper and W. C. Gehring, division managers, also spoke. Another speaker was Harry Brand, studio publicity director.

BALKS AT PAYING IDLE LOCAL BAND

Annoyed at having to pay a local band to stand by while an out-of-town name band appeared for stage shows, Lawrence Breuninger, Fox Midwest manager in Topeka, Kan., last week canceled a two-day engagement of Anson Weeks' orchestra. The musicians' union, said Mr. Breuninger, had not been enforcing the rule in cases where out-of-town bands appear at local clubs and dance halls.

Five-Year Extension Voted Zanuck and Option to Acquire 100,000 Shares at $13 a Share; Directors Reelected

A five year extension of Darryl F. Zanuck's contract, an option to allow him to acquire 100,000 shares of stock at $13 a share and the reelection of all present directors were voted by the stockholders of Twentieth Century-Fox at the annual meeting held April 16th. All officers were also unanimously reelected.

New Contract Starts Aug. 22, 1942

The new Zanuck contract begins on Aug. 22, 1942, when the present one expires. The 100,000 shares of unissued stock may be acquired over a seven year period beginning on August 22nd of this year. The Zanuck contract extension and stock option were approved by 1,718,649 shares of common and preferred stock over a dissenting vote of 32,174 shares.

The directors reelected are H. Donald Campbell, Chase National Bank; John R. Dillon, Hayden Stone & Company; Wilfred J. Eadie, 20th Century-Fox; Daniel O. Hastings, Industrial Building, Wilmington; Felix A. Jenkins, 20th Century-Fox; Sidney R. Kent, 20th Century-Fox; W. C. Michel, 20th Century-Fox; William P. Philips, 200 West 56th Street; Hermann G. Place, Chase National Bank; Seton Porter, National Distillers Products Corp.; Joseph M. Schenck, 20th Century-Fox and Sydney Towell, 20th Century-Fox.

The directors reelected Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board; Sidney R. Kent, president; W. C. Michel, executive vice-president; Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president; William Goetz, vice-president; Sydney Towell, treasurer; Wilfred J. Eadie, comptroller and assistant treasurer; Felix A. Jenkins, secretary and the following assistant secretaries: John P. Edmondson, J. Harold Lang, George F. Wasson, Jr., and Read B. Simonson, assistant treasurer.

Mr. Kent described Mr. Zanuck as the company's "most valuable asset" and said that in the four and a half years since Mr. Zanuck became head of production the company had earned more than $26,000,000, not including $3,906,000 dividends from National Theatres. He said this compared with a $6,511,000 loss in the previous similar period before the merger of Fox Film and Twentieth Century.

Still Operating in Germany

Milton R. Weinberger, attorney for the Schuberts, was among those who protested against the contract extension and stock option for Mr. Zanuck. Daniel O. Hastings, former U. S. Senator from Delaware, spoke in support of the proposals.

Mr. Zanuck's compensation last year was reported to be $225,000. The new contract is said to have the same terms and conditions. The stock option is reported to provide for payment of $13 a share or an amount $1 in excess of the average price per share at which the common stock was sold on the New York Stock Exchange in lots of 100 shares or multiples thereof on the day prior to the stockholders' formal approval of the option. The stock sold for 10⅜ on Monday so the stock must be picked up at $13, the higher figure.

Mr. Kent told the stockholders that a few weeks ago he had turned back $52,000 of his last year's salary to the company, to economize in the company's operations due to the curtailed foreign revenue. Last year Mr. Kent's salary was $179,370 plus $10,400 for expenses.

Elect Bamberger AMPA President

Leon J. Bamberger, sales promotion manager of RKO, was elected president of the Associated Motion Picture Advertisers for the ensuing year at the annual elections held last Thursday at Jack Dempsey's Restaurant, New York.

A first ballot resulted in a 15-15 tie between Mr. Bamberger and Louis Pollock, Eastern advertising and publicity director for Universal. Mr. Pollock thereupon withdrew his candidacy and moved that Mr. Bamberger's election be made unanimous. The motion was seconded by Charles C. Pettijohn, general counsel of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, and it carried by a majority vote.

Others elected were Vincent Trotta, Advertising Accessories, vice-president; Joseph Gould, United Artists, secretary; Edward Schreiber, Warner Brothers, treasurer, and directors, Paul N. Lazarus, Jr., the retiring president; Louis Lifton, Rutgers Neilson, Martin Starr, Eli Sugarman; trustee, Herbert Berg; delegate to the national Chamber of Commerce, Hal Horne.

Mr. Lazarus read the report of the retiring officers and directors, which reviewed the year's activities. The report recommended the establishment of a relief fund for the industry in the east, a continued campaign for new members, the limiting of membership to persons engaged in film advertising or publicity, and the dropping of members who have fallen behind in their dues and have shown no interest in the organization. The drafting of a new constitution to replace the present one, which was adopted in 1934, also was recommended.

California Theatres Raise $108,011 for Paralysis

Motion picture theatres of California raised $108,011.90 in the 1940 Infantile Paralysis Drive, Joseph M. Schenck, vice-president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and general chairman for the campaign in California, reported this week.

Charles P. Skouras, general chairman of the Fox West Coast theatre division of the drive, and Robert H. Poole, executive director of the Independent Theatre Owners of Southern California, representing the independents' division, said Fox West Coast houses in Southern California raised 38,561.93; in Northern California, $18,401; Northern California independents, 18,634.97, and Southern California independents, $32,414.

Substantial amounts also were contributed from Warner Theatre circuits under L. J. Halper, and theatres operated by Sherrill Cohen.

Campaign on "Edison"

Regina Crewe is doing a special publicity campaign on Clarence Brown in connection with the New York opening of his latest production, "Edison, the Man." Miss Crewe recently returned to New York from the coast, and is making her permanent headquarters at 25 Central Park West.

U.S. Clears "Pot o' Gold", Attacked By Exhibitors as Unfair Rival

Motion picture exhibitors, whose fight against the Tums "tummy"-pill $1,000 "Pot o' Gold" air giveaway was carried to the Department of Justice, received a setback this week when O. John Rogge, Assistant U. S. Attorney General, at Washington, informed the Federal Communications Commission that it did not appear to violate the lottery provisions of the Communications Act.

The opinion of the department, which covered also a bakery program on which complaints had been made, was seen as eliminating any chance of barring from the air something like 100 programs of a giveaway nature which are now running, seven of which had been referred to the Attorney General by the commission.

In a letter to FCC Chairman J. L. Fly, Mr. Rogge said, "After a thorough examination of the material submitted and a careful consideration of the facts presented, the department has concluded that prosecutive action under Section 316 of the Communications Act of 1934 in these two matters should not be instituted."

The "Pot o' Gold" case was sent to the Department of Justice by the commission after numerous complaints were received from exhibitors, who also had carried their case to Congress, pointing out that the Tums Tuesday night program was keeping people home and causing a box office loss estimated at $1,000,000.

The program, in which $1,000 is given to some person whose name is drawn by chance—provided the person is home to answer the telephone call—was considered a test of the legality of the many other giveaways on the air.

The radio industry expects a flood of giveaway programs following the Department of Justice decision on the Tums "Pot o' Gold" program. It is reported that CBS will not accept this type of programs, despite the governmental action. Regardless of the attitude of the networks, independent stations are expected to carry giveaway programs, for they are relatively cheap to produce and appear to be very popular. Meanwhile, the first of the new quiz-cash-giveaway programs was announced, "Take It or Leave It". Persons selected from the studio audience are questioned.

The sponsors of the "Pot o' Gold" program have announced that it will be changed on Tuesday, April 30th. Stack-Goble, the advertising agency which handles the account, said that the $1,000 cash award will be kept but the method of selecting the winner changed. 'Phone owners and non-owners will be eligible. Two radio stations, WFBR (Baltimore) and WDAF (Kansas City), have refused to carry the Tums show since the end of the second 13-week contract.

Sixty-five independent Philadelphia exhibitors had planned a "movie bank night" radio program which was to strike at the "Pot o' Gold" program and circumvent the local ban on bingo games and bank nights in theatres. The plan was called off because the FCC had launched a new attack on "radio lotteries". The Philadelphia program may be resurrected now that the Department of Justice has ruled that the radio cash-award programs are not lotteries that could be prosecuted.

Joseph Jefferson O'Neill Dies in Hollywood

Joseph Jefferson O'Neill, of the Warner-Burbank studio publicity department, and formerly a newspaperman, died Wednesday morning, at the Virginia Sanatorium, Hollywood. He had joined Warners five years ago.

Mr. O'Neill was a native of Philadelphia, was educated at St. Joseph's College there, and had been on the staffs of the Philadelphia Press, New York American, New York World, San Francisco Examiner, Los Angeles Examiner. He had covered the New York trials of Police Lieutenant Becker and of Harry Thaw, the Ford Peace Ship expedition, the Wall Street bomb explosion, and other headline events.

Henry Ford employed him for public relations work, and soon after the organization of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Will Hays, its president, employed him similarly.

Assigned to Hollywood by Joseph P. Kennedy, now U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, when Mr. Kennedy was head of the FBO Films, Mr. O'Neill worked on the "Coney Island" script. He also had been associated with Columbia Pictures.

Stanley Walker, in his book, "City Editor," called Mr. O'Neill one of "12 reporter immortals."

Mr. O'Neill suffered a stroke last November.

Suggest Majors Help New York Film Charity

The work of the Motion Picture Associates in relief of unfortunate members of the film industry in New York, should be made known, especially to the leaders, Sam Rinzler, of the Randforce circuit, and Max A. Cohen, head of the Cinema Circuit and leader of the New York Allied, told the luncheon session of the Associates on Wednesday at the Hotel Astor, New York.

Other speakers were Harold Rodner, of Warner Brothers, in charge of the Will Rogers Memorial fund administration, at Saranac, N. Y.; and Harry Buxbaum, district manager of Twentieth Century-Fox.

$9,225,000 SALES QUOTA SET BY MONOGRAM FOR ITS 50 PICTURES

26 "Straight" Features and 24 Westerns; 50% Budget Increase on 14 Pictures, 30% Rise in Outlay for 12 Others

The 1940-41 Monogram sales quota for the 50 pictures promised has been set at $9,225,000, it will be announced by W. Ray Johnston, president, at the company's convention this weekend at the Hotel Baker in Dallas. This figure represents an increase of $375,000 over this year and more than $3,000,000 since 1937 when the re-organized company held its first convention.

The announcement was heard by the representatives of the 36 branches of Monogram in the United States and Canada.

There will be a 50 per cent increase in the production budgets of 14 films and a 30 per cent increase in the appropriations for 12 others.

The schedule for the coming season is again almost evenly divided between "straight" features and westerns, with 26 productions included in the former classification and 24 westerns.

Top Budget Allocations

Top production budgets will be allocated to "The Pioneers," covered wagon days based on the novel by James Fenimore Cooper; "The Ape" by Adam Hull Shirk, a Broadway stage play in which Boris Karloff will be starred; "Land of the Sky Blue Water," to include two songs by Charles Wakefield Cadman—the title number and "At Dawning"; "The King and the Cowboy," a Graustarkian romance.

"Under Northern Skies" and "Land of the Long Shadows" are two novels written by Jack London which are to figure prominently on the program. The late Earl Derr Biggers' Saturday Evening Post story "Dollar Chasers" also is scheduled. Gene Stratton-Porter's novel "Her Father's Daughter" and a sequel to "Freckles," entitled "Freckles Comes Home" by Jeannette Stratton Porter will be made. Marcia Mae Jones and Jackie Moran, co-starring team, will be seen in "The Old Swimmin' Hole," suggested by James Whitcomb Riley's poem, as well as in "Sweet Sixteen" and "Day Dreams."

Additional Properties

Other properties on the list include "College Sweethearts," by Leona Dalrymple which appeared in the Woman's Home Companion; "Million Dollar Mystery," Collier's Magazine story by Hugh Wiley.

A series of four: "I Cover the Town," "You're Out of Luck," "The Sky's the Limit" and "My Home Town," will have Frankie Darro; one of two: "Boys of the City" and "That Gang of Mine" with the East Side Kids.

Others include "While 'Frisco Sleeps," "Phantom of Chinatown" and "Alias Jimmy Hogan" stories by Hugh Wiley; "One Glorious Adventure" by Dorothy Reid and Betty Burbridge and "Orphans of the North," a Norman Dawn production.

Three series of eight westerns each will be released by Monogram. Tex Ritter will star in a group of musical westerns; Fred Scott in another series of outdoor dramas and a new team composed of John King and Ray Corrigan to be known as "The Two Pals" in the third group.

Ray Corrigan, formerly of the "Three Mesquiteers," and Monogram's contract player, John King, will be teamed in a series of westerns to be produced by George W. Weeks for Monogram in 1940-41, it was announced by Mr. Weeks at the franchise holders' convention. The series will be known as "The Two Pals" and are slated to go into production immediately. Mr. Weeks until recently was Monogram sales executive.

Both Corrigan and King are in Dallas to attend the national Variety Clubs' convention and to meet the Monogram franchise holders.

Shorts for Monogram

Monogram exchanges will distribute eight one-reel color cartons under a deal closed with Color Films, Ltd., the producer. Three of the subjects are completed. The series features a monkey character. The deal is understood to be with franchise holders individually. Monogram has no shorts on its present schedule.

Among those on hand at the franchise holders' convention, besides Mr. Johnston, are Scott R. Dunlap, vice-president in charge of production; Edward A. Golden, general sales manager; Thomas P. Loach, vice-president and treasurer; Edward G. Schieber, assistant treasurer; Norton V. Ritchey, manager of foreign department; Lloyd Lind, assistant to sales manager; John S. Harrington, accessories manager.

Also John Mangham, from Atlanta; Ben Welansky and Steve Broidy, from Boston; Harry Berkson, Buffalo; Forrest Judd, Des Moines; George West and Harry Thomas, New York; Nate Schultz, Cleveland; Ed Blumenthal and John Franconi, Dallas; Lon Fidler, Denver; William Hurlbut, Detroit; Howard Stubbins, Los Angeles; Ben Nathanson, Minneapolis; Carr Scott, Oklahoma City; Sol J. Francis, Omaha; Mel Hulling, San Francisco.

Also, from Hollywood, are Edward F. Finney, associate producer; William L. Peirce, Jr., publicity; Ralph Bettinson, foreign representative; Charles Bigelow, assistant production head, Ernest Hickson, technical director; Tex Ritter, Fred Scott, Martin Spellman, Marjorie Reynolds and Ray Corrigan representing Monogram contract players.

Informal reunions and conferences are scheduled with Mr. Johnston, Scott Dunlap and Edward Golden. A reception and cocktail party is to be held at the Dallas exchange headquarters, with John Franconi and Ed Blumenthal as hosts.

Talent Winners Named

The winners of the radio Uncle Don-Monogram talent contest were selected Monday night at the finals which were held at the Mutual Broadcasting studios in New York. Buddy Swan and Marcelle Wissman won over 3,000 entrants who had been competing in the contest which had been conducted during the past three months. The grand prize is a trip to Hollywood with a role in Monogram's forthcoming Marcia Mae Jones-Jackie Moran starring picture, "First Assignment."

LOACH IS MONOGRAM VICE-PRESIDENT

Monogram Pictures Corporation Monday announced the election of T. P. Loach as vice-president.

Mr. Loach is a director and treasurer and will continue to hold those offices.

About May 1, 1940, Mr. Loach will resign from the offices of vice-president and treasurer of Pathe Laboratories, Inc., in order to devote his full time to Monogram.

Atlas Asks for 100,000 Shares

The Atlas Corporation this week asked William Bondy, federal judge, to award it 100,000 shares of common stock of the new RKO as a final allowance in RKO proceedings, in a supplementary petition filed in the federal court. At current quotations of $3 per share for the new RKO stock, the request is equivalent to an application for $300,000.

The petition acted as an amendment of the original application filed previously by Atlas which had left the amount of its compensation to Judge Bondy's discretion. In addition, Atlas seeks $875,037 as reimbursement for expenditures in the reorganization proceedings.

RKO is reported to have under consideration several plans of internal financing designed to provide between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 for the purchase of the M. J. Meehan majority holdings of Keith-Albee-Orpheum preferred stock. Of the $6,500,000 KAO preferred issue, RKO's holdings represent about $2,500,000.

The RKO reorganization plan imposes a $3,000,000 loan limit on the reorganized company without the approval of RKO preferred stockholders. This is viewed as the reason why internal financing rather than outside borrowing is being considered.

Consolidation of the theatre company would make available to RKO about $3,500,000 in cash held by KAO and subsidiaries, in addition to the full earnings of those companies, which have averaged almost $1,000,000 annually for the last three years.

KAO directors have declared a dividend, out of operating surplus, of $1.75 per share on the 7% cumulative convertible preferred stock of said corporation for the quarter ended December 31, 1937, payable July 1, 1940, to the holders of record of said stock at the close of business on June 14, 1940.

Lofink Joins Universal

George Lofink, who has been with the Fabian circuit, Albany, N. Y., for four years, has joined the Universal exchange in Kansas City becoming district booker. He succeeds Joseph Ragatnick, now head booker at the Des Moines office.

Allenberg Heads Guild

Bert Allenberg has been named president of the Artists Managers Guild, Hollywood, succeeding M. C. Levee, head of the organization since its inception in 1937.

Krieger Leaves Universal

Paul Krieger, for more than 10 years manager of the Universal Cincinnati exchange, has resigned. Peter Rosian, of the company's Cleveland exchange, succeeds him.

Irene

(RKO Radio)

Irish Cinderella

Irene O'Dare was a lilting mavourneen on the musical comedy stage in the early 1920's. When Colleen Moore brought her to the screen in 1926 she was Irish in appearance and action, but the brogue was silent. As she is created once again, this time by Anna Neagle, departing about as far as histrionically possible from Nurse Edith Cavell and Queen Victoria, she is again a mercurial, impudent, blue-eyed and red-haired lass with the soft burr of County Clare on her tongue.

Never very strong, the story, even though amplified and rewoven in spots by Alice Duer Miller, remains only a breath, the breath from the Emerald Isle which Miss Neagle re-creates. An upholsterer's helper so intrigues a wealthy scion that he buys out a dress shop to insure her a job as a model. She enters society through a publicity hoax which poses her in the Irish nobility, attracts another scion, becomes the talk of the town, and almost marries the wrong man. Eventually boy gets girl, doubled in hearts.

Of musical comedy trappings there are barely enough to earn the right to that classification. The high spot of these is a swing version, by an all-Negro cast, of "Alice Blue Gown," almost the only song remaining of the original popular galaxy. Harry Tierney and Joseph McCarthy, composers of the original work, have contributed a new song, "You've Got Me Out on a Limb." Miss Neagle sings once, dances twice.

Instead of story or music there are a multitude of intangible values which are of the essence of showmanship. To Miss Neagle's radiant personality Herbert Wilcox, associated with her in a series of productions going back to "Nell Gwyn" and including a repeated Victoria theme, has added shrewdly from a well stocked kit of proven devices.

Certain to rank high among these is the transition to Technicolor as the star appears in the theme song's Alice-blue gown, itself an item subject to easy exploitation. No less notable is the montage and stage production which precedes the Harlem swing session already mentioned. There are knowing camera angles, a completely wholesome theme and treatment, handsome mountings and others adding up to the same certainty of favorable audience comment in and outside of the theatre.

Subdued but in highly competent support of Miss Neagle are Ray Milland as the pursuer; May Robson, a clear cut cameo as the Irish Granny; Arthur Treacher, the omniscient and slightly contemptuous butler; Billie Burke in her fluttery matron role, and Roland Young the slightly bewildered dress shop manager.

Grandpa Goes to Town

(Republic)

Comedy

"Grandpa Goes to Town" is the sixth in the series of the "Higgins Family" dramas at Republic, and, in addition to James, Lucile and Russell Gleason and the other "regulars" of the cast, presents Arturo Godoy, South American heavyweight boxing champion and one of the few men who have stood up to Joe Louis for 15 rounds. Godoy, who appears with his wife, Ledda, in his only film work outside of the Godoy-Louis championship match feature, does a dance number and stages a three round fight with "Slapsie Maxie" Rosenbloom, about whom much has been written.

With Harry Davenport, Lois Ranson and Tommy Ryan making up the rest of the "Higgins" menage, the cast includes, in addition to those mentioned, Noah Beery, Douglas Meins, Garry Owen, Ray Turner, Lee "Lasses" White, Walter Miller, Emmett Lynn and Joe Caits.

Gus Meins, associate producer, directed from an original screenplay by Jack Townley. Buying a hotel, sight unseen, which turns out to be in a deserted western town, the "Higgins" family unwittingly spreads word of a gold strike, when one of the group thinks two film actors, on a location trip, are gold miners. When the miners, who arrive in a rush, threaten to lynch them for spreading lies, the "Higgins" household attempts to leave. Then real gold is discovered. Gangsters attempt to take over, but "Grandpa," with the aid of the movie troupe, saves with day.

Light of Western Stars

(Paramount-Sherman)

Zane Grey Western

Produced twice previously under the Paramount trademark, as a silent in 1925 and a talker in 1930, this Zane Grey work comes forward this time as one of two special productions by Harry Sherman on this season's schedule. The hero of this version is Victor Jory, villain of many recent action pictures and character actor in others.

Jo Ann Sayers is the heroine and Morris Ankrum has the heavy assignment. Noah Beery, Jr., and J. Farrell MacDonald head a large supporting cast.

Norman Houston's screen play departs from the Grey story, substituting border gun running for gold mining as a source of plot interest. Lesley Selander directed and Joseph W. Engel was associate producer. Russell Harlan is responsible for the photography, with the scene principally the open country near the Mexican border.

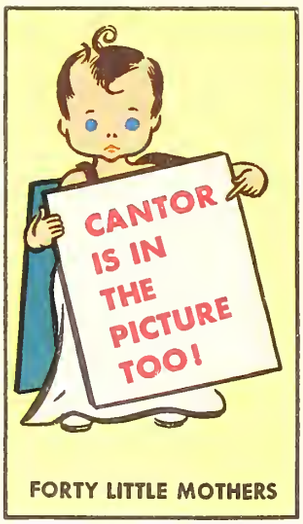
Two Girls on Broadway

(MGM)

Musical Comedy Drama



Five times in the course of this picture and again at its conclusion a preview audience composed of college students, suburban citizens, profession and press, let go salvos of applause, song and dance numbers by George Murphy singly, with Lana Turner and with a dancing chorus accounting for the first five. This reaction would seem to warrant a showman reminding his customers that Murphy is to be seen again as he was in "Broadway Melody of 1940" and that the present film is, as that one was, a Jack Cummings production.

This is another story of Broadway and actors and backstage folk and the persons back of them, including a newspaper columnist in the Winchell tradition and a radio program in the manner of Hobby Lobby, which is presided over in the film by radio's Don Wilson. It is also an exploitation factor that this is Joan Blon-

U.S. CALLS PRODUCERS AS WITNESSES; SHOWDOWN ON TRIAL DATE OF SUIT

Judge Hears Applications of Defense Attorneys for Postponement from May 1st—Consent Decree End Likely

A "showdown" is expected Friday in the New York federal court, on the insistence of the large company defendants that the United States Government's "key" anti-trust case be postponed at least one month beyond its scheduled May 1st opening, and on the Government's equally strong insistence that the trial, for which so many preparations have been made, start on time. Federal Judge John C. Knox on Friday will hear the applications of defense attorneys for the postponement.

Thurman W. Arnold, head of the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice, was personally to oppose the defendants' appeal for an adjournment, it was heard on Tuesday from Washington. This would mark Mr. Arnold's first appearance in the case.

Also this week, on Tuesday, and of equal importance as a development in the suit, the Government filed its supplemental bill of particulars, as requested by the defendants some time ago.

U. S. To Oppose Delay

That the Government would oppose any postponement of the trial was predicted last week, after the defense had applied last Friday for such a ruling. The prediction was confirmed, over the weekend, by opinion of Government attorneys.

The defense application was made privately to Federal Judge Henry Goddard, who will hear trial. It was referred by him to Judge Knox, in charge of the court calendar.

That the Government is expecting the trial to start promptly on May 1st was indicated by an announcement that Paul Williams, special assistant attorney general, this week was setting up permanent headquarters in New York for the Government staff. Ten Department of Justice aides were expected in New York.

The Government already has notified some of its 300 prospective witnesses, and subpoenaed major defendants, for appearance at court on May 1st.

Two Attorneys in Other Cases

In applying for the postponement last Friday, defense attorneys indicated that one of the principal arguments they will advance at the hearing on Friday is the engagement, in other court actions, of two of their number, John W. Davis and Ralph Harris.

Mr. Davis represents Loew's-MGM; Mr. Harris, Twentieth Century Fox. Both have been engaged in an oil companies' suit in New York Supreme Court, which is not expected to end until late May.

The Government is scheduled still to examine about 12 more executives of defendant companies.

It is also pointed out by the defense that they may still find the Government's supplemental answers, filed Tuesday, insufficient; that they can return the answers to the court, listing deficiencies to be remedied; and that, whether or not Judge Goddard favors them, the procedure will consume time.

It is also noted that postponement of the trial for one month will give further time in which to discuss an out-of-court settlement by consent decree.

Last Friday, Federal Judge Samuel Mandelbaum granted the Government's request for the dropping of Adolph Ramish and Charles Rogers, former Universal Pictures directors, as defendants; and for the substitution of Charles D. Prutzman, a director, for Mr. Rogers.

U. S. Names More Witnesses

On Tuesday, the expected Government implementation of its original charges was filed: 195 pages of detailed information on alleged acts of conspiracy, monopoly, collusion, added to the hundreds of pages of similar charges already filed.

Instances of alleged monopoly in first-run distribution concerned 289 witnesses. The Government also named, as additional prospective witnesses, the following exhibitors: Ed A. Cerf, Columbus, Ga.; C. C. Dunsmoor, Marshalltown, Iowa; Eli J. Seff, Rapid City, S. D.; J. Tom Arthur, Mason City, Iowa; W. B. McDonald, Olympia, Wash.; Henry Friedman, Lansdowne, Pa.; Robert H. Hexter, Philadelphia.

The Government's supplemental bill of particulars also named 28 witnesses in production. Five of these had not been previously identified. They are Sol Lesser, Principal Artists Productions; Richard Rowland, General Service Studios; Spencer Benet, Monogram; Toby Anguish; and B. Reeves Eason.

The Government stated it had 132 witnesses to forced blocked booking; and 82 witnesses to arbitrary rejection by the major defendants, of requests for specific film runs.

Move Made to Settle Fox West Coast Suit

Negotiations for an out-of-court settlement of the $1,200,000 suit brought against Fox West Coast and several distributors by the Colcata Corporation, operator of the Colorado in Pasadena, were indicated to be under way Wednesday when the plaintiff sought postponement of the trial to November 6th. Albert Law, assistant U. S. attorney general, said the settlement would have no bearing on the Government's citation of Fox West Coast for consent decree violation of which the case is an important phase.

"NO BARRIERS", IS WASHINGTON VIEW

There is nothing, except the amount of concessions they are willing to make, to prevent one or more of the major company defendants, in the New York anti-trust suit by the Government, from agreeing separately to an out-of-court settlement, Department of Justice officials indicated, this week.

Introduction by Senator Matthew Neely, of West Virginia, of another bill in Congress, a theatre "divorce" bill, will not affect consent decree settlement, it was said in Washington. Observers noted that the bill could not be enacted at this session of Congress, and that a settlement of the Government suit might mean it would never be enacted.

Subpoenas Authorized for Chaplin, Goldwyn, Mayer, Joseph M. Schenck; Richards Called from New Orleans

Accelerating its trial preparations, and further indicating its intention to have its New York anti-trust suit against the large producer-distributors begin on May 1st, defendants' pleas for postponement to June 1st, notwithstanding, the Government on Tuesday, in its first call to the company officials, received authorization from Henry W. Goddard, trial judge in New York federal court, to subpoena four coast studio executives and one head of an affiliated circuit, as "material witnesses."

These are Charles Chaplin, United Artists partner and producer; Samuel Goldwyn, also a United Artists partner and producer; Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of the Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation; Louis B. Mayer, vice-president in charge of production at the MGM studios; and Ernest V. Richards, Jr., head of the Saenger-Richards circuit, of Louisiana and other southern states.

Affidavit by Williams

The first four men reside in the Los Angeles area, Mr. Richards in New Orleans.

The authorization from Federal Judge Goddard for their notification was obtained under federal procedure requiring permission to subpoena witnesses who live more than 100 miles from the courthouse; in this instance, the federal courthouse for the Southern District of New York, in Foley Square, New York City.

It was an affidavit of Paul Williams, special assistant attorney general, which obtained the authorizations.

On Tuesday, in the New York federal court, three sales executives of Twentieth Century-Fox were questioned, in continuance of the Government's pre-trial examinations of defendants' officers. They were William Kupper, William Sussman and William Gehring, western, eastern, and central division managers, respectively. Robert L. Wright, special assistant attorney general, conducted the questioning, which was almost exclusively on the first-run sales policies in 36 key cities.

Others Questioned

Joseph Bernhard, general manager of the Warner Theatres circuit, was examined Wednesday; Sidney R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century Fox, was to be questioned on Thursday; and George Schaefer, president of RKO Radio Pictures, was to be examined on Friday. Mr. Bernhard denied the existence of a uniform policy to acquire theatres.

One of the major company defendants, RKO, took steps on Tuesday to be the first to examine, in pre-trial oral query, the Government's witnesses. The company served notice on the Government that it would question these witnesses in the offices of William Zimmerman, RKO attorney, in the RKO Building, New York City. The first of the witnesses, James Binkov, of Union City, N. J., is to be questioned next Monday, according to the notice. James C. Forgione, of Metuchen, N. J., is to be examined next Wednesday; A. Bannon, of Newark, on next Friday; and Howard Lesser, of Paterson, same state, on April 29th.

SHOWMEN'S REVIEWS OF NEW FILMS

dell's first appearance in a film from this studio.

The story, accredited to Edmund Goulding and prepared for the screen by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov, takes two sisters from a Nebraska town to Broadway and puts them in the show business, the elder mothering the younger to the extent of giving up her sweetheart to her when she learns they are in love. The efforts of a millionaire suitor to cajole the youngster into becoming his fifth or sixth wife complicate the progress of the love interest for a time, but incidents are handled for humor throughout.

S. Sylvan Simon directed and is quoted by the studio as declaring "'Glex' is the new attribute to be sought after by young ladies who formerly attempted to cultivate glamor. Glex is a combination of glamor and sex appeal and its first exponent is Lana Turner."

Forty Little Mothers

(MGM)

Comedy Novelty

Fabricated for the presentation of Eddie Cantor without a dancing chorus and with but one song, the comedy begins as a drama in which an unemployed man of middle age prevents a despairing mother from committing suicide and takes custody of her baby boy without knowing it is hers. It turns to a college comedy when girl students, irked because he has supplanted a younger member of the faculty, strive by prank and plot to embarrass him into resigning. This portion of the picture contains double entendre dialogue and situations to match. Then a return is made to drama. The girls, on learning of the man's kindness to the baby, take care of the infant and undo the mischief they have wrought.

Cantor sings one sing, a number about a baby, which is used thereafter as the musical theme. Judith Anderson of "Rebecca" is the school principal and Nydia Westman her fluttery assistant. These two head a supporting cast including Bonita Granville as leader of the 40 college girls pertained to by the title.

A circumstance showmen may wish to capitalize in their ad copy is that Cantor is seen here in fatherly relationship to a boy baby. Another, mentioned in literature on the film, is that Harry Rapf, the producer, is the man who noticed Cantor as a singing waiter many years ago and got him the job in Gus Edwards' "School Days" act from which his career sprouted. It is showmanly license, of course, to exploit the Baby Quintanilla of the picture without restraint, for audience reaction to baby stars in their first appearance is one of the show business' few certainties.

Previewed at Grauman's Chinese theatre, Hollywood. Audience reaction to the smiles, frowns, gurglings and gesturings of the baby was audibly favorable. Laughter evoked by lines and business pertaining to the feigned amours of the college girls, and the unfeigned preoccupation of the feminine faculty members with these, was louder but less unanimous. A lot of whistling and humming of the song sung by Cantor in the picture was being done by the departing audience.—W. R. W.

Produced and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Producer, Harry Rapf. Directed by Busby Berkeley. Screen play by Dorothy Yost and Ernest Pagano. Story by Jean Guitton. Song by Charles Tobias and Nat Simon. Photographed by Charles Lawton. Edited by Ben Lewis. P. C. A. certificate No. 6130. Release date, April 26, 1940. Buck Benny Rides Again

(Paramount)

Comedy with Songs

"Buck Benny Rides Again" contains the following exploitation items. Showmen can tell their customers that:

The preview audience accorded this more applause than the previous Jack Benny vehicles;

The entire radio troupe of the Jell-O radio program—"Rochester," Andy Devine, Phil Harris, Dennis Day, and "Carmichael," plus the voices of Don Wilson and Mary Livingstone—are used;

Ellen Drew, to whom Paramount has given an extensive "buildup," supplies the romantic interest;

The radio "feud" between Benny and Fred Allen, with Allen's voice heard, motivates the plot;

The Merriel Abbott Dancers appear in several of their specialties;

"Rochester" has more lines in this film than in any of his previous appearances, and does a song and two dance numbers;

A crowded house at the Village theatre, Westwood, applauded time and time again, roared at the comedy and praised the dance numbers, some of which were directed by LeRoy Prinz.

What Paramount executives think of "Buck Benny Rides Again" can be seen in the fact that Mark Sandrich, whose first production-direction task this is, received a new contract calling for two pictures a year from him for the next three years.

William Morrow and Edmund Beloin wrote the screenplay from an adaptation, by Zion Myers, of a story by Arthur Stringer. In the story Phil Harris wants Jack Benny to go to a dude ranch in Arizona, but Benny is reluctant, until he meets a girl, member of a trio, with whom he falls in love. The trio is hired at the dude ranch, and Benny, to impress the girl, pretends he is the rough and tumble owner of "Andy's" nearby ranch. Complications ensue when Benny plots with ranch hands to make him appear in a favorable light and the girl hires real outlaws, unknowingly, to rob him. Goading Benny on is the voice, on the radio, of Fred Allen.

Others in the cast are Virginia Dale, Lillian Cornell, Theresa Harris, Kay Linaker, Ward Bond, Morris Ankrum, Charles Lane and James Burke.

Four songs are used, including a comedy number, "My, My," sung by "Rochester" and Theresa Harris.

Previewed at Village theatre, Westwood, Cal., to the reactions noted.—V. K.

Johnny Apollo

(20th Century-Fox)

Metropolitan Melodrama

Tyrone Power here has his first casting in the role of a criminal since "Jesse James." Dorothy Lamour, co-star of this melodrama of metropolitan setting, is seen in the role of a racketeer's girl who is also a night club singer. Edward Arnold plays a millionaire stock broker convicted of embezzlement, Lionel Atwill a wealthy but inconstant attorney, Charley Grapewin an alcoholically addicted lawyer in the employ of crooks and Lloyd Nolan their leader.

The screen play, by Philip Dunne and Rowland Brown from a story by Samuel S. Engel and Hal Long, opens with "Robert Cain," broker, barred from the stock exchange, exposed for embezzling and sent to jail. His son, later adopting the name "Johnny Apollo" to conceal his identity, resents what he considers his father's betrayal of him, quarrels with him and goes out to seek employment. A year of unemployment bring him to belief in the criminal code and he takes up a life of crime to obtain money to buy his father's parole. How the father and son, after many illuminating experiences, learn that crime does not pay, each serving a prison sentence, is revealed in detail. "Lucky," a racketeer's "moll" who meets "Johnny" during his criminal phase and helps bring him around to a right view of moral values, is waiting for the young man when he is released from prison at the end of the picture.

The film was directed by Henry Hathaway. Harry Joe Brown was associate producer. Two songs are sung by Miss Lamour, one of them by Lionel Newman and Frank Loesser, the other by Mack Gordon. The first of these is a night club floor show production number, the second sung to piano accompaniment only.

Mr. Washington Goes to Town

(Jed Buell)

Negro Comedy

For the expressed purpose of showing press observers how his film suits the market for which he made it, Jed Buell, producer and director, previewed this all-Negro comedy at the Lincoln theatre on Central Avenue, which is to Los Angeles what Harlem is to New York, on the evening of the year's first 90-degree day in those parts. Within a minute from the time the picture started, the colored audience was laughing so loudly as to drown out sections of dialogue, and this response kept up throughout the picture, whites present in professional capacity joining in.

Screen material used by Buell to induce this merriment is, to use his words, "straight Sennett type comedy with colored comedians." Included are the "spook hotel" routines descended from medicine show days, and interspersed are contemporary gags such as one about Jack Benny, ending, "He's the fellow on Rochester's radio program."

Starred are F. E. Miller and Manton Moreland, featured in a previous Buell production, "Harlem on the Prairie." Walter Weems and Lex Neal wrote the screen play from a Weems story.

Previewed as noted.—W. R. W.

George Washington Carver

(Allen McDowell)

Story of Eminent Negro Scientist

Back in 1938, MGM offered a short subject, "The Story of Dr. Carver," which the MOTION PICTURE HERALD reviewer at that time adjudged "worthy of fuller treatment than 10 minutes of running time can cover." Now comes this feature length tribute to the Negro scientist. While there is not the technical or acting finish of the initial study, this screen biography has its place in interest as an educational piece.

The data presented in the MGM miniature are substantially repeated in the feature. Testifying pictorially to the scientific wizardry of Dr. Carver is, for example, his multiplication of products from the lowly peanut plants. Through the device of having the Negro scientist give advice and encouragement to a young student, early pages of Dr. Carver's life pass in review from the time he was redeemed from kidnapers by the exchange of a horse and his early efforts for an education and first work as an agriculture specialist.

There is no limit to the exploitation possibilities for audience of Dr. Carver's race, besides some educational import for schools and interracial betterment groups, and choral singing from the Tuskegee Choir.

Seen at a trade showing in New York.—JOSEPH F. COUGHLIN.

Presented by Allen McDowell. Produced by Ira Greene. Associate producer, Ernest St. George. Director, Ben Parker. Original screen play, Robert Shurr. P.C.A. Certificate No. 02815. Running time, 69 minutes. Release date, April 16, 1940. General audience classification.

Young Buffalo Bill

(Republic)

Western Melodrama

Based on an original story by Norman Houston and directed by Joseph Kane, who is also associate producer, "Young Buffalo Bill" is another action packed western of the Roy Rogers series.

George "Gabby" Hayes again is the constant and faithful companion of Rogers. Both will be seen in the currently released Republic production "Dark Command" (reviewed in April 13th issue). Chief Thunder Cloud, who portrayed the title role in Paramount's "Geronimo," is in a supporting role here.

In this western Roy and "Gabby" become scouts in the New Mexico territory for "Colonel Calhoun." They save the hacienda of "Don Regas" from the thieving Comanche Indians, and protect the weak-willed son of the "Colonel" from falling into league with Indians.

Like most western melodramas of this type, the romantic elements are secondary to the fast riding and the fist and gun fights.

Supporting Roy and "Gabby" are Pauline Moore, Hugh Sothern and Trevor Bardette. Roy, of course, has ample opportunity to render his usual cowboy serenades.

Reviewed in the Republic projection room in New York.—GEORGE SPIRES.

Produced and distributed by Republic. Associate producer and director, Joseph Kane. Screen play by Harrison Jacobs, Robert Yost and Gerry Geraghty. From an original story by Norman Houston. Production manager, Al Wilson. Photographed by William Nobles. Film editor. Tony Martinelli. Musical director, Cy Feuer, P.C.A. No. 6134. Running time, 59 minutes. Release date, April 12, 1940. Hi-Yo Silver

(Republic Pictures)

Fast Western

This is a condensation of the company's first Lone Ranger serial, which itself was based on the radio serial of that name. The editing has consolidated the action with a minimum of story loss. Eliminated parts are mentioned, for coherence, by a story-teller, in the flash-back method.

Raymond Hatton, cleaning a horse identifiable as an aged Silver, tells a boy of the days on the same ranch, long ago, when "Smith" (Stanley Andrews) and his banditti usurped administrative offices in Texas, squeezed taxes from the ranchers, terrorized them into submission, captured and used a federal commissioner and his daughter, and were faced only by the opposition of the Lone Ranger and four other young Texans. As the story-teller continues, the action depicts how the Texans outwitted "Smith"; prodded the ranchers into organized rebellion; killed many of "Smith's" men and were in turn killed, till only the Lone Ranger remained; and how he, in a final cliff battle, with gun and fists, killed "Smith" and routed his men.

Previewed in a New York projection room—FLOYD ELBERT STONE.

Produced and distributed by Republic. Sol C. Siegel, associate producer; Robert Beche, supervisor; William Witney, and John English, directors; original screen play by Barry Shipman, George Worthing Yates, Franklyn Andreon, Ronald Davidson, Lois Eby; Al Wilson, production manager; Mack D'Agostino, unit manager; William Nobles, photography. Stranger Than Fiction, No. 75

(Universal)

Novelty

Several unusual bits of news comprise this edition of the Stranger Than Fiction series. Dr. Fernberger in Philadelphia has a collection of primitive tribal masks. In Lexington, Ky., there is a cemetery for one-time famous race horses. It is laid out in the shape of a horseshoe with a headstone over each grave. Other subjects are a man who collects pencils, a fish ladder at Bonneville Dam in Oregon to enable fish to return upstream to their spawning grounds, a trained canary who works a miniature elevator to get his supper, and finally a farm in Baltimore, Md., where wild geese returning north have a feeding ground and a place to rest.—Running time, 9½ minutes.

Terry and The Pirates

(Columbia)

Serial

Produced by Larry Damour and based on the newspaper cartoon by Milton Caniff, this serial brings to the theatre the adventures of "Terry" and his friends, "Pat Ryan," "Normandie Drake," "Connie," "Big Stoop," and the "Dragon Lady" and the other characters. The part of "Terry" is portrayed by William Tracy, who played "Mistro Bottome" in the film version of "Brother Rat." The character names offer the major exploitation opportunity. In other featured parts are Granville Owen, Joyce Bryant and Allen Jung. The first chapter ran 29 minutes. Other episodes are to be 19 minutes.

BROADCASTERS ENLARGE OWN MUSIC LIBRARY IN PUSHING ASCAP FIGHT

Broadcast Music, Inc., Obtains Dozen Composers and Lyricists, Expects 13 More Will Sign, and Several Hundred Writers

Pressing its fight to supplant the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers as a source of popular and classical music for the radio industry, also hoping eventually to succeed the ASCAP as a music source for the motion picture industry, Broadcast Music, Inc., the music publishing house set up by subscription of about 300 members of the National Association of Broadcasters, and with the help of the Association itself—Neville Miller, its president, is also the BMI head—this week appeared to have extensively enlarged its song-writing personnel.

It was negotiating to obtain the music catalogues of those publishers not members of ASCAP; publishing a number of its own songs; endeavoring to popularize them over network sustaining programs. It faced a huge task of having a sufficiently large musical library of popular and classical songs to satisfy all demands by the time the Association members' contracts with the ASCAP expire on December 31st.

Dozen Composers and Lyricists

On Monday, Broadcast Music, Inc., had obtained a dozen composers and lyric writers. Two of these had been placed on salary. The product of the others was to be used under contract. The firm expected 13 more music creators to sign with it soon, and hopes to have several hundred writers.

Broadcast Music, Inc., was negotiating with music publishers, such as Associated Music Publishers. The libraries of some of them total approximately 500,000 musical numbers (mostly classical), available to the networks. Courted also is the Society of European Stage Authors and Composers. It was said that many music publishers' works were not "tied up" by ASCAP, and that Broadcast Music was approaching all these. The delay in obtaining the catalogues of these publishers was described as a matter of price.

Broadcast Music, Inc., has published six of its own songs, and it is to publish several more soon.

Songs Exploited

These songs are being exploited over the networks' sustaining programs.

Thus, the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company was to play three of the new selections this week and next week, from Station WJZ, "key" station of the network, in New York City.

"Sagebrush Serenade" was on the Bill Johnson program, 7:30 to 8:00 P.M., EST, on Wednesday; "In The Silence of the Dawn," was sung by Frances Adair, of the Novelettes, 10:45-11:00 A.M., EST, Friday; the same song was to be sung on the Al and Lee Reiser program on April 21st, 1:30-2:00 P.M., EST; and "We Could Make Such Beautiful Music" was to be sung on the same day, by Yvette, at 5:00-5:15 P.M., EST.

The company is also making records of its music, using exploitation methods of ASCAP.

BMI's problem has been to obtain music writers who were "complete," an executive explained; song writers who have more than the "idea" for a song, also arrangers who can visualize a song in performance by an orchestra.

BMI intends to put to work a staff of arrangers of classical music. It pointed out that about 1,000,000 of the 2,500,000 selections in the ASCAP catalogue were in the "public domain," that BMI and the broadcasters needed only make new arrangements to use the music without ASCAP permission.

To the claims of the Society that it has solid control of the works of the popular music composers of the last twenty and thirty years, BMI replies that ASCAP has only "small rights" to their works, the right to collect fees for the playing of one or more of their songs, but that the networks, and BMI, can use the complete operetta, or musical comedy, for which famous composers like Victor Herbert, George Gershwin and Jerome Kern wrote. BMI, or a network, or a broadcaster, need merely negotiate with the producer of the vehicle which carried the music, it was said.

BMI hopes the motion picture industry will use its music. Its vice-president and general counsel, Sidney M. Kaye, said no fees would be assessed theatres, and that BMI would ask no money for use of its sheet music.

ASCAP Predicts Victory

At the executive offices of the society it was said that, because broadcasters in other years had complained of insufficient time to consider new contracts, ASCAP this year was giving them time to think it over, and that probably by December 31st most of the Broadcasters Association members would have signed.

The contracts, embodying the new ASCAP principle, which assesses most of the cost of music on a network program to the originating station, are being drawn up.

ASCAP pointed out that its numbers were in demand by the public, and that the broadcasters could not substitute against that preference.

Florida Hearing Completed

The hearing on the constitutionality of the Florida laws dealing with music copyright owners and the charges made for the use of their compositions was completed before a three-judge Federal court Tuesday at Gainesville, Fla. Testimony of witnesses was taken and counsel for both Ascap and the state of Florida were allowed 30 days to file briefs supporting their contentions.

Assistant Attorney General T. J. Ellis of Tallahassee, Fla., and Lucien H. Boggs of Jacksonville, argued the case orally before the judges for the defense. Frank J. Wideman of Washington, D. C., and Louis D. Frohlich of New York represented the society.

WOULD REVIVE FIGHT FOR NEBRASKA LAW

A trip made by Nebraska's attorney general to Washington, D. C., last week turned out to have possibilities for revival of the fight for final recognition of the state's legislation against the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. Attorney General Johnson was granted the right to practice before the United States supreme court while in the capital, and studied the court's action on copyrights and patents in line with the recent Ethyl gas ruling, which, Mr. Johnson claims, indicates the ASCAP case might be fought successfully to the supreme court.

Less than two weeks ago the three judges—A. K. Gardiner of Kansas City, T. C. Munger of Lincoln, and J. A. Donohoe of Omaha—who held the anti-ASCAP law of Nebraska was unconstitutional, refused the appeal of William Hotz, specially assigned state defender in the ASCAP test, for a rehearing. This leaves three months in which it is still possible to move the appeal on up to the highest court.

Mr. Johnson, while in Washington, pointed out to members of the Department of Justice, and others, that the Nebraska case was the first of the many ASCAP attacks to be tried on its merits, and therefore should be given routing to the high bench.

The state attorney general's office is not financially equipped to back the litigation, it was said, which was the reason for the Johnson trip to the capital. He feels that the bill took in too much territory. He was a legislator when it passed and refused to vote on it, because he had doubts of its constitutionality, yet, by the next election, when he came in as attorney general, it fell to his lot to protect the measure and see it through.

Mr. Johnson believes that a supreme court opinion, whether against the measure as it now stands or not, is apt to point the way by which greater control might be exercised over the Society's conduct of its business.

All Trans-Lux Officers Reelected

Directors of Trans-Lux Corporation, operators of the Trans-Lux theatres and Trans-Lux Daylight Picture Screen Corporation, this week reelected Percy N. Furber, chairman of the board, and Percival E. Furber, president. Other officers, also reelected, are Arthur C. Payne, E. H. Unkles, Robert Daine, vice-presidents; Albert Giles, secretary; A. T. Mulcahy, assistant secretary.

The acquisition in February of 800 shares of Trans-Lux common stock by Walter Siemers, Jamaica, L. I., bringing his holdings to 1,000 shares, was reported this week by the Securities and Exchange Commission. This was the only February film transaction reported by the SEC in its semi-monthly summary of the activities of corporation officers and directors.

The report carried delayed reports on the operations of Joseph M. Schenck, Beverly Hills, Cal., director in Twentieth Century-Fox, showing that in October, 1937, he acquired 1,000 shares of the company's common stock and in December of the same year disposed of 1,000 shares by gift.

THE HOLLYWOOD SCENE

New Mousetrap

Rapidly nearing completion is Walt Disney's new Burbank studio, largest cartoon plant in the world. The end of the month is expected to see all members of the organization brought together save a few "front office" departments which will continue to function at the Hyperion Avenue studio.

A trip through the plant, which has 51 acres of land, documents the "big business" which has grown in the 12 years since the appearance of "Steamboat Willie," first of the Mickey Mouse short subjects—a business which provided its own testimony as to public reaction to the Disney product when its recent stock issue was oversubscribed.

There are, today, 1,500 Disney employees, in contrast to the 25 of 1929. By 1934, the year of the "Three Little Pigs," as the Disney calendar reads, there were 150, and by 1936, when work was started on "Snow White," the number had grown to 300.

Accommodating the present staff is a $2,000,000 series of air conditioned, red and yellow horizontally banded brick buildings, including a restaurant and theatre. The theatre's inner walls are of a neutral shade, with color to be provided by lighting effects, while the walls of the restaurant are built on an angle sloping inward towards the top, the better to provide a view of the mural which will depict the history of the animated cartoon. What is called by his adherents "the Disney touch" is evident even in the menus, replete with drawings of Donald Duck, et al., and with dishes described as "Monstro's Morsel," "Minnie's Delight" and the like.

Local legend has it that Walt was much discomfited by the splendor of his new office suite, consisting of conference, reception and secretarial rooms in addition to his own office. Whereupon he promptly filled it with an assortment of dimensional models from the forthcoming "Fantasia," and felt at home again.

Lining the shelves of a cabinet in the outer office are such diverse recognitions as medals from the French Legion of Honor and the Poor Richard Club of Philadelphia, as well as a stand containing one large and seven small "Oscars," given by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in whimsical mood, to commemorate "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Within the buildings, the walls also are horizontally banded in different colors, cheerfully reflecting the north light which the buildings were designed to catch to as great an extent as possible.

The product itself never sees the light of day until it is ready, the celluloid moving from building to building through underground tunnels, so that temperature and light variations will not affect it.

The process calls for moving from top to bottom in the progression from the inception of the story idea to completion of film.

Starting on the top floor of the animation building, where Walt Disney and three or four of the supervising directors are quartered, the idea for the next short or feature moves down to the second floor, there to be taken over by sequence directors, layout men and story sketch men. On the first floor are the animators, and from their hands the animated scenes go to the inking and painting building, where they are traced and inked on the top floor and painted downstairs. The final step finds the celluloid in the camera building, where it is photographed over backgrounds.

UPSWING MARKS PRODUCTION WEEK

In a week that saw the thermometer climb to 95 degrees, Hollywood's studios put on a marked spurt and finished eight pictures, just twice as many as in the week before; started 13, compared to the five of last week; had 33 shooting, and the same number being prepared and 58 being edited. In the previous week there had been 28 shooting, 32 being prepared and 56 edited.

Completed were Columbia's "The Lone Wolf Meets a Lady," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Pride and Prejudice," RKO Radio's "The Villain Still Pursued Her," Republic's "Gaucho Serenade" and "Gangs of Chicago," Twentieth Century-Fox's "Rain or Shine" and Warner Brothers' "Torrid Zone" and "Brother Orchid."

Work was started on "The Howards of Virginia" and "Block K Rides Tonight," Columbia; "Phantom Raider," MGM; "Lucky Partners," "Prairie Law" and "Thousand Dollar Marriage," RKO; "Wagons Westward," Republic; "The Brat" and "Elsa Maxwell's Public Deb. No. One," Twentieth Century-Fox; and "Boys from Syracuse," "One of the Boston Bullertons" and "You're Not So Tough," Universal.

Three short subjects were completed; none was started nor shooting. Eight were being prepared and 12 edited.

Republic Signs Ona Munson

Ona Munson has signed a three picture contract with Republic Pictures. Her first assignment is the feminine lead in "Wagons Westward," which is based on Armstrong Sperry's novel of the Santa Fe Trail in its halcyon days. Miss Munson's second picture will be "Lady from New Orleans."

Name News

WALT DISNEY has returned to the studio after several weeks of conferences in New York.

JULIAN JOHNSON, Twentieth Century-Fox studio story editor, has had his contract extended to 1941.

JAMES ROOSEVELT, head of Globe Productions, returned to Hollywood after six weeks of conferences in the field.

KING VIDOR left for a business trip to Washington, after which he will go to New York to see current plays.

STUART HEISLER has been given a long term director contract at Paramount.

W. E. BANFORD, Loew's Chicago exchange manager, arrived for a visit at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio.

W. RAY JOHNSTON and SCOTT DUNLAP left the Monogram studio to attend the franchise holders' convention in Dallas.

VINCENT SHERMAN has been assigned to direct "Broadway Lawyer" for Warner Brothers.

WILLIAM ORR, of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer home office, arrived at the studio for conferences.

MICHAEL HOGAN is to work on the screen play of "The Prime Minister" for Warner Brothers.

MARGUERITE ROBERTS has been assigned to work on the screen play of "Fingers at the Window" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

HARRY RUSKIN is signed to a new writing contract by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

TED REED has been assigned to work on the screen play of "Edgar Allan Poe" for Warner Brothers.

FILM, TELEVISION, RADIO BEFORE SMPE NEXT WEEK

Frequency Modulation Among Tuesday's Topics at Spring Meeting in Atlantic City

New developments, and advancements in old developments, in practically every department of the motion picture, as well as recent strides in television and frequency modulation broadcasting, will be discussed at the four-day spring convention of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, starting Monday, April 22nd, at Haddon Hall, Atlantic City.

Forty-six technical papers, and lectures, many with demonstrations, are scheduled for presentation at the convention's nine sessions, for which approximately 250 delegates from every section of the country are expected to register.

Television and "FM"

Thomas F. Joyce, vice president and advertising director of RCA Manufacturing Company, will discuss "The General Outlook for Television" at the informal get-together luncheon which is the feature of the opening day's meeting. Major E. H. Armstrong, of Columbia University, will talk on "Frequency Modulation" at Tuesday morning's session. Mayor Charles D. White, of Atlantic City, will greet the convention.

E. A. Williford, SMPE president, will preside at the 46th semi-annual banquet and dance to be held in the hotel's Rutland Room Wednesday evening. W. C. Kunzmann, convention vice-president, will be in charge of the program.

Following registration reports of various committees and welcoming address by Mr. Williford, the opening session Monday morning will include the presentation of two papers: one on hearing-aid design, by W. C. Beasley, National Institute of Health, U. S. Public Health Service, and one on color theories, by H. P. Gage, of the Corning Glass Works.

Session on Sound

At Monday afternoon's sound session, papers will be read by W. A. Mueller, of Warner Bros. First National Studios, Burbank, Calif.; C. C. Potwin, Electrical Research Products, Inc.; W. H. Offenhauser, of The Berndt-Maurer Corp.; O. Sandvik and W. K. Grimwood, of Eastman Kodak Company, and Dr. E. W. Kellogg, of RCA Manufacturing Company. Matthew Luckiesh, Director of the General Electric Lighting Research Laboratory at Cleveland, will lecture on "The Science of Seeing" at the evening session.

In addition to Major Armstrong's paper, the Tuesday morning session will include papers by Dr. I. G. Maloff, of RCA Manufacturing Company, on "Tone Reproduction in Television"; and "Photographic Tone Reproduction —Theory and Practice," by L. A. Jones, of Eastman Kodak.

Tuesday afternoon's 16-mm session will be devoted to papers and demonstrations by L. Thompson, of the Calvin Company; J. A. Maurer, of The Berndt-Maurer Corp.; D. R. Canady, of Canady Sound Appliance Company; J. F. Clemenger and F. C. Wood, of Sound Masters, Inc.; E. A. Bertram, of DeLuxe Laboratories; and D. B. Joy and W. W. Lozier, of National Carbon Company.

The television session, to be held Tuesday evening, will include the following papers: "Television Pick-Up of the Pasadena Rose Touranment Parade," by H R. Lubcke, Don Lee Broadcasting System, Los Angeles; "Remote Control Television Lighting," by W. C. Eddy, of National Broadcasting Company; "RCA Portable Television Pick-Up Equipment," by G. L. Beers, of RCA Manufacturing Company, O. H. Schade, of RCA Radiotron, and R. E. Shelby, of NBC; "Quality in Television Pictures," by P. C. Goldmark and J. N. Dyer, of Columbia Broadcasting System; and "A New Method of Synchronization for Television Systems," by T. T. Goldsmith, R. L. Campbell, and S. W. Stanton, of Allen B. Dumon Laboratories.

Wednesday morning's projection session will include papers by the following: F. H. Richardson, Quigley Publishing Company; I. Gordon, of Akron, Ohio; T. P. Hover, of Lima, Ohio; W. B. United Artists Considering Permanent Exploiteers

Because the company, "more than others," depends upon exploitation for the selling of its pictures, and because, therefore, it is "to our advantage to have men on a locale for several months, on a single picture, or a series of our pictures," United Artists may install a permanent exploitation staff. Whether it will, depends upon conferences being held with the company's many producers, and with Maurice Silverstone, its chief executive.

It had not been decided last week, how many man would be on this permanent roster. The move, according to Monroe Greenthal, director of exploitation at UA, would be for the reasons above, and he added that the company, because of stories from which its producers made pictures, because of the almost universally "A" quality of its pictures, and because of its methods of selling needed a peculiarly large amount of "pre-selling."

Brandt to Operate New Theatre

The New York theatre, Broadway and 43d St., will be operated by the Brandt circuit, under the supervision of Harry Brandt. Newly erected by the New York Life Insurance Company, the house was originally leased to Consolidated Amusement Enterprises. Mr. Brandt acquired the lease for a 21-year period, through Myles E. Rieser.

IN THE CUTTING ROOM

Waterloo Bridge

(MGM)

Love and War

Reunited for the first time since they appeared together three years ago in "A Yank at Oxford," Robert Taylor and Vivien Leigh are costarred in this picturization of the Robert Sherwood stage play. Still fresh, exploitation-wise, is Miss Leigh's "Scarlett O'Hara."

Support is provided by Virginia Field, recently seen in "Raffles," and here appearing as the heroine's self-sacrificing friend; and by Maria Ouspenkaya and Steffi Duna.

Starting with a scene in wartime London today, the story goes back to the London of 1914, and the romance between the Army captain and ballet dancer depicted by the principals, a romance blasted when the girl's poverty causes her to take what used to be called "the easiest way."

Mervyn Le Roy returns to direction in this film, after having produced "The Wizard of Oz." Sidney Franklin produced. He handled "On Borrowed Time."

Release date: May 17, 1940.

Henry Aldrich No. 1

(Tentative title)

(Paramount)

Comedy

Continuing Jackie Cooper in the role of "Henry Aldrich," which he established in "What a Life," this picture, title-wise, has been the subject of a contest conducted through a syndicated column. Concerning a boy's efforts to earn $100 so that he may join a group going to Alaska, the story is enacted by Leila Ernst, Eddie Bracken, Kay Stewart, Hedda Hopper, Fred Niblo and Etta McDaniel, in addition to Mr. Cooper.

Ted Reed produced and directed, as he did for "Those Were the Days."

Release date: To be determined.

The Crooked Road

(Republic)

Melodrama

Edmund Lowe, Henry Wilcoxon, Irene Hervey and Paul Fix are seen in this story of an attorney and his best friend, an escaped English convict wrongly accused of a murder.

The original screen play was written by E. E. Paramore, Jr., who collaborated on "Man of Conquest"; Richard Blake, collaborator on "The Devil Is Driving," and Garnett Weston, who participated in the writing of "Opened by Mistake."

Robert North produced, with Phil Rosen directing, as he did on "Forgotten Girls" and "Missing Evidence."

Release date: To be determined.

Land of the Six Guns

(Monogram)

Western

Jack Randall, fourth on the list of those western stars receiving mention in the annual HERALD-FAME poll of box office popularity, is starred in this story of cattle smuggling.

Seen with Mr. Randall are Louise Stanley, Glenn Strange, Bud Osborne, George Chesebro and Steve Clark. Tom Gibson wrote the original screen play.

Harry Webb produced and Raymond K. Johnston directed, as he did "Special Agent K-7."

Release date: To be determined.

Bing and Gloria

In a story of bridge workers who successfully take over the management of a New York restaurant, Universal has teamed the ever-popular Bing Crosby, last seen in "Road to Singapore," with youthful Gloria Jean, whose first screen appearance was in "The Under Pup."

The cast is rounded out by Charles Winninger, El Brendel, Donald Woods, Claire Dodd, and such entertainment names as Blanche Ring, Eddie Leonard, Trixie Friganza and Julian Eltinge.

David Butler was producer-director; he previously had directed, among others, "That's Right, You're Wrong" and the Crosby vehicle "East Side of Heaven." Mr. Butler also collaborated on the original story and screen play, with William Conselman and James V. Kern, who together wrote 'That's Right, You're Wrong."

MPTO Doubtful Of Trade Program; Coast Meet Is Set

Settling of motion picture trade practice problems, by legislation, litigation, or voluntary agreement, may consume much time, and the motion picture exhibitor, meanwhile, should not forget the growing burden of special admission taxes—"a very real and growing threat to our business, which we shall have to face, and which can do more to wreck this business, than anything else"—the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America were warned this week, in the April bulletin's message, written over the signature of their president, Edward Kuykendall, of Columbus, Mississippi.

Mr. Kuykendall treats of other aspects of the industry, in the current bulletin: of the future of pictures; of non-theatrical competition; of opposition to the Neely Bill; and more.

On admission taxes, Mr. Kuykendall warns units to watch legislatures carefully; and that legislative efforts to saddle taxes on the industry, continue despite seeming lulls.

Denies Offering Films for 16 mm.

A letter from Ned E. Depinet, vice-president in charge of sales of RKO, is quoted, denying a charge in the March bulletin that RKO-released pictures generally are being made available for non-theatrical 16mm. use. The letter explains that some 35mm. pictures released by the company have "got into the 16mm. field, because we do not control 16mm. versions of such films," but that "none of RKO Radio Pictures are being offered in 16mm. form in competition with legitimate theatres."

The bulletin notes that opposition to the Neely Bill is increasing, as exhibitors "realize that it is nothing more than a price control law" and that it has a "clever provision to pave the way for local pressure censorship"; also, that the Allied States Association spokesmen assert that the issue is commercial, not moral, yet the advance synopsis required by the bill prescribes accurate descriptions "of anything that resembles vice, crime, or is suggestive of sexual passion."

Referring to the proposals, in the last bulletin, for definite trade practice reforms, in next season's distributor-exhibitor contracts, the bulletin says the distributors should "either do it, or not do it," but that the "merits of these proposals are obvious and undisputed."

The bulletin warns that "this business may be in for some drastic upsets and arbitrary changes that will test its resourcefulness and vitality in the near future" but adds that "there will always be millions who like and want good screen entertainment" and that "the business will go on to even greater achievements." The MPTOA, it remarks, sees a dark immediate future possible; but is also convinced the industry can weather everything.

Coast Program Completed

Program details for the first annual convention of the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners, at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, on May 8th to the 10th, were set this week.

The trustees are to start conferences on May 7th, and conclude them May 11th, after the convention's end. Among the titles of addresses and forums are "Organization Production," "Double Bills," "Legislation," "Advertising Accessories," "Distribution," "MPTOA Viewpoint," "The Government in Our Business," "Your Relations with the Public," and "Clearance and Zoning." There will be a banquet at the Warner plant May 7th; studio tours and a fashion show on May 9th; and a dinner-dance at the Ambassador Hotel, May 10th.

Robert H. ("Bob") Poole is general chairman of the convention committees; Hugh Bruen, Rotus Harvey, L. O. Lukan, and Robert White are co-chairmen.

Ed Kuykendall, MPTOA president, has accepted an invitation to speak, it was said. Colonel H. A. Cole, president of the Allied States Association, has declined an invitation. Others who may speak are Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production for Twentieth Century-Fox; William F. Rodgers, general sales manager of MGM; Herman Wobber, of the same capacity at Fox; Frank Capra, producer.

Two Other Meetings Set

The Theatre Owners of North and South Carolina will hold their annual summer convention at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, from June 9th, through June 11th, H. R. Berry, president, announced last week. The Ocean Forest Hotel will be convention headquarters.

The Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Virginia have selected the Hotel Chamberlain, at Old Point Comfort, in that state, for their annual summer convention, on June 24th. Sydney Gates, of Norfolk, is chairman of arrangements. Graham Barbee, Leo Greenwood, and Leonard Gordon assist him.

Herman M. Levy, executive secretary of Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Connecticut, asserted last week that he was polling state exhibitors in "yes-or-no" questionnaires on their attitudes towards the Neely Bill; and that the survey's results would be printed in the association's bulletin.

Both the organization and the Allied Theatre Owners of Connecticut were to hold separate luncheons this week, in New Haven.

Allied Names 54 to 24 Committees For National Convention in June

Allied States Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors has named 54 members to serve on 24 committees to arrange and conduct its 11th annual national convention, to be held June 19–21, in the Morrison Hotel, Chicago. Jack Kirsch is convention chairman. Other committee chairmen named to date include John Jones, chairman of the entertainment committee; Van Nomikos, chairman of the housing committee, and Duke Hickey, director of publicity, all of Chicago. "One Million, B.C." In Textile Tieup

A merchandise promotion tieup with Hal Roach's "One Million, B. C." has been arranged with large department stores throughout the country. "Cave Girl Prints," inspired by the film, have been designed by the Ameritex Corporation. The fabric is cotton pique which is Sanforized and color fast. Hieroglyphics inscribed on the sides of a cave in "One Million, B. C." were adapted to fabric designs. Silson, Inc., has designed costume jewelry, necklaces and pins to complement the "Cave Girl Prints." "One Million, B. C." is a United Artists release.

ASIDES and INTERLUDES

By JAMES P. CUNNINGHAM

David Selznick, a-visiting New York, and a-cocktailing the other afternoon, was in the middle of one of those "how'd-you-ever-do-it" conversations, when a clubwoman interrupted him, "My deah Mr. Selznick, and how did you ever get that poor little babe—Scarlett O'Hara's baby—to fall from the horse and Scarlett's arms in that dashing riding scene."

There should be no cause for alarm, madam," assured Mr. Selznick, "we used a double."

"But, what is a double, Mr. Selznick?"

"Why, instead of an infant, we used a midget," further assured the producer of "Gone with the Wind."

"I suppose it doesn't do any harm to kill a midget," was the rejoinder.

No Comment Department:

From Moscow comes word that a new shortage is denounced in the Soviet press—a shortage of humor.

The guilty parties are, according to I. Bachelis, who brings the charge in the Izvestia, the Soviet film playwrights, because they are afraid to be funny.

The incitement of Mr. Bachelis' ire is in six new film comedies just released by the Soviet studios. But alas for the laughter-hungry audiences, he comments, all except one of these films are devoid of humor and unoriginal.

"They run from laughter as from a cannon shot," says the critic.

The scenario writers, he remarks, seem afraid to take what is comic and laughable in the life going on around them and, without making excuses for it, display it on the screen.

Loew's Criterion theatre in New York notified the press that, "As a precaution for the safety of the diamond display" being used in its lobby in connection with the showing of Paramount's "Adventure in Diamonds," the management installed a burglar alarm system, warning that the 40x60-inch frame containing the diamonds is so wired that anyone touching any part of the frame, breaks a circuit of electricity, causing a bell to ring. The theatre talks about such stones as the 3,027-carat Cullinan diamond, largest in the world, and of the Tiffany, the Hope, the Orlof, the Koh-i-noor diamonds, and adds the merry little explanation that they are copies

SINCE A-Mike Vogel, vociferous chairman of our Managers Round Table, returned to his desk from a trip to the West and embraced the Chinatown of San Francisco, he has been orating no end on the legends of the ancient Chinese Dynasties, information picked up, we suspect, during a three-minute stop at a Chinatown souvenir shop where he bought a trinket or two for half-a-dollar for the Missus from an Oriental silk-gowned China-girl, fresh from four years at Vassar and plenty streamlined.

Typical is Mike's relation of the legends of the "Eight Immortals of Taoism," Taoism being an old, old Chinese religion founded and mastered by Lao Tze, who already was 50 years old when Confucius was born, but of whose family, birth, death or place of burial virtually nothing is known.

The "Eight Immortals" were legendary Taoist "saints" who were supposed to have risen above all other Taoists in practicing the religion that taught contempt for all riches and worldly power—but who, all eight of them, on the side, secretly indulged in the practice of magic such as would give them the power they affected to despise.

There was Ho Hsien-Ku, for one, who was one of the two female "Immortals," a daughter of a shopkeeper of Lingling, Hunan, and who, after eating of a "supernatural" peach became a Fairy. She wandered alone in the hills living on powdered mother-of-pearl and moonbeams (tasty dish, that), which diet is supposed to have given her that "Immortality." She always carried a Lotus. One day little Ho Hsien-Ku got lost in the woods and was in great danger from a malignant demon, but Lu Tung-Pin arrived in the nick of time, like our United States Marines used to for dear old Hollywood, and saved the little gal with his great big magic sword.

Which brings Mike Vogel up to Lu Tung-Pin, another of the "Eight Immortals," a scholar and a recluse who learnt the secrets of Taoism from Chung-Li Ch'uan. He attained "Immortality" at the young age of 50, after which he was tempted ten times to do one thing or another, Mike just doesn't remember. Each time he overcame temptation with the same magic sword which he used to save little Ho Hsien-Ku. The same sword, (old trusty), so the legend goes, which he brandished for the little calendar matter of 400 years, during which he rid the earth of all evil monsters. By the way, Lu is the patron saint of the barbers.

All of which brings us up to Lu Tung-Pin's sponsor, Chung-Li Ch'uan, "Public Immortal No. 1," after chief Lao Tze. Old Chung is described by Vogel as having lived a mere 973 years and some odd days, back in 1122 B.C. to 249 B.C., during the Chow Dynasty.

Seems that old Chung-Li was an extremely fat man, and, to hear Vogel describe him right down to his robes, he always appeared fully clothed except for a bare stomach. He was funny that way. Chung sported a fan to revive the dead. Just a swish, and, pronto, he got action. His legend includes the thought that he obtained "Secrets of the Elixir of Life" and power of transmutation, which, Mr. Webster tells us, is the changing of one object into another.

Legend No. 4, a la Vogel, about "Immortal" No. 4, concerns Chang Kuo-Lao, a crafty old gent, who, along about the year 600 A.D., rode around on a white mule. When not in use, the mule was folded up and placed in his wallet, or whatever a wallet was called in those days. When this Chang person wanted his mule he merely poured water on the wallet and, presto, the mule appeared again. He also possessed the power of invisibility. His emblem was a bamboo tube drum, carried on either arm, and was used to announce his arrival and to attract a crowd. An old showman at heart, after the heart of the 6,321 showmen members of QP's Managers Round Table.

Last week he chanced upon the forgotten man's name in a trade paper, dropped him a line of greeting, and by return mail received a most cordial reply enclosing a postal money order for $50 "to cover the loan and accumulated interest, and thanks a million." He, too, had forgotten, for 25 years.

WAR PROPAGANDA BY FILM FOUND ROCKY ROAD FOR BRITISH MINISTRY

Shorts Producers Association Foresees Unjust Intrusion; Exhibitors Unwilling to Have to Pay for Cooperating

by AUBREY FLANAGAN
in London

With more than seven months of war passed and the patriotism of the British industry as strong as ever, Government circles here, notably in Britain's Ministry of Information, are moving to the conviction that war propaganda by film is easier said than done. Difficulties, for the most part economic, are making the path of the publicity man less easy than he would like. Even the vexed film Quota is involved.

There is no lack of goodwill on the part of any trade section. Indeed, there is complete readiness to throw full weight into the scales.

A Matter of Reconciliation

A prime difficulty is that of reconciling the will to assist the national effort with the pardonable desire of the producers, distributors and exhibitors for free trading and business survival. This has cropped up most of all in regard to the distribution of the official films sponsored by the Ministry of Information. With the three "National Security" films sponsored by the Ministry and distributed by Metro, the matter was simple. By collaboration of the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association and Kinematograph Renters Society, distribution and exhibition was arranged gratuitously. In regard to other and subsequent films, discontent on the part of producers and suspicion on the part of exhibitors is likely to present a different situation.

Shorts Producers, a limited but vociferous body, is greatly concerned at the sponsorship of propaganda films by the Ministry of Information, foreseeing an economically unjust intrusion into their market. A current proposal to make a nominal charge to the exhibitor for such films, and thus to afford a certain protection to the producer, is likely to be scouted by the exhibitor who is unwilling to pay anything for propaganda, especially propaganda for which he, as a taxpayer, already has footed the bill.

Though no official policy has yet been discussed, it is what is known in racing circles as "a dead cert" that members of the CEA will refuse under any circumstances to pay a penny for films commissioned directly or indirectly by the Ministry of Information.

"Commercials" Neglected

Taking the whole process through its three stages, Shorts Producers is at present, in the main, opposed to the Ministry's policy. Most of the films commissioned by Sir Kenneth Clark have been handed out on contract to members of the documentary group in British shorts production circles, to such organization as Film Centre, Strand Film Company, the Realist Film Unit, etcetera. Members of the "commercial" section—The British Shorts Film Makers Society—have, so to speak, been neglected. Whether relevant or not, it is notable that members of this body, makers of commercial shorts and opposed to a cost test for British quota shorts, are flirting with membership of the other, documentary and cost test group, The Association of Short Film Producers. Both, however, are solid against the marketing policy of the Ministry of Information, claiming that the distribution of propaganda films on a "free and gratis" basis is likely to kill the market.

So it is that while one group is against a cost test for quota shorts, and the other emphatically in favor, though they are as opposed and disunited on general policy as their elder brothers in the feature field, both have agreed on the need for protection of the market. For some time a special shorts committee of the Films Council has been sitting, finding it difficult to unite the conflicting viewpoints of the respective groups. The need for a protected market certainly presented some semblance of unity. The incursion of the Government into the field, with sponsored films contracted out at a price which the average shorts producer would never dare budget for his product, and then passed out for gratuitous distribution and showing on the plea of national emergency, has brought them more solidly together, and given the Films Council something solid to chew.

One suggestion which has found partial support among both groups is that it should be illegal to charge less than 1/100th per cent of the program gross for any individual British short.

Oppose Giving Away Shorts

Producers who make shorts, whether they be propaganda or otherwise, expect an economic return and want them marketed in the usual way. Shorts which are given away, they claim, will kill the market and stifle initiative.

The distributor's role, notably that of the American distributor, has been inspired largely by a sincere desire to be of assistance to the Government in its war effort. Other industry sections do not blame the distributor for any of the dilemmas which have been created. With an idea of protecting to some extent the producers' market, the proposal has been discussed and will very probably be proffered that a nominal and trivial charge be made for any officially sponsored films, theatres paying according to a pre-arranged grading scale. To some extent this would meet with the producers' demands. As already suggested, it is not likely to receive anything from the exhibitor but a cold shoulder.

The exhibitor, while willing to assist Government propaganda, is unwilling to pay for the privilege of doing so.

The Quota Puzzle

The question of whether these films shall count as quota is one which has been raised, but not yet so far answered. Indeed despite repeated catechization the Ministry has made no official comment whether they shall count as quota or not. There is nothing whatever in the Cinematograph Films Act to prevent them being registered as British Quota films, and distributors, whether American or otherwise, would be constitutionally within their rights if they did so. Exhibitors probably would like to count them for Exhibitors Quota, registering them against the American shorts which are in general so saleable to the public. On this no Government fiat has been issued.

Meanwhile the problem arises whether screening gratuitously of non-quota shorts is not going to present difficulties to the exhibitor in using up valuable screen time which might otherwise be employed in meeting quota obligations. On the other hand if they are to count as quota the producers' plight is likely to be worsened considerably.

Pursuing Production Plans

Meanwhile the Ministry, not without considerable press and trade criticism, is pursuing its production plans, sponsoring both directly and indirectly films aimed to assist the British war effort. In their schemes American distributors have been ready assistants. Metro's aid with the security shorts has been duplicated by the acquisition by Columbia of a GPO Unit production, "Squadron 992," for distribution here and in the U. S.

The GPO Film Unit, most tried and trusted production group of its kind, has now been taken over lock, stock and barrel by the Ministry, its budget met entirely by Sir Kenneth Clark's department, which commissions sporadically, though not on a program basis, appropriate films. So far the machinery has found some difficulty in getting into easy motion, in spite of the goodwill created by the Unit over many years of direct and cordial relationship with both press and trade. With closer trade collaboration, and with experience, criticism will probably be countered in the ultimate future.

Cooperating with French

Collaboration with the French Government and people is one of the Film Section's dearest purposes. A complete production unit, with an all French personnel, is working here with the GPO Unit, filming British material for French audience consumption. Films have been made here by the GPO Unit and by Olympic Laboratories— a Paramount News associate— and commentaried in French, and sent to France to tell audiences there of Britain's war activities.

Conversely, French newsreels have been brought here and are being distributed and shown in a limited sphere to British audiences. The collaboration of the British newsreels is likewise being canvassed in regard to French news. Such doings represent probably only a fraction of what it is hoped ultimately to achieve. They do not, fortunately, overstep legitimate trade frontiers, and are not likely to provoke the controversy stirred by the sponsored pictures.

CALLS SOUTH AMERICA A NORMAL MARKET

The belief that revenue losses due to the European war can be recouped through more intensive effort in South America, not only is a "myth" but has brought repercussions in the form of taxation and legislation in many South American localities, Joseph A. McConville, Columbia foreign manager, said Tuesday on his arrival in New York from a two month tour of Central and South America.

"Distribution throughout the Latin American market is well developed," he said. "The only means of increasing the revenue from that market is to provide it with better pictures and more of them. Business can be increased there only by the same means as here at home or anywhere else."

In the meantime, Mr. McConville said, Chile, Peru, Brazil and Argentina have proposed tax legislation designed to curb any unwarranted exploitation by the film industry.

Neely Candidacy Raises Question On Film Bills

by FRANCIS L. BURT in Washington

Possibilities that the pressure for regulatory legislation for the film industry might slacken perceptibly next year were seen in Washington this week in the announcement from West Virginia that Senator Matthew Mansfield Neely, (Dem.) advocate of unit film selling and circuit disintegration, will run for the office of governor of his state, entering the primaries on May 14th.

In the light of this development, interested groups in Washington this week started to survey Congress to determine who may serve as his successor in any future fights championing independent exhibitors against the major film companies.

Mr. Neely, it is said, has been by far the strongest of all members who have led the fight for a block-booking prohibition in the dozen years the legislation has been pending in Congress. He has succeeded in securing passage of the bill by the Senate in two successive sessions, though he has not been able to crash through the resistance of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. Only last week he introduced a second bill (S. 3735) to divorce distribution from exhibition. (Text of this bill appears in adjoining columns.)

Although the Senate has passed the block booking bill twice, and other members strongly supported it during the Senate debate attendant upon its passage, no other Senator in recent years has shown any inclination to take over the leadership and that the bill has been approved is considered here as a tribute to his pertinacity.

In the House of Representatives, only three names were suggested as possible "block booking successors" to Neely. Block booking bills have been introduced repeatedly in past years by Representatives Emanuel Celler and Francis D. Culkin of New York, both of whom participated actively in the consideration of the legislation when it was up. The third possibility is Representative Lyle H. Boren of Oklahoma, who has drafted a comprehensive measure, covering divorce and other phases, which he has not introduced but proposes to offer as an amendment to the Neely bill, should it come before the House.

Representative Andrew Edmiston of West Virginia has sponsored the Neely bill in the lower house but has shown no other evident interest in it.

Whether there will be any determined drive for block booking or divorce legislation next session will depend upon the status of the Government's "key" New York trust suit, Washington believed.

Senator Neely's term as Senator does not expire until 1943. It will not be necessary for him to resign from the Senate to run for governor, and, accordingly, should he be defeated, he would still have his Senate seat. The politically wise, however, say that if he enters the campaign his election is a foregone conclusion and that when he leaves Washington to make his bid for the campaign he will not be returning.

Neely Puts "Teeth" in His Bill to Divorce Circuits from Distribution

The measure introduced last week in Congress by Senator M. M. Neely (Dem., W. Va.), to divorce exhibition from production-distribution, in many respects goes beyond the divorcement demands made by the U. S. Government in its "key" New York anti-trust suit, requiring, for instance, divorcement within 18 months. The new bill is the Senator's second anti-film measure now in Congress, the other providing for the abolition of block booking. Complete text of the divorcement proposal follows:

S. 3735

A BILL

To prohibit producers and distributors of motion-picture films engaged in interstate commerce from owning, controlling, managing, operating, or having any interest in motion-picture theaters in the United States.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the condition which exists in the motion-picture industry whereby certain producers and distributors of motion-picture films (1) produce and distribute in commerce a majority of the quality films available for exhibition, (2) have acquired control of or an interest in a large number of motion-picture theaters, known as "affiliated theaters," and (3) are continuing to acquire additional theaters, is contrary to public policy in that it (a) has resulted in granting to affiliated theaters undue preferences; (b) has caused unfair discrimination against independent theaters with respect to the leasing of films in commerce; (c) has enabled such producers and distributors to acquire a virtual monopoly of the first-run theaters in the principal cities and a virtual monopoly of subsequent-run theaters in certain cities and sections; (d) interferes with the freedom and opportunity of independent exhibitors to select and obtain an adequate supply of quality films for exhibition in their theaters; (e) prevents the people of the several States and the local communities thereof from influencing such selection in the best interests of the public; and (f) tends to create a monopoly in the production, distribution, and exhibition of films in commerce. The Congress finds and declares that the condition herein described and the methods and practices bringing it about and resulting therefrom adversely affect and constitute a burden upon commerce, and it is the purpose of this Act to eliminate such condition by making it unlawful to engage in such practices.

SEC. 2. For the purposes of this Act, unless the context otherwise requires—

(1) The term "motion-picture theater" or "theater" includes any place in which motion pictures are publicly exhibited and to which an admission price is charged.

(2) The term "motion-picture film" or "film" includes all motion-picture films (whether copyrighted or uncopyrighted), including positivies and negatives, and copies or reproductions thereof, which films contain photoplays or other subjects and are produced for public exhibition.

(3) The term "person" includes one or more individuals, partnerships, associations, corporations, legal representatives, trustees, trustees in bankruptcy, or receivers.

(4) The term "producer" includes any person who engages or contracts to engage in the production of motion-picture films for distribution in commerce either directly, or through a controlled or affiliated corporation, or by another person under contract or any other arrangement whatsoever.

(5) The term "distributor" includes any person who engages or contracts to engage in the distribution of motion-picture films in commerce, whether as seller, lessor, or licensor, and whether the distribution is effected by means of sale, lease, license, contract, or any other type of agreement whereby the film is supplied for public exhibition.

(6) The term "commerce" means commerce between any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia and any place outside thereof; or between points within the same State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, but through any place outside thereof; or within any Territory or the District of Columbia.

For the purposes of this Act (but in no wise limiting the definition of commerce) a person shall be considered to be engaged in commerce if he engages in transactions whereby motion-picture films produced in one State are by the producer or a subsidiary or affiliated corporation of such producer shipped to film laboratories and to local exchanges in other States, or are by the producer sold, leased, or licensed at the point of production to a distributor and so shipped to film laboratories or local exchanges in other States, and, in either case, are distributed by the local exchanges in the several States to the motion-picture theaters in various cities and towns throughout the United States, the films moving from the studios to the laboratories and thence to the exchanges, thereafter circulating from the exchanges to and between the various theaters. Persons normally engaged in such commerce, and films normally in the course of such commerce, shall not be considered out of such commerce through resort being had to any means or device intended to remove persons or transactions from the provisions of this Act. For the purpose of this paragraph, the word "State" includes Territory and the District of Columbia.

SEC. 3. It shall be unlawful for any producer or distributor of motion-picture films engaged in commerce to own, control, manage, buy, or book film for, or operate, in whole or in part, any motion-picture theater or theaters located in any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, or to have any interest, direct or indirect, legal or equitable, through stock ownership or otherwise in any such motion-picture theater or theaters.

SEC. 4. Every producer or distributor of motion pictures engaged in commerce shall file with the Attorney General within thirty days after this Act becomes effective, and annually thereafter on or before the 15th day of January, an affidavit stating whether such producer or distributor owns, controls, manages, buys, or books films for, or operates in whole or in part, any motion-picture theater or theaters located in any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, or has any interest, direct or indirect, legal or equitable, through stock ownership or otherwise, in any such motion-picture theater or theaters. If the producer or distributor making any such affidavit has any interest in or connection with any such theater or theaters, he shall state fully the nature and extent of such interest or connection and shall also state the name and location of the theater or theaters in question.

SEC. 5. The district courts of the United States shall have jurisdiction to prevent and restrain violations of this Act; and it shall be the duty of the several district attorneys of the United States, in their respective districts, under the direction of the Attorney General, to institute civil proceedings to prevent and restrain such violations. Such proceedings may be by way of complaint setting forth the case and praying that such violation shall be enjoined or otherwise prohibited. When the parties complained of have been duly notified of such complaint, the court shall proceed, as soon as may be, to the hearing and determination of the case; and pending such complaint, and before final judgment, the court may at any time make such temporary restraining order or prohibition as shall be just in the premises. The power to prevent and restrain violations of this Act shall include the power to order the divestiture of theaters or interests in theaters held in violation of the Act. Whenever it shall appear to the court before which any such proceeding may be pending that the ends of justice require that other parties should be brought before the court, the court may cause them to be summoned whether they reside in the district in which the court is held or not, and subpoenas to that end may be served in any district by the marshal thereof.

SEC. 6. Any person who is a producer or distributor and has any interest in or connection with a theater or theaters in violation of section 3 of this Act, or who fails to file the affidavit as and when required by section 4 of this Act, or who knowingly makes any false statement in such affidavit, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000, or by imprisonment for not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. In the case of a corporation, the violation of this Act shall be deemed to be also that of the individual directors, officers, or agents of such corporation who have authorized, ordered, done, or had knowledge of any of the acts or omissions constituting in whole or in part such violation, and upon conviction thereof any such director, officer, or agent shall be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, as in this section provided.

SEC. 7. If any provision of this Act, or the application thereof to any person or cirmucstances, is held invalid, the remainder of the Act, and the applicability of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

SEC. 8. This Act shall become effective eighteen months after its enactment.

GABRIEL HESS, GENERAL MPPDA ATTORNEY, DIES

Counsel for Paramount, Then Goldwyn Pictures Before Joining Hays Office in 1924

Gabriel L. Hess, general attorney for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, died April 13th at his New York home of coronary thrombosis. Born in New York February 12, 1881, Mr. Hess was considered one of the foremost authorities in the country on the laws governing censorship. He joined the MPPDA in 1924.

Admitted to the bar in 1903, he served as secretary to one of the New York supreme court justices and subsequently became interested in motion picture and theatrical law.

In 1916 Mr. Hess was appointed general counsel for Paramount and three years later he assumed a similar position with the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation. He also had been assistant secretary of Metro-Goldwyn Pictures (photo).

At Copyright Hearings

Mr. Hess appeared before legislative committees investigating plans to censor motion pictures on numerous occasions on behalf of the MPPDA. He also testified in Washington in 1936 before the House Patents Committee, which was considering amending existing copyright laws.

At that time he advocated minimum statutory damages for the violation of copyright laws, saying that the elimination of minimum statutory damages was not in the interest of the consumer and would encourage "pirated" exhibitions, resulting in "unfair competition to honest, licensed users."

"Because of modern inventions such as radio, motion pictures and in the near future, wired radio television," Mr. Hess said, "the thousandfold dissemination of intangible uses of a single copyright requires minimum statutory damages, more so than in 1909, when the present copyright law was written."

In 1933, when the United States Senate subcommittee on crime control held hearings to determine if motion pictures exerted a harmful effect on children, Mr. Hess appeared in defense of the film industry.

Counsel for Copyright Bureau

He also served as counsel for a copyright bureau set up by the industry to prosecute persons and corporations infringing on film copyrights. Mr. Hess drafted all of the uniform standard contracts for the distribution and exhibition of films.

He often was adviser in cases involving charges of violation of the anti-trust laws between the Government and the industry.

Surviving are his wife, the former Linda Watkins, formerly an actress, and their 7-year-old son, Adam Hess, and two children of a previous marriage, Mrs. Elizabeth Hess Wolff, of New York, and Thomas Hess, an undergraduate at Yale University.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Hess home. Only members of his family and close associates attended, including Will H. Hays, president of the MPPDA. Mark G. Holstein, New York attorney and life-long friend of Mr. Hess, spoke the eulogy. Cremation followed the ceremony.

The MPPDA office closed to noon Tuesday.

The meeting of the MPPDA executive committee scheduled for Tuesday has been postponed until next Wednesday.

Vogel Cites Neglect Of Theatre Selling

Disparity in week to week grosses may be traced in part to the neglect of managers to sell the theatre as an institution, A-Mike Vogel, chairman of the Managers' Round Table, MOTION PICTURE HERALD, said last Wednesday at a showmanship forum held by the Staten Island Fabian theatres and conducted by Harry Black, district head. Mr. Vogel pointed out the better values offered by theatres for low priced admission in relation to what the same amounts could purchase in terms of merchandise. He said these advantages should be carried regularly in theatre advertising.

Various methods of picture exploitation were discussed, including stimulation of children's patronage, as explained by Harry Woodin, head of the Yankee Doodler's, a children's national theatre club recently organized for this purpose.

Managers and other home office personnel attending included Edgar Goth, publicity director; George Evans, St. George; John Firnkoess, Paramount; George Trilling, Ritz, Elihu Glass, Liberty; Sid Kaffe, Capitol; Michael Garzetta, Staten; Art Land, Strand; Roy Sherkey, Stadium, and John Salamando, district office secretary.

Universal Exchange Changes

Charles Weil and Irving Shuffman, of the Boston office, have joined Universal's Albany exchange replacing Tony Ryan and George Jeffreys.

Paul E. Krieger, for the past 10 years Universal manager in Cincinnati, has resigned to join the sales staff of the Hennegan Company, lithographing concern of Cincinnati. Peter Rosian, Universal special sales representative in the east, succeeds Mr. Krieger.

Jack Schwartz, Bell Circuit Partner, Dies

Jack Schwartz, partner of Charles Steiner in the operation of the Bell Circuit, New York, died April 10th in that city after a long illness. Survivors include a son, Louis, manager of the Belvedere, Brooklyn. Funeral services were held last Thursday at the Riverside Memorial Chapel with burial at the Mount Zion Cemetery in Maspeth, Long Island.

Mrs. Pat Campbell, Of the Stage, Dead

Mrs. Patrick Campbell, 75, British actress, died at Pau, France, last week. At the beginning of the twentieth century Mrs. Campbell was celebrated equally for her beauty and flashing wit, and for the daring and emotional power of the roles she created in the theatre.

In 1933, after appearing on both the London and New York stage, she went to Hollywood to try motion pictures, but played only in several small parts.

She had been living in virtual retirement since 1936, although she occasionally appeared as a speaker or lecturer in the United States.

Floyd Clark Dies

Floyd L. Clark, 60, owner of the Cozy theatre, Hazen, Ark., died at his home April 7th. He had been in the theatre business in Hazen for 30 years.

Grover Padgett

Grover Padgett, manager of the Rem in Remington, Ind., died April 8th in Rensselaer, Ind., from injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

Ronald Hogan

Ronald T. Hogan, 35, manager of the Capitol in St. Johns, Newfoundland, a unit of the Famous Players circuit, died April 8th after an operation. He had been in charge of the Capitol for five years.

George Bressler

George Bressler, 62, owner of the Liberty, Dayton, Ky., and former operator of the Queen Anne, Cincinnati, and American, at Bellevue, Ky., died at his home April 12th after a long illness.

William Morris

William C. Morris, 66, cartoonist of Grand View, N. Y., died at the Nyack Hospital, Nyack, N. Y., April 11th, from a heart attack. Besides doing special work for magazines, Mr. Morris was an early exponent of animated cartoon work.

William LaFoy

William Lee LaFoy, 50, projectionist at the Rivoli theatre, Greenville, S. C., died April 7th following a week's illness. Mr. LaFoy had worked for the company operating the Rivoli for the last 20 years. He was a charter member of Local 697 of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees.

Max Slott

Max Slott, 37, former Warner district manager and owner of the Park theatre, Chicago, died April 10th.

J. G. Hawks

J. G. Hawks, 65, screen writer, died April 10th in Los Angeles. Mr. Hawks wrote his first scenario in 1911 and was at one time story editor for Samuel Goldwyn and Louis B. Mayer.

Sharf with MGM Law Staff

WHAT THE PICTURE DID FOR ME

Columbia

CAFE HOSTESS: Preston Foster, Ann Dvorak—Douhled this with "Those High Grey Walls." Both are fair but business was below average. Played March 6-7.—Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

HIS GIRL FRIDAY: Cary Grant, Rosalind Russell, Ralph Bellamy—Stars excellent. Story still good. Comments 100 per cent good. Hilariously funny in spots. Top reviewer in city liked it better for entertainment than "G.W.T.W." Held over one week to near capacity. We could use another fast Grant-Russell picture. Running time, 92 minutes. Played Fehruary 22.—March 6.—Lloyd M. Mills, Elgin Theatre, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

MUSIC IN MY HEART: Tony Martin, Rita Hayworth, Edith Fellows—Douhle hilled with "A Chump at Oxford." Business very good. Comments OK. Hayworth all right but could have been improved on. Really no bad comments. Has many selling angles hut just a programmer. Running time, 70 minutes. Played March 21-27.—Lloyd M. Mills, Elgin Theatre, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

THOSE HIGH GREY WALLS: Walter Connolly, Iris Meredith—Doubled this with "Cafe Hostess." Both are fair but business was below average. Running time, 82 minutes. Played March 6-7.—Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

TWO FISTED RANGERS: Charles Starrett, Lorna Gray, Sons of the Pioneers—Another western picture. Just average run western. My patronage always like him. Running time, 60 minutes. Played March 22-23.—C. O. Kintz, Kickapoo Theatre, Gays Mills, Wis. Small town patronage.

WESTERN CARAVANS: Charles Starrett, Iris Meredith, Sons of the Pioneers—Douhle billed this with "Heaven with a Barbed Wire Fence" and it seemed that my theatre was blocked with a barbed wire fence. They stayed home. Played March 11-12. —Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

First National

CASTLE ON THE HUDSON: John Garfield, Ann Sheridan, Pat O'Brien, Burgess Meredith—A good picture with a splendid cast. John Garfield is well liked hy our patrons. Running time, 77 minutes. Played March 28-30.—A. C. Stock, Iroquois Theatre, Petrolia, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

CASTLE ON THE HUDSON: John Garfield, Ann Sheridan, Pat O'Brien, Burgess Meredith—Good prison story but we have had too many of this kind. Played March 17-18.—H. L. Capers, New Deal Theatre, Gorman, Texas. Rural patronage.

DARK VICTORY: Bette Davis, George Brent, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Humphrey Bogart—They went for this one here. A picture that will appeal to all classes. It's not too arty for the boys who want to hring their girls and at the same time contains sentiments that will command the full praise and attention of your bookworm customers. Will please all. Running time, 105 minutes. Played March 27-28.—Simon Galitzki, Coed Theatre, Topeka, Kansas. General patronage.

DR. EHRLICH'S MAGIC BULLET: Edward G. Robinson, Ruth Gordon, Otto Kruger—Good picture but poor business. Too long, dull and technical for small town audience. Many walkouts. Doctors and nurses will like it. Running time, 100 minutes. Played April 7-8.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

FOUR WIVES: Lane Sisters, Gale Page, Jeffrey Lynn, Claude Rains, May Robson, Frank McHugh, Dick Foran—A very entertaining feature but did not do as good as "Four Daughters" at the box office. Running time, 110 minutes. Played March 25-27.—A. C. Stock, Iroquois Theatre, Petrolia, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

FOUR WIVES: Lane Sisters, Gale Page, Claude Rains, Jeffrey Lynn, May Robson, Frank McHugh, Dick Foran, Eddie Albert—Played this on percentage. Picture OK but gross receipts were not. Running time, 99 minutes. Played March 29-30.—Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

RETURN OF DR. X, THE: Wayne Morris, Humphrey Bogart, Rosemary Lane—A good program show. Played to larger crowd second night. Many told me they liked the show. Running time, 62 minutes. Played March 27-28.—C. O. Kintz, Kickapoo Theatre, Gays Mills, Wis. Small town patronage.

THREE CHEERS FOR THE IRISH: Priscilla Lane, Dennis Morgan, Thomas Mitchell—Good comedy which for some unknown reason failed to draw. Pleased all who saw it. Running time, 100 minutes. Played March 31-April 1.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

THREE CHEERS FOR THE IRISH: Priscilla Lane, Dennis Morgan, Thomas Mitchell—This is a good program picture with a few laughs and will hold interest. We expected more due to its length hut our weekend patrons enjoyed it in spite of the Irish brogue that was so thick you could cut it with a knife. Fair picture and fair business. Running time, 90 minutes. Played March 17-18.—Mrs. W. A. Wight, Rex Theatre, Konawa, Okla. Rural and small town patronage.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

BABES IN ARMS: Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland, Charles Winninger, Guy Kibbee—Rooney has done it again. This picture presented a series of many clever musical numhers and novel interpretations. The film was well balanced and every dramatic sequence fitted nicely. I wonder why all Republicans especially enjoyed the burlesque musical ending? Some other ending might have provided more popular appeal, although what they did do was very clever. Patrons will go for this in a big way. Play it. Running time, 97 minutes. Played March 24-26.—Simon Galitzki, Coed Theatre, Topeka, Kansas. General patronage.

BALALAIKA: Nelson Eddy, Ilona Massey, Charles Ruggles, Frank Morgan.—This picture surprised me. It did OK. Was afraid of it due to the type of picture, hut the gross counts. Running time, 102 minutes. Played March 25-26.—Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

BOYS TOWN: Spencer Tracy, Mickey Rooney, Bobs Watson—Played this one about 18 months ago and brought it hack for a repeat run. Pleased average crowd. It is still one of the best pictures ever made. Played April 3-4.—N. E. Frank, Wayland Theatre, Wayland, Mich. Small town patronage.

CITADEL, THE: Robert Donat, Rosalind Russell—Robert Donat is up to his usual par of excellence and does a great job of acting in this feature. Rosalind Russell is well cast, too. The picture is entertainment through and through and there is no cause to get worried over this feature. Running time, 112 minutes. Played April 3-5.—W. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General patronage.

EARL OF CHICAGO: Robert Montgomery, Edward Arnold—I lost my shirt on this one. If you must play it, double it. Running time, 87 minutes. Played March 4-5.—Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD
Rockefeller Center, New York

I TAKE THIS WOMAN: Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr—This picture is not up to Spencer Tracy standard. But will pass. Will please the ladies. Running time, 97 minutes. Played April 5-6.—Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

LET FREEDOM RING: Nelson Eddy, Virginia Bruce, Victor McLaglen, Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold, Guy Kibbee—Nelson Eddy has yet to get business for us. Musicals, outside of Bing Crosby, do not do extra business. We played this on a weekend to our regrets. We're glad to see A. C. Stock's remarks, as he is one of our outstanding showmen and knows what it's all about.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

LUCKY NIGHT: Robert Taylor, Myrna Loy—A Robert Taylor picture that will make you stop and think to understand it. Quite a change in pace for Taylor-Loy acting, and think it missed original expectation of producers. However, it winds up in good shape to keep you satisfied. Running time, 87 minutes. Played March 27-29.—W. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General patronage.

MARX BROTHERS "AT THE CIRCUS": Marx Brothers, Kenny Baker, Florence Rice, Eve Arden, Nat Pendleton—About 99 per cent of our population enjoyed the 85 minutes they spent with the Marx Brothers. Kenny Baker, Florence Rice, Eve Arden, et al., which proves that we made no mistake when we selected this one. Of course, the picture has its weak points, but what picture doesn't? While the comedy provided by the trio is typical of past performances, they do, nevertheless, give the audience a good laugh and that is something we can all stand these days. The scene which brought forth the greatest amount of laughter here was the one which revealed the trained seal "kibitzing" on the checker game. The singing of the "Lydia That Encyclopedia" hy Groucho Marx was also well received. As for the rest of the cast, Kenny Baker (he is pathetic as an actor) should have been permitted to sing more often. Florence Rice, who is exceptionally nice looking and handled her part well, appears to have a future. Eve Arden and Nat Pendleton were good, as usual, and the midget contributed his share in such fine fashion as to impress our audience to the extent they were obliged to remark about him. His facial expressions were exceptionally good. All in all it is a picture with a lot of fun, especially if you like the Marx Brothers. Personally, I do not, but I must confess that I did not waste any time by sitting through this one. Running time. 85 minutes. Played March 30.—J. A. Reynolds, Director of Education and Recreation, Prison Theatre, New Jersey State Prison, Trenton, N. J. Prison patronage.

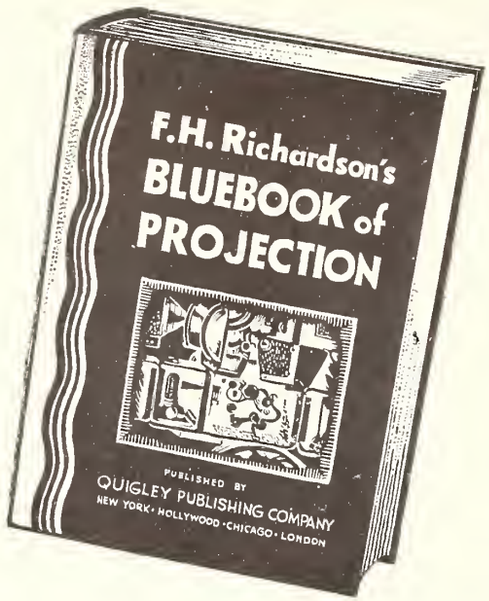
NORTHWEST PASSAGE: Spencer Tracy, Robert Young, Walter Brennan—No lengthy explanation of the merits of this one are needed. It is entertainment plus and will do husiness anywhere, any time. Give it your best time and it will speak for itself. Running time. 123 minutes. Played March 20-22.—Mrs. W. A. Wight, Rex Theatre, Konawa, Okla. Rural and small town patronage.



STRANGE CARGO: Clark Gable, Joan Crawford, Ian Hunter, Peter Lorre—This picture is so different than anything we have ever run or even expected to run, it is difficult to describe it. It has a certain moral power that will please the patrons and leave them entirely satisfied. From the box office angle we took the worst flop we have had in ages. We never made film rental the first night and the second night was worse. After Clark Gable's success in "Gone With the Wind," we expected to do some business hut the whole thing was a sad experience. Played March 28-29.—Mrs. W. A. Wight, Rex Theatre, Konawa, Okla. Rural and small town patronage.

THREE LOVES HAS NANCY: Janet Gaynor, Robert Montgomery, Franchot Tone—"Nancy" needs more than three loves; she had mighty few in the show. Business poor.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

WITHIN THE LAW: Ruth Hussey, Paul Kelly—Another "Crime Doesn't Pay" sold as a feature. Only a programmer. Suitable for a double hilling.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

Put Richardson to work for you!

■ The name of F. H. Richardson is synonymous with good projection and sound reproduction everywhere. His Bluebook of Projection has always been unanimously accepted as the most practical and authoritative treatise of its kind. Recently he completed the second revision of the sixth edition of his book, bringing it right up to the minute in keeping with the most advanced developments in sound reproduction and projection.

Running to more than 700 pages, it is now supplemented with detailed trouble-shooting charts that enable the projectionist to spot and repair sudden breakdowns. Every theatreman who has been faced with the calamity of sudden projection trouble will testify to the inestimable value of this new department. Many important changes have also been made throughout the text, and an alphabetical index system has been installed that reveals the information you seek with no more than the twirl of a thumb.

Put Richardson to work for you now—24 hours every day, by securing the newly revised Bluebook at once.

YOUNG TOM EDISON: Mickey Rooney, Fay Bainter, George Bancroft, Virginia Weidler—Best picture Mickey has ever made. Well received to above average business. Played March 28-29.—H. L. Capers, New Deal Theatre, Gorman, Texas. Rural patronage.

Monogram

CHASING TROUBLE: Frankie Darro, Marjorie Reynolds—Very good action picture. Running time, 64 minutes. Played March 10.—Ed Frenkel, Century Theatre, Mobile, Ala. General patronage.

MUTINY IN THE BIG HOUSE: Charles Bickford, Barton MacLane—Excellent prison picture. Good as any major production. Pleased everybody and played to above average business. Running time, 83 minutes. Played February 4-5.—Ed Frenkel, Century Theatre, Mobile, Ala. General patronage.

MYSTERY OF MR. WONG, THE: Boris Karloff, Dorothy Tree—Played this second run. Did fair business. Why not put Karloff in horror pictures and give the public what they want. Running time, 67 minutes. Played March 13.—Ed Frenkel, Century Theatre, Mobile, Ala. General patronage.

Paramount

FARMER'S DAUGHTER: Martha Raye, Charles Ruggles—Salvaged this one by double billing with "Knights of the Range." Personally I enjoyed the picture and got a laugh out of it, but I can refer you to a hundred people who think I'm nuts. I don't know why it didn't mean more to us than it did. Business was swell due to the companion feature and personal appearance of Russell Hayden and Harry Sherman. Running time, 61 minutes. Played March 30-April 1.—W. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General patronage.

KNIGHTS OF THE RANGE: Russell Haydon, Jean Parker—Turned in a mighty swell weekend business. The only thing you can compare one of Harry Sherman's pictures with is another Harry Sherman picture, because they are in a class all by themselves for consistent goodness. This Zane Grey compares equally with "Heritage of the Desert" for beautiful background work, excellent casting, fine photography and all-round excellence in picture making. Running time, 70 minutes. Played March 30-April 2.—W. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General patronage.

LIGHT THAT FAILED, THE: Ronald Colman, Ida Lupino, Walter Huston, Muriel Angelus—Fair picture; fair business. Picture was not liked; those who saw it said it was too slow. Running time, 97 minutes. Played April 2.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

LIGHT THAT FAILED, THE: Ronald Colman, Walter Huston, Ida Lupino, Muriel Angelus—Probably the least spectacular of the Kipling series of stories about the Sudan, the British Army, etc., but probably deeper than any of his previous works. Colman, Huston and Lupino couldn't have been better, but think that the story could have had a lot more action in it in view of "Gunga Din," "Wee Willie Winkie," "Captains Courageous"—all previous Kipling stories to be filmed. Business good 'cause we sold it. Running time, 99 minutes. Played April 6-9.—W. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General patronage.

LIGHT THAT FAILED, THE: Ronald Colman, Walter Huston, Ida Lupino, Muriel Angelus—I think the average small town will find this picture a little "shakey" from the box office angle, partly because of its English setting and cast and partly because Ronald Colman goes blind. The story, adapted to the screen, has kept the true Kipling flavor and everyone in the cast gives a notable performance, particularly Ida Lupino, whose performance as the girl of the streets is nothing short of sensational, and she steals the show even from such old veterans as Ronald Colman and Walter Huston. The picture is grim, pathetic and even morbid in parts. There are no amusing sequences to lift it out of depression. It is long and drawn out with conversation and very little real action to pep up interest. We played this on Sunday and Monday with business only average and the customers were just lukewarm about it. Running time, 99 minutes. Played February 18-19.—Mrs. W. A. Wight, Rex Theatre, Konawa, Okla. Rural and small town patronage.

LIGHT THAT FAILED, THE: Ronald Colman, Ida Lupino, Walter Huston, Muriel Angelus—Played Sunday and Monday to small crowd. Rather draggy at arst, but pepped up toward the end. Customers liked the show. Running time, 99 minutes. Played March 24-25.—C. O. Kintz, Kickapoo Theatre, Gays Mills, Wis. Small town patronage.

RANGE WAR: William Boyd, Russell Hayden—Good picture; good business. Running time, 67 minutes. Played April 5-6.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

REMEMBER THE NIGHT: Barbara Stanwyck, Fred MacMurray, Beulah Bondi, Elizabeth Patterson—I believe it is the first time for these two to be starred together, but I hope it is not the last time. Very good acting. Good story. Lots of laughs. Small town atmosphere and a real moral to the story. Running time, 90 minutes. Played March 31-April 1.—C. O. Kintz, Kickapoo Theatre, Gays Mills, Wis. Small town patronage.

SEVENTEEN: Jackie Cooper, Betty Field—A good midweek show. Pleased the school kids and adults alike. Running time, 74 minutes. Played April 3-4.—C. O. Kintz, Kickapoo Theatre, Gays Mills, Wis. Small town patronage.

Republic

JEEPERS CREEPERS: Weaver Brothers and Elviry, Roy Rogers—The kind of weekend show for my farm patronage. They were well pleased and I was well pleased at the box office. Running time, 69 minutes. Played April 5-6.—C. O. Kintz, Kickapoo Theatre, Gays Mills, Wis. Small town patronage.

VILLAGE BARN DANCE: Richard Cromwell, Doris Day, Lulu Belle and Scotty—Largest Friday and Saturday business in over a year and the picture really pleases. Played March 29-30.—N. E. Frank, Wayland Theatre, Wayland, Mich. Small town patronage.

RKO Radio

HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME, THE: Charles Laughton, Basil Rathbone, Maureen O'Hara, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Thomas Mitchell, Walter Hampden—The men liked the show and the women didn't. Good patronage because of name. Running time, 115 minutes. Played March 29-30.—C. O. Kintz, Kickapoo Theatre, Gays Mills, Wis. Small town patronage.

STORY OF VERNON AND IRENE CASTLE, THE: Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Edna May Oliver, Walter Brennan—While the picture was thoroughly enjoyed by a large majority of our audience, all who saw it were unanimous in the opinion that something was lacking. Members of our population who were born early enough were certainly glad to hear many of the old numbers and to see Fred and Ginger revive such dances as the Castle Walk, Maxixe and the one step, dances which are entirely different in type than those which we usually associate with this outstanding dancing team. If your patrons like biographies, a taste of the old burlesque, old numbers and old dances or Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Edna May Oliver and Walter Brennan, they will spend a pleasant 93 minutes seeing "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle." Running time, 93 minutes. Played April 6.—J. A. Reynolds, Director of Education and Recreation, Prison Theatre, New Jersey State Prison, Trenton, N. J. Prison patronage.

THAT'S RIGHT, YOU'RE WRONG: Kay Kyser and His Orchestra, Adolphe Menjou, May Robson, Edward Everett Horton, Lucille Ball—A picture which would please the Kyser fans, but not a picture that has very great appeal. Although it did not do very good business here, mostly due to weather conditions, all who saw it were well satisfied. Running time, 93 minutes. Played March 1-2.—John E. Moore, Star Theatre, Coronation, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

Twentieth Century-Fox

BLUE BIRD: Shirley Temple, Spring Byington—Good picture; small business. This little fairy tale is okay for the kiddies, but the adults won't go for it in a small town. Shirley is about through. Running time, 83 minutes. Played April 3-4.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

CISCO KID AND THE LADY: Cesar Romero, Marjorie Weaver—As good as the previous Cisco Kid pictures. Running time, 74 minutes. Played March 28-30.—A. C. Stock, Iroquois Theatre, Petrolia, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

CISCO KID AND THE LADY: Cesar Romero, Marjorie Weaver—A swell action picture. Did very good. It will please all. Running time, 73 minutes. Played March 15-16.—Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

CITY IN DARKNESS: Sidney Toler, Lynn Bari—A rather mixed up show which does not come up to the standard of the usual Chan pictures, but one that seemed to please, possibly because of the extreme timeliness. Running time, 74 minutes. Played February 26-27.—John E. Moore, Star Theatre, Coronation, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

HEAVEN WITH A BARBED WIRE FENCE: Jean Rogers, Glenn Ford—Double billed this with "Western Caravans" and it seemed that my theatre was blocked with a barbed wire fence. They stayed home. Running time, 62 minutes. Played March 11-12.—Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

HOLLYWOOD CAVALCADE: Alice Faye, Don Ameche, Stuart Erwin, Buster Keaton—When they spend this much money on a picture, why don't they exert a little more effort and make a good picture out of it? Color was fine. Ameche seemed superficial and Faye was not up to par. The old slapstick revival brought out a lot of laughs. It's a good idea to use them at times, however crude. Some thought they would like to see the acting they mention and not just a report of it. The audience was led to believe they were going to see something, and when they didn't get it they were disappointed. Another reel properly directed would have saved this picture. Running time, 96 minutes. Played March 29-30.—Simon Galitzki, Coed Theatre, Topeka, Kan. General patronage.

SWANEE RIVER: Don Ameche, Andrea Leeds, Al Jolson—A swell picture if there ever was one. It will please all and make money for you. Business good. Running time, 86 minutes. Played March 8-9.—Louis Perretta, Crescent Theatre, Mahoningtown, Pa. General patronage.

United Artists

CHUMP AT OXFORD, A: Laurel and Hardy—Double billed with "Music in My Heart." Business very good. Played March 21-27.—Lloyd M. Mills, Elgin Theatre, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

FOUR FEATHERS: John Clements, June Duprez, Ralph Richardson, C. Aubrey Smith—An excellent picture and one that you should not be afraid to go back and pick up. Many patrons came back the second time to see this picture. The scenes are very authentic and gripping. Running time, 119 minutes. Played 8-9.—John E. Moore, Star Theatre, Coronation, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

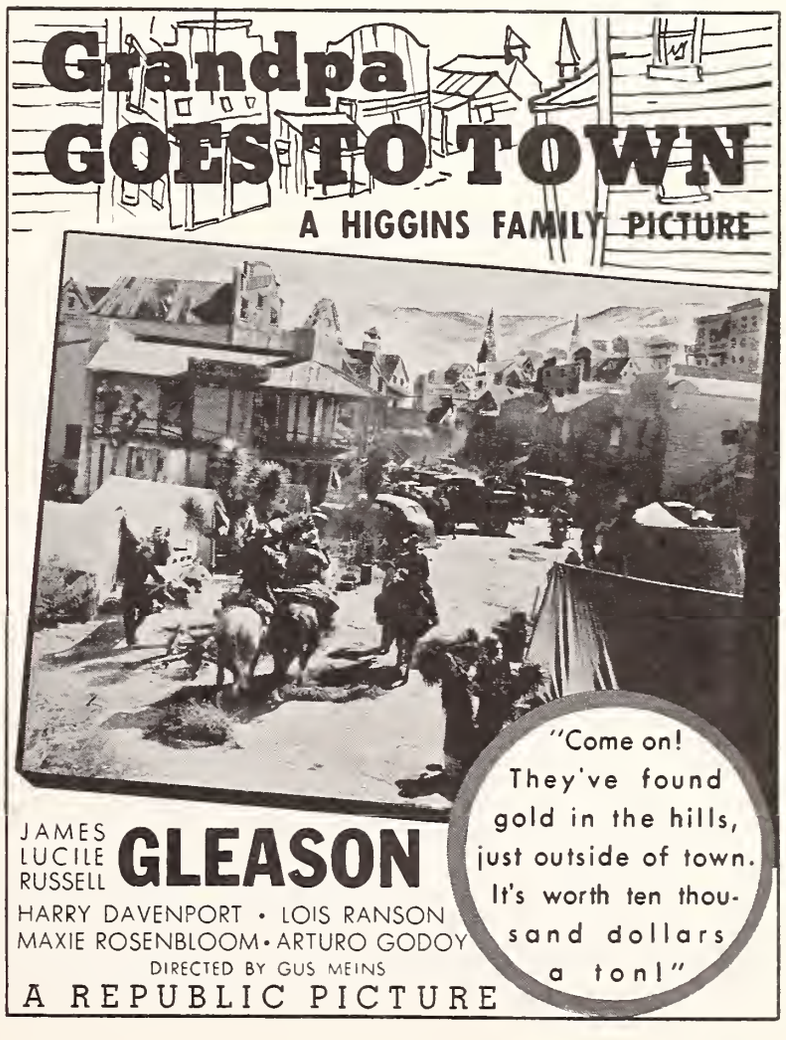
MAN IN THE IRON MASK: Louis Hayward, Joan Bennett, Warren William, Joseph Schildkraut, Alan Hale—Another old picture which I was a little afraid of owing to the heavy sounding title and theme, but it turned out to be one of the best pictures we have played. At times the horror scenes had the juveniles a little scared, but the adults went for it in a big way. Running time, 112 minutes. Played March 15-16.—John E. Moore, Star Theatre, Coronation, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

OF MICE AND MEN: Burgess Meredith, Lon Chaney, Jr., Betty Field—Outstanding in its class. General approval. Younger set indifferent. Business better than average. Three stars excellent. Now-and-then type, a critic's delight. Running time, 106 minutes. Played January 29-February 6.—Lloyd M. Mills, Elgin Theatre, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

OVER THE MOON: Merle Oberon, Rex Harrison—Business fair. Holy Week. Women liked the fashions. Color helped a lot. Darn good travelogue. Not sorry we played it on double bill. Photography excellent. Some poor comments from men. Women liked Harrison. Running time, 78 minutes. Played March 14-20.—Lloyd M. Mills, Elgin Theatre, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

RAFFLES: David Niven, Olivia de Havilland—Niven takes a very good part and this is good entertainment for a double bill program, but will not stand alone. Running time, seven reels. Played March 28.—A. L. Dove, Bengough Theatre, Bengough, Saskatchewan, Canada. Rural and small town patronage.

RAFFLES: David Niven, Olivia de Havilland—Not a big picture, but they liked it. Pity David Niven is leaving, just started to be a name. Women liked it. Business good. Held over three days. Not the same "Raffles" as in the past. Running time, 72 minutes. Played February 12-21.—Lloyd M. Mills, Elgin Theatre, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.



REBECCA: Laurence Olivier, Joan Fontaine, George Sanders, Judith Anderson—Boy, oh, boy, are they eating it up. Grossed first week 15 per cent better than "Hurricane," setting a new house record. Still capacity business on third week. Many more expected. Comments very good. Used references to "G. W. T. W." and sold out in advance, raised priced preview as stunt, three days in advance of opening. Will take more, Mr. Selznick, when available. Running time, 132 minutes. Played March 28—still running (third week). Lloyd M. Mills, Elgin Theatre, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

SLIGHTLY HONORABLE: Pat O'Brien, Edward Arnold, Broderick Crawford, Ruth Terry—Played in Lent. Business just fair. Didn't lose money. Miscast. It did keep them guessing, though. Comments fair to poor. Double billed it. O'Brien and Arnold washed up here and Crawford means nothing. Running time, 83 minutes. Played March 7-13.—Lloyd M. Mills, Elgin Theatre, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

Cummings, Constance Moore—The picture would be classed as just an ordinary programmer, but it has considerable drawing power. Can't understand why they select this type of story for "Charlie." They make too many crime stories now without wasting Edgar Bergen and "Charlie" in them. Played March 31-April 2.—N. E. Frank, Wayland Theatre, Wayland, Mich. Small town patronage.

DESPERATE TRAILS: John Mack Brown, Bob Baker, Fuzzy Knight—Fair western. This should be a good team with good box-office draw with a few more pictures. Running time, 62 minutes. Played March 30.—H. L. Capers, New Deal Theatre, Gormon, Texas. Rural patronage.

DESTRY RIDES AGAIN: Marlene Dietrich, James Stewart, Charles Winninger, Mischa Auer, Brian Donlevy, Una Merkel, Samuel S. Hinds—A picture that deserves the best time you can give it. Just an overgrown western, but it certainly brought them out, so that is what the people want. We played it the best days of the week and have had extra results. They gave Dietrich and Stewart top billing, but Mr. Samuel Hinds as the mayor of Bottleneck was the whole show. He steals any picture he is in, but this one was grand larceny. Plug it a little and it will more than pay for the extra advertising. Just a swell show so far as box office is concerned. Running time, 94 minutes. —A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

ENEMY AGENT: Helen Vinson, Richard Cromwell—Average "B" entertainment with not enough unusualness to make an impression. Running time, 65 minutes. Played April 3-5.—W. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General patronage.

Warner Brothers

CALLING PHILO VANCE: James Stephenson, Margot Stevenson—A picture that we played on a weekend with very poor results. This is a good melodrama but no draw. Would suggest cancelling, if possible. Running time, 61 minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

DODGE CITY: Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Ann Sheridan, Bruce Cabot, Alan Hale, Frank McHugh, Victor Jory—Another old picture which leaves nothing to be desired. From every angle, even the box office, this picture is tops and worthwhile picking up, if you have not played it. My only wish is that I had more old pictures like this I could pick up, as Vitagraph has certainly not offered a picture like this, at least not to me, in this year's group. Running time, 104 minutes. Played March 4-5—John E. Moore, Star Theatre, Coronation, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

INVISIBLE STRIPES: George Raft, Humphrey Bogart, Jane Bryan, William Holden—A typical Raft picture, gruesome and heavy, but still an excellent offering for those who like Raft. Box office not so hot. Warners have too many of this type picture this season. We played it midweek with just fair results. Running time, 80 minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

PRIVATE LIVES OF ELIZABETH AND ESSEX, THE: Bette Davis, Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland—This one fooled us. Wasn't so dry as we expected. The color was marvelous and the acting of Davis terrific. The box office showed nothing extra, but those who saw it think it deserves a cup. Played February 2-3.—Life Theatre, Woodsfield, Ohio. Small town and farming patronage.

VIRGINIA CITY: Errol Flynn, Miriam Hopkins, Randolph Scott, Humphrey Bogart, Alan Hale—This is a loud and lusty overgrown western that drags you through two hours of hard riding and gun fire. We ran it on Sunday and Monday to below average business, considering the fact that it has star power. It is allocated too high for small towns to realize any profit and is not as good as the producers say it is. In spite of the fact that it is one of the big pictures, it is still in the western class and much too long, at that. Everyone in the cast turns in fine performance and the story is above average, but I couldn't keep from thinking it was Saturday in spite of the fact we ran it on Sunday. It will please your Saturday western fans, but the more dignified patrons will think you got your days mixed up. Running time, 120 minutes. Played March 24-25.—Mrs. W. A. Wight, Rex Theatre, Konawa, Okla. Rural and small town patronage.

Miscellaneous

LADY VANISHES, THE: (G. B.) Margaret Lockwood, Michael Redgrave, Dame May Whitty—To my opinion one of the finest pictures to come from an English studio. The patrons, however, thought otherwise and refused to turn out to see it, and the picture turned out to be the worst picture we have ever played from the money standpoint, and, after all, that is what counts. Running time, 94 minutes. Played February 23-24.—John E. Moore, Star Theatre, Coronation, Alberta, Canada. General patronage.

Short Features

Columbia

FLYING TARGETS: Sport Thrills—A short on bird shooting that will go over with a bang if you are in any part of the country that has some shooting of migratory birds. Otherwise, skip it. Running time, eight minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

THERE GOES RUSTY: Sport Thrills—Substituted for "Bows and Arrows" and a very good substitute it was. Shows the care given those speed demons of the small tracks, the racing dogs. Very interesting and educational. Running time, nine minutes.—J. A. Reynolds, Director of Education and Recreation. Prison Theatre, New Jersey State Prison, Trenton, N. J. Prison patronage.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

ALADDIN'S LANTERN: Our Gang—A good Our Gang comedy with lots of laughs. Running time, 10 minutes.—A. C. Stock, Iroquois Theatre, Petrolia, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

CAPTAIN SPANKY'S SHOWBOAT: Our Gang—Very good comedy. MGM's shorts are always good and this is no exception. Running time, nine minutes. —A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

CLOWN PRINCESS: Our Gang—Audience reacted to this one very enthusiastically.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

FORGOTTEN VICTORY: Passing Parade, No. 11—This man Carleton happened to be from our county here in my neck of the woods. Has relatives living here yet. These Metro shorts are remarkably good.—Life Theatre, Woodsfield, Ohio. Small town and farming patronage.

GLIMPSES OF AUSTRALIA: FitzPatrick Traveltalks—Wonderful. Play it.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

HAPPILY BURIED: Musical Comedies—We cannot think that Metro could make such a poor musical.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

KNOW YOUR MONEY: Crime Doesn't Pay Series —Good two-reeler on counterfeit money. Running time, 20 minutes.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

NIGHT DESCENDS ON TREASURE ISLAND: FitzPatrick Traveltalks—Good one-recler in color; shows scenes at night at Treasure Island at San Francisco World's Fair. Running time, 10 minutes.— E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

STORY OF ALFRED NOBEL: Passing Parade, No. 3—Instructive, interesting and well produced.— Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

SKI BIRDS: Pete Smith Specialties—This is the best of the ski shorts. Some wonderful shots interspersed with Pete Smith comedy.—N. E. Frank, Wayland Theatre, Wayland, Mich. Small town patronage.

THINK FIRST: Crime Doesn't Pay Series—Very good. Proud to play these subjects. Credit to any producer.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

WHAT'S YOUR I. Q.?: Pete Smith Specialties—As usual Metro brought out something that is entirely new and caused quite a lot of favorable comment. If you need something outstanding on your program, use this. Running time, eight minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

RKO Radio

MARCH OF TIME, NO. 2: Battle Fleets of England—All these exceptional reels. This one very good. All Canadian theatres should play them. Running time, 20 minutes.—A. L. Dove, Bengough Theatre, Bengough, Saskatchewan, Canada. Rural and small town patronage.

WORLD OF TOMORROW: Reelisms—Since the persons who comprise our audience are not permitted to attend the New York World's Fair, we have done the next best thing, brought the fair to them. This short shows many of the highlights of the Fair, but proved disappointing when no color shots of the water display were unfolded before our eyes. Running time, 10 minutes.—J. A. Reynolds, Director of Education and Recreation, Prison Theatre, New Jersey State Prison, Trenton, N. J. Prison patronage.

WRONG ROOM, THE: Leon Errol Comedies—When "Rubber-Legs" Errol isn't good for a genuine laugh, let me know. This one would even make "Ned" Sparks break down and show his dimples, according to our audience. Running time, 19 minutes.—J. A. Reynolds, Director of Education and Recreation, Prison Theatre, New Jersey State Prison, Trenton, N. J. Prison patronage.

Paramount

FRANKIE MASTERS AND HIS ORCHESTRA: Headliners—Good one-reel musical act. Running time, 10 minutes.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

SHAKESPEAREAN SPINACH: Popeye the Sailor —An average Popeye cartoon. Running time, seven minutes.—A. C. Stock, Iroquois Theatre, Petrolia, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

Twentieth Century-Fox

HARE AND THE HOUNDS: Terry-Toons—Good black and white cartoon. The bunnies pleased the kids. Running time, seven minutes.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

HARVEST TIME: Terry-Toons—Good cartoon in color. Watch for the grasshopper who plays the violin. Running time, seven minutes.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

Universal

CAFE BOHEME: Ray Smeck and Islanders—A divided audience on this one. Some said "good"; others "terrible." Of course, all agreed that the hula dancer was okay. Personally, I enjoyed the dance routine which was put on by the two young female tap dancers. Despite their apparent excess avoirdupois, when one considers the average dancer these young ladies could really step. Running time, 17 minutes.—J. A. Reynolds, Director of Recreation and Education, Prison Theatre, New Jersey State Prison, Trenton, N. J. Prison patronage.

GOING PLACES, No. 67—Here is a good travel in darkest Africa. Extra good and educational. Running time, eight minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Inc. Small town patronage.

Vitaphone

ALEX IN WONDERLAND: Broadway Brevities—An excellent comedy for the kids on a weekend. Running time, 17 minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

EARLY WORM GETS THE BIRD: Merrie Melodies—A very good color cartoon. Running time, seven minutes.—A. C. Stock, Iroquois Theatre, Petrolia, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

MIGHTY HUNTERS: Merrie Melodies—A new series has started and must be praised to the skies. Just about tops in any studio. Running time, seven minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

NEW HORIZONS: Color Parade—Here is something that Vitaphone injected into a mediocre series that is excellent. They finally made a travel talk on Alaska that is something good. Just a good short. Running time, nine minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

PORKY'S LAST STAND: Looney Tunes—A fair black-and-white cartoon. Just fair. Running time, five minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

RUBINOFF AND HIS ORCHESTRA: Melody Masters—A very good single reel. Running time, 10 minutes.—A. C. Stock, Iroquois Theatre, Petrolia, Ontario, Canada. Small town patronage.

MGM Film Tuned To Cantor Fete

A "welcome home" celebration for Eddie Cantor was held Wednesday in New York's East Side with a reception and parade and the premiere of Cantor's new picture, "Forty Little Mothers" at Loew's Canal theatre. The film was produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The festivities included a luncheon at the Broadway Mansion given by the East Side Chamber of Commerce after which Cantor was greeted by 40 "little mothers" of the East Side, girls from 12 to 16 years of age whose task it is to take care of the younger children while their parents are at work.

Later a general reception was held for East Side school children at the athletic field of Roosevelt Park. A parade followed in which various organizations from the district marched from Madison and Pearl Streets to the Canal theatre.

The proceeds from the premiere will be donated by Loew's to the following settlement houses: The Madonna House, the Educational Alliance, the Yeshiva, the University Settlement, the Henry Street Settlement House, the Madison Settlement, the Jacob A. Riis House, the Hamilton House, and the Grand Street Settlement House.

Disney Asks Dismissal Of Voice Action

Walt Disney Productions and RCA Manufacturing Company have applied to the New York supreme court for an order dismissing the $200,000 damage suit of Adriana Caselotti, charging failure to state a meritorious case. The plaintiff contends that the defendants, unauthorized, sold records of her voice which was used for "Snow White" in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Paramount Sues Ameche

Paramount has filed suit in Los Angeles against Don Ameche for damages in the sum of approximately $170,000, sustained by it, it is charged, on account of the star's refusal to perform his services in "The Night of January 16th." Y. Frank Freeman, vice-president in charge of studio operations for Paramount, said that: "His services had been borrowed from Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation for this picture and his failure to live up to the terms of his contract cost Paramount approximately $170,000 in producer and director charges, writing costs, set construction expenses and other charges."

Standard Plea Upheld

Samuel H. Hofstadter, New York supreme court justice, last week, dismissed the $32,400 breach of contract suit of Harry Segal against Standard Pictures Distributing Corporation and George Leganas, with leave to file a new complaint. The dismissal followed the granting of a motion to reargue an application for dismissing the case, which had originally been denied, and which on reconsideration was granted on the grounds that the complaint failed to state a cause of action.

Warners Win Case

Dismissal after trial of a $100,000 damage plagiarism suit of Edward A. Lynch against Warner Brothers and Joe E. Brown was ordered this week by Clarence G. Galston, federal judge, in New York. The plaintiff had charged infringement of his play "When Homer Comes Marching Home" in the film "Son of a Sailor."

Seeks Tax Cut

An application by Paramount to consolidate proceedings against the Tax Commission of New York City for reduction of assessments upon 331 West 44th St., New York, was filed this week in New York supreme court. Seven suits have been filed covering the years 1933 to 1940, in which Paramount charges excessive assessments totalling $340,000.

Author Sues RKO

MANAGERS' ROUND TABLE

An international association of showmen meeting weekly in MOTION PICTURE HERALD for mutual aid and progress

THE GREATEST MAJORITY

There is immediate disagreement here with the stand taken by Milt Korach on the boxoffice value of motion picture criticism. In his letter published elsewhere in this section, the Painesville, Ohio, publicist confuses the issue by grouping stage and screen in saying the "very foundation of showbusiness was built on critic reviews."

Criticism has always been a part of the legitimate theatre if for no other reason than the comparative high cost of tickets, not within easy reach of the average patron. Here, theatre-going is an event to be carefully evaluated before hard-won dollars are passed across the ticket window.

The motion picture, essentially for the masses, and priced accordingly, is something else again. Recent figures reveal an average weekly attendance in this country of 85 million—over one-half the nation's population—an indication that the motion picture is as necessary emotionally to your average picture fan as is his physical need of food and shelter. Of these millions, there may be those who check their going by critical opinion. The greatest majority, however, goes to "the movies" week in and week out regardless of the attraction. For these, criticism of the motion picture, per se, can be of little value.

If criticism continues to be given more importance than it rates, the reason for it is the theatreman's eagerness to make it so. Korach's arguments may be taken as representative of that part of the industry which mistakenly builds up critical opinion as an integral part of the industry structure.

DOES EVERYONE KNOW?

In nosing about to learn what was in work for the summer months, inquiries were made here and there about "cooling" campaigns and other promotions to sell theatre comfort in the hot weather. The replies, as expected, were various, including one to the effect that nothing especial was contemplated since in that situation "cooling in the summer is taken for granted as much as heating in the winter."

Well, that could be. The member in question, occupied profitably with a multitude of more imperative picture promotions, finds little time or reason, relatively, to sell something he feels sufficiently sold. But that "taken for granted" is something slightly disturbing, at least to this doddering greybeard who, in a long stretch of years in harness, has found little that can be taken for granted in this unpredictable business of ours.

It was an old bossman who made the classic reply during a set-to over some lines of institutional copy he wanted repeated in a newspaper ad.

"Why waste the space," we argued. "By now, everyone knows that."

"No doubt," he replied. "But let's say it again so they won't forget."

LOEWMEN TAKE THEIR BOWS

Now that the boys are comfortably set in the new jobs, this department is pleased to call for rousing cheers of congratulation to the Loewmen recently selected by J. R. Vogel for promotion to bigger jobs. A loud huzzah for the new division heads, Charlie Kurtzman and Charlie Raymond. And one equally as vociferous for Managers Sam Gilman, Frank Henson, Orville Crouch, Martin Burnett, and William Elder.

The boys take hold with every good wish of the membership. Round Tablers all, the new appointees will continue to be heard in the pages as resoundingly and effectively as they have in the past.

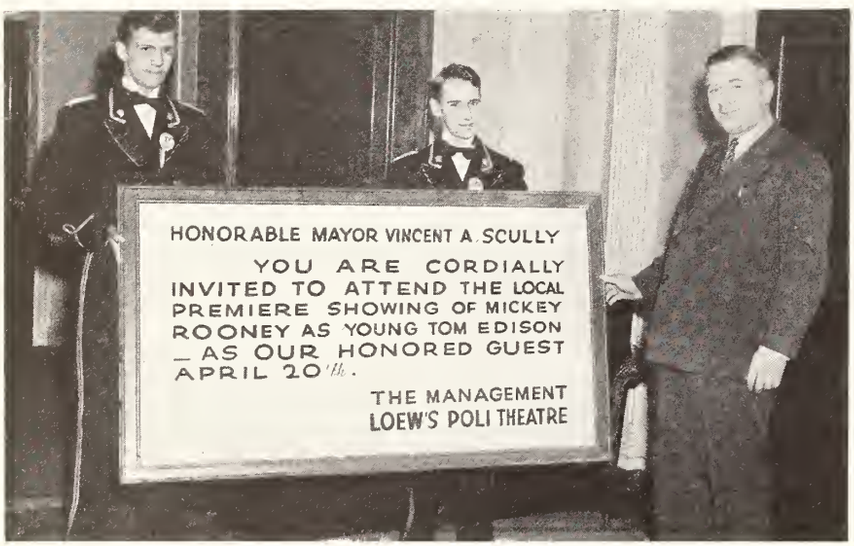
AWARDS WINNER "GETS GIRL"

It seems that Lige Brien, the rascal, had an additional goal to reach in pursuing a Grand Award. Should fortune so crown him, the Warnerite was going after double victory by pleading his cause before the comely maid who disturbed his normal heartbeat.



And now the news comes out. Brien gets raise, Brien gets girl, and the wedding bells are tuned for a June campaign. The Round Tabler is currently occupied with decorating his "Grand Bronze" with lovers-knot ribbons plus miniature bow and arrow.

Round Table In Pictures

On a recent personal engagement tour, Terry Kilburn visited Philadelphia, at which time Artie Cohn at the Roosevelt had his picture taken with the star. Blowup of this was later used as the nucleus of a prominent window display for date on "Swiss Family," as witness reproduction above.

Much was made locally over the presentation by Ed Fitzpatrick at Loew's Poli, Waterbury, Conn., of a giant invitation to Mayor Scully for opening of "Tom Edison." Ushers carried the invite through the streets, followed by large crowd, to City Hall, where His Honor posed for newspaper shots.

Effective was lobby display reproduced above and planted three weeks ahead by John Schultz, Liberty, Sharon, Pa., for date on "Mice and Men." Measuring seven feet high by ten deep, setpiece was set against black velvet drop, date line in front changed each week to coincide with opening date.

Celebrating the month of March under title "March of Hits," Les Bowser, at the Harris-Denis, Mt. Lebanon, Pa., erected this 40 by 60 in his lobby two weeks ahead of specified date, offering free admissions for each 1922 penny presented at boxoffice. Theatreman reports but eight passes issued, but immeasurable word-of-comment resulted.

London Laurel and Hardy impersonators were promoted by U. A. publicity director H. R. Schleman, to help exploit opening of "A Chump at Oxford" at the Pavilion Theatre. Team visited various spots about town ahead of premiere and during run.

Moving Day Tieins Set for May First

Since the national higera starts early in May with folks moving to new homes, theatremen are tying in with the occasion, as witness reports from Round Tabler Joe Marquis at the M&P Egyptian, in Brighton, Mass., and advices from the Warnerites in Jim Coston's Chicago zone.

Through special arrangement with the electric and telephone company, Marquis has secured the names and addresses of every new resident coming to his section. As soon as the party arrives, the showman mails a three by five card invitation to attend one of his shows as soon as they are properly settled. A day or two after the card is presented at the boxoffice for admission, Marquis plans to send a followup letter expressing the hope the new arrivals enjoyed the show and that they continue as patrons.

In Chicago, the Warnermen utilize their programs to convey their message, front page carrying the following copy: "Are you redecorating your home? It's rather a messy business, isn't it? Why not relax in this theatre after a day is spent in a disordered home? You'll enjoy our programs and refresh yourself for the task of straightening the house out again." Or:

"There's no better place for the youngsters than this theatre. If your home is in disorder because you're redecorating, send them here. We'll look after them and see that they enjoy a good movie program."

Block Tickets Sold By Simons on "Pinocchio"

An outstanding achievement in the "Pinocchio" campaign arranged by Jack A. Simons of Loew's Poli Theatre, Hartford, Conn., was the selling of a block of 3,000 children's tickets to one of the city's leading citizens. The City Welfare Department was selected as the distributing agency for the tickets, which were good for any time during the week. Simons gave over his lobby to special effects and the display was made the basis of a contest staged by the Times.

For a street ballyhoo boy was dressed as Pinocchio, riding busses, trolleys and visiting down town department stores. He walked into the office of the Times and as a result the paper ran a large photograph of him seated at the dramatic editor's desk. In the downtown district the boy interrupted a street radio broadcast, was called before the microphone and got several plugs for "Pinocchio" via the air.

Tickets for Engaged Couples

The Century Theatre, in Sydney, Australia, for "Four Wives," arranged with local jeweler for the distribution of free tickets to all engaged couples who purchased their rings at the store during a designated period. Cooperating merchant took large ads in the Sydney Telegraph announcing the promotion, using scenes from the picture and theatre copy to plug the engagement. An additional tieup was also made with a shoe store which was good for large ads.

ANOTHER SERVICE

Your Round Table is pleased to announce the inauguration of another Herald service—the establishment of a reference library and permanent exhibition of theatre showmanship at the offices of Quigley Publications, in Rockefeller Center.

Represented are campaigns contributed by members from various sectors of this country and from other lands. Included, too, are the entries judged in the Quigley Grand Awards for the past two years. Photos of arresting exploitations in the field will also be available.

The library will keep regular office hours. A cordial invitation is extended to theatremen anxious to know more about how the other fellow did it.

Department Store Features Contest on "The Bluebird"

Through tieup arranged with leading department store, Morris Rosenthal, Majestic Theatre, in Bridgeport, planted a children's coloring contest for date on "The Bluebird." Entry blanks were available in the children's department of the store, guest tickets going to winners, whose heralds were then placed on display in store window, backed by a scene from the picture. Four color art display and story was also used in newspapers.

Perpetual rocking chair was the teaser gag used by Morris for lobby stunt on "The Invisible Man," set against black background, white dickie, collar and tie were fastened to the chair. For blocks surrounding the theatre and all pointed in that direction, papier mache white footstep stencils were glued to sidewalks as a teaser.

School Essay Contest Held for "The Bluebird"

Posted on bulletin boards of local schools were Jack Fretwell's heralds calling attention to his essay contest for students in connection with the engagement of "The Bluebird" at the State Theatre, in Harrisonburg, Va. To those submitting best articles on "Why Maeterlinck's 'The Bluebird' contains the fundamentals of great literature," guest tickets were awarded. Essays were judged by school heads.

Heralds were promoted and distributed, entire cost for which was defrayed by merchant's ad on reverse side, window cards were prominently planted and the clergy was circularized in the campaign on which Fretwell was aided by his assistant Martin Caracofe.

Book Tieins Aid "Rebecca"

Numerous book tieups were arranged by Joe DiPesa for the engagement of "Rebecca" at Loew's State and Orpheum, Boston, with windows featuring the book and blowups of scene stills, plus the distribution of bookmarks. Imprinted napkins were planted at leading counters, six-day serialization landed in cooperating newspaper, a "Confucius" contest held for tickets, and another in which prizes were offered in connection with safe driving.

Radio Tieups Effected By Unterfort for "Remember"

Musical bee program over WFBL was devoted entirely to Harry Unterfort's "Remember the Night" date at the Keith in Syracuse with theatre, stars and playdates getting plug at beginning and end of the program. All music played had the word "night" in the title of the song and the first 20 people who wrote in the correct names of the songs played received guest tickets. Similar contest was held over WSYR on their mid-morning half-hour program, only in this case no passes were awarded since it was not held in the form of a contest. Through cooperation of local florist, first 1000 women to pass under marquee opening day received a bloom with appropriate tiein copy.

Through cooperation of the County Health Association, Unterfort succeeded in having "Vigil in the Night" cards placed on bulletin boards of every hospital in the city, medical school at the University, nurses headquarters, etc. Dairymen's League was also tied up, resulting in bottle collars on all milk distributed and spot announcements at both stations WSYR and WFBL through the Milk Dealers Association. Highlight which brought stories in dailies, was the admission gratis of the first 50 women who brought a dozen roses. These flowers were given to the Nurses Association for distribution to the hospital wards which brought additional publicity.

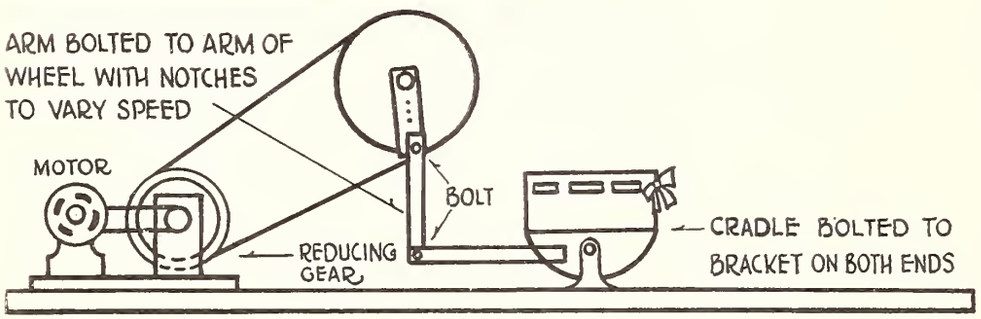
Johnson Distributes Novelty Heralds



Promoting chewing gum from local concern, E. E. Johnson, Jr.. of the Grand at Lenoir City, Tenn., for "Swiss Family Robinson" distributed cards attached to which was the gum with copy atop reading: "Two delightful thrills." This was followed by title, cast and playdates.

To sell his April Fool show, Johnson circulated cardboard heralds attached to which were all day suckers, placed in slit in card so that message read "Don't be a sucker and miss our April Fool Show." Prizes were offered to the person wearing the most foolish costume and title of pictures, shorts, etc., were kept secret from the public until show itself opened.

A "CRADLE ANIMATION"

Another of the arresting animations created by Al Cohen at Warner's Nixon, in Philadelphia, highlights a cradle idea for "Brother Rat and a Baby" and also effective for other cradle expoitations. Heads of characters mounted on baby bodies were secured to rocking cradle, the animation accomplished by securing two ends of cradle to base of display and placing both through the two brackets at each end to permit easy movement. Arm was then attached on inside of one rocker through display to rear, to motor. Working plan below explains operation as illustrated in finished display to left.

Irish Contest Promoted by Decker for "Three Cheers"

In advance of "Three Cheers for the Irish" at the Cambria Theatre, in Johnstown, Penna., Bill Decker planted a contest in his papers, whereby tickets went to those submitting best Irish stories. Entire staff wore shamrocks during run, entire boxoffice was remodeled into the shape of a shamrock with copy, stills, etc., and a special St. Patrick's Day sundae was featured.

Menus in all leading restaurants were imprinted with picture copy, stories and art planted in out-of-town papers, advance readers in local papers, 40 by 60 displays in downtown windows and shamrocks painted on empty stores.

Mayor Proclaims Special Week For Caldwell's "Wind" Date

Before leaving for his new Dayton post proclamation by Mayor of "Gone With the Wind" week recently in Toledo, enabled Round Tabler Wally Caldwell to go to town on that date at Loew's Valentine, starting by theatre representatives covering small towns within a radius of 50 miles calling on civic leaders and appointing members as chairman for group ticket buying.

Special "Wind" ball, through private invitation to Toledo's 400, was held in leading hotel. Downtown streets were decorated with banners, bumper cards heralded the opening which was a typical Hollywood premiere with all the fanfare. Thirty-minute broadcast was held in front of theatre over which Mayor and other high officials were interviewed, program included announcements by stylists with description of gowns worn by the society women attending.

Leading department store devoted eight windows to special display with mounted displays and other picture accessories, still another store donating seven of its main windows to the date, and through tieup with cosmetician special honeysuckle perfume was sprayed through the foyer and mezzanine.

Gag Stunts for "Funzafire"

For his stage show "Funzafire" at the Majestic Theatre, in Johnstown, Pa., Manager Charlie Schiffhauer dressed his ushers in wigs and carrying lanterns week ahead of opening. Also planted in lapels were pins reading "If you think we are crazy, wait until you see." Passes were given to patrons correctly identifying 18 different kinds of nuts on a board in lobby. Barrels were placed on street corners reading "Help keep our city clean, you'll have a barrel of fun," etc. Promoted peanuts were distributed, window cards posted and readers and scene mats planted in local papers.

Round Tablers Set Opening Campaign for "Green Hand"

Under the guidance of P. E. McCoy, publicity chairman, and Moon Corker, publicity director, a comprehensive advance campaign was put on for the world premiere in Athens, Ga., at the L. & J. Georgia, for "The Green Hand," a feature portraying the activities of "The Future Farmers of America," a national agriculture organization sponsored by Sears, Roebuck, producers of the film. Athens was selected for the opening since the novel from which the picture was adapted was written by Dr. Paul W. Chapman, Dean of the Georgia State College and the cast composed of agricultural and FFA leaders over the state.

Weeks ahead Georgia newspapers and radio stations were contacted with the cooperation of the University of Georgia public relations department and the local Chamber of Commerce. Governor of the state, Athens civic officials, merchants' associations and school heads also assisted in the movement. In addition, the Governor, federal dignitaries and other Southern prominents were on hand for the opening. Concentrated newspaper publicity began two weeks ahead, the wire services featuring the event as well as the dailies and weeklies in every section of the state. Radio stations tied in ahead with WGAU broadcasting a 45-minute program at the premiere.

City Decorated for Occasion

The Athens Merchants' Association and the city raised a fund for decoration of streets with all business organizations carrying welcome signs, banners and pennants of the FFA. Store heads, clerks and other employees were dressed as farm boys and girls. Co-op advertising was extensive, merchants calling attention to the showing in advertising as well as sharing in distribution of the tickets with lunch and civic clubs.

Official proclamation was issued by the Mayor designating the opening day in honor of the FFA. University and school heads mailed out personal invitations and acted as welcoming committee at the theatre, where a special front was constructed for the premiere, held in elaborate Hollywood fashion. Highlighting the opening was a stand erected directly in front of the boxoffice, dignitaries entering upon one side as they were introduced in passing across the stand into the theatre.

Creasy Ties "Williams" To Primary Elections

With the federal elections in full swing and newspapers, billboards, etc., crammed with such material, Harry E. Creasey at the Alma, in Vancouver, B. C., for "Amazing Mr. Williams," distributed broadcast small leaflets with copy on outside simply carrying in bold type the words "Don't vote for me." Inside spread read "My name is I. M. A. Drizzlepuss, the only man in Vancouver who does not believe that "Amazing Mr. Williams" is one of the funniest pictures of the year." This was followed by cast, playdates.

WOMETCO CIRCUIT TRAINING SCHOOL BRINGS PROMOTIONS TO PERSONNEL

Eight-Week Course for Ushers and Assistant Managers Attended by 125 Tutored in Various Phases of Operation

Aimed to cover the hundred and one "headaches" of theatre operation, the recently completed eight-week training school for ushers and assistant managers, sponsored by Mitchell Wolfson and Sidney Meyer, Miami Wometco circuit heads, resulted in a total of 20 promotions, according to Sonny Shepherd, organizer and director of the course, and manager of the circuit's flagship, the Lincoln, in Miami Beach. Over 125 of the circuit's eligible personnel participated in the course, running for 16 sessions.

Shepherd broke the training into 10 main sections: "The Industry and Your Future," "House Operation," "Maintenance," "Booth," "Finance, "Selling the Show," "Bookings," "Use of Stage," "Production" and "The Community and You."

Meyer Leads Off Session

Discussing "The Industry and Your Future," Sidney Meyer stressed his belief that the motion picture business today holds as much, if not a greater, opportunity for advancement than any other industry. He outlined the dramatic growth of the Wometco chain, from a force that consisted of Mr. Wolfson, himself, and a stenographer, 15 years ago, to the present staff of 275 needed today to manage the company's 22 south Florida theatres.

In "House Operation," Jack Fink, manager of the Capitol Theatre, figuratively took the usher-students from the box-office to the projection room, on marquees, under carpets and pounded home the necessity of constant attention to the countless details of maintaining a theatre at efficiency-peak.

"The cardinal rule of successful theatre operation can be put in six words," Fink declared, "'A maximum of courtesy and service.' Always remember that a theatre is selling not just picture entertainment alone, but entertainment and service. The real directors of a theatre organization are not the theatre manager nor the executives of the company, but the patrons who buy tickets at the box-office, for it is their money that pays your salaries."

Cleanliness First Essential

After outlining the duties of manager, assistant manager, chief usher, cashier and doorman, Fink stressed the importance of daily cleaning and inspection. "The theatre should be kept as spotless as a drawing room, both inside and outside," he said. "It is equally important to remove gum from the sidewalk in front of the theatre as it is to remove it from the carpets or seats inside the theatre."

He pointed out that a large theatre circuit once employed a man to do nothing but check on the condition of rest rooms, on the premise that an untidy rest room meant an unclean theatre. Then, inch by inch, he described the points to be covered from lobby to foyer, to auditorium, to balcony, to exits and alleys, in regular and thorough inspections by the assistant manager or manager, as well as ushers. As for repairs, Fink advised only one rule: "Repair immediately, and thoroughly, everything that needs repairs. Don't wait until tomorrow. Do it now."

Special services developed by Wometco theatres, Fink said, have repaid the effort many times over in good will. A special call-card system summons doctors and nurses without disturbing other patrons. Earphone equipment is available for the hard-of-hearing. Parcels are checked free. The doorman provides umbrella service in rainy weather. Letters are mailed, matches provided and cabs are called, all as part of regular Wometco service.

A second section of "House Operation," by Ralph Ramsey, assistant manager of the State Theatre, discussed an usher's specific duties and problems—the importance of neatness in uniform and person, how to fill front and side seats, how to handle a crying baby, how to treat a patron who has fainted, how to handle accidents, how to control mashers and drunks, etc., etc.

Secret Service Agent Speaks

As a third sub-division of "House Operation," Shepherd called in Henry Tyson of the United States Secret Service to talk about counterfeit money. He advised cashiers to ignore several common misapprehensions such as the belief that a bill is good if (1) the ink rubs off when the bill is rubbed on another surface; (2) the serial number divides by six.

The only sure way to detect a counterfeit, Mr. Tyson emphasized, is to know what a good bill looks like, which requires diligent study. Mr. Tyson also stressed watching for small details. "They should be sharp and clear. Watch the portraits on notes; the one dollar bills have Washington; the two dollars, Jefferson; the five dollars, Lincoln; the ten dollars, Hamilton; the fifty dollars, Jackson, and the one hundred, Franklin. Also beware of mended notes, especially ones mended with adhesive tape, because part of the bill may be missing and therefore worth only half of its true value."

To conclude "House Operation," Captain A. M. Willis of the Miami Fire Department spoke on "Fire Prevention." The greatest danger in these days of modern theatre construction is not from fire itself, he pointed out, but from the panic that ensues. Panic can be checked only by calmness and firmness on the part of the ushers, he explained. Immediately there occurs any sign of trouble, one usher should come to the stage and remain there, calmly directing the audience to exits. Other ushers should remain at regularly assigned posts in the aisles and near exits.

Complete Inspection Imperative

Introducing "Maintenance and Projection Booth," Burton Clark, manager of the Rosetta Theatre, stressed the fact that a theatre building and its equipment "never reached completion." Constant and complete inspection is the rule in this department, too, said Clark, particularly inspection of electrical equipment. Neons that are burned out or whose tubing is broken will draw twice the current as a neon in good condition, Clark declared.

A theatre can save much money by keeping a card check system on all motors, according to Clark. They should be regularly checked for cleanliness, speed, temperature, weak connections and other defects. Other inspection services should include checking of sound equipment, vermin extermination and air-conditioning.

Booth Responsibility of Staff

Even though the booth is primarily the projectionist's responsibility, Clark declared that the best operation of both film and sound can be achieved only with the complete cooperation and attentiveness of ushers and managerial staff. The projectionist is always alert for screen faults, but the multitude of his duties—inspecting, repairing, rewinding and patching film, the job of putting shows together and taking them apart, and the continual inspection and maintenance of complicated booth machinery—make it impossible for him to keep an eye cocked forever through the porthole.

Therefore, it becomes the responsibility of the theatre staff to report, by telephone of buzzer signals, immediately that the following most common faults appear: (1) picture "out of frame," (2) dirt of foreign matter in the aperture that casts lines or shadows on the screen, (3) travel "ghost" or shutter-streak caused by the projector shutter getting slightly out of time with the frames, (4) bad focus, (5) arc lamp troubles that produce yellow or blue discolorations over the entire film. With sound, Clark said, the two things to watch for most are too much or too little volume, and "flutter" or motor-boating caused by an "off-side" sound track.

Though such faults are minor and temporary, declared Clark; all employees should remember that "one single mechanical defect can destroy the work and thought and expense that have all gone into the finished work of art that is the motion picture."

Care of Projection Stressed

Just as a frame of film is magnified on the screen 74,526 times beyond its original size of three-quarters by seven-eighths of an inch, all imperfections are magnified in proportion. "A small hair caught in the projector aperture assumes the proportions of a sizeable rope," Clark said. "Flecs of dirt on the film become big black blobs. It requires constant care to keep the performance as perfect as possible."

Managers and assistant managers should acquaint themselves with all the projectionists' duties, to know and understand them, even though they do not perform them, Clark advised. They should know how new film needs to be waxed on its edges to prevent fouling and sticking, how film should be wound to avoid "rain scratches," what current consumption and burning speed apply to all carbon sizes in arc lamps, and the necessity of film inspection reports.

Another article on the Wometco School highlighting the other branches of operation and the speakers called upon will be published in a forthcoming issue.

AFTER-SCHOOL MATINEE BUILDS "BLUEBIRD"

Weekend kid business was secured for midweek "Bluebird" matinees by George Trilling, at the Fabian Ritz in Port Richmond, S. I., by arranging a program to have the picture on at 3:45, in time to get kids home for dinner. Publicity plugged it well in advance, Trilling also receiving support from schools and P.T.A.'s, with principals announcing the show at school assemblies.

FROM READERS

Majority of opinion from the field favors film reporting rather than film criticism. Here is an opinion distinctly on the side of the critics from Milt Korach, of Painesville, Ohio, and commented upon by your Chairman editorially in this issue.

FAVORS CRITICISM IN HANDS OF CRITICS

Dear Mike:

I believe my co-workers in the show business are barking up the wrong tree in criticizing critics. Newspaper theatre critics are specialists in their lines. You don't expect a sports writer to take the place of the moving picture critic, in the screen room or the theatre, or vice versa.

The very foundation of show business was built on critic reviews. They are sort of unsung heroes in the industry; they have contributed to the American stage and screen a great deal of good for our benefit by criticizing and taking a picture or play apart with helpful suggestions for improvement. To my fellow workers, do you want good reviews on every picture you play? If you do, then you defeat the very purpose of newspaper publicity. If you do away with your critic and his column and leave it to a reporter assignment, do you know what would happen? Mr. Editor would probably send his ace reporter on "Gone With the Wind" and other big ones, because he sends reporters out to get headlines. Your class B-C-D, etc., pictures either would not be reviewed or maybe the girl assisting on the society page would cover the story somewhere in the paper.

Disagrees on Audience Values

Many of the boys in this business called "show" cry: "The critics panned it, still we did business." However, by the same token how many pictures did he praise and you flopped, good pictures, too. Now how do you account for that? All I ever wanted out of a newspaper was publicity. I say write good about our pictures or write bad about them, but just WRITE about them and we will receive some business out of them for the publicity they have received.

We say our audience is the best judge of what is good or bad. I have seen packed houses in zero weather on bad shows with every one of our patrons complaining, even the critics. But we did business. Let's not confuse a newspaper critic or a columnist with a press agent. For example, your pressbooks from every company, greatest thing on earth, no matter how good or bad the picture is. Isn't it refreshing to read in our newspaper at least an honest opinion review of a picture after all the exaggeration we get out of the studios? Critics to me are a good deal like the umpires at the ball game. They call them as they see them. Sure they miss 'em once in a while. Who doesn't? I say, as a publicity man, I will lay all bets on the critic's judgment. They may miss now and then, but when a complete inventory is taken they will get it 99 times out of a 100. —M. W. Korach, Advertising and Publicity, Lake Theatre, Painesville, Ohio.

TYPES OF NEWSPAPE

(Above) Touching upon the symbolic was the day-ahead, 110 lines on 2 col., organized for the personal of Scat Davis, at the Great States Palace, Peoria, Ill., by E. G. FitzGibbon, ad head. To emphasize the screen and radio headliner, and to pitch the hilarity of the entire program to the degree intended, Fitz used a reverse star background for both stage and screen advertising.

(Below) Success of Tyrone Power in "Jesse James" at the same house had to do with the decision of the New York Roxy to tie the date on "Johnny Apollo" to the same actionful appeal, as the main selling slant. Pressbook ads were adapted to make up this 122 lines on 4 col.

(Below) To tiein with the high interest on the third term issue for the holdover on "Rebecca" at the United Artists, San Francisco, Charley Schlaifer used his famed trademark, "U.A. Charley", for the novel announcement. Size: 85 lines on 2 col.

YOU ARE INVITED TO JOIN UP

dates his beginning in showbusiness to 1926, at which time he secured his first job, that of assistant operator, at the Star Theatre in Slickville, Penna. Two years later he moved to the Casino and having completed his course in projection acted as projectionist at this spot, doing the work for four years. He then became an assistant manager, also doing duty as an operator. At present, Albert owns his own theatre in Slickville and is working for the Manos Theatres as their projectionist.

is located at the Hamrick-Evergreen Circuit's Rivoli Theatre in Portland, Oregon, having the manager's post there. From 1930-1938, while in Salem, same state, he directed children's clubs at the Elsinore, Capitol and Grand houses and did the same thing at the Rex in Eugene, Oregon. For a year, beginning in 1938 Zollie was the director of educational activities at the University of Oregon and last June secured the job he is now holding.

was initiated into showbusiness in 1932, taking a position as usher at the Rivoli Theatre in Muncie, Indiana. Three years later, he was appointed chief of staff at this house, staying for a year. The next move was to the Hoosier Theatre, in the same vicinity, this time performing the duties of an assistant manager. He was promoted to skipper of the Hoosier shortly after. In 1938 Frank came on to the Strand in Muncie and has been managing here since.

began to work for Intermountain Theatres, Inc., about four years ago, acting as usher at the Provo Theatre in Provo, Utah. Shortly after, he was transferred to the Paramount as assistant manager, remaining there for a year. Dean's next move was to the Victory Theatre in Salt Lake City but after eight months went back to Provo to work with City Manager Jack Braunagel, at the Uinta Theatre. He came on to the Roxy, Brigham City., Utah, early in 1939, when he attained a managerial spot. We appreciate the kind thoughts you have of Managers' Round Table, Dean, and anticipate hearing about your activities often for reproduction in our pages.

began in theatre business in 1930 when he secured work at the Paramount Theatre in Asbury Park, N. J. He acted as doorman and then assistant manager at this spot. His next move was to manage Reade's St. James house in the same city. In 1936 Marshall returned to his point of beginning, from where he now communicates and with that spot getting underway for the summer season we hope to hear from Marshall at not too infrequent intervals.

ROBERT PRESLEY, weight seven pounds, born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Williams on Sunday, March 24th. Daddy manages the Port Theatre, in Port St. Joe, Fla.

is the night manager at the Liberty Theatre in New York City, just a stone's throw from Round Table headquarters. His first job was at the Times Square Theatre, in the same sector, where he worked as an usher and it wasn't long before Bob was promoted and transferred among four Brandt houses.

began in showbusiness in 1934 as a part-time usher at the Palace Theatre, South Bend, Indiana. Soon after he rose to chief of service. A transfer brought him to the Colfax, in the same city, in like capacity. He was then promoted to assistant manager at this house. He resigned his position, however, to join Balaban Theatres Circuit and became manager of their Roxy Theatre in West Chicago, Ill.

HAROLD D. VAN VORST manages the St. James Theatre in Asbury Park, N. J. He started has career in showbusiness 13 years ago as doorman at the Rialto Theatre in New York City. Shortly after he was made Chief there, he transferred to Fox Metropolitan in Long Island City and for three years did doorman duty at the Sunnyside. Harold was promoted to assistant manager at this house, then, in like capacity, moved to the Boulevard. For a while he quit this work to act in plays and spent some time in Hollywood. However, he returned East and was at the Roxy in Manhattan prior to obtaining his post in Asbury Park.

is in the movie industry since 1929, at which time he acted as usher at the Detroit and Cass Theatres, Detroit, Mich. Moving to the State Theatre, in Detroit, he was secretary and assistant chief usher for several months. From 1931 through 1936 Hy held the positions of treasurer and assistant manager at the Riviera, in the same sector and the following year became the skipper of the Rosedale Theatre. His next managerial post was at the Annex, in 1937 and after two years came on to his present job, that of manager of the Varsity in Detroit.

has the job of assistant manager at the Rosetta Theatre, Miami, Florida, which house belongs to the Wometco Theatres Circuit. Taking an usher's job in 1932, at the Capitol in Miami, he worked up to chief of staff and then obtained the position of bookkeeper in the Wometco Accounting Department. After two years Claude left showbusiness but, as is usual, couldn't keep away for long and returned as doorman at the Mayfair. A promotion made him chief of staff at this house and after a short period he obtained his present situation.

started work in the theatre over ten years ago at the Paramount Theatre in Newton, Mass., which is one of the M & P houses. He began on the first rung of the ladder, acting as usher at this house and the following year became chief usher. Four years later George was promoted to assistant manager and after five years attained the post of manager. It is easy to see that although George doesn't move around he keeps moving up.

acts as the assistant manager at the Ritz Theatre, Bristol Pike, Croydon, Penna. There are many other duties for him to perform and very ably does Andy take care of advertisements and exploitation stunts, as well as any other activities which might need his attention. All this work serves as fine experience for him and we are sure will be of much assistance to him as he keeps going higher and higher. Our best wishes, Andy.

The number immediately following the title is the production number. Also given is information regarding the classification of the subject matter. A melodrama is denoted by the abbreviation Mel., Comedy by Com., Comedy-Melodrama by Com.-Mel., Musical by Mus., Musical Comedy by Mus.-Com., Western by West. If the production is made in color, the letter "C" appears in parenthesis after the classification. Thus: Com.-Mel. (C) denotes a Comedy-Melodrama in Color.

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features now in work or completed for release later than the date of this issue are listed under "Coming Attractions." Letter in parenthesis after title denotes audience classification of production: (A) Adult, (G) General. Numerals following audience classification are production numbers. Dagger (†) symbol indicates picture is of the 1939-40 season. Asterisk (*) after title of feature denotes first appearance of picture in Release Chart.

NOTE: The totals for running time are the official figures announced by the home offices of the distributing companies.

When a production is reviewed in Hollywood, the running time is as officially given by the West Coast studio of the company at the time of the review, and this fact is denoted by an asterisk (*) immediately preceding the number. As soon as the home office has established the running time for national release, any change from the studio figure is made and the asterisk is removed.

Running times are subject to change according to local conditions. State or city censorship deletions may cause variations from the announced and published figures; repairs to the film may be another reason.

CODE "REVISION"

ONCE when confronted with what he deemed to be a marked state of aberration on the part of a cabinet officer, Abraham Lincoln took resort, as so often he did, to a story. "Old Zeke was out in the wood lot, repeatedly firing his rifle up into a tall hickory and cussin' because nothing came down. Then his son came along to regard the performance. At last the boy ventured to speak. 'Paw, that ain't no squirrel you're shootin' at—hit's a louse in your eyebrow'."

That homely parable of the backwoods is applicable to some contemporary shooting at the Production Code, mostly, or entirely, in Hollywood.

The shooting is not very heavy, sniping is perhaps the better word for it. And besides that there is muttering and murmuring which might rise into an uproar if the mutterers could come to focus.

These objections are of two categories. First and most persistent are the irreconcilables, mostly of the writing contingent, who want for themselves and the public's entertainment screen the license of such works as "Ulysses," or "Studs Lonergan." These are persons who can never be satisfied with any degree of restraint, even in terms of the self-regulation of the industry for its immediate commercial wellbeing. Second there is an order of impression among some other production personages that "maybe the Code needs to be revised to bring it into accord with the times."

For the first, it can only be said that it was their line of thought and conduct which was considerably responsible for the rise of conditions which brought the motion picture up against its problems of 1933, when the industry at last put into working effect the Code it had adopted three years before. The answer to the second category, the "revisionists," is that they are in fact not really familiar with the document with which they are so concerned, and consequently not adequately aware of where specifically stated moral law ends and matters that pertain to policy and judgment of policy begin.

INTIMATE discussion of specific points and issues inevitably reveals that there is ever in the production community a confusion of the basic Code and notions or concerns of policy which have nothing to do with fundamental moral order.

For an instance, policy, not morals, was involved in that issue which found Mr. David Selznick racing across the continent to argue that "Rhett Butler" might say to "Scarlett O'Hara" those simple and earnest words, "I don't give a damn." Much has been made of that incident, but it has, one might observe, damned little bearing, or none, on the Code. The decision to permit the line was a policy decision, of no moral bearing.

A decided simplification of thought could be had if there were explicit understanding that the Code is in essence a restatement of the Ten Commandments as a guide to human conduct. This, one must immediately and emphatically state, does not mean that violations of any or all of the Ten Commandments are not to be depicted on the screen. Entirely to the contrary, there is ample recognition of the fact that much of drama must be concerned with human frailties and misconduct. What the Code does demand and require is that violation of the Ten Commandments shall not be advocated, promoted, or condoned by pictures destined to the public's entertainment screen. As has been remarked often enough before on this page, such activities as murder, seduction and, or, rape are not to be held up as pastimes of an excusable nature.

FOR the reasonably intelligent person of fair mind and some experience of the business of narration, the question of the moral import of a sequence or picture is not likely to be a matter of honest argument. It is usually fairly clear whether or not a scene implies that murder is just excitement, or that seduction is merely passing fun.

And all this means no allowance of the too commonly sought subterfuge of the spreading of yards of delectable sin and seeking to square the account for the Code by a flash of punishment in the end.

That has nothing at all to do with the question of whether or not the screen is to have a "Forty Days of Musa Dagh," or "It Can't Happen Here."

It is possible, almost certain, that advice on both such diverse issues may come from the same office, or the same person, but that does not mean that Code and policy are one, or even related. The authority of the Code is not the authority of policy. It is apparent enough, and in the nature of the inevitable, that the administration of the Code is a function of a division of the trade association which represents production. That is, however, far indeed from implying that the policy judgments of the trade association are Code judgments, or that they have any necessary relevancy to the Code. It should be too obvious for statement that often enough there are projects to be considered destructively indiscreet or variously unwise, in which there is no moral issue whatsoever.

YOU will remember that famous report of the late Mr. Calvin Coolidge on the preacher's sermon on "Sin," in which the President found he was "agin' it." That is what the Code is about, to the extent at least that it asks that the screen shall not favor or condone immoral conduct, in fact or implication. The Code has no other purpose, relevancy or application.

So far, it may be observed, despite the fact that now and then issues have arisen, the Code appears to have done well by Hollywood and production. The last seven years have seen vastly less of censorships, external regulation. The screen is in greatly enhanced status in the public mind. This is beyond argument.

Down among the mutterers is the usually whispered charge

No Suit Settlement

THE "KEY" New York suit of the Government against the majors, and matters relating to it, took the spotlight in industry affairs this week. All hope for an out-of-court settlement of the case faded when Thurman Arnold told a Senate committee that consent decree talk was futile because the majors would not yield to "absolute" theatre divorcement.

Hearings on Senator Neely's theatre divorcement bill were postponed Monday until May 16th, after Mr. Arnold gave his approval to the measure and C. C. Pettijohn, Hays office general counsel, pleaded for more time. Meanwhile the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee set May 13th for hearings on Senator Neely's other measure, the anti-block booking bill which passed the Senate last year.

In New York the majors won a month's postponement of the suit from John C. Knox, federal judge, over the objection of Mr. Arnold, who argued that the trial should begin, as scheduled, on May 1st.

Sidney R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century-Fox, in a pre-trial examination, charged that the Government had backed down on its approval of an industry fair practice code. Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Theatres, another witness, denied the majors "divide" territories.

A move was made by counsel for 20th Century-Fox to have the case against a number of officers and directors dismissed because the Government had not connected the men with the case.

The "key" trust story and other developness, denied that territories are "divided."

Sargoy Copyright Head

AT A JOINT meeting of general counsel and general sales managers of the distributing companies, in New York, Wednesday, Edward A. Sargoy was designated to take over the duties of the late Gabriel L. Hess in connection with the legal activities of the Copyright Protection Bureau, and to represent the distributors in all matters of infringement of copyright arising out of unauthorized exhibitions. Joseph L. Stein will continue associate counsel to Mr. Sargoy. The status of the Copyright Protection Bureau is otherwise unchanged.

Mr. Sargoy, 38, became associated with Mr. Hess in the special law office devoted to representation of distributors in copyright matters arising out of unauthorized exhibitions and the Copyright Protection Bureau. He s an authority on copyright law.

No More Fiddling

THOSE HUNDREDS of exhibitors and Hollywood producers and picture personalities who during the past three years have gone on record in protest against the film-gossipings and film review bell-ringing of Jimmie Fidler on his Tuesday night broadcasts in behalf of Procter and Gamble soaps and shampoos need protest no longer—Jimmie's off the air—for a while, anyway.

He got off Tuesday evening, after his regular weekly broadcast, when the sponsors, whose agents are H. W. Kaston Sons, declined to recommend a renewal of an expiring contract, explaining on Tuesday from their headquarters at 360 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, that they do not plan any other radio programs for or with Fidler.

Answering the petitions of theatre owners for relief from what they termed an "indiscriminate" and unfair rating of pictures on his program by ringing bells—one bell for a poor picture, etc.—Mr. Fidler, visiting New York last month said, "Either the bells stay or I go." Tuesday he went.

Presidential Newsreels

THE BANGING of the temporary chairman's gavel opening the national Presidential conventions of the Republicans in Philadelphia, in June, and the Democrats, in Chicago, in July, will set in motion the machinery whereby "what is going on" is prepared for presentation to the American motion picture audience of 85,000,000 strong.

Arrangements for the Democratic convention already have been set. Those for the Republicans are being formulated. There will be no "pooling" in either case.

At Chicago, there will be three main camera stands, one on the floor at an oblique angle to the speakers' platform, another a hanging stand in front of the first balcony opposite the speakers, and the third, also hanging, behind the speakers. In addition, the organ loft of the stadium has been turned over for long shots and there will be, of course, the ubiquitous roving cameramen moving from point to point.

The convention will provide dark rooms for each company to load and unload magazines on the spot and telephone connections at each main camera stand so that those stationed thereat can communicate quickly elsewhere, or direct with home offices in New York.

Each of the five newsreel companies has asked for credentials for an average of 17 men a company, including those in charge.

Each company will shoot at least 10,000 to 15,000 feet of film on the five days the Chicago convention is expected to run.

Both conventions will be televised.

that the Production Code represents Roman Catholic domination of the art. It does not, and the essential facts are few and simple. The Code was fathered, fostered and brought into being by Mr. Martin Quigley, who is a Catholic, who incidentally claims no patent or copyright on the Ten Commandments, which appear to be rather widely accepted as moral law among the public served by the screen. In view of his record and relation to the industry of the motion picture, it is probable he would have conceived, advised and produced a Code even if he had been a Buddhist. It is true that he had some advice and council from Catholic churchmen. He considers they know the subject of morals. That Mr. Joseph I. Breen, also a Catholic, was first appointed to the consideration of problems of Code application and became its administrator grows out of the fact that he was at that time in Hollywood on errands pertaining to the restraint of unwholesome aspects of the fan press, that he knew what it was all about, and that he had equipment of personality for the job. That was a decision of Mr. Will H. Hays, incidentally a Presbyterian, and one supported then and now by the members of the trade association.

As to the charge of domination, it might be pointed out that the Catholic church brought forth its own separate and special organization to examine and pass upon, for Catholics, the picture output, without heed to what the Production Code might pass. The ratings of the Legion of Decency are evidence of a decided opinion that not all pictures made under the Code and given its seal are for approved Catholic acceptance.

The Code instruments the purpose of the Ten Commandments. It does not, however, demand the advocacy of formalized virtue, preachment; it only demands that the wrong and unsocial shall not be advocated.

For most of America the Ten Commandments are not yet to be repealed, or revised.

—TERRY RAMSAYE

Says Moscow

AMERICAN capitalists are using the motion picture industry to force the United States into war, on the Allied side; Hollywood's producers, willing tools, are suppressing "progressive" pictures and manufacturing "ultra pro-English" (hence, anti-German) films; they are slandering the Negroes and labor, praising war and reaction.

All this, according to a wireless dispatch last Saturday, from Moscow, to the New York Times, appeared in an article by one David Platt, in the Russian newspaper Kino.

Mr. Platt called the Hollywood bias toward the Allies "the offensive of reaction." He condemned Warners for abandoning films titled "Boycott," "The Bishop Who Walks with God" and "The Underground" in favor of "anti-German films."

David O. Selznick's "Gone With the Wind" is called "a eulogy of slavery, lynching, and race chauvinism, and the most reactionary film since David Wark Griffith's 'The Birth of a Nation.'"

RKO's "Gunga Din" also received a lacing.

Alexander Korda was not praised.

But, according to the dispatch, the scene is not altogether dark; some American films apparently tickle the Russian palate. Thus: "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," "Mister Smith Goes to Washington" and "Grapes of Wrath," Mr. Platt says, "are the only three bright spots in the dark skies of the American film world."

P.S.—Mr. Platt is the motion picture critic of the Daily Worker, of New York City, official organ of the Communist Party of America.

FCC Stumps Academy

THE FUTURE of television and its relation to the motion picture industry were difficult to predict before the Federal Communications Commission began flashing "stop," "go" and "caution" lights to the new industry in such rapid succession that all interested parties were blinking. Now prediction is considered so ill-advised that the committee of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, appointed to report annually on television in Hollywood, has called off its annual survey of "Motion Pictures and Television" until the FCC makes up its collective mind.

For 1938, the Academy report on "Television from the Standpoint of the Motion Picture Producing Industry" urged that a careful watch be kept on the television situation, and predicted a possible battle between the film and radio industries over the creation of material for television.

Developments of the week in television are reported on page 60.

Taxes and Grosses

REFLECTING the release of big-grossing features, collections from the federal admission tax in March reached a post-depression record, at $2,390,932, it was reported this week by the U. S. Internal Revenue Bureau at Washington.

The March collections were $538,000 above those of February and almost $784,000 above March, 1939, when they were $1,852,764 and $1,606,996, respectively, the Bureau reported.

As a result of the fillip given business by the almost simultaneous release of several "top" pictures, federal collections for the first quarter of 1940 were brought to a total of $5,730,230, more than $1,000,000 above the $4,674,258 for the period last year.

In its seven years, the Rockefellers' Music Hall in New York has played 260 features. Not one of them with living actors had ever stayed five weeks, until David Selznick's United Artists production of "Rebecca" came along, on March 28th. Walt Disney's "Snow White," first feature cartoon, a novelty, was the only other five-week tenant at the house.

"Snow White" opened below capacity, had large morning and afternoon crowds, thinning out in the evening. "Rebecca's" pace has been consistent, says Hazel Flynn of the Music Hall. An attendance of 750,000 for the five weeks is estimated.

Only 20 of the Music Hall's 260 films reached a third week.

Color Prices

TECHNICOLOR, of which Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus is president, in Hollywood on Saturday reduced color prices one cent per foot, effective Aug. 1, 1940, on release prints for U.S.A. distribution, excluding advertising and industrial films.

The cut brings color prices down to 4½ cents per foot for feature pictures in quantities of 250 or more prints and for short subject prints in quantities of 125 or more effecting a saving of $35,000 per feature on the average 10,000-foot film with 300 prints, applying also to the 20-odd productions now before Hollywood cameras. Per foot prices increase to a peak of seven cents in case nine or fewer prints are ordered.

On Wednesday, Technicolor in New York reported consolidated earnings of $912,614 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1939, compared with $1,050,536 for 1938. Shipments of Technicolor positive prints for 1939 amounted to 70,126,156 feet, compared to 66,720,237 feet during 1938.

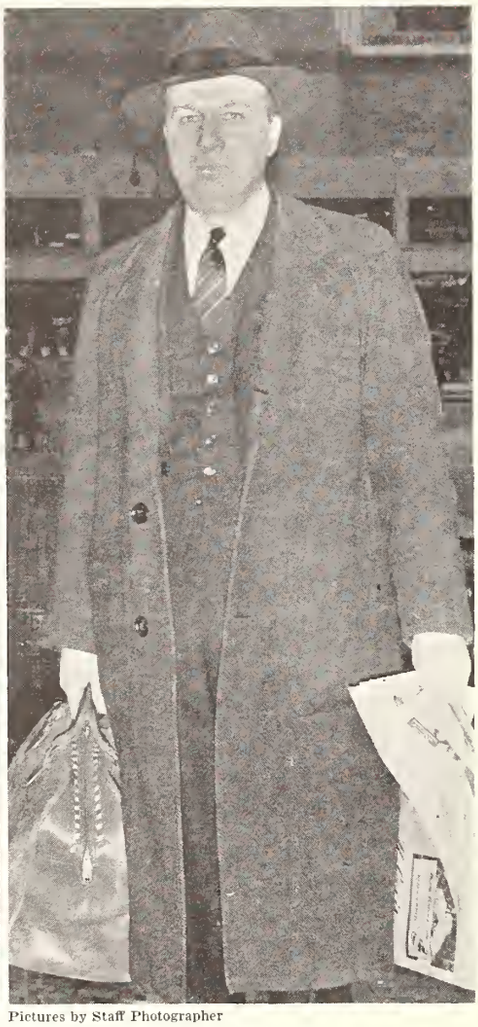
Shipments for the first quarter of 1940 total 30,900,000 feet, compared with the corresponding 1939 period's 21,100,000 feet. Preliminary figures for the first quarter of 1940 indicate profits of approximately $556,000, against the $310,468 profit for the first quarter of 1939.

Insurance for 40,000

ANTICIPATING adoption of a group life insurance plan at their annual convention in June, 40,000 members of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes are filling out "data cards" for the use of their executive board in negotiating with the Union Labor Life Insurance Company. It would be one of the largest group policies.

The executive board was empowered, two years ago at the convention in Cleveland, to find out whether the IATSE could adopt a group insurance policy.

The data are to be studied by the insurance company and James J. Brennan, sixth vice-president of the Alliance, who heads a special committee for the plan. The insurance company is expected to submit cost information to the IA board "not later than May 1st."



Whether the plan will be compulsory; whether members who cannot pay will be covered; whether the cost will be included in the dues or assessed anew; how much the plan will cost—all these are matters to be dealt with at the June convention, according to Mr. Brennan.

George E. Browne is president of the IATSE. The IATSE is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The AFL's vice-president is Matthew Woll. Mr. Woll is president of the Union Labor Life Insurance Company.

DEFEAT in a preliminary skirmish marked the first appearance of Thurman Arnold, above left, assistant United States attorney general, at pre-trial hearings in the equity suit of People vs. the Motion Picture Industry. The defendants won a postponement of trial to June 3rd. Later Mr. Arnold, before a Senate subcommittee, called the industry a dictatorship with a "two-way sword". At right is Robert L. WILD WEST SHOW IN DALLAS

WHATEVER affairs some 300,000 residents of Dallas had in mind for the three days of last weekend remained unfinished business as the Variety Clubs of America came to town in annual convention. By train, plane and auto over 1,000 delegates arrived from 23 Tents to don 10 gallon hats and cowhand attire, to ring the city's welkin, if not crack it wide open. Their comings, goings and doings, as somewhat indicated on these pages, included sightseeing, golfing, parading and meeting, climaxed at the annual banquet by the presentation of the Variety annual Humanitarian Award to Martha Berry, organizer of the famed Georgia school for the underprivileged.

CONSENT DECREE TALK ALL FUTILE, ARNOLD TELLS SENATE

If there was any doubt as to where the organized motion picture industry stood toward effecting a settlement of the United States Government's anti-trust prosecution of its "key" case in New York, the doubt was removed on Monday when Thurman Arnold, assistant U. S. attorney general and chief prosecutor, told a Senate judiciary subcommittee in Washington that the company defendants had been allowed to engage in futile discussions of a consent decree which never had any chance of acceptance without their "complete surrender," that is, absolute divorcement of production-distribution from exhibition.

As for the defendants' standing on actually going to trial, this, too, was established, last Friday, when Federal Judge John C. Knox, senior jurist in federal court in New York, gave them their first "and last" trial date postponement, from May 1st to June 3rd.

Mr. Arnold openly called the organized industry a dictatorship with a "two-way sword."

Of the socalled consent decree issue, Mr. Arnold told the Senate subcommittee that Allied States Association of Exhibitors, prime motivators in attacks against the organized industry, "didn't want it or any part of it" and that the Department of Justice would consider such a settlement "if only by such a plan could they (the industry) survive."

Mr. Arnold's views on the consent decree, the first official pronouncement of the Department of Justice's position, were aired before Senators Matthew M. Neely, (Dem., West Virginia) and Frederick Van Nuys (Dem., Indiana), representing a subcommittee to hear the assistant attorney general's explanation for the delay in getting the New York trust suit to trial.

Monday's session was a "curtain raiser" to complete hearings on Mr. Neely's new circuit divorcement bill, introduced April 9th, with which he was ready to go ahead immediately but which, upon representation by C. C. Pettijohn, general counsel of the Hays organization, that the companies had been given no notice, he postponed until May 16th, two days after the West Virginia primary at which Senator Neely is expected to be nominated for the governorship of his state.

Meanwhile, the House interstate and foreign commerce committee, finally disposing of the troublesome transportation legislation which has tied it up through most of this session, this week set May 13th as the date for the opening of its hearings on the Neely anti-block booking bill, which was passed by the Senate late summer.

At the opening of Monday's hearings, Senator Neely clashed with Mr. Pettijohn over the conduct of the hearings when the Hays counsel protested that Burt New, Washington representative of the MPPDA, who, incidentally, was confused by the Senator with former Postmaster General Harry S. New, had not learned of the divorcement hearing until 18 hours before it opened.

Senator Neely declared that his office had made efforts to get Mr. New on the telephone on last Saturday afternoon and was skeptical of Mr. Pettijohn's claim that the companies needed time to prepare their case.

Mr. Pettijohn made it clear that the MPPDA was not defending the New York trust suit and that it would not appear in the divorcement bill proceedings and explained he was acting only in behalf of the Hays association and not of the companies. At least two weeks would be needed to prepare for the Neely divorcement hearings, he asserted.

"This is not before the interstate commerce committee of the House," Mr. Neely retorted. "This is before the judiciary committee of the Senate. We do not wait until people get old on this side of the Capitol. You cannot expect the never-ending delays that you experienced on the other side."

Although Mr. Neely evidenced little desire to hear him and frequently interrupted his remarks, Mr. Pettijohn warned that the war in Europe has precipitated a very serious situation in the film industry and that agitation for new legislation was not calculated to ease it.

Finally getting started on the matter of the New York trust action after a half-hour of wrangling, Mr. Arnold told the Senators that Mr. Neely's new circuit divorce bill seeks approximately the same relief as is contemplated in the Government's New York trust suit. Pointing out that it was not the policy of the Department of Justice either to approve or condemn individual legislative measures, he nevertheless declared himself whole-heartedly in favor of the Neely legislation which, he said "is declaratory of the common law."

Arnold Favors Divorce Law

"That type of legislation is particularly necessary in this (N. Y. trust) case because of the interminable delays which have attended this case ever since it was started," he commented.

Mr. Arnold attributed the delay in getting a trial started in the New York case to the new rules of procedure recently put into effect in the Federal courts, of which, he asserted, the companies have taken every advantage.

"The new rules practically have made us try our case in advance," he explained. "We furnished the names of over 600 witnesses, there have been three motions for bills of particulars; in other words, there is a complete statement of everything that has been happening in the motion picture business given to the people who should be more familiar with the business than we are."

Answering a question by Senator Neely as to who asked for these details, Mr. Arnold said they were ordered by the Federal Courts on the motion of the companies but, he added, "We also have asked for interrogatories."

"It is plain to see that the suit is moving with incredible slowness and so I think this is one of the circumstances where a legislative declaration of the common law can appropriately be passed".

Setting forth the position of the Government with respect to the industry, the anti-trust division head explained that "it is the position of the Department of Justice that no scheme of control is going to work against the integrated system which controls the market for moving pictures from raw material right down to the consumer."

The film industry, he said, is a vertical cartel like that built up in Germany by the late Hugo Stinnes in the 1920's.

"Such cartels are not justified in any in-

NEELY HEARINGS SET FOR MAY 13TH

Ending predictions that there might not be any Neely Bill hearings in this session of Congress, the House of Representatives Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee this week tentatively set the beginning of such hearings for May 13th. Because Senator Matthew Mansfield Neely, father of the bill, is expected to prosecute his campaign for gubernatorial nomination in the West Virginia primaries on May 14th, there is speculation in Washington on his appearance at early hearings. If the hearings start as scheduled, it is additionally noted, they may be coincident, part of the time, with hearings by the Senate judiciary subcommittee on Senator Neely's theatre divorce bill, introduced by him several weeks ago.

Despite the American Federation of Labor's opposition to the Neely Bill, the protests of the American Federation of Musicians and its president, Joseph M. Weber, the New York musicians' local 802 has passed a resolution-petition urging passage. Jack Rosenberg, president of the local, was reported believing that if "bad pictures aren't forced" on exhibitors they might use more stage presentations, with accompanying "live" orchestras.

SAYS INDEPENDENTS WANT ACTION

dustry and are a plain violation of the anti-trust law," he declared. "This control of any industry from the raw material to the consumer is a two-way sword.

"In the first place it excludes the independent producer from the market or lets him come in at the sufferance of competitors. In the second place the companies which sell to the industry also maintain control of the competing exhibition of the films that they sell, and in this particular case they have seized all the desirable markets, have taken all of the best theatres, leaving for the independent only the minor theatres. This takes away, of course, all bargaining power from the exhibitors; also gives them (the majors) control over the public taste, eliminates any choice by any particular community that wants to have any particular type of film, and prevents the man with a pretty idea from getting it across to the public, even if he goes broke in the process. It puts the standard of what any particular community will see on a level with the standard of what the entire nation wants to see.

"In the end, this vertical trust is the greatest contributor to waste in the industry it is possible to imagine, because they can force their products on the market regardless of cost; the theatres cannot pick and choose."

Dilating on the waste which he said existed, Mr. Arnold declared that U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission hearings on reorganizations have developed the "fantastical salaries" paid and the "waste which the type of cartel places on the industry," and that there is no way to cut the "enormous" salaries.

"No other industry is like the motion picture industry in that respect excepting those industries which approach it in control over the market," he commented. When competition is removed, he said, the only way of arousing the market is by "ballyhoo" and the film and oil industries have spent enormous sums on advertising projects.

He said, one of the "inevitable results of the vertical cartel or trust which controls an industry is the bitterness, the mutual suspicion and the hatred which this thing engenders." "I think the record shows that intense bitterness which has grown up as a result of an essentially undemocratic institution," he added.

The only remedy, apart from divestiture, he pointed out, is public control. "If you are going to allow this sort of thing to continue, it means regulation, and I do not believe we are ready for public control of amusements," Mr. Arnold commented. "I do not think we are ready in this country to say that the amusement business is so essentially a monopoly that we have got to allow it to combine and then regulate it like a railroad."

Getting into the consent-decree negotiations, Mr. Arnold revealed that there never was a chance of the industry getting an out-of-court settlement on any basis less than complete surrender.

Explaining that the door of the Department was always open to business men for discussion of plans which they would care voluntarily to submit, he told the Senators that sometimes business men were reluctant to come in because of the fact that the deparment was a prosecuting agency, and that the Department of Commerce had stepped in to deal with such situations.

However, he said, "the Department of Commerce merely offers a formula for the presentation of plans and for negotiations and as yet the Department of Commerce has recommended nothing. They simply sat in negotiation. The Department of Commerce has sent over (to the Department of Justice) a very elaborate plan which permits continuance of the vertical trust and subjects it to control." (See MOTION PICTURE HERALD, April 6th, pages 12-14.)

"I think I am correct in saying that as yet the motion picture companies have not actually submitted that plan as a decree, to the Department of Justice. If they should submit it to the Department of Justice, I can see only one justification for submitting it to the court, since it is based on the continuance of this vertical combinaion; the suit we are prosecuting must not be dismissed, and therefore the only reason why we could accept such a plan would be that the industry would feel that only by such a plan could they survive at all. It is a thing that can be justified only as an emergency matter.

"The independents (presumably Allied States) have come to me and said that this thing will not help them—that they do not want it or any part of it."

Reads from Zukor Statement

Reverting to the Neely circuit divorcement bill itself, Mr. Arnold read from the oft-quoted statement made by Adolph Zukor in 1918 warning against integration, and declared that "if the Government is not going to enforce the anti-trust laws we compel these business men to engage in this race for self-protection. It is not a question of blaming the industry; it is a question of the Government blaming itself for not providing effective enforcement."

There are men in the industry, Mr. Arnold told the Senators, who agree "heart and soul" with the Government. They are on the boards of directors of the companies involved in the trust suit and so "not in a position where they can express themselves publicly," but have let the Department of Justice know how they feel.

The only suggestions Mr. Arnold offered for amendment of the Neely divorcement bill was to lengthen the time in which divorce is to be accomplished, pointing out that 18 months, as prescribed by Neely, is too short a time to handle the 2,400 affiliated theatres without disorganizing the industry, and the writing in of provisions for the divorcement which will not cause too great a dislocation. He refused to fix a time within which the divestiture should be accomplished, but suggested that it might be flexible and permit the divorce to be worked out properly in each individual case. In previously discussing divorcement and the New York suit, Mr. Arnold has said that it could take ten years, if need be.

Voicing recognition of the film difficulties which have resulted from the war situation, Mr. Arnold commended the industry for the progress it has made, technically and in distribution, and asserted that enforcement of the anti-trust law "will help it get on its feet."

However, he said, the Neely divorcement bill should be enacted, because the New York trial "will last a long time and will be appealed." During that period, the Department must also carry its ten field circuit suits along so that all may terminate at about the same time, since "divorce will be almost impossible unless we can get the monopoly chains in the bag." "This is going to be a long drawn out situation," he observed.

Mr. Arnold was questioned by Senator Van Nuys as to the desirability of enacting legislation while litigation was pending, pointing out that on the day of the Neely hearing, Monday, the Senate Judiciary Committee had refused to report a bill relating to a subject of prosecution, but declared the situation was different and contended that, in the last analysis, the act would have to go to the courts.

Mr. Arnold was questioned by Senator Neely as to the complaints received from exhibitors, with Paul Williams, special assistant to the attorney general in charge of the New York case, providing most of the answers.

First Tried Complaints on MPPDA

Explaining the set-up for "temporary trade relief," established in 1936, under which complaints from independents were referred by the Department of Justice to the Hays office for adjustment, Mr. Williams said that more than 150 cases had been settled in that way but that there were many more which were not so settled because of the reluctance of complainants to have the M.P.P.D.A. act.

Mr. Neely asked whether those complaints involved allegations of inability to get adequate supply or proper runs, unreasonable protection and discrimination in favor of affiliated theatres, Mr. Williams explaining that most of them dealt with one or more of those subjects.

His final question of Mr. Arnold was: "In your opinion is it desirable that theatres be under local operation and control so as to be responsive to community standards?"

"It is desirable, quite clearly," Mr. Arnold responded.

While no further testimony was taken, Abram F. Myers, general counsel for Allied States, was permitted to file a statement, including a letter which he wrote to Abe Feller, head of the consent-decree section of the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice on March 26. Mr. Myers explained that if he could file his statement, he would need no time to testify.

In that letter, Mr. Myers voiced the sentiment of the Allied board that the consent-decree plan which the companies then were discussing would not afford "adequate" relief and that "the minimum of relief that should be provided in any settlement should include a requirement that the defendants dispose of 50 per cent of their neighborhood and small town theatres in the areas of greatest concentration, coupled with a provision against further acquisitions of theatres anywhere save under the most exceptional circumstances."

TRADE REFORMS IN CANADA EXPECTED

While the neighboring motion picture industry in the United States was still in the throes of legal, legislative threats to its methods of operation, the Canadian film industry this week was preparing to proceed peacefully with its negotiations, among various industry groups, for clearance reform, which includes regional conciliation boards. Agreement on various details have been reached between representatives of the distributors, the circuits, and the Independent Theatres Association of Ontario. The return to Toronto from visits South, of Harry Alexander and N. A. Taylor, president and vice-president respectively, of the association, is expected to hasten negotiations.

The Famous Players Canadian Corporation, through its president, N. L. Nathanson, has suggested one central bureau for the handling of disputes on clearance, rather than regional boards.

Recognizing the upheaval that would accompany a quick circuit divorcement, Mr. Myers said Allied would have no objection to allowing disintegration to spread over a period of years, nor any to allowing the major companies to retain their key city first-run houses for exploitation of their own pictures.

Discussing other provisions of the consent proposal, Mr. Myers said that trade showings previous to sales would be unsatisfactory and that the only desirable method would be that provided by the Neely anti block-booking bill, i.e., an advance synopsis. Smaller blocks sold, of five to eight pictures, he asserted, does not alter the principle of compulsory block booking, and no such provision of the plan would bring this about.

The suggestions for arbitration were subject to some criticism, but it was indicated they could be developed into a satisfactory plan.

However, he concluded:

"This matter is of such grave importance to our exhibitor members that the board of directors is impelled to ask that the Department of Justice abide by its frequently announced determination to insist upon divestiture by the producer-distributors of their theatre holdings.

"As herein indicated, we are willing that such divestiture be accomplished with as little hardship to the defendants as possible. But for the Government completely to abandon its stand on this measure would cause demoralization in the independent ranks."

Month's Delay In New York Suit

Federal Judge John C. Knox, in New York last Friday agreed to a postponement of the "key" New York Government anti-trust suit against the majors from May 1st to June 3rd, but he warned the defendants that no extension would be granted beyond that date "under any circumstances." Defendants had asked for a 60-day extension, to July 1st.

Thurman W. Arnold, assistant attorney general, made his first public court appearance in the suit to argue against postponement.

John W. Davis, trial counsel for Loew's; Judge Joseph Proskauer, Warner counsel, and Ralph Harris, Twentieth Century-Fox, petitioned for the extension. Mr. Davis had appealed to the court for a 60-day adjournment after arguing that the majors had received the U.S. supplemental bill of particulars only a few days before and had been unable to verify the information furnished.

Mr. Davis also said that the Government had promised to allow the defendants 60 days to check information supplied by the Department of Justice. He asserted that the Government was under a moral obligation to stand by the understanding. As an additional ground for extension Mr. Davis told the court that the Government recently had served a 25-page subpoena on all defendants requiring them to produce at the trial an extensive number of company records. He said there was insufficient man power in the industry to collect these records in time for a May trial.

Mr. Arnold, in arguing against any postponement, said that it was "his sincere belief" that the defendants were "ill advised" in seeking a delay and that they should be concerned in a final decision on the dispute. He asserted that constant delays had "thrown suspicion on the validity of legal process" and the film anti-trust suit was one of "overwhelming interest to the public." He also stated that "the primary consideration, the great question is theatre divestiture which must be settled one way or another by trial."

Mr. Arnold pointed out that the Government had not started hundreds of isolated law suits, but that it was taking a broad view of general practices which have been established in the industry.

Paul Williams, special assistant attorney general, also argued against extending the trial date, and contended that the majors knew the names of witnesses and information on them, for these very witnesses have been complaining for years. He also suggested that the defendants could complete their preparations during a proposed summer recess.

Judge Proskauer, of Warners, scoffed at Mr. Arnold's assertion that delay would cause "public scandal." He said that was "part of the folklore of trust busting," taking his words from the title of one of Mr. Arnold's books, "The Folklore of Capitalism." He said that the new bill of particulars had added 130 individual charges of anti-trust violation.

WALL STREET ON THE U. S. SUIT

There are "some unique aspects" about the film industry, and the Government, in its New York anti-trust suit, "will find trade practices that differ from those in other lines," the Wall Street Journal remarked on Tuesday, in New York, and added that "some of these practices are justified on the ground that it (the industry) is more an art than an industry, but obviously, the government is not likely to be sympathetic on that account, particularly in view of the money turnover."

The writer of the article comments, anent the address of Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, to the Senate judiciary subcommittee, on Monday, as follows: "Persons close to the movie industry who have had legal advice are rather disturbed about the current attacks in Washington on the industry. . . . The industry currently is worrying about the loss of foreign markets; but an almost equally disturbing factor is the present activity of the government."

U. S. Backed Down On Code, Says Kent

Sidney R. Kent, president of Twentieth Century-Fox, in pre-trial examination Monday charged that the Government backed down on its approval of the proposed industry fair practice code of 1939, after it had been formulated.

After the Government attorneys completed their examination of Mr. Kent, defense counsel questioned him as the first witness for the defense because, they said, he might not be able to attend the trial. Mr. Kent denied all charges of monopoly or discrimination. He said theatres were bought by companies "in active competition with each other" and denied that the companies had divided the territory between themselves.

Mr. Kent said that when he became chairman of the industry committee formed to draft a code he had been advised that the Government had no objection to a code. After months of work, Thurman Arnold wrote that the committee's activities were "illegal."

Recalls Buying "Flurries"

He also explained the first "flurry" among circuits to buy theatres, which he said was in 1921 and was caused by activities of exhibitor associations, and the second in 1926 when William Fox began to buy theatres on a large scale. He said there has been no further wholesale purchases because "no one except Metro has had any money since 1931."

The head of 20th-Century-Fox gave information on the cost of prints for the 1938-39 season. He had said that the number of prints per picture must be cut down, and not increased as the Government suggested. The average cost per print in 1938-39 was $246, the highest $374 and the lowest $170. A total of 12,813 prints were made during that season. The company found a print averages about 37 runs. The season's product had been exhibited a total of 476,641 times up to April 1st, according to Mr. Kent. The greatest number of exhibitions for one film had been 14,600 and the lowest 5,552.

Mr. Kent described a number of disputes between different departments in the company holding that the Government's opinion that different departments in a large company worked hand in hand were unfounded.

He said he had no outside financial interest in film companies and attended MPPDA meetings about once a month but that he did not discuss company problems with executives of other companies.

Opposes Centralized Management

In the first day of his pre-trial examination, last Thursday, Mr. Kent told Robert L. Wright, special assistant attorney general, that theatre management should not be centralized.

Mr. Kent pointed out that Paramount's experience in 1923 proved that exhibitors preferred to buy pictures in blocks. Jesse Lasky started a policy of individual sales but "exhibitors were not ready for it" and "we didn't get very far." In the four-month trial Paramount's loss, Mr. Kent said, was "terrific." He also said they found that curtailing production was not a successful policy.

A policy of selling a season's product was evolved, Mr. Kent said, because it did not seem to make any difference with the exhibitor and it was cheaper to sell in blocks. But Twentieth Century-Fox gives the exhibitor an opportunity to inspect the books, plays and material of the films; and a list of stars, players, directors and producers before the sale is made.

Mr. Kent said that early in the twenties in an article for Motion Picture News, a predecessor of MOTION PICTURE HERALD, he was the first executive to ask for rentals based on percentage and he was attacked for taking that position. Ultimately all companies accepted his viewpoint. Mr. Kent asserted that flat rentals gave the exhibitors everything and the producer nothing. When Mr. Kent became president of Fox in 1932 the company was selling 48 of its 52 pictures on flat rentals; that policy was changed, about 75% of the program is sold on percentage. But the number of accounts has increased from 5,200 to 10,000.

Other figures were cited by Mr. Kent to show that small town houses contribute more revenue than in the early days and that in 1925 Paramount received 65% of its revenue from 1,250 top theatres but he expressed the belief that the coming of sound probably had changed these figures because smaller houses have become more popular.

George J. Schaefer, president of RKO, is to be examined next Monday.

Bernhard Denies Uniform Policy

Despite efforts of Government attorneys to prove, during pre-trial examination of Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Theatres, last Wednesday, that the majors' affiliated theatres "divide" territories between them, the Warner executive denied that the theatre buying policy of the circuit was uniform.

The profit to be made in each instance, only, governed the circuit in acquiring theatres, he said. When houses have been dropped, they have been dropped because they lost money, and only for that reason, he said.

Mr. Bernhard was questioned closely on Warner operations in Philadelphia, a "Warner town."

When the Warner circuit pooled its houses, it was because such a move effected savings in advertising and booking of films, he testified. He also noted that his department operated independently of the distribution department of Warner Brothers, and that this was done under the specific instructions of Harry Warner.

Before purchasing a theatre, the theatre department first sees whether it can supply that house with product, he explained. He denied that the theatre department ever had acquired a theatre because that theatre had clearance over the Warner properties.

Independent Owner Refuses to Testify

RKO, the first of the major company defendants in the Government's "key" New York anti-trust suit to question the Government's prospective witnesses before trial, on Tuesday turned up a unique development which may change the course of the trial if it appears in questioning of other witnesses. James "Jimmy" Binkov, Union City, New Jersey exhibitor, while being questioned by RKO attorneys in the RKO Building, New York City, said he would not appear as a prosecution witness in the case; that he had not complained to the Government; that he had complained to the Allied of New Jersey, which may have given the information to the Government; that the Government had listed him among its 300-odd prospective witnesses without consulting him; and that he had not spoken to a Government representative until Monday, one day before RKO was to question him.

He related that when the major-affiliated circuits entered the Union City situation, they relegated his theatre to subsequent run. He conceded, after persistent questioning, that his theatre was 25 years old; and that it was one of the last in that area to install sound equipment.

James C. Forgione of Metuchen, New Jersey, was questioned by RKO attorneys and those of the other majors, on Wednesday.

Fox Seeks Dismissal Of Several Complaints

Twentieth Century-Fox on Monday, in the New York federal court proceedings in the Government's anti-trust case against the majors, served notice that it would ask Judge Henry Goddard, trial judge, to dismiss the Government's case against Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the Fox board, Daniel O. Hastings, a director, and William L. Phillips, also a director.

The company contends that the Government has failed to connect the said men by "a single specific allegation" with the case.

The move presages similar ones by attorneys of all the majors, if Judge Goddard grants the dismissal.

On Tuesday, Twentieth Century-Fox added to the list of men against whom it wants the Government complaints dismissed. The list, as called, represents virtually all of the Fox defendants, and includes:

Sidney Kent, president of the company; Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production; Herman Wobber, general sales manager; and the following other directors or officers of either Fox, Chase National Bank, or National Theatres—William Goetz, Felix A. Jenkins, W. C. Michel, H. Donald Campbell, John R. Dillon, Seton Porter, Truman Talley, Sydney Towell, H. G. Place, Spyros Skouras, A. S. Gamby, H. C. Cox, and John Edmundson.

"Be Careful," Fox Tells Sales Force

Felix A. Jenkins, general counsel of Twentieth Century-Fox Corporation, has issued instructions to the firm's sales force to refrain from word, or act, which might be construed, in the present circumstances arising from the Government's New York suit against it and other majors for violation of the anti-trust laws, as "intimidation" or "recrimination" against any of the 300-odd prospective exhibitor witnesses of the Government.

Mr. Jenkins also warned against any attempt to force short subjects or newsreels and asks the company's salesmen to try to prevent overbuying or establishment of unfair clearance schedules.

Trust Suits In the Field

As the Colcata Corporation, operators of the largest theatre in Pasadena, the Colorado, obtained in Los Angeles federal court last week, a postponement of its $1,200,000 damage suit against the Fox West Coast circuit and several majors, until November 6th, it was revealed that negotiations for a settlement are under way.

Burnett Wolfson, attorney for the plaintiff, said negotiations were "satisfactory" and that there might be settlement in one month.

Allegations in the suit had formed part of the basis for the Government's recent citation of the circuit for contempt of court, for allegedly violating the terms of a consent decree. The suit was filed in 1934 against William H. Moore, Charles Irwin, and Charles Skouras, then trustees in the Fox West Coast bankruptcy reorganization, against the Skouras brothers individually, and against Fox Films, Universal, United Artists, MGM, Columbia, and Paramount.

First National and Columbia have been dismissed as defendants, on technical grounds; and Universal was also dropped.

Albert J. Law, special assistant United States attorney general, who prepared the Government case, said last week that postponement and possible settlement of the Colcata case would have no bearing on the Government's contempt citation.

Texas Anti-Trust Probe Suspended

The investigation, by the state of Texas, of the actions of various distributors, with a view to finding bases for anti-trust prosecutions has been suspended, the state's Attorney General, Gerald Mann, said last week, in a letter to the companies whose books and records had been examined. Said the letter, in part:

"We have not found sufficient evidence of violation of our anti-trust laws to warrant this department in filing an anti-trust suit at this time.

Majors Win Bill In Brooklyn Suit

In the suit, in United States federal court, in Brooklyn, by the 395 Amusement Corporation against the majors and the Randforce circuit, the defense, last week, was granted its request for a bill of particulars from the plaintiff. The plaintiff operated the Gloria Theatre, in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn, and claimed that a new Randforce theatre obtained prior run from the distributors, over its house.

Pre-Trial Questions In Tampa Trust Case

Attorneys for the Rivoli theatre, Tampa, Fla., which is suing the majors and local circuits for $500,000, for violation of the anti-trust laws, have obtained the right from Federal Judge Barker, to question witnesses before a notary public, out of court. The case, filed in 1932, has had several hearings, but has not been set for trial.

Majors Lose Point In Landis Suit

The major companies, defendants in the anti-trust suit by the Landis theatre, Vineland, N. J., against them, in Philadelphia federal court, last week lost their fight to avoid showing to Special Master David Bachmann, all master film contracts in the United States, and all records and clearance sheets in the Philadelphia area since 1935, for examination. The issue was decided on Friday, before Federal Judge W. H. Kirkpatrick, but the majors may appeal. The Landis theatre is owned by Eugene Mori, of Landis.

Majors File Answers In Another Trust Case

All major defendants, with the exception of the Stanley Warner Theatre Corporation, have filed answers in the Philadelphia U. S. district court in an anti-trust suit filed last month by David Milgrim, head of Affiliated Theatres, an independent circuit. The defendants denied charges of monopoly and of a conspiracy to change the zoning of territories to the disadvantage of the Milgrim interests.

Two More Suits Filed In Texas vs. Interstate

Texas independents this week filed two more suits against Interstate Theatres.

H. N. Jorgensen, of the East Grand theatre, Dallas, asked $77,000 damages, and Louis Richker, of the Gayety, at Fort Worth, sued for $27,000.

INDEPENDENT PRODUCERS ON COAST PLAN OWN 'HAYS ORGANIZATION'

Would Parallel AMPP But Would Pertain to Local Problems and Interests Only, Says Capra Productions Manager

Representatives of 11 independent producers of feature product, for release by distributor members of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, gathered in secret session at the Hollywood Athletic Club on Monday to hear William Holman, manager of Frank Capra Productions, propose formation of an Independent Producers Association designed to do for the independents what the MPPDA affiliate, the Association of Motion Picture Producers, does for majors and for independents numbered in its membership.

Suggested by Capra and Selznick

The organization, which first was suggested in a letter by Frank Capra and David O. Selznick to independent producers, would parallel "the existing producers' association but pertain to local problems and interests only." Mr. Holman submitted "for exploratory discussion" the plan which is "in the idea stage so far."

David O. Selznick, in New York, said Wednesday that the group idea was "still in a formulative stage," that he had talked to Mr. Capra about it, and they had agreed that there "ought to be some sort of cooperation among producers with similar problems." Mr. Selznick could not say, now, whether the group would have a formal name, a charter, and other appurtenances of an organization, adding that the coast group was "working it out."

At the secret meeting in an official capacity but without authority to pledge cooperation of their superiors were studio managers or other representatives of James Roosevelt, Walter Wanger, Hal Roach, Samuel Goldwyn, David O. Selznick, Alexander Korda, Sol Lesser, Edward Small, David Loew, Richard Rowland and Frank Lloyd. The first four named are members of the existing association.

When asked if membership in the new organization would imply resignation from the Producers Association for those independent producers now in the AMPP, Mr. Holman said, "Of course they could make their choice." He pointed out that in some matters the viewpoint of the majors represented by the Association "may differ from that of independents on matters affecting independents particularly," and added that "it costs a good deal to belong to the Producers Association." He affirmed that it was contemplated that members of the proposed new association could obtain equivalent benefits more inexpensively than by membership in the present organization.

Meeting Again Within Fortnight

After the plan was "favorably received," according to Mr. Holman, the meeting was adjourned with those present committed to report back to their principals and reassemble at some unfixed date within a fortnight.

Mr. Holman said that one of the subjects discussed at the closed session was "negotiating with labor unions," and affirmed that the recent action of the Sound Technicians Local 695 of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, compelling independent producers to pay a higher scale than major producing companies, was one of the subjects specifically discussed and a factor in Mr. Capra's decision to suggest a new association.

Local 695's position on the wage increase for independents is that such companies provide less and spottier work than majors, so the independent companies should pay more. Although this action indirectly raised costs to companies in the AMPP in cases such as the Paramount-Sherman arrangement where they finance independent units, no protests were made by the major companies. major companies.

Called First Break

Independents have regarded Local 695's action as the first break away from the long standing "gentleman's agreement" under which independents have paid basic agreement scale for many years. The basic agreement was negotiated by the MPPDA.

Independents have voiced fears that other labor unions would follow the example of the sound technicians and make independent production substantially more costly than major production. Production of this type of development, involving increased cost of independent production, would be among the aims of the proposed new association, according to Mr. Holman.

With the exception of Mr. Holman, speaking for Frank Capra, no individual present at the secret session and no producer represented would comment on the project. Executives of the Producers Association disclaimed any knowledge of the Capra-Selznick plan for an independent producers' association. The MPPDA headquarters in New York also reported it had no knowledge of the plan.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME OPPOSED

With daylight saving time beginning in many states on Sunday, California exhibitors are organizing to oppose a measure that would establish that time in California. The daylight saving proposal was defeated at the 1930 election and has not been submitted since, but may appear on the ballots this November.

Charles P. Skouras, head of Fox West Coast Theatres, is leading the campaign against daylight time. At a meeting of independent exhibitors held in Los Angeles Tuesday he urged them to join forces to defeat the plan. Proponents of the measure are circulating petitions for a referendum on the question at the coming election.

Jury Disagrees In Bingo Suit

The status of Bingo in Buffalo, as it is played in theatres, is still as much a mystery as it was three years ago when police and other authorities sought to classify it as gambling and illegal. Whether it is legal or illegal is still to be decided because the all-male jury in the Old Vienna, Inc., trial was dismissed by George H. Rowe, county judge, after it had announced a disagreement.

Old Vienna, Inc., operators of the old Gayety theatre, Pearl and West Huron streets, was accused in a three-count indictment of violating the Lottery Law in the operation of the game Bingo in connection with the exhibition of motion pictures.

The district attorney, Leo J. Hagerty, indicated he planned to pursue injunction proceedings in seeking to obtain a final decision as to the legality of the game, as operated by Old Vienna.

Court Confirms Brown in Educational Trusteeship

The appointment of William S. Brown trustee of Educational Films Corporation of America was upheld this week by Henry W. Goddard, federal judge, in New York. Judge Goddard turned down an application of a number of creditors to remove Mr. Brown on the ground that his nomination by Referee John E. Joyce was improper.

A creditor's hearing on the company has been adjourned to Tuesday on the request of Mr. Brown to allow him additional time to investigate affairs of the company.

The Securities and Exchange Commission Tuesday indicated it would order the removal of the listing of Educational Pictures' stock from the Chicago Board of Trade after E. W. Hammons, former president of Educational, testified before the Commission. Hearings were adjourned to May 6th, but Adrian C. Humphries, SEC examiner, said it was a mere formality and that the Commission undoubtedly would issue an order of removal.

Ask Korda's Dismissal As Goldwyn Defendant

Decision was reserved by Vincent Leibell, federal judge, in New York on Tuesday, after attorneys for Alexander Korda, United Artists' British producer, had argued for his dismissal as defendant in the suit by Samuel Goldwyn, which seeks to terminate a releasing contract with United Artists.

Because Mr. Goldwyn allegedly is not seeking relief from Mr. Korda, the latter should be eliminated as a defendant, Louis D. Frohlich, of the firm of Schwartz and Frohlich, attorneys for Mr. Korda, contended in court.

Judge Leibell gave all parties until Wednesday for filing briefs.

Anniversary

Celebrating a dual anniversary, her 76th birthday and the completion of her first half-century of acting before film cameras, May Robson this week was guest at a luncheon the day after the preview of "Irene."

With William Le Baron, Paramount managing director of production, at her right, Miss Robson recalled her early career. It started one day in the 1890's, when the late Charles Frohman had her pose before a camera, and resulted in her appearance in a book wherein her image appeared to move when the pages were turned.

Present, too, were Cecil B. DeMille and J. Stuart Blackton, who directed Miss Robson in "A Night Out," in 1916, and Gary Cooper, Joan Blondell, Preston Foster, Dick Powell and others.

Miss Robson is about to do her 85th screen portrayal, as a pioneer woman in "Texas Rangers Ride Again," in which she will be a co-principal with John Howard and Ellen Drew.

Moss "Formula"

Sitting with his back to an open window giving out on one of the Paramount studio's "main streets," Jack Moss, producer, starts this week on plans for a follow-up to his recently completed "Biscuit Eater." Mr. Moss says the new feature should be ready some time before the end of the year, and that in it he'll try to "avoid the traditional sequel formula."

Saying that for his first film he had wanted to make no "formula picture," but, on the other hand, had wanted to use "new audience elements, while not completely discarding tried and proven box office components," Mr. Moss pointed to both cast and story of his "Biscuit Eater" as illustrative. In the cast, naturalism was stressed, rather than names, resulting in the selection of the previously untried Billy Lee and the plucking of young Cordell Hickman from the cast of the Los Angeles company of "Mikado in Swing."

After looking through some dozen properties, the James Street Saturday Evening Post story was chosen both for its fresh background and its story turn, in that the dog on which the film centers does not win its field trials, but dies. Actually the basic story of Street himself as a boy, the picture was shot near Albany, Ga., where the author had spent his early days. He also will contribute the story for the forthcoming feature, tentatively entitled "Lonnie."

On "Lonnie," too, Stuart Anthony will write the screen play, and Stuart Heisler will direct. He recently received an extended contract at Paramount. A former cutter and aid to Samuel Goldwyn, Heisler used to be called a one-man "emergency squad" by Moss, for cutting his way out of many a film difficulty.

Associated with Gary Cooper and Henry Hathaway in a managerial capacity for over seven years, Mr. Moss entered the industry at the age of 15 as a mail boy at the Paramount Astoria studio, ending up an assistant director. At the time, one of those on the lot was Allan Dwan, then directing the Gloria Swanson pictures. Miss Swanson, it was reported, received $17,500 weekly for her services. There, too, was Joe Pasternak, starting as bus boy in the studio commissary, in the basement under the stage.

Speaking of his film formula of not following formula, Mr. Moss points to "The Biscuit Eater's" grosses, adds that it "opened through Georgia bigger than 'Beau Geste'—and stayed that way, getting single billing in some situations."

PRODUCTION SPURTS AGAIN

Topping the high established the seven days previous, Hollywood this week finished 9 pictures, started 21, and had 45 shooting, compared to the 8 completed, 13 started and 33 shooting of last week. Twenty-eight were being prepared, 5 less than last week, while 63 were being edited, against the 58 of the week before.

Universal completed three, "South of Karanga", "Bad Man from Red Butte" and "No Exit". RKO Radio finished two, "Tom Brown's School Days" and "Prairie Law". Columbia wound up work on "Babies For Sale", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer "Susan and God", Republic "Doctors Don't Tell", and Sig Neufeld "I Take This Oath".

Started were "Five Little Peppers Abroad" and "Keep Him Alive", Columbia; "Strike Up the Band", "I Love You Again" and "Old Lady 31", MGM; "Riders from Nowhere", Monogram; "A Night at Earl Carroll's", "Texas Rangers Ride Again" and "Three Men from Texas", Paramount; "Have It Your Own Way", "Millionaires in Prison" and "Cross Country Romance", RKO; "Rocky Mountain Ranger", Republic; "Brigham Young", "Street of Memories" and "Pier 13", Twentieth Century-Fox; "Hot Steel", Universal; "The Long Voyage Home", Walter Wanger, for United Artists release, and "The Sentence", "Episode" and "They Drive by Night", Warner Brothers.

No short subjects were finished. One was shooting.

Name News

Norman Taurog received a new long term directorial contract at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Frank Capra returned to Hollywood after attending the Variety Clubs' convention in Dallas.

Leon Schlesinger has renewed his cartoon producing deal with Warner Brothers for another two years.

James Fitzpatrick has gone on to New York after joining the Variety Clubs' gathering in Dallas.

Julius and Phil Epstein are working on the screen play of "Honeymoon for Three," for Warner Brothers.

Edward Dmytryk is assigned to direct "Mystery Ship" for Paramount.

Harry Tugend is to work on the screen play of "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" for Paramount.

Marc Connelly has received a new writing contract at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Arbitrators

The dispute over the termination of the contract of the Ritz Brothers with Mayfair Productions, headed by Jules Levy, is now in the course of arbitration. E. J. Mannix is representing Mayfair, Ben Holman is acting for the Ritz Brothers, and Robert Kenney, California state senator, is the neutral arbitrator.

Evidence is being presented to determine whether Mr. Levy was justified in dismissing the Ritz Brothers from the cast of "The Boys from Syracuse," now in production for Universal release. The Screen Actors Guild had informed Mr. Levy that unless he agreed to have the difficulty submitted for arbitration the Guild would withhold a shop contract from the company.

National Decency Legion Classifies Eight Films

Of eight pictures classified by the National Legion of Decency in its listing for the current week five were approved for general patronage and three were listed as unobjectionable for adults. The films and their classification follow.

Class A-1, Unobjectionable for General Patronage: "Curtain Call," "Dark Command," "Mercy Plane," "Son of the Navy," "Young Buffalo Bill." Class A-2, Unobjectionable for Adults: "Alias the Deacon," "So This Is London," "Two Girls on Broadway."

NICKEL-IN-THE-SLOT MOVIE RACE IS ON, 12 MAKING PROJECTORS, FILMS

Seven Companies Developing Own Machines and Five Planning Production of Special Short Subjects with Sound

The race is on in earnest for supremacy in the million-dollar (anticipated) "cocktail lounge movie circuit" under which coin-operated automatic 8 and 16 millimeter film projectors will put on shows in restaurants, bars, taverns and other public places, and with the "putsch" come the problems and headaches of a new industry.

In Hollywood, at least seven companies or individuals are developing their own types of projection machines and at least five companies are looking forward to engaging in production of special short subjects with sound to feed the machines' maws. Organized exhibition already has voiced its fears of exhibition; city fathers have threatened high tax fees.

Technical Problems

Chief among the problems are the technical developments to facilitate the use of continuous projection of 16 mm. film, possible patent infringement trouble which has been indicated already, the clearance of musical rights and setting up of union wage scales, decision on what type of sound-sight subjects to present, and the possibility that obscenity and indecency will creep into the films.

Should technical and other difficulties be surmounted, there is virtually no limit to the number of establishments frequented by the public that may use the machines.

Machines Declared Ready

Two companies have announced their machines are ready for distribution. One is Phonovision Corporation, headed by Frank Orsatti, talent agent, with Sam Sax, 27 years in films, and Dave (Solly) Friedman reported to have patents on a cabinet screen model type of projector which Phonovision will use. Demonstrator models have been set up at the company's Hollywood offices, and others will be turned out starting immediately for public placement. The principals decided Tuesday night to issue franchises. Complete board of directors will be announced May 3rd. Mr. Sax will leave Hollywood for New York next week to complete arrangements, including a plan of distribution based on units of population.

The other is Phonofilm Productions, headed by John Rough and Howard Christie, which uses a Bell and Howell 16 mm. continuous projector with their own coin operation adaptation to throw a picture on a screen five feet by four feet. This company plans its own productions and has another production concern at work putting out part of its product. Distribution is by the Beverly Sales Corporation, headed by Charles Walters.

Producing for Phonofilm is Neil McGuire Productions, the president of which is Neil McGuire, title artist and art director. He has produced five subjects for Phonofilm.

Mills Novelty Company, Chicago, is engaged in the manufacture of projectors to take the product of James Roosevelt's Globe Productions, which cleared its way for 16 mm. production by shifting its United Artists release feature work to Samuel Bronston Productions, of which Mr. Roosevelt is board chairman.

One of the first in the field of slot-machine projectors was Cinematone Corporation, of Hollywood, which, about two years ago, installed in various Hollywood and Los Angeles beverage spas projectors invented by one Dr. Gordon Keith Woodard, Los Angeles dentist. Interested in the company then with Dr. Woodard was W. P. Falkenberg, of the Ray-O-Lite Corporation, which controls various novelty coin operated devices. Since then Cinematone has undergone reorganization, Dr. Woodard and Mr. Falkenberg withdrawing from active participation and becoming stockholders, and Cinematone, under president Earl Burnham, is seeking to develop the Woodard machine.

In the meantime, Dr. Woodard and Mr. Falkenberg, working independently, hope to bring out their own machines, Dr. Woodard working on a cabinet model which will utilize 35 mm. film in a cabinet model screen.

Even Edgar Bergen and his "Charlie McCarthy" have been reported in the press as considering turning to the new field.

There are reports, unsubstantiated, that the Scott Automatic Nite-Site Company, Inc., which is said to own comprehensive patents on 16 mm., coin operated machines, also plans to enter this field.

With the press, both lay and trade, giving much space to the "cocktail lounge movie circuit" start, and a general interest evoked among exhibitors, some of whom fear that theatre attendance might be hurt, Joseph I. Breen, Production Code Administrator, said when asked whether his department was interested in the scrutinizing of the films being made for the machines: "We are interested only in theatrical films to be shown in theatres."

When, and if, the machines are profusely distributed, there will be, from present indications, only the consciences and the scruples of the individual producers and distributors to govern them in the selection of their material. Several have indicated that their subjects will remain in good taste, however.

Five Shorts on Exhibition

The five short subjects currently on exhibition in Hollywood and Los Angeles experiments of Phonofilms include two which feature Betty Rowland, local burlesque queen, in performances characteristic of what is described as "entertainment for very tired business men." With a background of music, Miss Rowland cavorts about in one in a dance, covered at times by a veil. She climaxes the other, a musical number featured by various scenic backgrounds, with a view of herself bared to the waist.

Mr. McGuire's method of production is first to obtain a three minute sound track made by a band of a musical number desired, and then write his script to fit the music. He shoots on 35 mm. and then has that reduced to 16 mm. Now producing for Phonofilm, he expects to make some of the product for release under Roosevelt's Globe Productions banner for the Mills machines.

Mr. Rough of Phonofilm said his experience has shown that the film projectors will "gross" approximately three times as much in a day as the most modern phonograph device, the chief factor being, of course, the location of the rendezvous. The subject matter is another point to be reckoned with, he said.

C. F. Evans, an engineer, Mr. Rough and Mr. Christie are the principal partners in Phonofilm Corporation which will assemble and manufacture their devices from the Bell and Howell equipment. Phonofilm Productions will produce the material used and distribute such other films as may be made on the outside, as in the case of McGuire.

Seek Selectivity Devices

They eventually hope to develop selectivity devices which will permit choice of the offerings to patrons.

Phonovision, which uses the cabinet arrangement, plans to use name talent and bands for its product. Mr. Sax said it would be adapted for use also in homes, probably on a rental basis, but the first problem of the company would be to call for bids from manufacturers for the devices. The company will make its own product. Advertising films also are planned.

Globe recently announced plans to make six shorts a week for the Mills machines, now said to be in the process of manufacture.

Cinematone plans to make its own product, and is working on a selectivity device.

That company at present is engaged primarily in its Pennyphono machines, phonographs which play songs at one cent each. Ten songs are recorded on each side of a 12-inch disc, placed on a slowly moving turntable. At the drop of a penny, the disc begins turning and, after playing the tune, stops until another cent piece is deposited.

Working with Mr. Falkenberg on the development of a 16 mm. library of subjects adapt-

"I WAS AN ADVENTURESS"
FRIDAY, MAY 3, 1940
8-9 P.M. EDST

BIZ: B.1. MUSIC FADE INTO VOICE

KATE: And now we come to the dramatic highlight of our program and it is movie night again. The other day at the 20th Century-Fox projection room I saw a special screening of I WAS AN ADVENTURESS in which the exquisite Zorina stars. And romantic Richard Greene, as well as Eric von Stroheim and Peter Lorre, Sig Rumann, Fritz Feld, are in this sparkling, smart, exciting, lavish and spectacular picture. It belongs with the many others we have had the pleasure of previewing on this program.

BIZ: B.2. MUSIC RISE AND FADE

KATE: I am particularly proud tonight to be able to introduce to you a star I know you will enjoy immensely. Ted and I met him on our trip to Hollywood last year, and in addition to being a grand actor--he's a grand fellow. Therefore, with pride I present Richard Greene and all listening who know him on the screen will be happy to know he joins us this enacting the role he plays in the 20th I WAS AN ADVENTURESS.

Slot Machine Film Problems Aired

able to the coin operated projectors is Raymond La Rose, long engaged in this field. Mr. Falkenberg, who is working on his own machine, says that an entirely different control system than any now in operation must be devised for efficient operation of the devices. On the basis of his experience with the Cinematone venture two years ago, he is frankly pessimistic, declaring that successful projection is not in immediate prospect.

Dr. Woodard, while of the same voice, points out that his equipment, and he makes no promise when it will be ready—will be able to play from 6 to 18 subjects, in order or singly.

Citing his various experiences—he started experimenting in this field four years ago—he says that when projection devises are placed in cabinets containing screens, air conditioning must be provided. Rewinding of film, the effect of heat and cold, difficulties in splicing 16 mm. film, and sound track problems are but few of the obstacles to be overcome generally, according to Dr. Woodard.

Favors 35 mm. Film

The answer lies, he believes, in the use of 35 mm. film with which he is experimenting in a cabinet model. Sound quality must be of the highest, and the machine must primarily "be a good phonograph, appealing mostly to the ear," he says. Then, too, in subject matter, many barriers occur, he says, pointing out that constant repetition of dialogue in a heavily played subject would be irritating to many drinkers.

Cost must be considered in the production, he says, pointing out that it costs about $4.00 to "load" a phonograph with 48 records. The price of film subjects to "load" a coin operated projector should be close to that, he believes.

Rumors have been heard that one company which has various patents on miniature projectors covering certain phases of operation is claiming infringements by another company, but to date have not been verified.

Persons having experience with continuous projectors at the New York World's Fair are said to be very pessimistic concerning the successful workings of the machines at a steady pace. Service or maintenance men must be hired, and in a wide area, such as a large city, this is highly expensive. In many areas, the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes members control all motion picture service and projection work and union rules are to be observed, in the matter of crews, hours and overtime pay. Many of the possible places for the slot machine projections open in the morning and close next day at two a.m., necessitating several shifts of union men on the maintenance crews, and probable overtime pay.

Types of Places Vary

There are various types of places seeking the public's attention, from swank establishments to "dives," and it is understood that there will be various types of motion pictures designed to attract the nickels and dimes in the machines in these establishments. Exhibitors in Chicago recently told Mr. Roosevelt that salacious films would find their way into some of the machines.

Roosevelt replied that police officers and censors soon would put a stop to that.

He later said: "I suppose there will be some objectionable films. I hear you can buy 'dirty movies' now for stag parties, if you want them."

Chicago authorities already have said that they would review the miniature movies in the same censorship procedure that theatrical film undergoes.

In other cities, councils have underway plans to tax the machines, as revenue producing moves. Mississippi would put on a tax of as much as a $30 a machine.

Chicago and Denver authorities already have indicated that they would consider taxing the machines and their purveyors, and Allied Theatres of Illinois has resolved that the machines are "definitely a threat to motion pictures." (See Motion Picture Herald, March 30th, page 12.) Allied of Eastern Pennsylvania also has resolved against the devices.

Anticipating "invasions" of the machines in Canada, the Independent Theatres Association of Ontario last Thursday drew up plans to make official petition to both the Provincial Ontario and municipal Toronto governments to restrict movie slot machines. Nickel music machines now are taxed $5 each.

"Theatre Business is a Prime Civic Asset," Says Dallas News

Ray Johnston of Monogram Pictures Corporation has returned from the Variety Clubs' national convention and his own company's gathering, in Dallas, with a prized clipping for his scrapbook. It is an expression, substantially unique in the annals of the daily press, of friendship for the motion picture industry. The piece is by John Rosenfield, amusements editor of the Dallas Morning News, in the course of which he says:

YOU have come to a city that understands and respects the people who give it entertainment. Since most of you are movie folk, you know reformers, politicians and traitors to your own business are ready to pick on you. You know that your size and scope make it impossible for you to defend yourselves properly. If a small boy goes wrong, blame the movies. If a girl flunks her algebra, blame the movies. If some theatrical businessman perish in the mutations of business economy, don't blame conditions, blame the movies.

Dallas, we would have you know, is one spot on the map where the movies are praised and thanked more often than not. Dallas is a city without a municipal theatrical censor. Dallas is the cleanest show town in America because it doesn't think about theatrical smut. Dallas is a city where the theatres do not have to prise open newspaper columns to get publication of a theatrical paragraph. Dallas is a city where the daily press maintains theatre departments to meet the healthy interests of a theatregoing public.

Dallas is a city where newspapers think Vivien Leigh's performance in "Gone With the Wind" is worth bigger headlines than her romance with Laurence Olivier. Dallas is a city where the commercial theatre, the Little Theatre, music and the fine arts live together in happy collaboration. Dallas is the city where the head of its commercial theatre is a patron of the art theatre, an executive of the symphony orchestra, a director and the largest single benefactor of the Art Museum.

Dallas is a city where the heads of its largest circuit are civic leaders, directors of many big outside enterprises, open-handed philanthropists. Dallas is a city where every service club or public committee has a theatrical representative among its active workers.

In short, Dallas has long been a community where baiting the theatre is not one of the political or social sports. Dallas regards its theatre business as a prime civic asset and gives it enthusiastic co-operation.

Dallas has never dwelt on the Once-in-a-Lifetime aspect of the theatre, the frequent absurdities of conduct that can be found in all industries. It has been told about the efficiency and sincerity of the studios; it has learned to respect the size and gamble of the movie investment and to sympathize with the exhibitor's effort to merchandize the product.

Meyer Visiting Branches

A. E. Meyer, sales manager of the International Projector Corporation, is now on a tour of several cities in this country and Mexico. He went to Mexico City from Dallas Monday and from there he will visit Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Salt Lake City and Denver.

Universal Signs Runyon

Damon Runyon has been signed by Universal to write the screen plays for two features for the 1940-41 season.

Cowan Buys Sonovox Rights

Lester Cowan, producer, has purchased a half interest in Sonovox from its inventor, Gilbert Wright, screen writer. Sonovox is a new sound device. A corporation will be formed which will hold exclusive rights for use in phonograph records, radio and all motion pictures except cartoons.

Nathan in Post

Perry Nathan has assumed the duties of branch manager for Advertising Accessories, Inc., in Pittsburgh. John Scott is office manager. Robert L. Clark, who handled advertising for the Paramount exchange there before the merger of Paramount and RKO ad departments with National Screen, will become a salesman for Paramount.

Arrange Pitkin Dinner

Barney Pitkin, New Haven manager for RKO, will be honored with a testimonial dinner for his 20th anniversary in the industry at the Racebrook Country Club, New Haven. The date is tentatively set for May 7th. Thomas Donaldson, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer manager, is chairman of the event.

PREVIEW!

Inglewood, California—"WATERLOO BRIDGE" stampeded a cheering Preview audience into ecstatic raves as another M-G-M hit was unreeled here at the Academy Theatre. Vivien Leigh's first production since her acclaim in "Gone With The Wind" and Robert Taylor's most powerfully romantic role combined to elicit "ohs" and "ahs" from the femme fans. Eyes of the motion picture colony are on the M-G-M Studio. Last week it was the sensational Preview of Spencer Tracy's "Edison, The Man." This week it's "Waterloo Bridge." Next week it will be the Preview of Wallace Beery's "20 Mule Team" and more triumphs to come in Leo the Lion's parade of successes!

WORK WITH TELEVISION OR FOR IT, INDUSTRY TOLD AT SMPE MEETING

And Major Armstrong, Speaking at Atlantic City, Predicts Frequency Modulation Will Replace Regular Broadcasting

Cooperate with television or risk being controlled by it some day, the motion picture industry was told Monday by Thomas F. Joyce, vice-president of the RCA Manufacturing Company, in an address before the Spring meeting of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, at the Haddon Hall hotel in Atlantic City.

Speaking at the opening day luncheon of the 46th semi-annual convention, Mr. Joyce said that the phonograph industry made a mistake in the early days of radio's development by ignoring the new medium. Finally the radio companies took over phonograph companies. The example was given as an historical warning to the film business.

47 Papers Presented

A total of 47 papers and reports were presented at the sessions, which were directed by E. A. Williford, president. Seven reports were on television, 11 on projection, the others on acoustics, color, theatre architecture, sound recording, laboratory practice and other components of the industry. Sessions were held from Monday through Thursday, and more than 200 members attended.

"Something big is about to take place in television," said Mr. Joyce, predicting that when the restrictions against large-scale commercialization are lifted it quickly will displace our present sightless radio, give new employment to hundreds of thousands, result in the sale of 25,000 sets in the first year in New York alone, and within five years bring television network programs to 10,000,000 home receiving sets.

Sees New Fields for Films

The motion picture industry was called on to assist the development of the new visual art and Mr. Joyce gave assurance that television would reward such aid by opening up new channels for picture exploitation and showmanship. "Many phases of motion picture activity will constitute television program material which will help to bring the seeing home audiences of the future into the local movie houses," he said. "Such promotional features as telecasts of studio operations, interviews with stars, outstanding premieres, and trailers for coming releases can all become regular items in the methods of motion picture salesmanship when television is permitted to expand to its proper place in the entertainment and communications industries."

Television engineers read six papers on the recent technical progress of their art in which they told of improvements in picture quality, synchronization, pick-up equipment and studio lighting. G. L. Beers, O. H. Schade and R. E. Shelby of RCA affiliates described portable pick-up apparatus weighing less than 600 pounds, which can be packed in a small automobile and carried into the field for use at sporting, military and news events of all sorts.

T. T. Goldsmith, R. L. Campbell and S. W. Stanton of the Allen B. DuMont Laboratories described a new method of synchronization which will permit variable scanning frequencies and obviate the necessity for establishing a fixed scanning frequency standard for the whole industry.

I. G. Maloff of RCA Manufacturing said that television and motion pictures had essentially similar requirements in the improvement of picture quality, but that television had at its command, in the electronic control of contrast, a tool not available to the older art. He said RCA was making improvements in television camera technique.

Armstrong on FM Broadcasting

Also on Tuesday Major Armstrong gave an account of the history of FM broadcasting and its present status. He said FM stations had a clear weather primary service range equal to conventional stations and a range four times larger in inclement weather. Major Armstrong also said FM needed one television channel at 40 megacycles to establish 150-200 stations covering the entire country. He predicted that FM would supplant regular radio broadcasting in a few years.

The projection session on Wednesday was opened by F. H. Richardson, writer for Quigley Publications, who reviewed the history of the field from the time of the early hand-operated "coffee grinders" to the development of the present-day high-quality sound projector. He spoke briefly of the gradual improvement in the caliber of projection as a profession and of the work of pioneer projectionists in bringing this about. T. P. Hover stressed the need of unceasing care in the promotion of safe working conditions in the projection room.

Light Projection Method

C. S. Ashcraft of the Ashcraft Manufacturing Corp. described the Cyclex method of light projection wherein an alternating current arc sends its light through a rotating shutter so adjusted as to eliminate the alternating current pulsations which hitherto have prevented the use of this current in motion picture projection. The new method also involves the use of newly-designed converter equipment and produces a light source of high efficiency and low power consumption.

Harry Rubin, Paramount Theatres Service Corporation, discussed the work of the projection supervisor, and spoke at length of the need of cooperation with the projectionists in each theatre in the maintenance and operation of a successful projection organization. Other papers dealt with new lenses for projectors, advances in carbons and arcs for both standard and sub-standard booths, improved projection room record systems, and other phases of the projectionist's work.

16 mm. Production Reviewed

The members of the Society were given a comprehensive picture of the present status of 16 mm. production in the commercial and educational fields by representatives of leading companies in this branch of the industry. L. Thompson of the Calvin Company and J. A. Maurer of the Berndt-Maurer Corporation read papers on direct 16 mm. production in which they emphasized the many economies and conveniences effected by the use of sub-standard stock in the non-theatrical field.

"Equipment and film costs, especially in color, are very much lower than 35 mm. costs and the easy manipulation of the 16 mm. equipment makes it particularly adapted to use in industrial and location situations," the convention was told. "Modern 16 mm. cameras, sound recorders and projectors will yield results of truly professional character and past weaknesses in printers and other processing machinery are rapidly being eliminated. Duplication, both for color and black-and-white, has been brought to a thoroughly satisfactory level and recent advances in 16 mm. sound and duplicating raw stocks have been announced by the major film manufacturers."

D. R. Canaday, Canaday Sound Appliance Co., demonstrated new 16 mm. recording equipment, and Clemenger and Wood of Sound Masters, Inc., described present production practices for commercial work. A high-intensity carbon arc for 16 mm. was described by Joy and Lozier of the National Carbon Company.

Hearing Aids Described

The use of hearing aids in combating the hardships of deafness was discussed by W. C. Beasley of the U. S. Public Health Service. He outlined the differences between the character of deafness in men and in women, and said that only 5 per cent of the persons who might profit by the use of hearing aids were using them.

H. P. Gage of the Corning Glass Works reported to the SMPE on the work of the Inter-Society Color Council and explained the various systems which have been proposed for standardizing and designating all the colors in the spectrum. He pointed to the increasing need for standardization because of increased color use.

Papers on sound engineering and acoustics included a discussion by C. C. Potwin, ERPI, on the need of consideration of acoustical laws in theatre design to the end that proper shaping of the auditorium space might eliminate the call for much corrective acoustical treatment after the building had been erected. He also described improved methods of applying acoustical correction where needed by the use of scattered patches at important points.

Audience Noise and Range

W. A. Mueller, Warner-First National Studios, contributed a paper on the effect of audience noise on the allowable volume range in the theatre. He said this noise frequently reached the eight decibel level and would obliterate softly spoken dialogue unless the recording range were adjusted to keep the lowest sounds above this point.

Sandvik and Grimwood described researches on the use of fine-grain sound stocks and concluded that if fine-grain stocks were not used both in rerecording and release printing, no substantial advantage would be gained by using these stocks at any single step in the process.

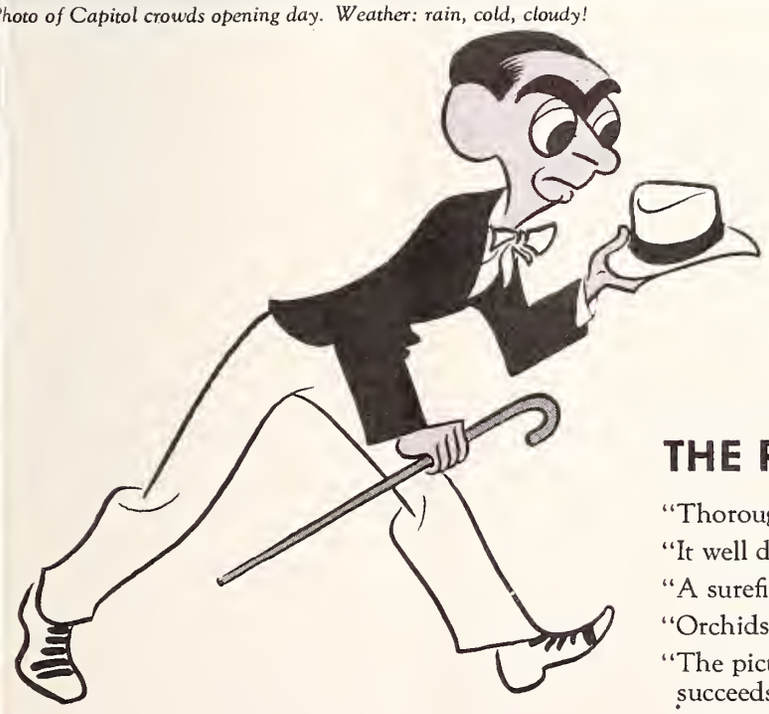
Matthew Luckiesh addressed an evening group on "The Science of Seeing," and L. A. Jones, Eastman Kodak, described his recent work on photographic tone reproduction and practical camera film speeds.

J. Robbins of Paramount Pictures contributed a paper on the new silent treadmill which permits the studio production of difficult action sequences which formerly had to be taken with a moving camera under all the difficulties of outdoor production.

The semi-annual banquet and dance was held at the hotel on Wednesday evening, and the convention adjourned the following afternoon with an announcement by President Williford that the society would reassemble for its Fall Meeting in Hollywood.

CANADIAN THEATRES NOW TOTAL 1,251

The number of theatres operating in Canada at the end of 1939 was 1,251, an increase of 27 over the total of the previous year, according to a Government report.



The greater part of the increase was due to the construction of new theatres, the report said.

Central Casting Appointment Is Under Criticism

That debate might continue over the administration of the Central Casting Corporation (Hollywood's job dispenser for extra players, the management of which was long accused of favoritism) was indicated last week when two Los Angeles newspapers editorially disapproved of the appointment on Tuesday of Howard Philbrick as general manager of the corporation.

The new general manager had been California's director of motor vehicles. He resigned that post about three weeks ago, after a state assembly committee had investigated the placing of a dictaphone in the assembly speaker's hotel room. Mr. Philbrick assumed responsibility for this action.

Had Been FBI Agent

The new general manager of the casting corporation had been an agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Explaining more fully the reasons for Mr. Philbrick's appointment, Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of Twentieth Century-Fox, a former president of the Motion Picture Producers Association, and now a member, said:

"Y. Frank Freeman (Paramount production head), as president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, appointed E. J. Mannix as a committee of one to effect a reorganization of the central casting bureau. As I understand it, Edwin J. Loeb and the Screen Actor's Guild recommended Mr. Philbrick as general manager of the bureau. I contacted Governor Olsen regarding Mr. Philbrick, and the Governor endorsed him very strongly.

"On the recommendation of the SAG, and other agencies concerned with the welfare of screen extras, Mannix appointed Philbrick."

The Screen Actors Guild, through Kenneth Thomson, its executive secretary, said this week that it had endorsed Mr. Philbrick, but that it "would not go any farther than that single recommendation."

The Screen Actors Guild's Class B Council on Wednesday voted against autonomy and requested that the directors reopen negotiations with the producers for a new code and wage scale for extras. The board had halted negotiations for a 15 percent wage increase.

Mr. Philbrick, who succeeded Campbell McCullough in the casting agency post, last weekend appointed Aubrey Blair, for more than six years executive secretary of the Junior Screen Actors Guild, as head of the casting agency's division of central casting, and Gerald I. Farman, former director of WPA operations in Hollywood, an assistant.

Other Developments In the Labor Field

In Hollywood, last week, the Screen Office Employees Guild asked the National Labor Relations Board for certification as the collective bargaining agency for 10 studios.

Apropos of the expected resumption of negotiations between producers and studio unions, on relinquishing, by the latter, of the 10 per cent wage increase gained last Fall, Herbert Sorrell, agent for the painters' local, declared last week that the painters wanted "proof" that the producers were losing money; that the painters were making 40 per cent less this year; and that they might agree to return 10 per cent of their increase if guaranteed 42 weeks' work per year.

In New York, the Screen Publicists and Advertising Guild claimed a membership of over 200 in the home offices of the major film companies, a majority, they claimed, in every office but one.

The New York State Labor Relations Board on Monday upheld the recent bargaining election for the Endicott circuit, New York City, in which the motion picture division of the Theatrical Managers, Agents, and Treasurers Union was defeated. The union had appealed.

Pittsburgh Organizing Delayed

Organization of the American Guild of Variety Artists in Pittsburgh has been held up by lack of enthusiasm, rival unions, opposition of employers, and other obstacles, Tom Kelly, organizer, said last week, in postponing until Sunday the nomination of officers.

Phil Irving has become executive secretary of the New York local of the variety artists' guild. He had been president. Lou Ashe has been elected president of the newly-formed San Francisco local.

The Associated Actors and Artistes of America, parent actors' group, held its first annual entertainment and ball last Sunday, at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, New York City. Proceeds went to the union.

The New York Local, 702, of the Laboratory Technicians, have elected 11 delegates to the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees annual convention, in Louisville, Kentucky, in June. The delegates are John Rugge, president; William Vermont, secretary; Michael Davidson, Lloyd Frank, John Francavilla, Rose Vanoli, Vera Dorey, Mort Bloom, William Schwab, Joseph Mitchell, and Michael Marotta.

Willie Bioff, West Coast IATSE representative and chairman of the Conference of American Federation of Labor Studio Unions, must remain in Chicago's Bridwell Prison, pending a possible review by the Illinois state supreme court, perhaps in June, of the confirmation of his jail sentence, in 1922, by a state court of appeals.

In Hollywood, it was announced by Harold V. Smith, business agent of the Sound Technicians Local 659, that 22 independent studios had signed an amended wage contract.

Selznick Reorganization To Cut Taxes Is Studied

Plans for reorganizing Selznick International Pictures for the purpose of simplifying the corporate structure to eliminate unnecessarily heavy taxes are understood to be under consideration in New York. David Selznick, president; John Hay Whitney, chairman of the board; Daniel O'Shea, vice-president, and company attorneys have been studying a number of proposals.

Heavy receipts from the company's "Gone with the Wind" and "Rebecca" are said to have created tax problems under the company's present corporate setup.

Salaries Listed

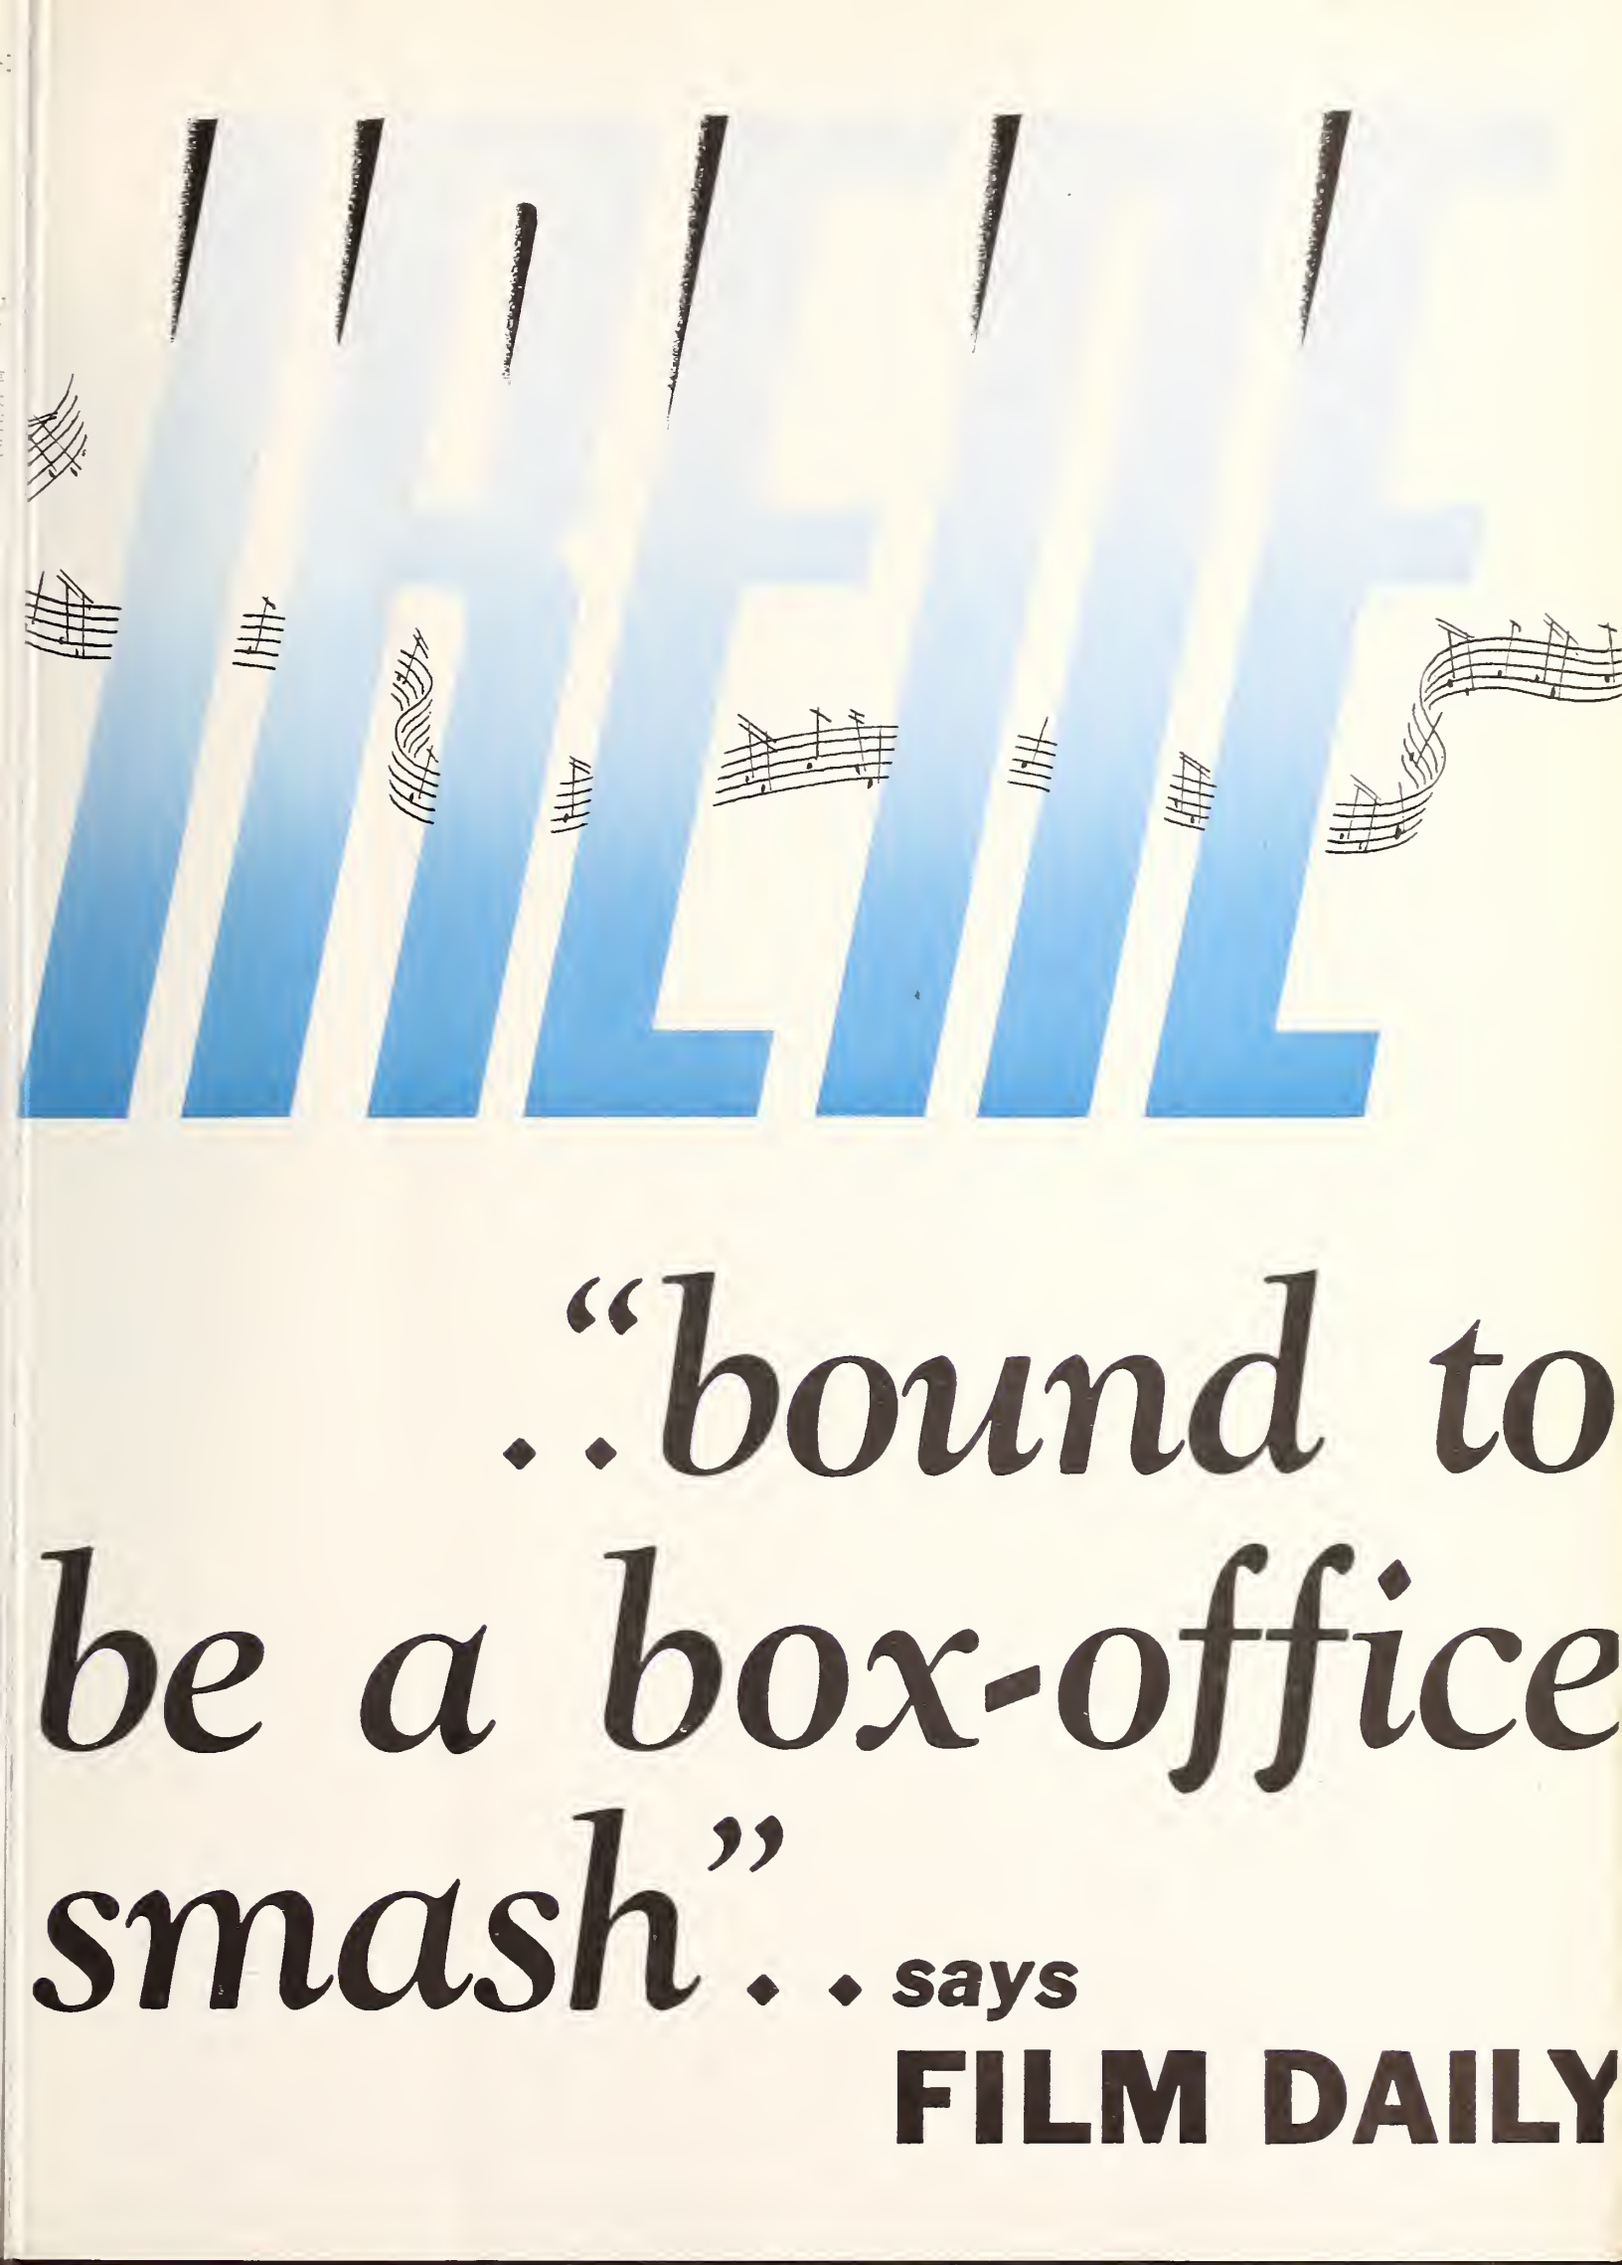
Columbia Films and CBS Show Net Profit Rise

Columbia Pictures Corporation for the six months ended December 30th showed net profit of $215,582.44 after the deduction of an extraordinary reserve of $100,000 and after deduction of the loss of $104,751.90 for the September quarter. This compares with a net profit of $34,596.79 for the corresponding 1938 half year.

Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., reports for the 13 weeks ended March 30th, net income of $1,552,031 after depreciation, federal income taxes, etc., equal to 90 cents each on the combined 1,716,277 shares of Class A and Class B stocks. This compares with a net income of $1,163,947, or 68 cents a share on 1,708,723 shares for the 13 weeks endde April 1st. The foregoing reflect operations of Columbia Recording Corporation and its susidiaries. Gross income from sale of facilities was $12,777,065 compared to $10,276,198 for the corresponding 1939 period.

The net profit of Columbia Pictures for the first three months ended December 30, 1939, was $320,334.34 after deduction of the extraordinary reserve of $100,000, compared with a net loss of $104,751.90 in the preceding quarter ended September 30, 1939. The dividend on the preferred stock for the current quarter has been declared payable May 15th to stockholders of record May 1st.

Current assets as of December 30th were approximately $13,526,000 and current liabilities $1,550,000 making a net working capital of $11,976,000. The company paid the annual installment of $250,000 on its debentures March 15th in anticipation of the due date, April 30th, and has now reduced total debentures outstanding to $1,000,000.



"In the six months period ended December 30, 1939," Harry Cohn, president, said, "the management considered it advisable to revise the allocation of film costs so that they would be more in line with immediate and anticipated world wide conditions, and therefore reduced film costs allocated to England by 5 per cent which has been added to domestic allocation.

"In line with the desire of the management to maintain a conservative policy an additional decrease of the film costs allocated to foreign countries amounting to 5 per cent has been effected January 1, 1940. The percentage of film costs allocated to the United States is now 75 per cent, to the United Kingdom 20 per cent and to other foreign markets 5 per cent.

"We are giving special attention to pictures which will help domestic exhibitors to larger box office revenue and we are continuing to expand all possible markets and effect economies wherever possible."

Monogram Films Escape Fire

Norton V. Richey, manager of Monogram's foreign department, announced that, through the quick action of Lynn Yost, Panama manager, all Monogram prints were saved in the fire that destroyed much of Colon, Panama. The films were rushed out of the danger zone. During the fire all theatres in Colon were closed.

ASIDES and INTERLUDES

By JAMES P. CUNNINGHAM

WILLIE BIOFF, who is doing a six-month stretch in the House of Correction in Chicago, has settled down to a clerkship in the receiving department, far from the more rigorous life as Big Boss of Hollywood's studio unions.

Serving a six month sentence on an 18-year-old charge, Bioff, as No. 2766, takes the clothes from incoming prisoners, and after noting the nature of the garments in a big, thick book, shinnies up a ladder to tuck them in cubbyholes.

He arises at 7, breakfasts at 7:30 (Oatmeal, coffee and bread, without butter), goes off to work at eight, has luncheon at 11:15 (Typical: ox-tails, boiled vegetables, gravy, coffee and bread, without butter), returns back to work at one, winding up his clothes cubbyholing at 4:10, when dinner is served (Typical: hamburger, potatoes, gravy, tea and bread, without butter).

Bioff may buy a little candy, fruit or tobacco at the jail commissary three times a week. He may transact some of his extensive Hollywood studio union business by mail—no telephone calls—and also through his attorney, who is permitted to visit him daily during two three-hour periods. His other visitors are limited to one a month.

John P. Nick, former boss of the St. Louis Motion Picture Operators Union, Local No. 143, and Clyde Weston, former union business agent, were allowed an appeal to the Missouri Supreme Court from Circuit Judge Ernest F. Oakley's recent decree ousting them from permanent control of the union and permanently enjoining them from interfering with its affairs.

They presented an affidavit stating they were aggrieved by the court's order.

Those two Swiss inventors who would turn talkies into "smellies," with an odorated sound track to heighten a photoplay's illusion, claim they can produce at least 5,000 separate smells to put on a movie screen. They recommend about ten smells to a feature-length picture as about the right odorization. Good, workable, breezy air conditioners are going to come in mighty handy.

And in St. Louis the other day St. Louisans not only read but sniffed their newspapers. Printed in green ink, a candy advertisement in The Globe-Democrat carried a fragrant aroma of peppermint. A department store advertisement in The Post-Dispatch, printed in pink, was scented with the spicy odor of a new cologne. The nose appeal was obtained by mixing peppermint and perfume with the inks.

Outside criticisms of Hollywood's ways will never end. Now it's the National Council of State Liquor Dealers that is protesting, against the "invariable use of 'Scotch-and-soda'" in movie dialogue. Producers will be requested to employ only references to American spirits —good ol' rye and bourbon.

A movie director's demand for realism has presented Los Angeles police with a real life murder mystery and launched the biggest manhunt of the year in Southern California.

The body of a little Negro girl, believed to be Dorothy Lee Gordon, nine, who was kidnapped from 16th and Hooper streets by a white man on March 5th, was found in the grass near Culver boulevard, half a mile east of the beach, apparently a victim of violence.

The man who found her was Frank Roman, Paramount Studio nurseryman, who was gathering grass for a movie set because Cecil B. DeMille had that morning rejected an imitation product for use in his "North West Mounted Police."

"Shangay Lily will be fifth in line of Seabiscuit's current affections. All LeRoy hopes for is a colt that will follow in his father's footsteps."

Returning from a visit in the southland, Dick Conners, our Albany, N. Y., correspondent, brings word that W. V. Brockman, South Carolina exhibitor who operates in Barnwell and Allendale, both in Barnwell County, has a new way of making friends—he gives patrons their money back when it rains.

Mr. Brockman's Ritz theatre in Barnwell has 183 seats—and a tin roof. Rain pattering on the roof interferes with films' sound, so when Jupiter Pluvius visits Barnwell during a performance, patrons get a rain check for a future performance. If they are out of towners, as were some 35 Albany Eastern League ball players the other night, they get their money back—cheerfully.

CLEM JAUNICH, of Delano, Minnesota, 13 years after an operation left him completely paralyzed from the waist down, today is one of the town's leading citizens, runs the Delano movie house, drives an automobile, bowls—all from a wheelchair. To help him conduct his business, the telephone company arranged to have a portable telephone installed in his car.

In 1927, at 18, Clem Jaunich had six vertebrae and a tumor removed from his back. The operation paralyzed him from the waist down. For four years after his operation he was confined to his home, watching the world pass by his bedroom window. With a new courage, he took up reading and studying. It paid dividends.

Around 1930 he began toying with the idea of an invention enabling him to drive an automobile. Nimble fingers, a creative mind produced a remote control apparatus that, when installed in a car, made it possible for him to drive. Patented, the invention has brought him moderate wealth.

After 1932, he began to expand his business, conducted from a cot on wheels. He purchased the Delano theatre, built a new building. Two years ago he installed bowling alleys in his Town club, learned to bowl from his wheel chair, bowling twice a week every night, hitting as much as 159. He does his film buying and booking on Film Row in Minneapolis from the portable telephone in his car.

Associated Press reports from Berlin how two German generals, an admiral, a naval captain and a motion picture photographer, completed their journey to Norway by swimming the last 200 yards through icy water covered by oil so hot that it burned their bodies. The five were on a German cruiser which was sunk by Norwegian shore batteries.

Holding onto four pistols, some money and a water-tight can of exposed film, they reached the rocky shore, where several Norwegian soldiers demanded that they surrender. The Germans refused and the soldiers withdrew to get help, they said.

Then the officers decided to destroy the films because they would interest the enemy.

They reported that in a few minutes the Norwegian soldiers returned, but were in a more friendly mood. Supplied with dry clothing by the Norwegians, the Germans went to Oslo by taxicab, spending their time en route kidding the photographer over destruction of his pictures. Some fun.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES AND NAME BANDS SUPPLANTING VAUDEVILLE

Thirty Key City Houses Turn to Film Stars and Orchestras; Stage Policy in Three Theatres

Personal appearances of motion picture stars and "name" bands, which are frequently featured in film shorts, were the principal pillars of vaudeville this season in the some 30 principal theatres across the country using that type of entertainment to supplement the drawing power of feature film presentations.

Although vaudeville picked up from what was called its all-time low of last summer, efforts to extend the use of such acts to increase revenue or to substitute for the second feature met with little success. The principal exception was the Brandt circuit in New York, which turned over three theatres to vaudeville this season, using only newsreels and shorts with the stage show.

Star Tours at Crest

The vaudeville season just ending was marked by a rush of Hollywood stars to the road for personal appearance tours for the purpose of exploiting individual pictures or building up the personalities themselves. This action was caused by unemployment in Hollywood, by the desire of the studios to build new stars through contact with the public and test the drawing power of other stars and to increase theatre grosses. Film stars' personal appearance tours were detailed in the Nov. 11, 1939, issue of MOTION PICTURE HERALD.

In addition to the some 30 key-city theatres which regularly use vaudeville there are a number of houses which used vaudeville occasionally. Some of these have formed small independent booking circuits.

Two years ago Harry Brandt proposed vaudeville for a number of his metropolitan New York theatres as part of a drive to stamp out double features. In March, 1939, the experiment was started at the Flatbush in Brooklyn. At the end of the first season William Brandt, who is in charge of the circuit's vaudeville operation in addition to his other managerial duties, said the "new type" of vaudeville was a "phenomenal success" and plans to extend the system were announced.

Cites Added Work

William Brandt, at the conclusion of the second season, is even more enthusiastic about vaudeville and pointed proudly to the record. He said, "In the 38 weeks of vaudeville ending May 1st at the Flatbush, Brooklyn; Windsor, Bronx, and Carleton, Jamaica, we have given 2,000 weeks' work to musicians, 1,000 to stage hands and actor in addition to extra employment for ushers, bill-posters, doormen and the like. We were told we could not do it. But we have pioneered for theatres all over the country. If others follow and are successful the unemployment problem in theatrical professions will be helped."

His vaudeville policy, Mr. Brandt explained, is to give the public a diversified big stage presentation running an hour and a half plus over an hour of newreels and selected short subjects. The admission price charged is that of the average motion picture first run.

Mr. Brandt said, "The vaudeville theatre has produced more stars for screen, stage and radio than other other medium. Vaudeville and stock are the best schools for talent." He pointed out that vaudeville can develop new personalities for the screen. With a "merchandising a la Woolworth policy"—a large audience paying relatively low costs—Mr. Brandt believes that vaudeville can be a success today because it gives the public a change.

The Brandt vaudeville circuit now gives two and a half weeks of work. There are plans to bring in other theatres until a chain guaranteeing ten weeks can be built. Mr. Brandt said there are independent theatres in Baltimore, Buffalo and Boston which all use vaudeville. He suggested that perhaps they could get together as a vaudeville booking unit to get the strongest possible attractions. He is also considering the possibility of adding more Brandt houses to the vaudeville chain.

Mr. Brandt listed a number of acts which have appeared in his theatres this season to show what good attractions can be obtained. Film stars, or those who have appeared in pictures included: Tony Martin, John Boles, Jack Haley, Mary Carlisle, Marie Wilson, Dead End Kids, Henry Armetta, Bert Wheeler, Patricia Ellis, Jimmy Durante. The following leaders and their orchestras appeared: Sammy Kaye, Bob Crosby, Ben Bernie, Cab Calloway, Paul Whiteman, Charlie Barnett, Jimmy Dorsey, John "Scat" Davis, Shep Fields, Ozzie Nelson, Russ Morgan, Vincent Lopez, Bob Chester, Ray Noble, Rita Rio, Bobby Byrne and Charles "Buddy" Rogers. Other attractions included Willie & Eugene Howard, Lou Holtz, George Jessel, Helen Morgan, Morton Downey, Benay Venuta and Toby Wing. These are typical of vaudeville attractions used to help the pull of the motion picture or, in the case of the Brandt theatres, to stand alone.

Returning on Labor Day

The three Brandt theatres will return to a vaudeville policy on Labor Day. For the summer the Windsor and Flatbush will show foreign pictures.

At present only four RKO theatres are playing vaudeville regularly and three of these will drop it for the summer months.

The RKO theatres using stage shows are the Palace, Cleveland; Keith's, Boston; Strand, Syracuse; Golden Gate, San Francisco, and the Orpheum, Indianapolis, and the Palace, Columbus, both occasionally. The Shubert in Cincinnati dropped vaudeville for the summer on March 28th and the Colonial in Dayton on April 18th. The Golden Gate in San Francisco will keep the vaudeville policy all summer. About the middle of May the other theatres will discontinue the stage attractions. It is reported that RKO may book an occasional show during the summer.

Capitol Stage Show

The Capitol theatre in New York had a stage show this week for the first time since summer when Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland appeared on the opening of "The Wizard of Oz." Eddie Cantor heads the show this week and the picture is "Forty Little Mothers," in which he appears. The Cantor-Jessel unit is reported to be the highest paid of the current vaudeville season, getting, it is said, $15,000 a week.

Other Loew houses using vaudeville are the Capitol in Washington, Loew's Richmond and the State in New York.

Warner houses using vaudeville include the Earle, Washington; Strand, New York; Stanley, Philadelphia; Stanley, Pittsburgh.

The Harris Amusement Company has been experimenting in presenting stage shows one night a week at each of six neighborhood houses in the Pittsburgh area. Officials of the company stated that the stage shows would be dropped after a month's trial if grosses did not pick up. Warner theatres in Erie, Johnstown, Greenburg and Morgantown and some independent houses are playing units and revues.

Activity in Detroit

The Michigan theatre in Detroit is scheduled to begin stage shows on May 3rd. The Fox also is expected to adopt a similar policy. The Colonial, second-run theatre, has been using vaudeville all winter. The Harper and Tuxedo, Wisper & Westman, neighborhood theatres used acts a few nights a week. Associated Theatres is restoring stage shows at the Rialto in Flint. The Court in Ayburn, Ind., has played vaudeville all season.

The only house the Fanchon & Marco agency is booking for at the present time is the Roxy in New York.

Paramount theatres using stage shows include the Paramount in New York; Chicago, Chicago; and the State-Lake, Chicago. This week a Major Bowes winners unit played two days at each of the following towns in Paramount theatres; St. Cloud, Mankata, Austin and Winona, all in Minnesota.

Other theatres now using vaudeville are Fay's Philadelphia; Carman, Philadelphia; Astor, Reading; Hippodrome, Baltimore; State, Baltimore; Buffalo, Buffalo; Tower, Kansas City; Riverside, Milwaukee; State, Hartford; Savoy, Newark; Liberty, Elizabeth; Towers, Camden, and Hippodrome, Toronto. Vaudeville of a type is used at the Radio City Music Hall. A number of other theatres use "small-time" vaudeville for one night a week.

Many theatres will discontinue vaudeville during the next few weeks. Competition with baseball, beaches and other summer attractions, is considered too great. Theatres in the Detroit area are the exception in that they plan to add vaudeville during May.

MARXES TRYING OUT GAGS IN ADVANCE

The Marx Brothers will make a series of personal appearances, starting at the Rialto theatre, Joliet, Ill., April 29th, to try out comedy material to be used in their next Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film, temporarily titled "Go West." This is usual procedure with the comedians, trying out film gags in advance.

The troupe of about 30 will play two days in Joliet, to be followed by a similar engagement, starting May 1st, at the Paramount, Toledo. On May 3rd they will start a week's engagement at the Michigan, Detroit, and beginning May 10th will appear for a week at the Chicago theatre in Chicago.

Heading the supporting cast of the act will be the Frazee Sisters, with other performers including Robert Grandon, tenor; Darlene Walders, acrobatic dancer; Sethma and Rudolph, dance team; Ann Lee, singer; Alden Chase, Joan Blair, Louise Squires and Peggy Carroll. There will also be a unit of 12 dancers.

UNIVERSAL SETS CONVENTION DATE; MORE LOCAL TALENT FOR MONOGRAM

Universal's Regional Meetings at Atlantic City May 11–13 and in Chicago May 18–20; RKO Meets May 27–30

Fourth among the distributors to peg its 1940 sales convention date, Universal Pictures this week set two regionals, one for Atlantic City May 11-13, the second for Chicago May 18-20. Twentieth Century-Fox and Monogram already have held their conventions, Fox two weeks ago and Monogram last weekend. RKO is set for May 27-30.

Paramount probably will meet in June, with Columbia, MGM, Republic, United Artists and Warners still to decide, although Republic and United Artists are expected to hold their annual sessions in May.

Monogram's New Plans

As Monogram's convention was opening in Dallas over the weekend, 1940-41 product plans were announced by W. Ray Johnston, highlighting a program of 26 features and 24 westerns, for which a $9,225,000 sales quota has been set. Titles and details of the first sessions were reported last week in MOTION PICTURE HERALD, on page 29.

In the closing meetings the studio, home office and local franchise dealer delegates were told by Mr. Johnston that Monogram pictures would be designed also for the Latin American market, and that the company might produce eight westerns in Mexico, with native actors in support.

The company's sales quota is $375,000 higher than last year's; $3,000,000 higher than that of 1937, when the reorganized company held its first convention, Mr. Johnston noted.

The chief speaker on Monday was Robert O'Donnell, of the Interstate circuit.

Additional Speakers

Other speakers on Monday were Edward Kuykendall, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, who asked that hatreds risen out of differences over the trade practices be abandoned, for the benefit of the industry as a whole; Mike Rice, counsel for the Robb and Rowley circuit, who discussed opportunities for independent production and distribution; Jack Kirsch, president of Illinois Allied, who pledged 173 Illinois theatres' support to the company; and Edward Golden, the company's general sales manager, who discussed tne new product.

The Monogram franchise holders were told on Sunday that Ray "Crash" Corrigan, formerly of the "Three Mesquiteers" series of westerns, John King and Max Terhune would be teamed in a series of westerns titled "The Three Pals," by George Weeks, former Monogram sales executive.

Additional speakers were Sam Dembow, of the Paramount theatre department; Ed Rowley, circuit executive; R. E. Griffith, circuit operator; Colonel H. A. Cole, president of the National Allied States Association; Scott R. Dunlap, Monogram's vice-president in charge of production, and Julius Gordon.

Scully Announces Universal Dates

Universal will hold two three-day regional sales conventions, William Scully, sales manager, announced on Monday. The first will be at the Ambassador hotel, Atlantic City, beginning May 11th; and the second at the Drake hotel in Chicago, starting May 18th.

MAKE FEWER FILMS, WOOD TELLS SCHENCK

If the large film companies would make fewer pictures, the exhibitors might be able to give them greater playing time, P. J. "Pete" Wood, business manager of the Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio, said last week in a letter to Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of Twentieth Century-Fox and former president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

Last fall, with the beginning of war in Europe, Mr. Schenck asked exhibitors to extend playing time, and declared recently at the Fox sales convention in Chicago that exhibitors should share the distributors' burden. Mr. Wood told Mr. Schenck:

"So long as the major companies follow the present system of forcing a large number of mediocre pictures upon the exhibitor, just so long will your repeated pleas for extended playing time be unheeded."

Fox Foreign Meeting In Havana Thursday

Following its annual sales convention two weeks ago in Chicago, Twentieth Century-Fox was to start the first of its series of foreign sales conventions, in Havana, on Thursday, this for the Central American and Caribbean territories.

The convention was to last three days, with Walter Hutchinson, foreign sales director, presiding. Irving Maas, his assistant, supervised preparations.

Mr. Hutchinson plans to leave New York for Europe on May 18th to meet the European leaders in Paris.

The new manager for Peru is Charles Matzen; for Colombia S. Chiesa, former Peruvian Manager; for Venezuela, E. D. Cohen, former Ecuadorean manager; for Ecuador, K. B. Knust, formerly of Panama. D. Cyril Steyn has been made publicity head for South Africa.

Columbia Managers' Atlanta Meeting

Branch managers of the Southern division of Columbia Pictures met on Monday at the Ainsley hotel, Atlanta, to plan the final weeks of the Montague Fifteenth Anniversary Campaign. Sam Moscow, head of the division, presided, with Mr. Montague. Branch managers were W. W. Anderson, Atlanta; R. J. Ingram, Charlotte; J. B. Underwood, Dallas; J. J. Rogers, Memphis; C. A. Gibbs, Oklahoma City; H. Duvall, New Orleans.

RKO Foreign Men At May Convention

RKO's ninth international sales convention, May 27th to 30th, at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, New York, will be attended by a large number of the company's foreign sales representatives, Phil Reisman, general manager of the foreign department, said this week.

In the foreign group will be Reginald Armour, general European manager; Gus Schaefer, district manager of the Caribbean countries; Max Gomez, manager for Mexico; F. S. Gulbransen, for Panama; Pedro Saenz, for Cuba. Others in RKO's foreign department who will attend are Ned Seckler, home office representative; Nick Ermolieff, foreign department representative of the Hollywood studios; Ben Y. Cammack, assistant to Mr. Reisman; R. K. Hawkinson, B. D. Lion, Michael Hoffay, Alfred Frank, Larry Ehrreich, Eddie Ugast and Arthur Rossum.

Korda Leaving; Financing Set

The new $3,600,000 financing deal, with which United Artists' British producer Alexander Korda may make two pictures in Hollywood and two in London, has been closed formally with the Security National Bank of Los Angeles and the Bankers' Trust Company in New York. Emanuel Silverstone, Mr. Korda's American representative, reported in New York on Monday following three weeks on the Coast.

Mr. Korda was to arrive in New York by plane from the coast on Thursday, preparatory to boarding a Pan-American Airways Clipper for Europe on Saturday.

Mr. Silverstone said that credit of $3,200,000 had been allotted for four Korda pictures, and that an additional $400,000 would be lent to Mr. Korda and United Artists, the company through which he releases, in connection with the two pictures in London.

Prefacing his trip to New York, Mr. Korda was negotiating for space at the General Service and Samuel Goldwyn studios, Mr. Silverstone said.

Mr. Korda already has set up his organization in Hollywood, for the completion of "Thief of Bagdad," most of which was produced in Britain before the war started.

Schlesinger's New Deal; Several Others Signed

In Hollywood this week and last, producers continued to swell their talent rosters, in preparation for next season's pictures.

The contract between Leon Schlesinger, cartoon producer, and Warner Brothers has been renewed for two years. The Schlesinger studios have scheduled 42 shorts for 1940-41. Twenty-six will be "Merrie Melodies" in color; 16 will be "Looney Tunes" in black-and-white. The studio has completed 33 of its 42 cartoons for the 1939-40 season, one month ahead of schedule. On June 28th the plant will close for its annual two week vacation.

While the RKO shorts will be numerically the same as last year's, there will be one new series, according to Harry Michalson, the short subjects sales manager.

Leon Errol has signed with RKO, to appear in six pictures a year.

Darryl Zanuck, in charge of production for Twentieth Century-Fox, on Monday appointed Milton Sperling, a writer for the company, to be associate producer. The company now has 11 associate producers.

Franchot Tone, Paramount screen actor, who has been on the legitimate stage almost a year, will return to pictures in June, William Le Baron, managing director of production for the company, announced. Mr. Tone will play in "Virginia," with Madeline Carroll.

Republic has signed Ona Munson for three pictures, the first to be "Wagons Westward"; the second, "Lady from New Orleans."

Columbia Pictures last week signed Constance Bennett.

Distributors in England Call CEA Campaign Ill-Advised; Advance Sale in London Sets Record

Announcement, last mid-December, by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, that the exhibition charges to theatres for showing David Oliver Selznick's "Gone with the Wind" would be 70 per cent, brought protestations from individual and organized exhibitor centers. But attacks made by owners in England this week even reached the proportions of threatened boycott and received recognition from the international news services, which cabled New York word of an impending shutout engineered by the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association, reputedly representing 90 per cent of exhibitors in England.

Film Favorably Received

The picture first reached London last Thursday evening, at the Palace, Empire and Ritz theatres, and was given favorable attention both by the press and the first night audiences.

But the 70 per cent rental charge caused the CEA to loosen a barrage against all high rentals, with "Wind" especially singled out for attack. Spokesmen for distributors there called the CEA's campaign in the open "vulgar and inadvised."

It was a long-threatening storm of protest by English exhibitors over rental terms that broke when the CEA sent a bulletin to all members advising them to refuse to pay high rentals.

Tuesday, the CEA decided to issue weekly pamphlets in the fight for reduced rentals, with systematic listing of selected high-priced films which exhibitors are asked not to book.

Member exhibitors were said to have expressed satisfaction with the results of their opening shots in the rental war, with press statements emphasizing the alleged intention of distributors to extract more money from patrons.

W. R. Fuller, general secretary, urged members to boycott "Wind" because the market already was being "milked" by MGM through the triple London showings, and suggested that MGM and other companies might follow this precedent on other pictures with lower attendance the result. The pamphlet also suggested that American distributors were increasing rentals to accumulate sufficient funds to acquire British theatres.

The CEA charged that Sam Eckman, MGM managing director in London, had a salary of $46,000 a year, more than that received by members of the British Cabinet. The association suggested that MGM could afford to make a little less money while British exhibitors could not afford to lose more.

Exhibitors' Costs Recounted

In protesting against the 70 per cent rental terms, a certified accountant's report was cited to show that exhibitors' overhead is 45 per cent, rent 12½ per cent and depreciation 8 per cent. It was argued that rental could not be increased without causing loss to the exhibitors. MGM is requiring a minimum admission price of three shillings six pence (87c at normal rate; about 70c at current exchange) for matinees, and four shillings and a half ($1.12 normal rate and about 90c at current exchange) at night. The usual price for neighborhood theatres and houses outside London is one and two shillings (25c-50c normal; 20c-40c at current rates).

The exhibitors' assocation also attacked the 50 per cent terms being asked for "Broadway Melody" (MGM), "Another Thin Man" (MGM), "Elizabeth and Essex" (Warner Brothers) and "Hunchback of Notre Dame" (RKO). The bulletin said those pictures were not worth 50 per cent. Rental terms in England usually run from about 30 per cent up to 50 per cent.

Officials of the Kinematograph Renters Society (distributors' group) refused to comment officially on the action taken by the exhibitors. Typically British comments of "vulgar" and "inadvised" were the only remarks distributors would make on the exhibitors' campaign for lower rentals.

See Joint Talks Broken Off

Unofficially it is understood in London that the immediate result of the leaflet will be the breaking off of preparations for joint talks between the CEA and the distributors. Discussions in provincial branches of the CEA disclosed that the campaign for lower rentals was organized by a special committee and kept secret from the CEA general council.

One distribution executive expressed the belief that as a result of the campaign the greater part of the best product would go to the circuits.

The MGM home office in New York said that "Wind" was not being sold as yet in England except to the three theatres now showing the picture. The British sales policy has not been decided. It was said that Mr. Eckman would suggest the sales terms and the final decision would be made with the approval of the home office and David O. Selznick, the producer. Selling of the picture may not begin for several weeks in England.

Advance Sales Records

The MGM home office announced that the advance ticket sales for the Palace, Empire and Ritz theatres, with a total of 13,000 seats, has set a record of about $45,000 and the gross for the next few weeks is expected to be about $70,000 per week.

From London the New York Times, via wireless, said that at the first three "downtown" showings "Wind" had set an all-time advance sale record. It also reported that the British hope that some of the profits which can not be exported on account of government regulations will be reinvested for the benefit of English producers, actors and technicians.

All the trimmings of a Hollywood premiere, except searchlights which were banned by blackout regulations, were present at the triple opening attended by 5,500 persons, including five Cabinet Ministers and nine Ambassadors, according to the United Press. The Associated Press said the critics hailed "Wind" as "magnificent" but asked the question, "Is it art?" The notice also said that Vivien Leigh received "kindly notices" but the critics' highest praise was for Hattie McDaniel, who plays the colored mammy.

The list of celebrities attending released by the MGM home office in New York included the following: Cabinet Members—Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty; Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for Air; Sir Kingsley Wood, Lord Privy Seal; Lord Stanhope, Lord President of the Council; Sir John Anderson, Home Secretary and Minister for Home Security; Captain Euan Wallace, Minister of Transport, Captain; D. Margesoon, Parliamentary Secretary to the Treasury; W. S. Morrison, Postmaster General; Admiral of Fleet, Lord Chatfield; General Sir Fergurson Brooke, Commanding Officer Western Command.

Society was represented by the Duke of Westminster, Duchess of Marlborough, Constance, Duchess of Westminster; Lord and Lady Louis Mountbatten, Lady Alexandra Haig, Lord and Lady Kinrose and Marchioness of Headfort.

From London Reviews

Prominent also were Hore-Belisha, Newspaper Lords Camrose Kemsley, Esmond Harmsworth, Mrs. Anthony Eden, Viscount Castlerosse, Countess of Oxford and Asquith, Lady Duveen, Lady Inchcape and the Sultan of Johore.

Among the film and stage notables were Robert Donat, Robert Montgomery, Leslie Howard, Constance Cummings, Sir Seymour Hicks, Leslie Banks, Conrad Veidt and Richard Tauber.

The MGM home office reported that the applause after the film was shown was prolonged even into the national anthem. The MGM office in New York also sent out excerpts from London reviews on "Wind" which included the following:

Evening Standard: It is terrific; it is devastating . . . an emotional upheaval.

Telegraph: It got off to the most auspicious start ever known in London. Will break all records.

Daily Mail: "G.W.T.W." is a winner. There is no doubt about that.

Daily Mirror: This is the greatest film ever.

Evening News: The forerunner of a bigger and better kind of film. Lives up to the expectations of this most-talked-of-film.

Daily Sketch: A picture which for magnitude in every sense of the world leaves all other greatest ever far behind.

News Chronicle: Pictorial effects are breathtaking in their sweep and composition.

Daily Herald: In many ways the most stupendous film yet made.

In advance of the "Wind" premieres in London, 100,000 copies of the Margaret Mitchell novel were put on sale at the equivalent of 50 cents each, the paper having been purchased and stored for the purpose prior to the recent government "rationing" order.

2,429 Dates in U. S.

In the United States MGM announced that 174 additional engagements for "Wind" had been scheduled, bringing the total bookings thus far on the Selznick International production to 2,429 in 2,287 cities.

About 1,600 engagements have been set for a minimum of one week. Salesmen are negotiating for two day dates now, but these will not begin until the four and three day runs are completed. It is reported that by the end of the year the company expects between 5,000 and 6,000 bookings, all at advanced admission prices of 75c and $1.10.

Among the circuits which have set dates for the film are Warners, RKO, Balaban and Katz,

Fabian, Interboro, Seider, Brecher, Consolidated, Skouras, Brandt, Casey & Wheeler, Stein and Rosenblatt. In most cases the picture is booked for only part of the circuit, to play in houses least affected by prior runs of the film.

Edward M. Saunders, MGM western sales manager, conferred with Balaban & Katz officials in Chicago on a deal under which "Wind" would play at three B & K neighborhood houses, the Rivoli, State and Tower, after the first runs at the Oriental and Woods. The deal will not be closed until the date for the termination of the first-run engagements is determined. Circuit executives then will decide what potentialities the film has in the territory before signing. Over 700,000 persons have paid about $600,000 to see the picture in the first 13 weeks at the Oriental and Woods.

Week-Showings in Neighborhoods

The picture began week-showings in neighborhood and suburban houses in the Pittsburgh area two weeks ago. Previously the picture played nine weeks at the Warner and grossed almost as much as the house did in 1939 with its first run dual and holdover policy and compared favorably with a season's receipts at the Nixon, the city's only legitimate theatre, 301,911 persons paid $243,303 at the 190 performances.

Only six second-run showings for "Wind" have been set in Philadelphia, opening May 8th at three Warner houses—the Uptown, 69th Street and Colonial and at three independents—the Rockland, Erlin and Keswick. No additional subsequent bookings are to open before May 23d or 24th, according to S. E. Applegate, MGM sales manager in Philadelphia.

The first American showing outside the United States will be at the Hawaiian premiere at the Honolulu theatre, Waikiki on May 11th.

"20 Mule Team" Trek

MGM's "20 Mule Team" caravan this week visited Indianapolis, Louisville, Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus and Fort Wayne. Enthusiastic crowds and official receptions have greeted the caravan everywhere, MGM reported. The tour is being made in cooperation with the Pacific Borax Company and 25,000 borax dealers throughout the country are said to be active in exploiting the Wallace Beery picture. The picture and the tour also are being advertised on the Borax radio program, "Death Valley Days."

"Lillian Russell" Opens May 15th

Twentieth Century-Fox has announced a double world premiere in Pittsburgh and Clinton, Ia., on May 15th for "Lillian Russell." On May 17th the picture will open at the Roxy theatre in New York.

Stars will attend both openings and Western newspaper men will be entertained at Clinton, and eastern critics at Pittsburgh. Lillian Russell was born in Clinton and spent her last years in Pittsburgh. The premieres will be held at the Capitol theatre in Clinton, and the Alvin in Pittsburgh.

"Lillian Russell," which runs two hours and twenty minutes, is the longest film ever released by 20th Century-Fox, but Darryl F. Zanuck said it could not be shortened without impairing the entertainment qualities. The cast includes Alice Faye, Henry Fonda, Don Ameche, Edward Arnold, Warren William, Leo Carrillo and many others.

Earl W. Wingart of the home office publicity department has gone to Clinton to make arrangements for that premiere. Rodney Bush, exploitation and publicity manager, and Christy Wilbert are at Pittsburgh to handle the opening there. Don Ameche and Lynn Bari are to go to Clinton and Alice Faye and others to Pittsburgh.

TOP COLLEGE MEN FOR FILMS: CROMWELL

Since other large industries and professions seek the top college graduates each year the picture business should fall in line with the same policy, John Cromwell, film director, told students and professors of the University of Southern California this week. He said Hollywood would thus be assured of a constant flow of new talent in all lines of production.

The film industry, he said, should inaugurate a system of apprenticeships in the various crafts and trades and said the logical source of supply is the colleges and universities. The director's remarks highlighted the first demonstration of practical cooperation between studios and the university's Department of Cinematography.

Mr. Cromwell has been appointed special lecturer at the Universtiy.

Northwest Premieres for "Irene"

Ned E. Depinet arranged dual premieres at Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash., for the musical comedy "Irene." The Portland engagement opened at the Paramount theatre on Tuesday and the Seattle run began Wednesday.

Anna Neagle, star, and Herbert Wilcox, producer and director, were scheduled to appear at both openings. The special premieres followed the preview at the Pantages theatre, Los Angeles on April 18th.

S. Barret McCormick, director of advertising and publicity, arranged plans for the openings and campaigns with the theatres.

The general release date on "Irene" is May 3d.

"Typhoon" Premiere in Hawaii

For the first time an American motion picture company held a world premiere outside continental United States when Paramount opened "Typhoon," starring Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston, at the Waikiki theatre in Honolulu, Hawaii, Thursday. Dorothy Lamour went to Hawaii for the opening.

Arrangements were made via transoceanic telephone by Cliff Lewis, studio advertising and public director, and Esmond Parker, head of the Consolidated Amusement Company of Hawaii.

Dorothy Lamour will be featured on the Mutual Broadcasting Company program "Hawaii Calls" from Honolulu on Saturday.

"Flag Speaks" at Ellis Island

MGM's two-reel color short on the American Flag was given a preview showing at Ellis Island on Thursday. The showing was arranged through Rudolph Reimer, U. S. Commissioner of Immigration.

The MPPDA cooperated in arranging the Ellis Island preview. "The Flag Speaks" was made following a suggestion of the American Legion to the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

Officers of various patriotic organizations attended the screening including: the General Federation of Women's Clubs, American Legion, Society of Colonial Dames, Daughters of the American Revolution, Sons of the American Revolution, Boy and Girl Scouts and state and military officials and a group of immigrants.

"Buck Benny" in Harlem

The first film premiere in Harlem was held Tuesday night when Paramount presented "Buck Benny Rides Again" at Loew's Victoria theatre. The special show was arranged in honor of Eddie (Rochester) Anderson.

Those attending included Bill Robinson, Ella Fitzgerald, the Peters Sisters and Miss Harlem (Cissy Bowe). The Hollywood delegation included Jack Benny, star in the film; Mark Sandrich, who produced and directed the picture, and Fred Allen and Rochester.

A parade preceded the opening, and the celebration was broadcast over WHN. Willie Bryant was master of ceremonies. After the show a reception was held for Rochester at the Savoy ballroom.

"Buck Benny Rides Again" has been mentioned on a number of radio shows with stars, director and composer appearing on a number of programs.

Key Dates for "Dark Command"

James R. Grainger, president of Republic, announced that early runs in 25 key towns for "Dark Command" have been arranged. The picture is now running at the Strand in Providence and other April dates include Earle, Philadelphia; State, Omaha; Fox, St. Louis; Rialto, Tacoma; Colorado, Pueblo; Orpheum, Portland; State, Oklahoma City; Dent, Lincoln; Ritz, Corpus Christi, and Schubert, Cincinnati.

The title is to be changed.

May dates arranged to date include the Stanley, Baltimore; Earle and Ambassador, Washington; Alvin, Pittsburgh; Colonial, Dayton; Liberty, Yakima; Kino, Albuquerque, and the Heilih at Eugene, Oregon.

The picture had its world's premiere at Lawrence, Kan., and following the opening played at the Esquire and Towne in Kansas City.

On Milwaukee Commission

Autry Personal Appearance

Gene Autry will be the guest star for 10 days at the "World Championship" rodeo in the Pittsburgh Gardens, beginning April 24th, under Harris Amusement Company auspices.

Acquires "Outsider" Rights

Norris Distributing Company, headed by W. Lee Norris, has taken over distribution of "The Outsider" for Alliance Films in Western Missouri and Kansas.

Theatre for Chicago Suburb

Sam Myers, independent circuit operator, is breaking ground this week for his new theatre, the Glenwin, in Glencoe, Chicago suburb. The $150,000 theatre will be the first in the restricted residential section.

The Doctor Takes a Wife

(Columbia)

Gag and Situation Comedy

Designed for laugh purposes and collecting a large number of them from an adult preview audience, this comedy of contemporary setting and circumstance ensconces a girl novelist and a young doctor in her apartment, unmarried but journalistically reported wed, and represents them as living so in pretended matrimony for a period of three weeks. It is indicated to the audience that they sleep in separate rooms and the source of gag and situation comedy counted on to evoke laughter is this enforced dwelling together of a girl famous for her best seller about happy spinsters and a doctor who detests career women. When time for parting comes they discover of course that they don't want to and prepare to marry.

Evolutions of the plot are many and various. Dialogue is in what has been called the sophisticated vein. A turning point in the young couple's hostile relationship comes when the doctor is commandeered by a traffic officer to deliver a baby in an emergency and the girl helps out. This episode is filmed seriously and in some detail.

Loretta Young plays the man hating spinster and Ray Milland the doctor engrossed in his work. Other parts are character portrayals. The screen play by George Seaton and Ken Englund from a story by Aleen Leslie was produced by William Perlberg and directed by Alexander Hall with adult audiences evidently uppermost in mind.

Previewed at the Pantages theatre, Hollywood, to a grownup audience which gave audible proof of enjoyment.—WILLIAM R. WEAVER.

Rhythm of the Rio Grande

(Monogram)

Western with Songs

Another in the series of westerns starring the singing Tex Ritter and produced by Edward Finney for Monogram release, "Rhythm of the Range" has hard riding, gun battling, rough and tumble fighting Mexican bandits and night raiders in action. Supporting Ritter are Susan Dale, Warner Richmond, Martin Garralaga, Frank Mitchell, Mike J. Rodriguez, Juan Duval, Tristram Coffin, Forrest Taylor and Glenn Strange.

Robert Emmett wrote the screenplay which Al Herman directed. Three songs are used: "Rhythm of the Rio Grande" and "Mexicali Moon," by Frank Harford, and "Pablo," the Mexican Bandit," by Johnny Lange and Lew Porter.

"Tex," arriving in Cinco Valley to seek a lost friend, finds it being raided, presumably by a Mexican bandit, "Pablo." After capturing him, "Tex" enlists his aid to trap the real marauder and brings the criminal to justice.

The Saint Takes Over

(RKO Radio)

Murder Mystery

Dropped into one of the larger downtown Los Angeles theatres for preview before a Friday night audience drawn by "It's a Date," this number in the Saints series kept the customers in a burble of laughter and shudders throughout and elicited a round of applause at its finish. It is the first of the series produced by Howard Benedict and a clocking of audience responses rates it well above its predecessors in point of demonstrated effectiveness.

A screen play by Lynn Root and Frank Fenton, designed to sustain suspense between murders without sacrifice of humorous opportunity, has the Saint coming to America to help clear up a mystery affecting the professional fortunes of a detective friend of his. A series of murders are interspersed with exhibitions of daring by the Saint, and his deductions ultimately serve their purpose. Jack Hively directed.

Tomboy

(Monogram)

Small Town Drama

Lest the limited connotation of the title mislead one, the story in the main concerns an ambitious and guileless farm boy and his shoddy treatment at the hands of a hard bitten uncle. The tomboy, newly arrived from Chicago with her dad, former major league baseball star, sets herself up as the farm boy's defender, and on that situation the production builds its strength.

Marcia Mae Jones and Jackie Moran share the honors. Young Miss Jones made a hit in "These Three," back in 1936, and has appeared in a number of productions since. Here she is in a characteristic, mercurial role. Starting in films about the same year after stage experience, young Moran also has been adjudged a consistent performer.

William T. Lackey was associate producer. Robert McGowan directed from a screen play by Dorothy Reid and Marion Orth.

The uncle, in successive steps of ugliness, takes the boy out of school, refuses him permission to go fishing on a Sunday with the tomboy and her father, humiliates him at a school social, and when the boy runs away from home after a whipping the uncle accuses him of stealing. It all leads up to a melodramatic climax wherein all the principals gather at the freight yard, and even "Uncle Matt" turns over a new leaf.

King of the Lumberjacks

Timber and Romance

Set in the tall timber country, a story has been woven about the lives of three persons, two men and a girl they both love. One man is the crude but well meaning "Ring," of a lumber crew, the other is a younger man, his best friend.

The solution to the triangle problem consumes most of the film, with a smattering of comedy, a couple of fights and the business of lumbering merely backdrops in the succession of events.

The three mostly concerned are "Slim," played by John Payne; "Tina,'" Gloria Dickson, and "Dominic," Stanley Fields.

"Dominic," crew boss, is respected by his men and it is his proud boast that his is the finest crew of all. "Slim" and "Dominic" become close friends. "Dominic" befriends "Tina," a singer stranded in the lumber town. "Dominic's" left arm is shattered by a bullet in a fight with a saloon keeper. Amputation is ordered. "Tina" nurses him back to health.

On the wedding day "Slim" returns from a trip to San Francisco and finds that "Tina" is the girl he had been engaged to before he had served a term in prison. "Tina" and "Slim" keep their secret but eventually "Dominic" finds out. "Dominic" sends "Slim" to his death on a runaway log train but stops the train when he discovers that "Tina" also is on the train. "Dominic" leaves for Reno.

(Continental)

Sordid Drama

The story of "Secrets of a Model" is a familiar theme, that of the small town girl who goes to Hollywood to seek a career but becomes involved in sordid complications. It is a slow-moving production.

The girl detours from the narrow path to get money for a sick mother back home. A man with "influence" gets her a job modeling for his artist friend. At a party he gets her intoxicated and she awakens the next morning alone.

She travels from town to town, now a waitress, now a seamstress or what not, and finally returns to Hollywood where her former sweetheart, a milkman, receives her with open arms. For a climax the milkman and the seducer have more or less of a fight. The milkman is shot but lives; the betrayer, running away, is killed by a car.

The cast includes Sharon Lee, Harold Daniels, Julien Madison and Phyllis Barry. Sam Newfield directed from a screen play by Sherman Lowe and Arthur St. Clair.

The picture is being distributed in the state rights' field.

(Pathe Pictures)

British War Documentary

Films such as this of course aim directly and unrepentantly at the belligerent market. The relentless propaganda which inspires and materializes this particular specimen limits its appeal outside anti-Nazi territories. Here in London with anti-Hitler feeling at its most intense —though let it be assured, never without a sense of humor and proportion—it will fit into any normal program without calling for a war-mongering mind.

Compiled from Pathe's illimitable library it traces the origin and rise of Hitler and his Nazi regime through the early days, past the occupation of the Rhine, Czecho-Slovakia, the Austrian Anschluss, Munich, Memel, Poland and down to the present war. The material is often extremely interesting, at times exciting. The spectacular glimpses of German armed might offset intimate and devastating studies of Hitler on the rostrum and in the drawing room.

To the academic mind the propagandist commentary is probably perfervid rather than perspicacious, but all will agree upon the value of the delivery. Cutting has made the production terse and never tiresome and the visual quality of the print adequate.

Seen in a London preview theatre.—AUBREY FLANAGAN.

Cavalcade of Academy Awards

(Warners)

This 31 minute short subject, telling the history of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences annual awards up to and including the most recent accolade, is so entertainingly composed and of such appeal that the Academy could rightfully give it an "oscar." Produced under the supervision of Frank Capra, former Academy president, "Cavalcade of Academy Awards" has entertainment values not only of the nostalgic type through the scenes of old-timers appearing in it, but also of current interest.

With Carey Wilson narrating, the film contains sections of outstanding productions honored by the Academy, and scenes showing, among others, Emil Jannings, Warner Baxter, George Arliss, Lionel Barrymore, Fredric March, Charles Laughton, Clark Gable, Victor McLaglen, Paul Muni, Spencer Tracy, Janet Gaynor, Mary Pickford, Katharine Hepburn, Claudette Colbert, Shirley Temple, Bette Davis, Luise Rainer, all past award winners, as well as Vivien Leigh and Robert Donat, honored for 1939. The climax gives shots of the latest Academy banquet, the Award winners, the crowds and the celebrities attending.

All in all, it is a superb institutional screen presentation of the film industry.—Running time, 31 minutes.—V. K.

(GPO-Columbia)

British War Documentary

The directly reportorial method and the good humor and liveliness of this account of the why, wherefore and how of the balloon barrage, put it safely into a category as entertainment far wider than the merely British. The film explains the functions of the balloon barrage, glimpses the training of the personnel, and takes the case of the Firth of Forth as a lesson in need and supply. The early war air raid on the Bridge is reconstructed with some thrill, though a cross-cut rabbit-coursing episode is rather pretentious, and there is an intensive impression of the ultimate setting up of a barrage, and protective festoon which gives air defense a misleading, toy-like flavor. The account has both humor and drama in it. To some the Edinburgh accent may sound beyond translation, but this is easily amended. The film was shown to a socialite, Parliamentary and brass-hat audience and provoked enthusiastic applause.—Running time, 24 minutes. —AUBREY FLANAGAN.

Sitka and Juneau

(MGM)

FitzPatrick Traveltalk

The old and new capital of Alaska, Sitka, established by Russian fur traders more than a century ago, and Juneau, the new capital of Alaska famed for its Alaska-Juneau gold mine, which produces more than 12,000 tons of ore daily, are brought to the screen, in contrast, in another of the James A. FitzPatrick Traveltalk series. Sitka still has its landmarks that recall the days of Russian rule, with its Russian burial grounds and architecture; Juneau, the new capital, of the northernmost possession of the United States, is more modern in its development and boasts the latest developments in transportation. The Mendenhall Glacier, seventeen miles long and two miles wide at its base, is the major scenic attraction of Juneau.—Running time, 9 minutes.

The Seers Again

One wonders whether the three members of the permanent board of experts in this series, John Kieran, F. P. Adams and Oscar Levant, talk in their sleep. If so, it would be no doubt most illuminating if only cameras and recording machines could be there. In the ninth of the series, Elmer Davis, news analyst, joins the permanent board in answering the questions put to them by Clifton Fadiman. The I. Q. average is as usual quite high, but might have been higher if Mr. Levant had not attempted, like a certain Mr. Hitler, to remake the map of Europe. Running time, 11 minutes.

XXX Medico

(MGM)

Passing Parade

Another real-life dramatization in the Passing Parade series brings to the screen the advancement made in first-aid for victims of injuries and sickness at sea. The film shows, first, how since the earliest days the ship captain usually rendered any medical attention necessary. Today, through the aid of the wireless, when XXX Medico is flashed over the air all wireless lanes are closed to render full cooperation. Emphasized is an incident in which a doctor 700 miles away sends instruction to the captain of a Scandinavian ship and so saves the life of a woman at childbirth.—Running time, 10 minutes.

Little England

Graham McNamee provides the narrative in a study of the island of Barbadoes, complete with its customs and mode of living. Bridgetown, the only city on the island, is somewhat of a miniature London with its Trafalgar Square and statue of Lord Nelson. The subject is climaxed with scenes of the "Flying Fish Fleet" putting out to sea.—Running time, 9 minutes.

The New Pupil
(MGM)
Our Gang

Spanky and Alfalfa, the two Romeos of the Gang, run into difficulty when they break a luncheon date with Darla to eat with the new girl in the class, Sally. The two girls plan to deflate the ego of the young Casanovas. Sally invites both boys over to the house and makes them dress as women while the rest of the Gang is hiding behind the hedge. At an opportune moment, as the boys are singing lullabys to dolls, the Gang come from their hiding places. An amusing comedy produced in the usual Our Gang manner.—Running time, 11 minutes.

Screen Snapshots, No. 6
(Columbia)
Hollywood at Play

Harriet Parsons' latest reportorial endeavor takes the theatre audience to recreation spots frequented by the stars. Visited are Hollywood's new baseball park, home of the film stars' own ball team, Lakeside Golf Club, Monkey Island, Ocean Park Pier, similar to New York's Coney Island, and the Sand and Pool Club in the Beverly Hills hotel. Many of the actors and actresses have been captured by the camera.—Running time, 10 minutes.

The Hidden Master
(MGM)
Passing Parade

One of John Nesbitt's Passing Parade, "The Hidden Master" depicts the powerful role fate plays in changing the lives of men. Robert Clive, discouraged with his life as a clerk in India and kept from joining the British army by red tape, attempted to kill himself. Twice he pulled the trigger but nothing happened. Then a friend ran into the room with the news that he was, at last, able to join the army. He became a colonel, a governor, a lord and, finally, the great Clive of India. The accidental discovery of the Xray by Konrad Roentgen and how a phone call sent to a wrong number saved the lives of a man and his family, whose luck had been nothing but bad before this, is also shown. This subject is another interesting picturization in the series.—Running time, 10 minutes.

THE MAYOR'S DILEMMA

"The Mayor's Dilemma," which opened at the 55th Street Playhouse in New York on Monday, was reviewed from Paris in the April 22, 1939 issue of MOTION PICTURE HERALD under the title "Les Otages."

The picture is being distributed in this country by the Film Alliance of the United States.

Berth of a Queen
(Columbia)
S.S. Queen Elizabeth

A photographic record of the construction of Great Britain's SS Queen Elizabeth from the days when the keel was first laid up to the launching and final construction of the ship, the subject is timely, too, what with the safe arrival of the ship last month, making headlines throughout the United States. The subject is narrated by Geoffrey Sumner and ends with newsreel shots of the Queen Elizabeth arriving in New York harbor.—Running time, 11 minutes.

Folies Parisienne
(Universal)
Variety Program

Folies Parisienne is the latest of Universal's two-reel musical subjects. The program is laid in the locale of the Apache section of France. In a cellar saloon patrons are entertained with can-can dancers, two Apache teams, one a burlesque dance of the original, a Parisienne oo-la-la singer and dancers executing a satire in swing. The subject presents Harry Stafford and the Notables Quartet, Vyola Vonn, The Sterner Sisters and the Can-Canettes.—Running time, 18 minutes.

The Greyhound and the Rabbit
(Columbia)
Color Rhapsody

Directed by Sid Marcus, this Color Rhapsody is a satire on greyhound racing. The subject opens with a parade of the dogs to the post and a description of the animals, of all shapes and sizes. After much difficulty the race gets underway, only to be interrupted by a "mutt" on the track and the antics of a mechanical, but mischievous, rabbit. The entire race is described by an announcer.—Running time, 7½ minutes.

Going Places, No. 75
(Universal)
Death Valley

The Going Places series takes up a study of the transition from a place shunned by nearly everyone to a popular resort for tourists. Death Valley today boasts a modern, cool hotel, a swimming pool, a miniature railroad and a number of interesting sights of the borax mines, desert growth, charcoal kilns and colorful scenery. The subject closes with shots of "Death Valley Scotty" and his two million dollar mansion.—Running time, 10 minutes.

Unveiling Algeria
(Columbia)
Columbia Tour

The audience in this Columbia Tour, photographed by Andre De La Varre, is taken to Algeria, a country that still adheres to its simple habits, customs and dress. A photographic study of the old and the new Algiers has been captured by the camera. Old Algiers, once the haunt of criminals and notorious Barbary Coast pirates and known as the Casbah, was made familiar to motion picture patrons by Charles Boyer in the picture "Algiers." The new Algiers, with its modern buildings and transportation, provides contrast.—Running time, 10 minutes.

Design for Happiness
Federal Housing Subject

Produced in color by Pathe News for the motion picture section of the Federal Housing Administration, "Design for Happiness" follows the general outlines of two previous subjects made by Pathe for the FHA, "Miracles of Modernization" and "Homes of Today." Narrated by Lowell Thomas, the film tells of a family of three—husband, wife and child—in which the husband earning $25 a week was able to build a home of his own under the FHA plan. Running time, 9 minutes.

Air Army
(RKO Pathe)
Reelism

The military services have been in the newspapers quite a bit of late, mostly because it is appropriation time in Congress. Much has been said about the U. S. Army Air Corps, down to the conclusion that the air corps can compete and probably surpass any in the world in equipment and personnel, but not in size. Shown in this Pathe Reelism are pilots and planes in action, and pilot training and plane construction. Running time, 9 minutes.

RCA TELEVISION TURNING TO 16mm; DU MONT-MAJESTIC DEAL IN WORK

DuMont-Paramount Prepares for Operation of 50-Watt Transmitter in New York; Consider Plan to Control Majestic

Activities of Allen B. DuMont-Paramount Pictures in television proceeded on two fronts this week, with preparations for operating a 50-watt television transmitter for test purposes atop the 42nd story of 515 Madison Avenue and with the federal court in Chicago considering the reorganization plan of Majestic Radio & Television Corporation which would give DuMont-Paramount control of that company.

[The motion picture industry was asked to aid television in exchange for exploitation of films by Thomas F. Joyce, RCA Manufacturing company vice-president and advertising director, in an address to the Society of Motion Picture Engineers at the annual convention in Atlantic City. The SMPE story is on page 40.]

30-Day License to DuMont

The Federal Communications Commission last week granted a special 30-day license to the Allen B. DuMont Laboratories for a 50-watt test television transmitter. Field tests will be made prior to installation of the new 1-kilowatt station. According to estimates made with the 50-watt station in Passaic, N. J., the range of the new Paramount-DuMont transmitter will approximate 30 miles. The RCA-NBC station on the Empire State Building has a range of about 55 miles, although in special cases reception is had at much greater distances. NBC's station W2XBS has a power of 12 kilowatts.

The television band is divided into five channels. In New York NBC has channel No. 1; CBS was given No. 2 for its station on the Chrysler Building and DuMont No. 4. The other two bands are not assigned as yet. The new DuMont transmitter will cost about $100,000 to install, according to Allen B. DuMont, president. He said he hoped to have the station operating by early next winter. "Paramount Pictures will supply films for the telecasts," he added. NBC has not been able to get a sufficient supply of major product for television. (See column 3.)

DuMont Says He Has Control

Mr. DuMont asserted that he held "effective control" of the company bearing his name and that Paramount owned slightly less than 50 per of the stock. In August, 1938, Barney Balaban announced that Paramount had made an arrangement to purchase an interest in and made advances to the DuMont company. Last June Paramount began a study of possibilities for television stations operated by theatre partners in key cities. Balaban & Katz has applied for a transmitter for Chicago, but so far no other action has been taken. The FCC has not acted on that application. Also at that time Television Productions, Inc., was formed in California with Paul Raibourn, Paramount executive and DuMont treasurer, as president, and Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount vice-president in charge of production, vice-president.

Action of the FCC in granting a New York license to the DuMont company was protested by Robert Robins, president of the Cath-Ray Electronic Laboratories, which manufactures television receivers. Mr. Robins addressed a letter to the FCC and sent copies to President Roosevelt and Senator Burton K. Wheeler, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce which held a hearing two weeks ago at Senator Ernest Lundeen's request for an investigation of the FCC's television activities.

Mr. Robins requested the reopening of television hearings and protested against the suspension of the limited commercial order. He particularly attacked the license given to the DuMont company and that company's publicity statements issued by Mr. Raibourn following the Commission's action.

Majestic's Reorganization

Meanwhile consideration was given by the federal court in Chicago to the reorganization plan of Majestic Radio & Television Corporation which would give Paramount, through its interest in DuMont, a strong voice in the operations of that company. The plan proposed by Claude A. Roth, trustee of Majestic, was dated April 8th but was made public only last week.

Under the plan DuMont and Allied International Investing Corporation and Automatic Products Corporation would underwrite a new stock issue. Allied-Automatic is the chief creditor of Majestic with claims of $145,500; general unsecured creditors are owed about $714,000 and there are 550,000 shares of $1 per share old stock outstanding.

Unsecured creditors would be paid in cash for amounts less than $10 and one share of new preferred stock for each $10 of the principal. The Allied-Automatic group would receive an aggregate of 150,000 shares of the new common stock. DuMont would subscribe to a maximum of $25,000 worth of new debentures, less if the unsubscribed units are less than $125,000. The purchasers would receive a commitment fee of 82,500 shares of the new common stock.

The purchasers would appoint four members of the seven-man board of directors and one of their appointees would be the president of the company. DuMont also would receive an option to purchase 100,000 shares of the new common stock at $1 per share "in order to ob-

TELEVISION OUTLAY PUT AT $28,000,000

The sums spent for television research up to the present time total $28,000,000, including the 1940 budgets, according to O. H. Caldwell, formerly federal radio commissioner and now editor of Radio Today. The total was divided as follows: $10,000,000, Radio Corporation of America; $5,000,000, Bell Telephone Laboratories; $2,000,000, Philco; $2,000,000, Farnsworth, $1,000,000 each for Westinghouse, DuMont, Hazeltine and Columbia Broadcasting System, and another $1,000,000 for miscellaneous groups.

The 1940 television budgets are said to be $2,000,000 for RCA-NBC and $2,000,000 for other companies.

Mr. Caldwell called television potentially a billion dollar industry.

Attorneys Study Rights to 16 mm. Distribution as NBC Television Program Department Seeks New Source of Material

Despairing of obtaining 35 mm features, especially from the large companies, to fill its five hours a week of film fare, the National Broadcasting Company's television program department is turning to 16 mm, "with all of that field's headaches," Arthur Hungerford, its "contact man" for the motion picture industry, said Monday at the New York home offices.

Lawyers Studying Rights

While the company, in the last 11 months, has used 750,000 feet of 35 mm. film, in comparison with about 10,000 feet of 16 mm. film (and has used the latter only recently), it expects to increase its use of the 16 mm., "with the cooperation of the NBC legal department."

Rights to 16 mm. film distributors were granted in pre-television days. According to Mr. Hungerford, they are "apparently sweeping," but the NBC legal department is examining those rights, and in using 16 mm., protects itself in special contracts.

"We are trying to clear up the situation, and we are going to dig up business along that line," said Mr. Hungerford.

He explained that at present the company had one 16 mm. projector and was limited in its use of the medium. It has two 35 mm. projectors. This situation may be changed.

Sixteen millimetre programs, till now, have been mostly shorts, and have been obtained from travel agencies and the like, and from two of the largest 16 mm. distributors, Walter O. Gutlohn and Nu-Art. From the last-named, the shorts obtained have been musicals. However, these two companies, and others in the 16 mm. field, have dozens of feature length films, as recent as one year old and given to them by some of the major companies under contracts which prohibit showings of the films in competition with theatres in certain localities.

Mr. Hungerford sees enough 35 mm. subjects on hand, and coming, for at least another year from independent sources.

NBC is obtaining Kermit and Ken Maynard westerns, also Hoot Gibson westerns. Mr. Hungerford said there was a great advantage in using westerns—"they don't show their age." NBC also hopes to obtain 40 pictures from the estate of Chesterfield Pictures.

Mr. Hungerford sees little hope of special films for television, "not until you have more than one station to telecast from." He denied any NBC connection with special production for television.

All producers who will make such pictures will be expected to produce them "completely on their own," he said.

Sees Facilities Offered

He said radio "offered facilities for entertainment, and it will be the same in television."

The NBC is now offering about five film hours weekly on its television programs from New York, or one-third of the total schedule, Mr. Hungerford said. This proportion will continue, he asserted.

Most of the film showings have been in the afternoon, but the company has attempted to "feature its features" by showing some films at night.

NBC Extending Night Programs On Television

Films, Mr. Hungerford said, "get a good average response" from the television listeners in the New York metropolitan area, according to report cards issued to listeners the last six months.

Commercial shorts, Mr. Hungerford claims, sometimes "go very well," to NBC's surprise.

One the most popular pictures shown was "Mutiny of the Elsinore," a Krellberg release.

Want Major Product, Too

At the same time, he said, results are not so satisfactory as if they had major product.

The large film companies, since the advent of NBC's first regular television service to the public, last April 30th, have exerted an "unofficial boycott" against television, so that their product has not been available except at rentals it is unwilling to pay. The major's stand has been dictated by exhibitor protests last summer by voice, telegram and letter, against helping an entertainment industry generally regarded a potential rival.

Use of special trailers, such as the RKO "Gunga Din" trailer, produced to boost motion pictures through television, was discouraged. However, Columbia Pictures recently supplied a trailer on "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," in connection with that picture's opening at the Radio City Music Hall, in New York.

NBC would like more of the same, not so much as entertainment but as evidence of a willingness to "cooperate." It might, the company hopes, even lead to a supply of films from the large companies.

Win Loew's Contest

Julius Daniels and Samuel Greenfield, managers of the Strand and Ditmas theatres, respectively, in Perth Amboy, N. J., this week were judged the winners in the 'Ninotchka" Advertising Contest, limited to first run theatres of the Walter Reade circuit in New York and New Jersey, and which was sponsored by Loew's. They submitted combined campaigns. Second award went to LeRoy Blumenheim, manager of the Strand, Plainfield, N. J.

Keilhack Transferred

Francis Keilhack, salesman in Kansas City for the National Theatre Supply Company, has been transferred to Chicago. Cliff Gano, formerly in the Kansas City office of the company, who has been in Detroit for the past year, returns to Kansas City to replace Mr. Keilhack.

Spring Moves Office

Samuel Spring, motion picture attorney, has moved his office to the Empire Trust Building, New York.

Sunday Shows Halted

Sunday shows in Sanford, N. C., have been discontinued following the recent action of the board of aldermen in passing an ordinance banning the shows.

LILLIAN GISH GETS VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

Lillian Gish, stage and screen actress, received at least one vote as a Presidential candidate in the Illinois primary, it was revealed in Chicago this week.

Herman Marks, taxi driver, wrote in Miss Gish's name on his Democratic ballot, explaining, "I did it because she makes everybody happy."

tain the participation in the direction of the affairs of the Reorganized Company by Allen B. DuMont Laboratories, Inc." In any case of disagreement with the Allied-Automatic group the plan provides that DuMont shall have the deciding vote.

The reorganized plan must be approved by June 1st or some later date approved in writing. Another condition is that Majestic will be able to renew its licensing agreement with the Radio Corporation of America, the company which DuMont fought at the television hearings in Washington "covering the same fields as the existing license between the parties, and for substantially the same duration and upon substantially the same terms and conditions as contained in the standard form of license agreement presently being entered into by Radio Corporation of America with other licensees." With the approval of the court the purchasers will appoint a general manager of Majestic to serve in the interim before the plan can be put into execution. Counsel for the purchasers also was selected by DuMont.

The proposal was signed for DuMont by Mortimer W. Loewi, vice-president. Dickinson, Sprowl, Norville & James are attorneys for the Majestic company.

Last summer DuMont made a five-year deal with Majestic granting it a non-exclusive license to make television receivers under all DuMont patents held then or those that may be held later. Under the contract DuMont continued making its television receivers but the sets made by Majestic under the DuMont patents carried the name Majestic, and a royalty starting at 5% of the net selling price was charged

Cinematographers Reelect

John Arnold has been reelected president of the American Society of Cinematographers. The following officers also were reelected: Ray June, Ted Tetzlaff and Joseph Valentine, vice-presidents, and Alfred L. Gilks, secretary-treasurer. Arthur Edeson succeeded Victor Milner on the board of governors.

Henson in New Post

Frank Henson, formerly manager of Loew's, Canton, Ohio, and previously assistant manager for the circuit in Kansas City, has been appointed manager of Loew's, Akron. He succeeds Jack Flex, who is no longer with the circuit. Orville Crouch, formerly relief manager, has been assigned manager in Canton.

Pacific Coast Independents Set Program

The complete program has been set for the three-day, first annual convention of the comparatively new Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theatre Owners, to be held Wednesday through Friday, May 8-10, at the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles. General convention chairman is Robert H. Poole; co-chairmen are Hugh Bruen, Rotus Harvey, L. O. Lukan and Bob White.

Besides several social events and a special program for arrangements, the convention agenda includes the following:

IN THE CUTTING ROOM

Advance outlines of productions nearing completion as supplied by the producers. These are not reviews: . . .

Rain or Shine

Young Domesticity

Robert Sterling and Virginia Gilmore are the principals in this tale of a young married couple's tribulations, undergone to enable the young man to realize his dream of owning a flying field, and ending with the birth of a son.

Also figuring in the cast are Joan Davis, Edmund McDonald, Don Beddoe and Paul Harvey. The screen play was written by Harold Buchman, Clark Andrews, Jack Jungmeyer, Jr., and Edith Skouras. This was based on a play by Vina Delmar and Brian Marlowe, in turn from a novel by Miss Delmar.

John Stone was associate producer, with David Burton directing, as he did last on "The Man Who Wouldn't Talk."

Release date: May 31, 1940.

The Lone Wolf Meets a Lady

(Columbia)

Mystery

The latest in the series based on the characters created by Louis Joseph Vance, with Warren William in the title role, this version of the "Lone Wolf's" adventures has in its cast Jean Muir, Eric Blore, Victor Jory, Roger Pryor.

Thematically, it is concerned with a girl who is confronted with her ex-husband, whom she believed dead, on the eve of her marriage to a young millionaire. Stealing the necklace she received as a wedding gift, her former husband is shot. The amateur detective eventually proves her innocent of theft and murder.

Sidney Salkow, who last directed "The Lone Wolf Strikes," was in charge here, and collaborated on the story with John Larkin, who also wrote the screen play.

Release date: To be determined.

Maryland

Romance and Horseflesh

Filmed in color, "Maryland" is a story of horses and the persons who breed and race them, more particularly the story of a woman embittered because her husband has been thrown and killed, and her reawakened interest in horses when her son wins the Maryland Hunt Cup. The boy does so riding the horse of a neighbor, whose daughter is the heroine.

The principals are Walter Brennan, Fay Bainter, Brenda Joyce and John Payne.

Gene Markey was associate producer for the Darryl Zanuck production. Henry King directed, as he did for "Little Old New York" and "Stanley and Livingstone."

An original screen play, the story was written by Ethel Hill, who collaborated on "The Little Princess" and Jack Andrews.

Release date: July 5, 1940.

ANTICIPATIONS—BUT NOT REVIEWS

Discussions of pictures in this department are based entirely on the aims and anticipations of the producers on the basis of negative in the editing process. In no sense are these attentions to be considered reviews or in any terms evaluations of the finished product as it may subsequently emerge from the Cutting Room to the market.

This department is conducted solely for the information of exhibitors, many of whom have indicated to Motion Picture Herald their necessity for the earliest available information on the product which they are to display. THE EDITOR.

The Villain Still Pursued Her

(RKO Radio)

Mock Temperance

The first film produced by Harold B. Franklin in his return to production, "The Villain Still Pursued Her" is a mock serious presentation of "The Fallen Saved," temperance melodrama first produced on the stage of the Boston Museum in 1844, and, a decade later, presented by P. T. Barnum in his American Museum in New York. A similar work, entitled "The Drunkard," also has been amusing the Los Angeles citizenry for some seven years, this, like the film, being humorously presented.

With the audience, by means of the sound track, invited to join in the hissing and applause due the villain and hero, the cast includes Hugh Herbert, as a philanthropist-reformer; Anita Louise, the heroine; Alan Mowbray, villain; Richard Cromwell, hero who falls prey to the evils of liquor, and William Farnum, Buster Keaton and Billy Gilbert.

Edward Cline directed, and Elbert Franklin wrote the screen play.

Torrid Zone

Plantation Life

James Cagney, Ann Sheridan and Pat O'Brien are co-starred in this story, set in a Yucatan banana plantation, with O'Brien cast as a plantation manager, Cagney his co-worker and Miss Sheridan a card sharp and singer.

Featured are Andy Devine, Helen Vinson, Jerome Cowan and George Tobias, while Miss Sheridan sings a number written by M. K. Jerome and Jack Scholl.

Mark Hellinger was associate producer, as on "The Roaring Twenties," and William Keighley directed, as he did "The Fighting 69th." The screen play was an original by Richard Macaulay and Jerry Wald.

Release date: To be determined.

Gangs of Chicago

(Republic)

Melodrama

An original screen play by Karl Brown, who last wrote "My Son is Guilty," this story treats of the redemption of a man who becomes a criminal lawyer to obstruct justice, as a means of avenging the killing of his father by the police.

Lloyd Nolan enacts this role. Ray Middleton, Howard Hickman, Lola Lane and Leona Roberts have other major parts.

Robert North was associate producer. Arthur Lubin directed, as he did last on "The Big Guy."

Release date: To be determined.

Girl in 313

(Formerly called "Million Dollar Diamond")

Melodrama

Florence Rice, Kent Taylor, Lionel Atwill, Katherine Aldridge, Elyse Knox and Jack Carson appear in this story of jewel thieves and romance.

Based on an original story by Hilda Stone, the screen play was written by Barry Trivers and Clay Adams. Trivers collaborated on "City of Darkness."

Sol Wurtzel was executive producer. Ricardo Cortez directed, as he did last on "Free, Blonde and 21."

Release date: July 12, 1940.

(MGM)

Romance

Jane Austen's novel of romance in the early nineteenth century England, which was not without its satire in the telling, is here adapted to the screen, its cast including Greer Garson, seen in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips,"; Laurence Olivier, last seen in "Rebecca"; Maureen O'Sullivan, Edmund Gwenn, Mary Boland, Ann Rutherford and Reginald Owen.

The story depicts the prides and prejudices of the Victorian era, as they emerge in the romances of the daughters of a modest family, with love overcoming pride in family position.

Hunt Stromberg and Robert Z. Leonard respectively produced and directed, as they did together on "The Great Ziegfeld," "Maytime" and "The Firefly."

Release date: To be determined.

Brother Orchid

Gangster into Monk

Based on the Callier's magazine story by Richard Connell, "Brother Orchid" relates the adventures of a former gangster leader who finds refuge in a monastery when forced to flee his former intimates, and uses his knowledge and specialized tactics to break up a would-be "protective association" attempting to force

PITTSBURGH SOLONS TO SUBSIDIZE AMUSEMENTS

And Philadelphia's Chamber Estimates $1,908,000 of Convention Spending to Theatres

by MORT FRANK in Pittsburgh

Theatres, night clubs and other play spots will receive box office stimulation through a city council subsidy and funds from a variety of business organizations, if plans contemplated by the mayor and commercial bigwigs of Pittsburgh come to fruition.

Pointing to total revenue of $4,034,000 to the city from conventions in the past year, estimated by the Convention and Tourist Bureau, Mayor Cornelius D. Scully indicates that he will ask council for an appropriation to help defray the expenses of the bureau.

"Selling Pittsburgh"

Members of the bureau, which operated throughout 1939 on a budget of $35,000, resolved at a recent meeting to favor consolidation with other civic agencies in a united effort to "sell Pittsburgh."

Theatres are estimated to have received about $200,000 from the 79,162 delegates to 147 conventions here last year, and other amusement enterprises together approximately the same amount. Hotels are supposed to have grossed a million dollars from conventioners, and restaurants outside hotels, $400,000.

Trade for entertainment purveyors has been boosted considerably the past year, according to Adolph Frey, Bureau secretary, by efforts of the Pennsylvania Publicity Commission, traffic to the World's fairs, completion of the Oakland civic center that is becoming national tourist bait, and expanded activities of the Bureau.

Delegates Increase to 79,162

When launched as a separate organization in 1935 after severing from its parent Chamber of Commerce, the Bureau operated on a budget slightly over $12,000. Between 80 and 100 conventions were the city's average annual fare the first half of the last decade. In the last five years the number of delegates to conventions here has increased from 44,710 in 1936 to 79,162 in 1939.

The Bureau maintains files on 3,000 conventions, considers 2,000 of them possibilities for Pittsburgh, competes for most of its potential trade with 42 other convention bureaus in cities from coast to coast for convention spending estimated at $125,000 annually.

Offering more rooms in its eight major hotels than any other city in the United States, except New York, Chicago and Detroit, within an overnight ride of 90,000,000 population, Pittsburgh's convention seekers already have lined up 80 conclaves for this year, others for 1941 and 1942.

In addition to Mr. Frey, the Bureau staff includes Charles Earhart and three office assistants. The bureau is governed by a board of directors composed of industrial and business leaders, headed by chairman John Hubbard and president Frank R. Phillips.

Pennsylvania Papers Aid Film Houses

A survey of Northeastern Pennsylvania newspapers discloses that theatres in the area receive considerable publicity, both general and special, which, it is felt, is of definite value to receipts.

In Mauch Chunk the daily Mauch Chunk Times-News uses "blurbs" on current pictures on its front page.

Both Hazleton dailies, the Standard Sentinel and the Plain Speaker are most generous. In addition to Harrison Carroll's movie column and George Tucker's articles on New York, they include three weekly columns containing "blurbs" on the week's attractions at several local theatres.

The Berwick Enterprise uses cuts and stories, while the Bloomsburg Morning Press does likewise and both seem to maintain helpful attitude to respective local theatres.

In Scranton the morning Scranton Tribune has Louella Parson's column, movie time table, "blurbs," pictures and stories, with its Sunday edition featuring pictures in rotogravure section along with special amusement section. The afternoon Scranton Times features two Hollywood columns, Sheila Graham and Harold Heffernan, and uses movie time table and occasional stories and cuts.

The Wilkes-Barre Record, morning daily, has instituted "Moviegoer" column, which reviews pictures and uses occasional chatter. In addition it has Harrison Carroll's column and cooperates with local theatres on campaigns and special contests. In addition, stories and cuts are used almost daily, also movie time table. The afternoon Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader-Evening News uses cuts, movie time table, Hollywood column and occasional stories and promotions.

In addition, practically all the papers use "blurbs" for outlying theatres in special suburban sections.

Philadelphia Counts Political Spending

The apparently highly optimistic Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, giving early attention to the forthcoming Presidential convention of the National Republican Party, in its city, in June, estimates that the delegates and other "visiting-firemen" will bring to the town new business during the period totaling some $12,000,000, of which $1,908,000, or 15.9 per cent will go to theatres and night clubs. The reason for all such figuring, of course, is to influence anticipating merchants and amusement proprietors to contribute to the funds which a city puts up to "buy" such a large convention.

The Chamber's calculation for the golden stream comes from George W. Elliot, its secretary, and is for Philadelphia alone, not taking in the additional business that will be the share —it is hoped—of the amusement places in Camden, Atlantic City, Ocean City, Wildwood and Cape May, all bountifully equipped with seashore and other hotel accommodations and yet convenient enough to Philadelphia to permit daily travel to the big gathering. It is expected that in addition to the 35,000 persons expected to stay at hotels for the duration of the convention, there will be a flow of one or two-day visitors who will swell the influx to around 1,000,000 persons.

"Such spending," says the Chamber of Commerce in Chicago, when the Democrats will meet, in July. With 50,000 persons attending, the Chicago C. of C. estimates that $2,000,000 is the most they can hope for in amusement spending, pointing out that when 250,000 delegates and others attended the American Legion convention there last summer, saving up all year, perhaps, for a "grand spree," and staying a full week, only $10,000,000 was spent.

The Chicago Chamber's spokesman said that if the Republicans have $12,000,000 to spend in a week or less, what they've been saying about profligate Democrats is mild to what the "Democrats" will say about Republican spending.

its way into the monastery's business of raising and selling flowers.

Edward G. Robinson is cast in the title role. The cast includes Ann Sothern, Humphrey Bogart, Donald Crisp, Ralph Bellamy and Allen Jenkins. Earl Baldwin wrote the screen play from the Connell story.

Lloyd Bacon directed, as he did "Invisible Stripes," and Mark Hellinger was associate producer.

Release date: To be determined.

Gaucho Serenade

(Republic)

Gene Autry

Gene Autry, leading western money-making star at the boxoffice for three successive years in the annual HERALD-FAME poll, heads the cast in this story of an attempt to kidnap the young son of a mistakenly imprisoned rancher.

Smiley Burnette, Mary Lee, June Storey and Clifford Severn are included in the cast. The original screen play was written by Betty Burbridge and Bradford Ropes, who collaborated last on "Rancho Grande."

William Berke was associate producer, with Frank MacDonald directing.

Release date: To be determined.

Personnel Changes In Griffith Circuit

Barnes Perdue, assistant manager at Manhattan, Kan., for the H. J. Griffith Theatres, Inc. (the Griffith-Dickinson Theatres was changed to H. J. Griffith Theatres following purchase last week of the Glen W. Dickinson interest by Mr. Griffith and Partnership Theatres, Inc.), has been transferred to Chillicothe, Mo., where he will manage the Ritz and Grand. He succeeds Glen W. Dickinson, Jr., who joins his father in Kansas City in the operation of three threaters.

Roscoe Hopkins, formerly manager of the Booth and Paramount, Nebraska City, Neb., for Williams-Griffith Theatres, Inc., has been transferred to Denver City, Tex. He is succeeded by Stanley McSwain, formerly manager of the Booth and Auburn at Auburn, Neb. Glen Leonard of Post, Tex., goes to Auburn as partner manager.

The three theatres in Pawhuska, Okla., were under single ownership last week folfollowing a deal by which the Griffith Southwestern company took over the Kihekah and Circle houses. The circuit also operates the State theatre there.

Charles Mohler, former manager of the State, has been put in charge of the circuit's five theatres in Enid, Okla., and C. R. McCullough, who has been with the Griffith circuit for 10 years, went to Pawhuska from Hominy, Okla., to assume management of the three Pawhuska houses. Fred Brewer succeeds Mr. McCullough as manager of the Griffith theatres in Fairfax.

Davidson Joins Warners

Louis Davidson, formerly connected with the New York Post, the New York Daily News and Twentieth Century-Fox, has joined the publicity department of Warner Brothers. Mr. Davidson will handle the contacts with the New York newspapers under the supervision of Mitchell Rawson, Eastern publicity director.

BRITISH LAW MAKERS DRAFTING NEW QUOTA

Moral Tone Improved, but Some War Films Too Realistic, Council Finds

by AUBREY FLANAGAN
in London

Final solution of the quota problem is expected soon. It is authoritatively understood that recent events have clarified the situation and that British legislative circles are now at work on a new formula, although the basic quota principle is expected to be retained.

Smith Slated to Head KRS

Sam Smith, chairman and managing director of British Lion Film Corporation, is expected to be elected president of the Kinematograph Renters Society (distributors) at the annual meeting next Monday.

He would succeed D. E. Griffiths, now president.

The KRS annual report, just issued, contains little outside of routine report material, and is devoted in large measure to wartime activities of the organization.

Calls Moral Tone Improved

Although it believes that there is a considerable improvement in the moral tone of films, and though it records the virtual disappearance of the socalled "sexy" film, the Public Morality Council still "takes a poor view" of some motion pictures, notably "too realistic war films."

The Council in its annual report considers that some of these are likely to cause distress to relatives of soldiers.

Of 513 films exhibited at trade shows, 33 were deemed commendable from the Council standpoint, while "no reasonable objection could be taken" to 333.

"Problems of marital happiness were not numerous, and the tendency of some crime films tended towards showing, in the ultimate issue, that 'crime does not pay,'" said the report. On the other hand, criticism was expressed of some cases of undue emphasis on scenes of crime—violence and cruelty, says the Council.

Studio Workers Get Bonus

Workers in British studios have been given a war bonus in the form of a wage increase. The increases rise from ninepence a day to one shilling and sixpence a day, through the various grades. The scale will be reviewed again in June.

Negotiations are on for a similar bonus for laboratory staffs.

Provincial Theatres Profit

A profit of £450,630 (approximately $1,625,000) is reported by Provincial Cinematograph Theatres for last year. A 15 per cent dividend on the ordinary shares was declared. P. C. T. is affiliated with Gaumont-British.

BRITISH TROOPS STUDY FRENCH IN FILMS

British troops in training are being shown French films with the object of getting them attuned to French ways and customs.

Such a show was staged in Glasgow recently when "Hostages" was screened under the auspices of the Scottish Films Council. The film was supplied by the French Ministry of Information.

New Company Anticipates Organized Labor's Aid

Anticipating the support of organized labor (for its first picture) and of socially progressive citizens, the American Pictures Corporation was formed last week, in New York, to produce pictures about the lives of "great Americans." The first picture, work on which will probably start in June, and which will be produced, probably, in an Eastern studio, will be "The Life of Samuel Gompers," late president of the American Federation of Labor, and a noted labor leader.

Julius Levine is president of the producing corporation. He said, last Friday, that the pictures will use high budgets, and the best stars, writers, technicians; and that the corporation was negotiating for releasing through a major company.

Geza Herczeg, winner of the 1938 Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences Award for the story and screenplay, "Life of Emile Zola," is writing "The Life of Samuel Gompers."

Dembow, Brenner Named NSS Vice-Presidents

George F. Dembow, general sales manager of National Screen Service, and William B. Brenner, general executive, have been elected vice-presidents of the company; Mr. Dembow in charge of sales and Mr. Brenner in charge of operations.

Mr. Dembow started in the industry with William Fox, remaining for 14 years and then held important posts with Goldwyn Pictures and Robert Kane Productions. He joined National Screen in 1933. Mr. Brenner started with Fox Film (1919-1923) after which he became a salesman for National Screen. In 1927 he opened the company's London office, and was joint managing director for 14 months, after which he returned to New York as a general executive.

Bruder in New Post

Roy Bruder, manager of the Chicago theatre, Chicago, is leaving about June 1st to take over the operation of a new recreation center in East St. Louis, Ill. A brother-in-law of John Balaban, Mr. Bruder started his theatrical career as an usher in the Tivoli theatre about 15 years ago.

BOOK REVIEW

FRIENDS IN ASPIC, by Ian Coster, motion picture critic of the London Evening Standard.

Skeptics in the world of British journalism have long believed that film criticism is too often delegated to the unenlightened and the immature. This racy and polished collection of personal studies by the film critic of London's Evening Standard should help modify any such ideas. Mr. Coster has not only the eye of the true reporter, he has the sheen of the stylist. The "friends" are various, and include a champion wrestler, a steeplejack, a nudist impresario and George Bernard Shaw. There are studies of Charles Raymond, until recently major domo of Metro's London show house; of Alex Korda, whose birthplace is revealed as Pusztaturpaszto; of Alfred Hitchcock, studio funmaker, and others. The aspic has gone to this critic's bookshelf to stand between Dorothy Parker and Alexander Woollcott.—A. F., in London.

NOBODY ORDERED WOLVES, by Jeffrey Dell. Heinemann. 7s 6d net.

Satire, says the Concise Oxford Dictionary, is "a composition in verse or prose holding up vice or folly to ridicule or lampooning individual(s)." Just precisely where the border lies between "holding up to ridicule" and just "holding up" is a matter for the purist. Jeffrey Dell's study of British motion picture production in the boom period is satire of the most devastating kind but it is many times very close to accurate and unbiased reporting. Dell spent some time as a screen writer. Probably, for it would not be unprecedented, the result was disenchantment. The result herein presented is the wittiest and most exhilarating novel the British film business has yet inspired.

The story of a solicitor who is invited to write for a production company, it is so near the actual as to cause the enlightened reader an occasional twinge of pain. The wolves are a sort of dramatic symbol. They are a pack ordered by persons unknown for a film that never was made and then the inspiration of another for which they are not used. On the satirical canvas are types and situations such as have ornamented the British studio scene since the days of the boom.

There is no malice in Dell's novel. Malice would not have been as devastating as the quiet and detached sardonicism with which he has reported a—probably—dead era.—A. F., in London.

Outlook Encouraging: Gregg

E. S. Gregg, general foreign manager for Electrical Research Products, Inc., now on a tour of the company's Central and South American locations, in reports to T. K. Stevenson, ERPI president, comments on the amount of general building that is being done in most of the cities he has visited and on the encouraging outlook for theatre equipment sales in the future. He plans to return to New York about May 10th, by which time he will have visited Mexico City, Panama, Lima, Santiago, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Trinidad, Puerto Rico, Havana and Miami.

IN THE BRITISH STUDIOS

by AUBREY FLANAGAN
in London

From the Stage

Frances Day and American Vic Oliver, among London's most popular stage stars, are jointly in the lead in a new Hurley production which has gone on the floor at the Twickenham Studios, for release under the Grand National banner. The film has been titled "Room for Two."

The original of the film is a comedy by Gilbert Wakefield, which ran for some time on the London stage and is touring the provinces. Publicity sheets epitomizing this comedy—termed "daring"—declare that it "offers scope to the stars, introducing Frances as a delightful young wife with an absent-minded husband, and Vic as a gay man about town who falls in love with her, and when she will not see him, disguises himself as her personal maid, with remarkable results."

Maurice Elvey will direct. Victor Katona is announced as producer.

New Company

The first product of a new organization formed here under the name British Eagle Film Productions, has been cornered for release in Britain by RKO Radio. The new company, at the head of which are Paul Stein and W. Victor Hanbury, together with Charles Urry, already has launched its first film, "Gentlemen of Venture," at the Rock Studios Elstree. They declare their intention to maintain an unceasing flow of product.

"Gentlemen of Venture" is an original written by Roland Pertwee and John Hastings Turner. Stein directs, with Victor Hanbury in charge of production. Starring jointly are Wilfred Lawson and Nora Swinburne. Marta Labarr, Edmond Breon, Brian Worth, Patricia Roc and Athole Stewart are in support.

Fevered Activity

Something like the old atmosphere of fevered activity has been observed at the Denham Studios since Metro British launched work on Ben Goetz's new picture, "Busman's Honeymoon," in which Robert Montgomery and Constance Cummings are being directed by Arthur Woods.

"Busman's Honeymoon" is based on Dorothy Sayers' detective thriller, and Montgomery has the role of the familiar figure of detective fiction, Lord Peter Wimsey.

Fred Young is in charge of the cameras.

SAYS AMERICANS ARE INTERESTED

An optimistic view of the prospects of his "Old Bill and Son" is taken by J. Somlo, producer, who declares that, so great is the interest among the American exhibitors in such subjects, it should gross at least $600,000 in the United States.

Mr. Somlo considers that this will provide one of the largest single items in British trade with America.

The film is rich in characteristically British army situations and is said to reflect the spirit of Bruce Bairnsfather's original "Old Bill".

The title role is being played by Morland Graham, with John Mills as his son. The cast further includes Renee Houston, British vaudeville star, Mary Clare and Rene Ray.

Ian Dalrymple, joint director of "Storm in a Teacup" and creator of much of "The Lion Has Wings", is directing.

Battle Refought

The Battle of the River Platte, epic incident in Britain's war adventures, has been refought again with the collaboration of 350 officers and men of the Exeter and the Ajax, who fought the Graf Spee off the South American coast. The battle has been staged again in "For Freedom," which Gaumont British-Gainsborough are making at the Shepherds Bush studios.

No professional actors were employed in the battle scenes, each man playing the role he performed in the South Atlantic.

There is also a reconstruction of the Altmark incident in the Norwegian fjords.

General Film Distributors will handle the picture in England.

Thriller

Back to production activity has gone the British Lion Studio at Beaconsfield, Bucks, where George King, director of Warners' successful "George and Margaret," is making "The Frightened Lady," a screen version of the Edgar Wallace thriller.

Marius Goring, West End actor who has earned greater than normal fame for his work as Hitler in the radio feature, "The Shadow of the Swastika," is in the lead, with a cast including Helen Haye, Ronald Shiner, and Roy Emmerton in support.

Publicity Changes

Bill Batchelor, for many years associated with the Gaumont British and Gainsborough press departments and one of the most skilled news photographers in the Fleet Street-Wardour Street world, has been appointed to direct the publicity department of the GB-Gainsborough units.

He succeeds Mae Murray, who has joined General Film Distributors, major British renting group handling Universal product, as director of publicity and advertising. Miss Murray started her career in advertising and at one time was on the staff of the Daily Express.

For Friendship

Planning Italian and British collaboration on film production, two leading members of the Italian industry recently have been in London. They are Silvano Balboni and Franco Riganti.

The producers hope to make English subjects with English actors in Italian studios and against Italian backgrounds. They said one of their aims is to cement the friendship between the two countries.

Measles and Films

German measles, influenza and other wartime epidemics have taken slight toll of the Twentieth Century unit working on "The Girl in the News." Margaret Lockwood and Barry K. Barnes, leading players, have both been victims. Work, however, has gone smoothly, thanks to careful readjustment of shooting schedules.

Recent sequences have been shot in an Old Bailey setting with Miss Lockwood in the dock, actor playwright Emlyn Williams in the witness box and Barry K. Barnes wearing the robes and wig of a defending counsel. Carol Reed directed.

Red Cross Tribute

The romance of the International Red Cross has inspired John Hanau to the production of a color film based on the life of Henry Dunant, first recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize and founder of what is today one of the world's great humanitarian institutions.

The period covered will be that between 1863 and the present day. The subject will be treated in historical style, with locale in Italy for many exteriors, at which the location unit is already at work.

Collaboration of the International Red Cross Committee has been given the producer. The film will be used to raise money for the Red Cros.

CENSORSHIP, NEW TAXES DISCUSSED IN MISSISSIPPI

Limitation of Child Attendance Pending in Cleveland; Pennsylvania Refunds Delayed

Proponents of state censorship from the outside continue unceasing, although unsuccessful, in their efforts to extend political censoring of motion pictures, with attention turned this week to the Mississippi Legislature where a bill which proposes the establishing of a three member state board of censors was approved by the Education Committee of the State House of Representatives and placed on the calendar for early consideration.

Under the board only films adjudged of a "moral, educational or amusing and harmless character" would be approved, with penalties running as high as $1,000 for each offense for the distribution or exhibition of unapproved films or the censored portions of pictures. The bill, if approved, would become effective in 90 days. Members of the board would serve without salary, but would receive necessary traveling expenses, acquired through a fee of $1 per 1,000 feet of each reel of film reviewed.

Violations of the board's rulings would be punishable by fines of $25 to $300 for first offenses and $300 to $500 for each additional separate offense.

Would Tax Amusement Machines

The Mississippi Senate this week passed a bill taxing all coin-operated amusement machines in the state except the outlawed "slots," and including coin still or motion picture machines, music boxes and merchandise venders. The levy on motion picture machines would run from $5 on 5 cent machines to $30 on those operated with 25 cents or over.

Also on the Mississippi calendar is a bill to levy a special $100 per day tax on picture shows on Bank Nights or similar occasions when awards were offered—whether anybody won or not.

A bill to authorize motion picture shows on Sundays under payment of a special privilege tax of 10 per cent has been killed by the Mississippi House ways and means committee.

Brookhaven, Miss., has banned Saturday night "midnight" motion picture showings following a ruling by E. C. Barlow, district attorney, that he would be "forced to prosecute any further violations of Mississippi's Sunday "blue laws."

Child Ordinance Pending

Exhibitors of Cleveland are concerned over an ordinance pending in the City Council which would limit the hours of attendance of children in film theatres. Sponsored by women's clubs, the bill is in committee.

The measure would prohibit the attendance of children under 16 years during school hours, permitting their attendance after school until six p. m. and thereafter if accompanied by an older person.

Exhibitors object to the bill because it would place on them the burden of policing their theatres and of guessing the ages of school children correctly.

Sign Ticket Bill

Herbert H. Lehman, New York Governor, Monday signed the bill limiting resale of theatre tickets to 75 cents above original premium. Assemblyman MacNeil Mitchell sponsored the bill which provides that "each owner, operator, producer, manager or employee of any theatre" shall be obliged on request of the license commissioner, to "supply such information as may be required concerning the business, business practices or business methods of any licensee. Such commissioner, in enforcing this article, shall have the power to promulgate such rules and regulations as may be deemed necessary for the protection of the public."

Conviction for any violation in the new law "shall be punishable by a fine not to exceed $250 or by imprisonment for a period not to exceed one year, or both."

The limit of 75 cents on the premium, now a provision of the code in effect in the theatre industry becomes frozen in the new law.

Pennsylvania Refunds in 1941

Theatre operators and store owners of Pennsylvania who paid in a total of $560,532 in the chain store tax, declared unconstitutional last July by the state supreme court, will have to wait at least until after June 1, 1941, before they can get their money back, it has been reported by the State Board of Finance and Revenue.

Under the chain store tax act, which was estimated to bring in millions of dollars from the large chains, which were taxed $500 a theatre or store if they maintained 500 or more, into the general fund, and all of it has been spent. Had the money been segregated, the refunding board could have made payments long ago, but as matters stand, the revenue department said, the Legislature of 1941 will have to provide the money before refunds can be made.

Columbus Operators' Bill

An ordinance, approved by projectionists, has been introduced in the Columbus, Ohio, City Council by Captain E. J. Brophy, head of the City Fire Prevention Bureau. It would increase fees' for annual renewal of licenses from $1 to $2 and would require new projectionists to pay a $25 fee for the first year. They now pay $1.

Tax Collections

Missouri's collection of revenue under the two per cent sales tax for the first three months exceeded that in the same period of 1939 by $527,635. March yielded $1,880,707, up $216,379 from a year ago.

Admission tax collections in Ohio in the first three months of 1940 were $379,829.44, compared with $340,043.97 for the same period in 1939, an increase of 11.6 per cent, according to the report of the State Treasurer.

Sunday Shows in Beatrice

Voters of Beatrice, Neb., favored Sunday motion picture shows by a count of 2,472 to 1,873 in the recent election. It was the sixth time in 10 years that the question was voted upon and marked the end of a 25 year fight by proponents for Sunday shows.

The City Council of Texarkana, Ark., has passed an ordinance with an emergency clause which will prohibit smoking in or behind the stage or in the audience of public theatres. Violations call for a fine of $25.

The Bessemer, Ala., ordinance prohibiting the assembling of white persons and Negroes in the same building for amusement or entertainment will not be amended, the council voted recently.

Assemblyman A. F. Goldstein's measure amending the penal law in relation to radio advertising has been signed by Herbert Lehman, New York Governor.

Arthur Lee, GB Head Here, Resigns

Arthur A. Lee, vice-president of Gaumont British Corporation of America, has resigned after a 25-year association with the company and its predecessors.

Isidore Ostrer, chairman of Gaumont British Corporation, Ltd., the parent company, will remain in charge of American activities, including possible television developments. He arrived in New York several weeks ago from London. The American company has not been very active lately, with GB having ceased production in England about a year ago. Twentieth Century-Fox is completing liquidation of the physical distribution of two GB films, a few of which it took over when GB discontinued its exchange system here.

Mr. Lee said he would disclose his plans about June 1st after a vacation.

Columbia

AMAZING MR. WILLIAMS, THE: Joan Blondell, Melvyn Douglas—Well enjoyed by our audiences. Not much of a rush at the box office. Running time, 83 minutes. Played March 29-30.—H. Goldson, Plaza Theatre, Chicago, Ill. Neighborhood patronage.

BLONDIE ON A BUDGET: Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake, Larry Simms—This picture was thoroughly enjoyed by the customers. Played midweek to fair business. Running time, 73 minutes. Played April 9-10.—J. P. Semyan, Liberty Theatre, Lilly, Penna. Small town patronage.

FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS AT HOME: Edith Fellows, Dorothy Peterson—A very good action picture with comedy, heart-throbs and suspense. Played on a bargain night to good business. Running time, 65 minutes. Played April 4.—J. P. Semyan, Liberty Theatre, Lilly, Penna. Small town patronage.

FIVE LITTLE PEPPERS AT HOME: Edith Fellows, Dorothy Peterson—Doubled this with "Hidden Power" for Friday-Saturday, which made a very poor show. "Five Little Peppers" would have stood up if if had had something to run with it, but it is not good enough to hold a poor picture up.—H. T. Nokes, Ozark Theatre, Ozark, Mo. Rural patronage.

FUGITIVE AT LARGE: Jack Holt, Patricia Ellis—Mildly interesting. Nothing wrong with Jack but he needs better material out of the groove of his recent crime plots. "Crime Doesn't Pay" is a popular short series but crime in features doesn't pay any more. Played March 19.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

HIDDEN POWER: Jack Holt, Gertrude Micbael—See report on "Five Little Peppers at Home." Running time, 60 minutes. Played March 15-16.—H. T. Nokes, Ozark Theatre, Ozark, Mo. Rural patronage.

MR. SMITH GOES TO WASHINGTON: James Stewart, Jean Arthur, Edward Arnold, Claude Rains, Thomas Mitchell, Guy Kibbee, Eugene Pallette—This did fair on a return showing. Can't see exactly why we didn't do more with it, especially on our first play dates. It's surefire entertainment and a good object lesson for young Americans who should be interested in keeping their government on the up and up. Played March 26.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

MUSIC IN MY HEART: Tony Martin, Rita Hayworth, Edith Fellows—A neat comedy drama with music. Tony Martin sings so well it's surprising he doesn't hit top spots sooner. He's good looking and acts well and certainly deserves the breaks. It's quite possible he'd click nicely. Played March 17-18. —L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

PIONEERS OF THE FRONTIER: Bill Elliott, Linda Winters—A good western that seemed to please onr weekend western fans. Running time, 58 minutes. Played March 29-30.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

TOO MANY HUSBANDS: Jean Arthur, Melvyn Douglas—Packed full of real entertainment. Dialogue good, situations funny, whole cast excellent.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

First National

ANGELS WASH THEIR FACES, THE: Ronald Reagan, Ann Sberidan, "Dead End Kids"—A fair show. Not up to the "Dead End Kids" standard. Played March 15-16.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

CASTLE ON THE HUDSON: John Garfield, Ann Sheridan, Pat O'Brien—Good where audiences like gangster pictures.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

DAUGHTERS COURAGEOUS: Lane Sisters, Gale Page, John Garfield, Fay Bainter, Claude Rains, May Robson, Jeffrey Lynn, Frank McHugh, Dick Foran —This one was liked nearly as well as "Four Daughters." Running time, 10 reels. Played December 28-30.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

FOUR WIVES: Priscilla, Rosemary and Lola Lane, Claude Rains, Jeffrey Lynn—Excellent Sunday show, but failed to draw. This one should be the end to this series. Played April 7-8.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

NO PLACE TO GO: Fred Stone, Gloria Dickson, Dennis Morgan. Fair program show for double feature date. Played April 5-6.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

OLD MAID: Bette Davis, Miriam Hopkins, George Brent, Jane Bryan—This is a swell picture but did not go over here. It will go in larger towns. Played December 8-9.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

THREE CHEERS FOR THE IRISH! Priscilla Lane, Dennis Morgan, Thomas Mitchell—This will draw where there is an Irish clientele. Good and rowdy.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

WE ARE NOT ALONE: Paul Muni, Jane Bryan—A very good picture in respect to acting, stars and story; however, box-office appeal is lacking. Running time, 112 minutes. Played April 14-15.—J. P. Semyan. Liberty Theatre, Lilly, Penna. Small town patronage.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

BROADWAY MELODY OF 1940: Eleanor Powell, Fred Astaire, George Murphy—Our public can certainly smell them before we put them on the screen. Result no draw. Here is every bit of talent that you could ask for in a musical and then the director spoilt it by going classical with too many of the dances. Of course, we all know that Miss Powell is only a dancer, and when they try to make her act it is just too bad. Well, anyway, we played it our best days to a disappointing draw. so use your own judgment. Running time, 100 minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

CONGO MAISIE: Ann Sothern, John Carroll—This one will please if you can get them in to see it. We had a "Cowboy Preacher" in town when it was played and he kept them away in droves. Those who saw it were well pleased. Running time, 70 minutes. Played April 12.—J. J. Sanderson, State Theatre, Loris, S. C. Rural and small town patronage.

CONGO MAISIE: Ann Sothern, John Carroll, Rita Johnson—A wow of a dramatic laugh show. Ann is perfect as "Maisie." John Carroll shows up nicely in support. Also Rita Johnson is excellent. Business not up to expectations but got by. Played March 22-23.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

GHOST COMES HOME, THE: Frank Morgan. Billie Burke—While failing to set any records for entertainment, this feature will get by in good shape. Frank Morgan is not strong enough to carry a picture without outside help of a few "names." Comedy sequences were not pronounced and when the end came you had a feeling that something was missing. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General Running time, 79 minutes. Played April 10-12.—W. patronage.

I TAKE THIS WOMAN: Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr—Good picture; good business. Running time, 92 minutes. Played April 9.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

I TAKE THIS WOMAN: Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr—Can't see reason why critics have panned this so consistently. Our folks ate it up with relish. Better reports from the fan magazine reviewers and others would have helped gross, and it is a good show. Tracy and Lamarr were fine. Business okay. Played March 31-April 1.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

I TAKE THIS WOMAN: Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr—Just a fair "B" picture that we played on Bank Night to a fair crowd. Running time, 97 minutes. Played March 26-28.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

LADY OF THE TROPICS: Robert Taylor, Hedy Lamarr—One of tbe most enjoyable sbows in a long time. Drew a little more tban the program type of a show. Played April 3-4.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

LAMBETH WALK, THE: Lupino Lane, Sally Gray—After fourteen years in the business, this is absolutely the worst picture we have ever played. The trailer was bad, but we did not think the picture could be quite as bad as it was. They even walked out on Bank Night. None of the English pictures go here. Running time, 66 minutes. Played April 9-11.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

REMEMBER?: Robert Taylor, Greer Garson, Lew Ayres—Just fair or less. Did not hold up on second day's run. Running time, 83 minutes. Played March 31-April 1.—H. T. Nokes, Ozark Theatre, Ozark, Mo. Rural patronage.

SHOP AROUND THE CORNER, THE: Margaret Sullavan, James Stewart, Frank Morgan—Exceptionally fine picture with a swell cast. However, we died on it, and Easter Sunday at that. Should have played it Wednesday-Thursday. Frank Morgan superb. Played March 24-25.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

THUNDER AFLOAT: Wallace Beery, Chester Morris—Very good action type of a show. But these war stories don't mean a thing any more. Played April 5-6.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

WOMEN, THE: Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Rosalind Russell, Mary Boland, Paulette Goddard, Joan Fontaine, Virginia Weidler—It just couldn't have been improved upon. For hilarious laughter, spontaneous audience applause and downright goodness, it cops the "mitt." Running time, 134 minutes. Played April 10-12.—W. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General patronage.

YOUNG TOM EDISON: Mickey Rooney, Virginia Weidler—Pleased 100 per cent, but somehow did not draw. Mickey's portrayal of Edison the boy is a masterpiece and he deserves much praise. Fine support by an able cast.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

Monogram

GENTLEMAN FROM ARIZONA: John King, Joan Barclay, Craig Reynolds—A good story, but Cinecolor does not begin to compare with Technicolor. Running time, 71 minutes. Played March 26-28.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

HOOSIER SCHOOLBOY, THE: Mickey Rooney, Anne Nagel—Showed this in both school and Working Girls Club and it was enjoyed very much. This picture should go over big on Rooney's present popularity. It's got what it takes. Running time, 65 minutes—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

JANE EYRE: Virginia Bruce, Colin Clive—Picked up several of these old ones and did pretty good on them. Good prints. Doubled this with "Rio Rustler." Running time, 70 minutes. Played January 19-20.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

MYSTERIOUS MR. WONG: Boris Karloff—Doubled this with "Song of the Trail" and it went all right. Running time, 65 minutes.—Played January 26-27.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

THIRTEENTH GUEST, THE: Ginger Rogers, Lyle Talbot—Did better on the second night on this than did on the first. Good print on this except on end of one or two reels. Liked by the larger part of the audience. Running time, 65 minutes. Played February 23-24.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

Paramount

CAT AND THE CANARY, THE: Bob Hope, Paulette Goddard—Good but not a wow like they said. Allocation in second group rentals was much too much for us to pay for a picture such as this. Our gross very moderate average. Played March 27-28. 28.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

DR. CYCLOPS: Albert Dekker, Janice Logan—If you can get them in, the patrons will enjoy this picture. Altogether different from anything else.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

FARMER'S DAUGHTER, THE: Martha Raye, Charlie Ruggles—Fair for a dualler.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

GULLIVER'S TRAVELS: Color Cartoon-Feature—Good show for kids up to ten years old. I cannot see, though, how anyone could expect adults to pay to see these feature length cartoons. This one was merely an elongated comedy. Business was poor and the few who saw it were disappointed. Running time, 76 minutes. Played April 1-2.—J. J. Sanderson, State Theatre, Loris, S. C. Rural and small town patronage.

GULLIVER'S TRAVELS: Color Cartoon-Feature—We had this hooked up with "Swanee River." We don't know which picture they came to see, but the combination brought them in. Running time, 75 minutes. Played March 31-April 1.—H. Goldson, Plaza Theatre, Chicago, Ill. Neighborhood patronage.

GULLIVER'S TRAVELS: Color Cartoon Feature—When I first saw this, I was rather disappointed. The reason, I presume, is because I tried to judge it by the standards of "Snow White." While it lacks the smoothness and characterization of "Snow White," "Gulliver" is a mighty entertaining picture, and the more you see it, the better you like it. During the repeated showings on a three-day run, I liked it better at each showing. This brought out the children, and the children brought the grown folks or vice versa, which made business above average. Paramount made a reel called "Miami Miracle," showing the making of "Gulliver's Travels." While this was made to advertise "Gulliver," I got this during the showing and put it on just before "Gulliver." If you can get this reel, you will find it will add much to your patrons' enjoyment, if you will show this just before the showing of "Gulliver."—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

ILLEGAL TRAFFIC: J. Carrol Naish, Mary Carlisle—Pretty poor. If you don't play it you won't miss anything. Played March 26.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

KNIGHTS OF THE RANGE: Russell Hayden, Jean Parker—Another western.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

LIGHT THAT FAILED, THE: Ronald Colman, Walter Huston, Ida Lupino—The light was snuffed out at the box office before it ever started. I am very much afraid that Kipling is outdated for today's public. Very slow, a great many walked out on it. And when they spend their two bits, you know that the picture is not what is wanted today, in the critical age of showgoers.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

MAGNIFICENT FRAUD, THE: Akim Tamiroff, Lloyd Nolan, Mary Boland, Patricia Morison—Not so good. Played March 15-16.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

MISSISSIPPI: Bing Crosby, W. C. Fields, Joan Bennett—This is the first time I have reported the use of a 16mm. film. The picture was enjoyed very much but the sound was not as good as it could be. Running time, 82 minutes.—Played Decembr 15.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

NIGHT OF NIGHTS: Pat O'Brien, Olympe Bradna, Roland Young—Got this and "Range War" to double on Friday-Saturday. Ran them Friday; had so many knocks on "Nights of Nights" I pulled it on Saturday and ran my Sunday picture. Running time, 86 minutes.—H. T. Nokes, Ozark Theatre, Ozark, Mo. Rural patronage.

$1,000 A TOUCHDOWN: Joe E. Brown, Martha Raye—Stay away from it. Played March 29-30.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

RANGE WAR: William Boyd, Russell Hayden—Just a western. Nothing out of ordinary. Will get by on double on weekend bill. Running time, 66 minutes. Played March 27.—H. T. Nokes, Ozark Theatre, Ozark, Mo. Rural patronage.

REMEMBER THE NIGHT: Barbara Stanwyck, Fred MacMurray—This did not seem to mean a thing to our patrons. They stayed away and I can't blame them. Not much of a story and MacMurray was about as effective as an extra. Running time, 92 minutes. Played April 7-8.—H. Goldson, Plaza Theatre, Chicago, Ill. Neighborhood patronage.

ROAD TO SINGAPORE: Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour, Bob Hope—Honors go to Bob Hope in this picture. Pleased everyone. Good many laughs.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

ROAD TO SINGAPORE: Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour, Bob Hope—Excellent picture; very good business. Running time, 85 minutes. Played April 10-11.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

RULERS OF THE SEA: Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Margaret Lockwood, Will Fyffe—This story of the trials and tribulations of getting the first boat across the Atlantic by steam makes for interesting drama. From the title some of your patrons may think that this is a war drama. We told them in advance that this was not a war drama. I will ask those in charge of making this if they thought that killing Will Fyffe by scalding steam, with effects such as having him scream as one would after such an accident in real life, if that added to the entertainment value of the picture. Wasn't there other ways to build suspense and wouldn't those that see it enjoy it more to have this lovable character enjoy the triumph of the ovation given the first steamer in the New York Harbor? This was doubled with "Gulliver's Travels" to good business.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

SIDEWALKS OF LONDON: Charles Laughton, Vivien Leigh—If there were a Nobel prize for the world's worst picture, this would take it, hands down. Never have we seen so many disgruntled patrons, and our error, for which please forgive us, was in running it. Exhibitors, if you don't cancel another picture this year, cancel this one out. And I saw some good criticisms on it. All that I can say is, they need their heads examined.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

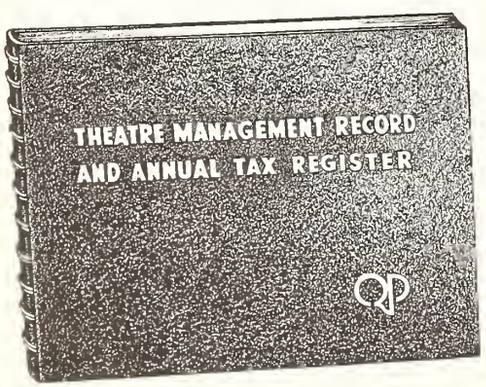
Republic

SAGA OF DEATH VALLEY: Roy Rogers, George "Gabby" Hayes, Donald Barry, Doris Day—Roy Rogers not as popular as Gene Autry but does bring us extra business. Audience reaction favorable.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada.

SOUTH OF THE BORDER: Gene Autry, Smiley Burnette—This is box office. The best drawing card of any of the Autry pictures that have gone before. The popularity of the song may have induced some to come, but after they came, the picture more than made good on other counts. Pictures of this caliber should increase the popularity of the Autry pictures still further.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.



WESTERN JAMBOREE: Gene Autry, Smiley Burnette—A fair show. Failed to draw. Played March 22-23.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

YOUNG BUFFALO BILL: Roy Rogers, George "Gabby" Hayes, Pauline Moore—Good picture; good business. This will please the kids and the farm boys. Running time, 60 minutes. Played April 12-13.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

RKO Radio

ALLEGHENY UPRISING: John Wayne, Claire Trevor, Brian Donlevy, George Sanders—A very good picture but not as well liked as "Stagecoach." Wayne and Trevor are well liked in this section. Did good at the box office. Running time, 81 minutes. Played January 5-6.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

DAY THE BOOKIES WEPT, THE: Joe Penner, Betty Grable—Did not think they would like this one but they had a lot of laughs out of it and pleased and that's what counts. Running time, 63 minutes. Played March 8-9.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

FLYING DEUCES: Laurel and Hardy, Jean Parker—Best picture these two have made in quite a while. Was enjoyed by everyone. Did above average for this type of picture. Here's hoping RKO makes more with Laurel and Hardy. Running time, 69 minutes. Played January 12-13.—Rohert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME, THE: Charles Laughton, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Maureen O'Hara—This just goes to prove that just spending a wad of money in settings, costumes, mohs, stars, etc., don't mean a thing to film fans. A flop, yes, a hig flop. Running time, 114 minutes. Played April 6-7.—H. Goldson, Plaza Theatre, Chicago, Ill. Neighhorhood patronage.

HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME, THE: Charles Laughton, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Thomas Mitchell, Maureen O'Hara—Not so good. Women stayed away and the men laughed at the monster. No entertainment. Why do they make shows like this? Played March 31-April 1.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

LITTLE ORVIE: John Sheffield, Ernest Truex—A nice little program picture that will appeal to everybody if you can get them in. A picture that will make grown-ups realize that they were kids once themselves. Running time, 66 minutes. Played March 22-23.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

MARINES FLY HIGH: Richard Dix, Chester Morris, Lucille Ball—Disappointed, some expecting more of an air picture, but it did all right. Running time, 65 minutes. Played March 15-16.—Rohert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

MARSHAL OF MESA CITY: George O'Brien, Virginia Vale—Better than average horse opera. George O'Brien well liked here. Played March 29-30.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

MEET DR. CHRISTIAN: Jean Hersholt, Dorothy Lovett—Good. Audience reaction satisfactory, though they have seen this same plot worked out in several previous doctor yarns. Jean Hersholt is fine for the role. In conjunction with "Music in My Heart" we did a nice Palm Sunday business. Played March 17-18.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

MILLIONAIRE PLAYBOY: Joe Penner, Linda Hayes—This is one of the best pictures Penner has ever made. Lots of laughs. Very good show for Bank Night. Running time, 64 minutes. Played April 9-11.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

NURSE EDITH CAVELL: Anne Neagle, Edna May Oliver, May Rohson, George Sanders, Zasu Pitts—To be run on the days we ran this picture it did very well. Running time, 10 reels. Played Decemher 26-27.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON: Thomas Mitchell, Edna Best, Freddie Bartholomew—One of the best shows that RKO ever had. Done some extra business. Played March 3-4.—Ray H. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

THAT'S RIGHT, YOU'RE WRONG: Kay Kyser, Adolphe Menjou, Lucille Ball—This picture done some extra business, but it's awfully weak. Played March 6-7.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

THAT'S RIGHT, YOU'RE WRONG: Kay Kyser and His Orchestra, Adolphe Menjou, May Rohson, Edward Everett Horton, Lucille Ball.—This one had everything it takes to make a good picture and pleased everyone. You won't go wrong by booking this one in on any day. If the second Kyser picture is as good as this one, our headaches are over. Running time, 96 minutes. Played February 7.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

VIGIL IN THE NIGHT: Carole Lombard, Anne Shirley, Brian Aherne—An excellent show, but it failed to do any business. Played March 24-25.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rual patronage.

Twentieth Century-Fox

BLUE BIRD, THE: Shirley Temple, Spring Byington, Eddie Collins—A beautiful fairy tale that kept the adults away in droves. It's a shame, too, because this picture is as restful as a two-week vacation and as colorful as a paint chart. Eddie Collins rises another 25 per cent in my estimation for his good job in this film. Sure would like to see him cast in more pictures. It's a grand show but what a problem child at the box office! Running time, 83 minutes. Played April 13-16.—W. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General patronage.

THREE MORE JOIN CONTRIBUTORS

New contributors to "What the Picture Did for Me" in the past fortnight include the following:

ED. FRENKEL, Century Theatre, Mobile, Ala.

LOUIS PERRETTA, Crescent Theatre, Mahonington, Pa.

J. P. SEMYAN, Liberty Theatre, Lilly, Pa.

Mr. Perretta will be remembered for contributions to the department half a decade ago, his last report having been in the issue of May 5, 1934.

CISCO KID AND THE LADY: Cesar Romero, Marjorie Weaver—Very, very good, as far as I could find out. Pleased 100 per cent. Running time, 73 minutes. Played April 5-6.—H. T. Nokes, Ozark Theatre, Ozark, Mo. Rural patronage.

GRAPES OF WRATH, THE: Henry Fonda, Jane Darwell, John Carradine, Charley Grapewin, Dorris Bowdon—Fox made a good picture out of this controversial novel. Fine characterizations all the way through. Jane Darwell perfect as the mother and Fonda does his part in the role in great shape. But with "Of Mice and Men" along the same line, only not so good, it is just ahout all I think that the public wants of this type. I may be wrong, hut I think that the public are ripe for some singing and dancing show. Although "Broadway Melody of 1940" did not set the world afire at the box office, I'm still of the opinion that good ones will hit later this season.—A. E. Hancock, Columhia Theatre, Columhia City, Ind. General patronage.

HEAVEN WITH A BARBED WIRE FENCE: Jean Rogers, Glenn Ford—No drawing power hut pleased what few that came to see it. Running time, 62 minutes. Played March 20-21.—H. T. Nokes, Ozark Theatre, Ozark, Mo. Rural patronage.

HIGH SCHOOL: Jane Withers, Joe Brown, Jr.—The picture was well received, especially hy the younger folk. As this picture concerns high school, all high school pupils will go for it. Played on a Friday and Saturday to average business. Running time, 74 minutes. Played April 5-6.—J. P. Semyan, Liberty Theatre, Lilly, Penna. Small town patronage.

HONEYMOON'S OVER, THE: Stuart Erwin, Marjorie Weaver—Satisfactory program picture. Running time, 70 minutes. Played April 5-6.—H. T. Nokes, Ozark Theatre, Ozark, Mo. Rural patronage.

INSPECTOR HORNLEIGH ON HOLIDAY: Gordon Harker, Alastair Sim—English picture, hard to understand, slow mystery story. No drawing power. Second day's run did not net enough to pay my operator. Running time, 87 minutes. Played April 3-4.—H. T. Nokes, Ozark Theatre, Ozark, Mo. Rural patronage.

QUICK MILLIONS: Jed Prouty, Spring Byington—Although "Jones Family" liked here, business was poor, snow and slippery roads being responsible, probahly. Played March 9.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Family patronage.

ROAD TO GLORY, THE (Reissue): Fredric March, Lionel Barrymore, Warner Baxter, June Lang—I repeated this and lost money. War pictures don't mean a thing. Played March 12.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

SWANEE RIVER: Don Ameche, Al Jolson, Andrea Leeds—See report on Paramount's "Gulliver's Travels." H Goldson, Plaza Theatre, Chicago, Ill. Neighborhood patronage.

TOO BUSY TO WORK: Spring Byington, Jed Prouty, Joan Davis—Amusing. Joan Davis stole all honors and kept our crowd happy. Played March 29-30.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

TOO BUSY TO WORK: Spring Byington, Jed Prouty. Joan Davis—A fair show; not as good as the rest of the Jones Family. Played March 22-23.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

United Artists

CHUMP AT OXFORD: Laurel and Hardy—The funniest Laurel and Hardy picture I've seen. It kept the crowd in an uproar. The story was weak but that is not unusual for the type of picture. Our patrons would like them hetter in two-reelers. Running time, 60 minutes. Played March 27.—J. J. Sanderson, State Theatre, Loris, S. C. Rural and small town patronage.

another Laurel and Hardy with a few new gags and lots of old ones. However, they draw, so we should worry. Running time, 63 minutes. Played March 31-April 1.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

FOUR FEATHERS: Ralph Richardson, John Clements, June Duprez, C. Aubrey Smith—This was a good picture that did not please as well as it could have, due to the English dialogue. Some said they could not understand it. Action scenes and color held it up. As a whole it pleased those who saw it. Running time, 115 minutes. Played February 1-2.—Robert Dittrich, Viking Theatre, Cranfills Gap, Texas. Small town and rural patronage.

FOUR FEATHERS: John Clements, Ralph Richardson, C. Aubrey Smith, June Duprez—A show that don't mean a thing in a small town. Played March 5. —Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

HOUSE ACROSS THE BAY: Joan Bennett, George Raft—Very good picture of its kind.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

HOUSEKEEPER'S DAUGHTER: Joan Bennett, Adolphe Menjou—Very good. Lots of laughs. Well liked. Business fair. Played March 27-28.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

INTERMEZZO, A LOVE STORY: Leslie Howard, Ingrid Bergman, Edna Best—Attention, Mr. C. V. Schofield of Lansing, Iowa. This picture left the box office cold, so cold that the cashier's fingers were in such a condition that they had to be rubbed in snow to try and warm them. All kidding aside, this certainly is not a picture for any small town to play. Just pay for it and forget it. Artistically—well, artistry does not pay the bills, we are sorry to state and this one certainly did not. Running time, 70 minutes. —A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

MAN IN THE IRON MASK: Louis Hayward, Joan Bennett—A swell show, but farmers don't come for this, so it didn't do any business. Played March 13-14.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

OF MICE AND MEN: Burgess Meredith, Lon Chaney, Jr., Betty Field—This was a swell picture of its type but it failed to draw in our territory. I heard only two people say they liked it. It just isn't the type to please in a small town. Running time, 99 minutes. Played March 21-22.—J. J. Sanderson, State Theatre, Loris, S. C. Rural and small town patronage.

SLIGHTLY HONORABLE: Pat O'Brien, Ruth Terry—A very good picture but did not draw. Those who did see it seemed to like it. Running time, 85 minutes. Played March 24-25.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

Universal

CALL A MESSENGER: Billy Halop, Huntz Hall, Mary Carlisle, Larry Crabbe, El Brendel—Excellent. This is a good story for these "Dead Enders" and "Little Tough Guys." Plenty tough still but on the right side of the law. Thrilling entertainment with lots of comedy. El Brendel good. Played March 22-23.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

CODE OF THE STREETS: Frankie Thomas, Harry Carey. The Little Tough Guys—Played to worst business of year, due in part to storm and in part to lack of money in this section. Played March 16.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Family patronage.

DANGER ON WHEELS: Richard Arlen, Andy Devine, Peggy Moran—The Arlen-Devine series is a good little action group for our house. Universal can number the series among its assets. Running time, 61 minutes. Played April 13-16.—W. C. Lewellen, Uptown Theatre, Pueblo, Colo. General patronage.

DESTRY RIDES AGAIN: Marlene Dietrich, James Stewart—A very good high class western with lots of humor in it. Should please any audience. Running time, 94 minutes. Played March 24-25.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

DOUBLE ALIBI: Wayne Morris, Margaret Lindsay —Fair for double feature houses.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

IT'S A DATE: Deanna Durbin, Kay Francis, Walter Pidgeon—The best Durbin so far. Very well directed. Cast excellent.—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

IT'S A DATE: Deanna Durbin, Kay Francis, Walter Pidgeon—I think this is by far the best picture Deanna has made. We played this picture on Monday and Tuesday and enjoyed a good business. Running time, 100 minutes. Played April 1-2.—Morris Littman, Sylvan Theatre, Rutherfordton, N. C. Small town patronage.

MA! HE'S MAKING EYES AT ME: Tom Brown, Constance Moore—Just another average picture with the boy finding out he loves the girl at the end. Running time, 63 minutes. Played March 19-21.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

MY LITTLE CHICKADEE: Mae West, W. C. Fields—Our better judgment told us not to play this picture, but we disregarded and were sorry. Enough said!—Leon C. Bolduc, Majestic Theatre, Conway, N. H. General patronage.

NEWSBOYS HOME: Jackie Cooper, Wendy Barrie, Edmund Lowe, "Little Tough Guys"—Very fine action picture which is most suitable for small towns. Had we not had bad weather, we think we would have enjoyed good business.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

RISKY BUSINESS: George Murphy, Dorothea Kent, El Brendel—Good programer. Box office still under cloud. Played March 2.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Family patronage.

SUN NEVER SETS, THE: Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Basil Rathbone—Severe snowstorm kept them away. Those who saw this expressed satisfaction. Played March 23.—C. W. Mills, Arcade Theatre, Sodus, N. Y. Family patronage.

TOWER OF LONDON: Basil Rathbone, Boris Karloff—Well done, but depressing story makes poor entertainment to pep up anyone's jaded nerves. Business fair. Played March 20-21.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

Warner Brothers

BROTHER RAT AND A BABY: Priscilla Lane, Wayne Morris, Jane Bryan Eddie Albert—Fair comedy. This replaced "Invisible Stripes" on account of roads blocked with snow. However, was enjoyed by my patrons who pay the shot. Running time, 89 minutes. Played April 4.—A. L. Dove, Bengough Theatre, Bengough, Saskatchewan, Can. Small town and rural patronage.

GRANNY GET YOUR GUN: May Robson, Harry Davenport—She came, she saw and she conquered. As good a little comedy as you will have seen in a long time, and this one did all right for itself at the box office. Just a good show for a weekend bill. Running time, 66 minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

IT ALL CAME TRUE: Ann Sheridan, Humphrey Bogart, Jeffrey Lynn—Ann is improving. Most of my patrons that saw the picture agree with me on this. Humphrey Bogart was extra good. This is a good show. Play it as soon as you can and play it up big. You will not be disappointed. Running time, 97 minutes. Played April 8-9.—Morris Littman, Sylvan Theatre, Rutherfordton, N. C. Small town patronage.

IT ALL CAME TRUE: Ann Sheridan, Jeffrey Lynn, Humphrey Bogart—A dandy picture. Pleased nearly everyone. Ann Sheridan very good. She is a coming star. Running time, 95 minutes. Played April 14-16.—R. L. Matson, Crystal Theatre, Flandreau, S. D. General patronage.

KING OF THE LUMBERJACKS: John Payne, Gloria Dickson—Ran on double bill on Friday-Saturday. A dandy little picture. Running time, 60 minutes. Played April 11-12.—R. L. Matson, Crystal Theatre, Flandreau, S. D. General patronage.

ROARING TWENTIES, THE: James Cagney, Humphrey Bogart, Priscilla Lane, Jeffrey Lynn—A very good show, but for some reason doesn't do any business. Played March 10-11.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

VIRGINIA CITY: Errol Flynn, Miriam Hopkins, Alan Hale—When they take 'em out of doors, and get some authentic outdoor shorts, then we have a picture that is right down our alley as this one was, and the cast, yeah boy, they were right in there pitching, and it had that tough hombre, Alan Hale, who, when he socks them, they stay socked. He is popular with our patrons.—A. E. Hancock, Columbia Theatre, Columbia City, Ind. General patronage.

Short Features

Columbia

ANDY CLYDE GETS SPRING CHICKEN: Broadway Comedies—Andy Clyde always brings a laugh to our rural lads.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

CHARM BRACELET, THE: Phantasies Cartoons—Just passing fair.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

COMMUNITY SING NO. 5: Gypsy Songs—The gypsy songs in this subject were okay. I would rate this reel as fair. Running time, 10 minutes.—J. P. Semyan, Liberty Theatre, Lilly, Penna. Small town patronage.

HECKLER, THE: Charley Chase—The best Chase comedy yet. Running time, 17 minutes.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

MOTHER GOOSE IN SWING TIME: Color Rhapsodies—A caricature of Hollywood's famous that is just about average, as the animation is terrible. Sound track is very poor, but still it may please, as the public likes this kind. Running time, nine minutes. —A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

OH, YOU NAZTY SPY: 3 Stooges—A very good comedy with the Three Stooges and very timely, as you can tell from the title. Running time, 18 minutes. —Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

OILY TO BED, OILY TO RISE: Three Stooges—One of their funniest and best.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

ROCKIN' THRU THE ROCKIES: 3 Stooges—Very good comedy for weekend date. Running time, 18 minutes.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

ROUGH HOUSE FIESTA: Sport Thrills—A very good Sport with four wrestlers in the ring at the same time. Running time, 1 reel.—Joe Schiendele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

SKIING TECHNIQUE: Sport Thrills—Very neat and interesting.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

SKINNY THE MOOCHER: Charley Chase—These shorts may be silly, but the patrons laugh and that's why I buy them. Running time, 16 minutes—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

TEACHER'S PEST: Charley Chase—Real good. Play it on weekends. Your farm lads will eat it up.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

THREE SAPPY PEOPLE: Three Stooges—Plenty of old fashion pie throwing that the audiences just ate up. Absolutely tops in comedy but give it extra notice in your advertising and it will pay for itself. The only trouble is that the laughter drowns out the dialogue. Running time, 18 minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

WASHINGTON PARADE NO. 3: Federal Bureau of Investigation—A good short on the inside workings of the F. B. I. Running time, 2 reels.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

WORLD OF 1960 (FUTURAMA): Cinescopes—Interesting.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

WORM'S EYE VIEW, A: Scrappy Cartoons—Columbia substituted this for us but we have no kicks, as this is better than anything they have given us this season. Just a good cartoon. Running time, seven minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

BOOKWORM, THE: Cartoons—A swell cartoon with lots of laughs.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

DREAM OF LOVE, A: Musical Comedies—OK for music lovers, but not for small town. Running time, 18 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

MAD MAESTRO, THE: Cartoons—The music was OK, but the animation did not come up to par. Running time, 8 minutes.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

MAINTAIN THE RIGHT: Pete Smith Specialties—A good plug for De Mille's forthcoming "Northwest Mounted Police." This company has something that all the balance of the producers strive for but do not reach. Excellent. Will fit into any program. Running time, nine minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

NORTHWARD HO!: MGM Miniatures—Just a a piece of advertising for "Northwest Passage," so, if you do not play this ahead of the feature, it is just a waste of film. It is nothing more than a trailer that grew up. Running time, eight minutes.—A. J. Inks, Crystal Theatre, Ligonier, Ind. Small town patronage.

ONE MOTHER'S FAMILY: Cartoons—Excellent. Lots of laughs. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

ONE MOTHER'S FAMILY: MGM Cartoons—A real outstanding cartoon.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

RADIO HAMS: Pete Smith Specialties—Interesting subject on radio communications. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

SEATTLE, GATEWAY TO THE NORTHWEST: FitzPatrick Traveltalks—Just another traveltalk. We have better scenery right here. Running time, 9 minutes.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

SET 'EM UP: Pete Smith Specialties—A very good short on bowling, and very timely. Running time, 10 minutes.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

STUFFIE: Peter Smith Specialties—This one-reel drama about two dogs is excellent entertainment. Running time, 10 minutes.—E. M. Freihurger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

WANTED—A MASTER: Peter Smith Specialties—Very good. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

WHAT'S YOUR I. Q.?: Pete Smith Specialties—This is a novelty that the people seem to like. Short enough to be interesting. Running time, 8 minutes.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

Paramount

ALADDIN AND HIS WONDERFUL LAMP: Popeye the Sailor—Very good. Running time, 16 minutes. —Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

BLUE DANUBE, THE: Symphonic Series—Nicely done. A few pictorial scenes might help this series go in popular appeal. Music good.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

STEALIN' AIN'T HONEST: Popeye the Sailor—Usual.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

RKO Radio

DONALD'S LUCKY DAY: Walt Disney Cartoons—Excellent short, hut Disney's shorts don't mean a thing here any more. If you've seen one, you've seen them all.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

FIVE TIMES FIVE: Dionne Quintuplets—Excellent, hut who's interested in the Quints? Running time, 18 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

INFORMATION PLEASE: No. 7—These subjects ain't so good. They don't mean a thing. Recording very poor. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

KENNEDY THE GREAT: Edgar Kennedy Comedies—Fair. Kennedy slipping. Running time, 18 minutes. —Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

MARCH OF TIME NO. 7: Vatican of Pius XII—A very educational and instructive subject. Should prove of interest to all Catholics. Running time, 18 minutes.—J. P. Semyan, Liberty Theatre, Lilly, Penna. Small town patronage.

MARCH OF TIME NO. 7: Vatican of Pius XII—Very timely, and it gives people glimpses of Vatican City which they would see no place else. Running time, 18 minutes.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

NAVAJO LAND: Reelisms—Just a fair short of the Navajo Indians. Running time, 10 minutes.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

RING MADNESS: Leon Errol Comedies—A good two-reeler. Leon Errol always funny. Running time, 18 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

SCRAPPILY MARRIED: Leon Errol Comedies—A good two-reeler. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

WINTER PLAYGROUND: RKO Pathe Sportscope—Enjoyed the winter sports in this one.—J. P. Semyan, Liberty Theatre, Lilly, Penna. Small town patronage.

WRONG ROOM, THE: Leon Errol Comedies—Very good. Leon Errol good. Running time, 18 minutes.—Fay S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

Twentieth Century-Fox

HARVEST TIME: Terry-Toons—Very good.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

JUST A LITTLE BULL: Terry-Toons—Very good cartoon in color.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

SKY FIGHTERS: Adventures of the Newsreel Cameraman—Spectacular photography. Fine short.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacoek, N. H. General patronage.

VALLEY OF 10,000 SMOKES: Father Hubbard's Alaskan Adventures—Excellent.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

CAFE BOHEME: Mentone Musical Comedies—Mostly good entertainment.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

LIFE BEGINS FOR ANDY PANDA: Lantz Colored Cartunes—Very good.—L. A. Irwin, Palace Theatre, Penacook, N. H. General patronage.

Vitaphone

AFRICA SQUEAKS: Looney Tunes—This burlesque on "Stanley and Livingstone" is very good. Running time, seven minutes.—E. M. Freiburger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

ARTIE SHAW AND ORCHESTRA: Melody Masters—Very good. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

BLUE BARRON AND HIS ORCHESTRA: Melody Masters—Good orchestra short. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

CLYDE LUCAS AND ORCHESTRA: Melody Masters—Good orchestra short. Running time, 8 minutes. —Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

DAFFY DUCK AND DINOSAUR: Merrie Melodies—Better than average cartoon. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

DEAN OF THE PASTEBOARD: Vitaphone Varieties—Be sure and play this. Most constructive, showing card sharks and the nut-games.—Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

FAT CHANCE, A: Johnny Perkins—A good two-reeler with lots of laughs. Running time, 18 minutes. —Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

IT'S THE McCOY; Clyde McCoy and his Orchestra—A good orchestra short. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

LARRY CLINTON AND ORCHESTRA: Melody Masters—Excellent orchestra short. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

ROBIN HOOD MAKES GOOD: Merrie Melodies—Very good. Running time, 8 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

ROMANCE IN RHYTHM: Carl Hoff and Orchestra—One of the best Melody Masters. Running time, 1 reel.—Joe Schindele, Avalon Theatre, Granite Falls, Minn. Small town patronage.

RUSS MORGAN AND HIS ORCHESTRA: Melody Masters—As poor a hand short as we have had from Vitaphone. We would advise you passing this one up. —Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

SEEING RED: Red Skelton—Very good. Like a vaudeville show. Red Skelton very good. Running time, 16 minutes.—Ray S. Hanson, Fox Theatre, Fertile, Minn. Small town and rural patronage.

SLAP HAPPY PAPPY: Looney Tunes—Very good cartoon, burlesquing Bing Crosby and Eddie Cantor.—E. M. Freihurger, Paramount Theatre, Dewey, Okla. Small town patronage.

SWING OPERA, A: Broadway Brevities—Real good. Your audience will sure appreciate this swing classic. —Harland Rankin, Plaza Theatre, Tilbury, Ontario, Canada. General patronage.

WORLD'S FAIR JUNIOR: Broadway Brevities—My patrons got a big kick out of these kids. Some very clever youngsters, and entertaining for both old and young. Running time, 2 reels.—A. L. Dove, Bengough Theatre, Bengough, Saskatchewan, Canada. Small town and rural patronage.

Serial

Republic

ZORRO'S FIGHTING LEGION: Reed Hadley—This serial is better than I expected, based on seeing the first two chapters. The plot is well motivated, the production values are better than in most serials, some new players that you should hear more from. If it continues as it has started, it will be classed as a superior serial.—J. E. Stocker, Myrtle Theatre, Detroit, Mich. Neighborhood patronage.

IN COURTS

Stockholder Suit Filed in Virginia

In a suit filed in Roanoke, Va., this week three stockholders asked for the appointment of a receiver for the National Theatre Corporation, charging misfeasance, misconduct and mismanagement in the conduct of the affairs of the corporation. The suit was brought by W. B. Huddleston, Lucy E. Peters and Elizabeth P. Broun, in their own behalf and on behalf of all other stockholders similarly situated, and was directed against Elmore D. Heins, president of the corporation; Henry D. Scholz, vice-president and treasurer; Benjamin S. Smith, manager of the American theatre; the Sun Investment Corporation, and the National Theatre Corporation.

It was charged that Messrs. Heins, Scholz and Smith had exercised their control of the National Theatre Corporation to secure the payment of excessive rent on the American theatre building to the Sun Investment Company, owner of the building, which corporation they are alleged to control. The bill of complaint also charges that Saks and Company, which occupies a store in the building, fails to pay adequate rent.

Paramount Sued by Writers over "Wings"

Wallace Moir and Louis Lamont, writers and trustees of the estate of Frank Hawks, aviator, this week sued Paramount in superior court in Los Angeles for $2,200,000 damages, charging plagiarism of material written by the three Paramount's "Men with Wings."

The plaintiffs claim that Paramount used portions of "Cavalcade of the Air," written by them in 1934. It is also charged that Paramount had their story for five months before rejecting it.

Action Cites War

Rose J. Hexter, operator of the Breeze theatre, Philadelphia, has filed suit in common pleas court there against Universal, claiming damages of $1,950 because the distributor failed to deliver "All Quiet on the Western Front" according to contract early in September when the European war broke out, holding the film until December. The plaintiff claims exhibition of the film at the time war started would have increased the normal two-day earnings of the Breeze from $50 to $2,000.

RKO Decision Affirmed

The appellate division of the New York supreme court on Friday unanimously affirmed the decision of Justice Fedinand Pecora denying an injunction to the Caron Perfume Company, in its suit against RKO involving the film "Primrose Path."

Warner Suit Filed

A plagiarism suit against Warner Brothers has been filed in federal court in New York by Beatrice M. Gottlieb and Bertrand Robinson. The plaintiffs charge that Warners infringed their play "It's Your Fault," in the film, "Racket Busters."

Universal Sued

Fritz Rotter and Angela Sherwood have filed suit in superior court in Los Angeles against Universal, asking $150,000 in which they charge unauthorized use of portions of their story, "Love on a Leash," in the film, "It's a Date."

The company is celebrating its 10th anniversary this month.

OBITUARIES

Robert Hale Dies; Was British Star

Robert Hale, 66, one of the first British actors to make an outstanding success in revues, died at Maidenhead, Berkshire, England, April 18th. Mr. Hale was the father of Binnie and Sonnie Hale.

He appeared in many plays throughout his years on the British stage and in the last four years devoted much time to motion pictures, including "Storm in a Teacup," "A Spot of Bother," "It's Love Again" and "The Compulsory Wife."

Charles S. Tainter Dies in San Diego

Charles Sumner Tainter, physicist and inventor, once associated with Alexander Graham Bell, died in San Diego, Cal., last Saturday night at the age of 85. He leaves a widow, Laura F. Tainter.

While lay writers have termed Mr. Tainter "father of the talkies," the term does not apply. He did work in the 80's on the recording of sound waves photographically on glass discs. They could be played, in a fashion, by the use of the selenium cell, an evolutionary ancestor of today's photo-electric cell. This, however, was done prior to the arrival of the motion picture on the screen and was without relation to pictures.

J. B. Johnston Dies

J. B. Johnston, 79, father of W. Ray Johnston, president of Monogram, died April 22nd at his home in Waterloo, Ia. Mr. Johnson is survived by his widow, five sons and a daughter.

James Savage

James S. Savage, Sr., 78, well known South Buffalo showman, died in Mercy Hospital, Buffalo, April 19th two hours after he was found shot through the temple in the bedroom of his home. He retired several years ago.

Steven Bauer

Steven Bauer, 60, former president and business manager of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of Wisconsin, died in Milwaukee April 20th. He operated theatres in Milwaukee and Plymouth and was a partner in a film delivery service.

Set Projectionists Banquet

The Boston Projectionists Local 182 is having a celebration and banquet next Wednesday to mark the organization's 30th anniversary. Thad C. Barrows is president of the organization which is affiliated with the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, and Joe Rosen is treasurer.

Remodeling Star Theatre

The Star theatre at Unity, Saskatchewan, operated by S. Stone, is being remodeled and redecorated and an air conditioning system is being installed.

Garrett Becomes an Editor

On the Tapping of More Boxoffice Power

Until one primary weakness of exhibition is corrected, little of this industry anxiety about the greater need of showmanship can be translated into action. Let every last one of us line up and shoot "showmanship"; let there be conceived the most elaborate plan to hypodermic exploitation activities. It will mean nothing more than nothing unless every theatreman concerned is carefully measured for the individual job of showmanship he himself is able to perform, then allowed as much or as little weight as he can carry.

Up to now, efforts to increase grosses generally have been predicated upon the idea that every manager has the capabilities of doing an equal job. In other words, if one man puts over a whale of a campaign it is immediately expected that others can duplicate his success. Results do not always measure up to these expectations.

Whether they really believe it, or choose to believe it to fit in with organizational procedure, too many bossmen profess to see little difference between the exploitation abilities of different men. If a man is supposed to be a manager, they argue, it follows that he is supposed also to be an able showman. And there's your rub. Showbusiness has never seen the time when every man in it was a showman.

The obvious need for greater showmanship will be satisfied providing the industry stops kidding itself. Showmanship is where you find it and not where you want it to be.

That far, that good. But where from there?

Take the naturals, the born showmen whose work is automatically proficient, who are never at a loss for the profitable thing to do at the right time. Instead of confining these bright boys to one situation, let them be given more to do in the exploitation of other units, in addition to their own. Back these leaders up with the next line of troops, the men not so naturally gifted but willing and conscientious enough to keep plugging ahead at all times to learn more and do better. In this classification are those sufficiently conscious of showmanship values to follow through successfully in advancing the plans laid out by the shock-troops.

Here, then, gentlemen, is a plan that can proceed without interruption of normal routine and rates the enthusiastic support of all concerned. Particularly should it be welcomed in situations without the assistance of home office advertising departments.

The plan will invite top men to turn on more showmanship power. It will give eager-to-learn theatremen an unequalled opportunity to build their personal standings. It will mean that advertising will function with less waste. It should eventually see the discarding of restrictive budgets made necessary by profitless spending.

The extra business that must be forthcoming as a result, and which is not now being had, will not only provide for whatever added expenses are assumed but also the important matter of deserved remuneration for the laddies who bring it in.

If something is to be done, this is it. Showbusiness is not keeping store. The selling of entertainment is an intangible product not to be vended in the manner of packaged goods.

A POINT TO CONSIDER

The Simplex advertising in a recent issue of Better Theatres makes more than one point in indicating that the fanciest exploitation cannot bring the customers back if the projection is not up to par. The copy theme also touches off a thought on the virtues of showmanship as applied to modern equipment, and why more of it is not being done by the theatreman himself.

If it is obvious that good equipment makes good business, then it is equally obvious that this important contribution to theatre entertainment be given the plugging it rates.

Round Table In Pictures

(Left) Also perambulating was the bookshop for "My Son, My Son", in Cleveland, Milt Harris promoting store for books and an attendant for the Buick car. The theatre merely supplied the banners.

Pratt Ties 'Swiss' To Promotion for Honeymooner Isle

As a promotion for a Florida property, an island near Tampa, on the west coast, offers were made to newly married couples to spend their honeymoons on the isle, as guests of the owner. The stunt broke a lot of space nationally. In addition, it was tied in locally by Manager Billy Pratt, for his date on "Swiss Family Robinson" at the Paramount, Atlanta, Ga.

The Round Tabler promoted one of the dailies to carry the hookup as a five-day contest, in which local newlyweds were invited to try for the role of real-life "Robinsons." The paper plugged it strongly with feature stories, heads, and art, the illustrations being shots of the island itself and stills.

Contest required that winners be married for the first time. Entrants were asked to send pictures and personal background data, such as where they were married, ages, etc. In addition, short letter giving reasons for wanting to go was also necessary. Contest narrowed down to 10 finalists, who were chosen by local heads of the Better Films committee. Winning couple was selected by owner of the property, the finalists being guests of Pratt to see the picture. Additional publicity was secured later with stories from the selected pair on the island, the paper also running shots of the newlyweds enjoying their unique vacation.

To be noted in all the publicity was the repetition of the name of the picture in reference to the contest and those taking part, beside the usual theatre mentions.

Nelson Promotes Business Through School Banquets

This is the time of the year that schools are preparing to hold their Junior and Senior banquets, writes Glenn H. Nelson, in describing his promotion to bring these affairs to Findlay, Ohio, from the drawing area to build up attendance at the Warner Harris. From past experience, Nelson knows that the students prefer holding these events away from the home town. So he has arranged with a leading restaurant, directly across from the theatre, to cater to the schools at a special rate. This information has been conveyed to the various groups by letter which also notes the nearness of the Harris and facilities for entertainment after the banquets. Nelson has effected special prices for the groups and reserved space for seating, this being stressed in the letter.

Nelson reports a number of definite contracts as a result, with groups running from 30 to 70. Bookings are made for off nights and bring in business not usually to be had otherwise. In addition, the Round Tabler feels that this favorable introduction to his theatre will help bring more regular business.

"Wanted" Police Cards Work For "Apollo" in Hartford

Top attention-getter "Johnny Apollo" was 11x14 police card of large cut Tyrone Power, copy above reading "Wanted: Johnny Apollo", and theatre credits below cut. Cards distributed all over town as well as "lost" on trolleys and buses. Same idea used in imprinting bags from six downtown stores, and in heralds, house-to-house.

Also had ushers in theatre during intermission week ahead walking up and down aisles with "Paging Johnny Apollo". Proved effective and amusing.

Local O'Hara-Butler Search Proves Highly Effective

Much was made locally over the search for the town's Rhett Butler and Scarlett O'Hara in connection with A. J. Kalberer's opening on "Gone With the Wind" at the Indiana, in Washington, Ind. Winning couple so determined by votes were driven to the theatre for the gala opening after having attended a special dinner party held in their honor at cooperating cafe. Broadcast was held in lobby where the winning couple was interviewed together with the maids of honor, all of whom wore period costumes. Papers were generous in covering the event with stories and art work.

Through cooperation of leading merchants gifts were promoted for the couple who were entertained by the theatreman. Restaurants featured drinks named for the stars, replica gown was planted in store window and played up in the newspapers.

Kelley's "Bluebird" Contest

Teaser Stunts Featured By Jones for "Time"

Ushering in his campaign on "Borrowed Time" at the Saenger, in Pine Bluff, Ark., Manager Paul Jones as a teaser distributed envelopes to a selected list with copy inside reading "There is a story of an apple and an apple tree that you will remember for years to come. Watch the papers for announcements and then borrow the time to see it." Attached to each envelope was a real apple. Novelty cards were also distributed with pennies pasted to them and copy, "I'll lend you a cent if you'll borrow the time to see," etc.

Numerous window displays were effected, each carrying appropriate copy tied to the picture. Through cooperation of local police department, safe drivers were presented with passes to the show, announcement on safety award stunt running in papers four days ahead. Newspaper coverage included contest with prizes going to those submitting best accounts of near fatal accidents.

Notaro's Co-Op Ads

Reported as a first-time that it has ever been done locally, was the double truck promoted by Round Tabler Pat Notaro for his run of "Young Tom Edison" at the Warner Columbia, in Sharon, Pa., in addition to which utilities company took a large ad which was tied directly to the picture. For Gene Krupa's personal appearance and broadcast, Notaro also received two cooperative ads amounting to 33 inches of free space.

Edison Plaque Hung In Railroad Station

Loew's theatre, Indianapolis, called public attention to "Young Tom Edison" and "Edison the Man" by hanging a plaque in honor of Edison at the Western Union booth in the Indianapolis Union station. Edison was a telegrapher there when he was 17 years old.

Lieut. Governor Henry F. Schricker placed the plaque. Arrangements were made by Ward Farrar, Loew's manager, and Wade W. Willman, M-G-M branch manager, with the cooperation of A. G. Dudley of the Western Union. Prominent citizens attended luncheon given by the theatremen preceding the ceremony.

Teaser Feather Cards Used By Andrews for "Passage"

Prior to the opening of "Northwest Passage" at the Royal, in Guelph, Ontario, Round Tabler Stan Andrews distributed tinted cards attached to which were small colored feathers which folks were asked to wear as a good luck charm and reminder to see the picture. Also included on card was entire cast and picture plug.

At no cost to the theatreman was the publishing of a Deanna Durbin fashion mat in local paper as his advance on "It's a Date." Running three columns, picture and playdates were plugged. In addition, numerous window displays were landed in all of which stills of the star were prominently displayed.

DiPesa Promotes "Raffles" Contests

To stimulate interest in his date on "Raffles" at Loew's State and Orpheum, in Boston, Joe DiPesa tied the Boston Daily Record into a "Confucius Say" contest with a different cartoon each day for three weeks. Second contest in the Boston Traveler ran four days offering tickets to contestants correctly identifying scene stills from various pictures. Serialization was also run, special "how to get rich quick" strip planted in Polish paper and for street bally, "Raffles" man-about-town dressed in tux, etc., distributed tiein heralds.

On "Northwest Passage," DiPesa tied up the English high school classes with presentation of an autographed copy of the book to the best student in the senior English class. Contacting local "Sons of the American Revolution" a special evening was held at the theatre, numerous editorials landed in newspapers and a flock of art and stories in advance of opening.

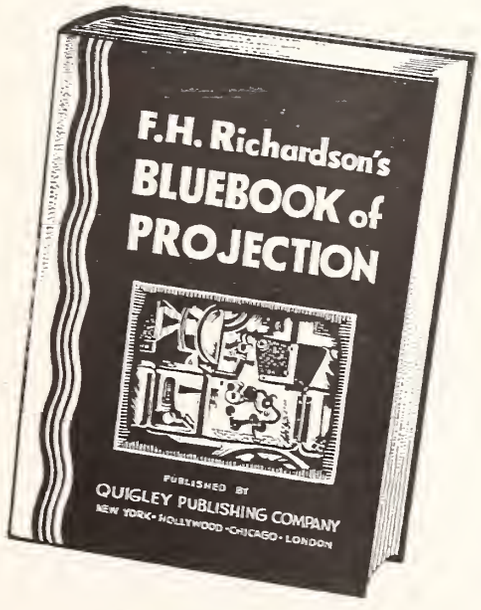
As the Second Quarter gets well under way, entrants are again informed that those who earn "Fortnights" most often will receive first consideration in the Quarter-Master judging.

For those still uninformed, the rules and regulations of the Quigley Awards are published on a following page of this section. Interested theatremen are requested to read and note.

"Pinocchio" Dance Routine Tied to Clubs by Granara



Numerous were the tieups arranged by Jack Granara for opening of "Pinocchio" at the RKO Keith Memorial in Boston, which also included presentation for two weeks of a "Pinocchio" dance routine as part of the regular floor show at popular night clubs, which featured nine dancing girls wearing picture masks and three blue fairies. Running about 10 minutes, full theatre announcement and music from the film were included. Same group of girls drove to theatre opening day in fleet of cabs timed to arrive as the Governor with his family drove up. Photos and stories landed in dailies.

Complete campaign on music was carried out through special radio programs, music wrappers printed and distributed, public address system in lobby played tunes from the picture, weekly feature "Story Behind a Song Hit" in Sunday paper carried words on "When You Wish Upon a Star" and mentioned the theatre and announcement heralds were sent out by direct mail through salesmen tieup with Victor.

THEATRE PROMOTION ANALYZED IN COURSE

Advertising, Publicity and Exploitation Weighed by Training School Speakers

On this page is set down the concluding article detailing the subject matter covered in the eight-week course for ushers and assistant managers recently sponsored by Mitchell Wolfson and Sidney Meyer, Miami Wometco circuit heads, and directed by Round Tabler Sonny Shepherd, skipper of the circuit's Lincoln in Miami Beach. The first article on this school, attended by 125 of the personnel, was run in last week's issue.

Newspaper advertising and publicity constitute 95 per cent of a campaign, Hal Kopplin, Wometco ad head, told the students in his advertising discourse on "Selling the Show." Seven per cent of a picture's anticipated gross was devoted to these items, he said. The best form of advertising, to Kopplin's mind, is the trailer and next, newspapers.

Wometco maintains its own complete art department, and prepares its own ads, Kopplin explained, because they feel that the cosmopolitan audiences in Miami and Miami Beach, where many a world premiere is held during the winter season, presents special problems.

Audience Taste Determines Approach

Anyone aspiring to theatre managership must learn his audience's tastes if he expects to advertise his films successfully, Kopplin warned. Then as an example, he explained the change in emphasis, from love interest to less love interest to robustness to plain outright gusto, that was used for instance in "The Real Glory" as it moved from the Lincoln Theatre on the Beach, around the circuit to the Miami, the Mayfair and finally to the Capitol, which is in the secondary commercial section of the city.

In the discussion of publicity before the group, Sonny Shepherd laid out the many lines of attack by presenting the newspaper man's side of the picture as well as the theatreman's.

One of the most important things which Shepherd brought out was encouraging the boys to make friends with all the newspapermen no matter if they were only cub reporters for they some day will be city editors and critics, Shepherd indicated. Know each man by his first name and all about him, he said. The theatreman pointed out the need in contacting all departments of the paper in addition to the drama and motion picture section. There were stories to be had on the society, women's, children's, cooking and grocery pages, he said.

Shepherd Discusses Publicity

Shepherd advised the class in the actual laying out of stories for proper newspaper presentation. Illustrated by use of press sheets, he brought out interesting plans for using the stories therein by changing them around to localize the angles. He also discussed how to figure advertising budgets against approximate grosses.

Shepherd urged the men to learn something about journalism before they attempted to write a story, and showed many cases of why amateurs bungled, how little respect newspaper men had for those who try to "put something over."

"Editors welcome the right kind of material and will even sit down with you and help you plan a stunt in order that it will have interest to readers—after all the editor has to keep interest in his newspaper as well as you do in your theatre. If you 'stink up' a paper with a lot of useless publicity for the mere value of space grabbing, it not only will not sell your merchandise, but will tend to leave the reader a bit dubious of the entire paper and thus lessen the value of the sheet for your ads."

Exploitation on world premieres was shown by examples of what had happened in previous campaigns at the Lincoln Theatre, which Shepherd manages. How to put over campaigns and make tieups was thoroughly gone over with the boys.

Books on journalism, publicity, management of theatres and the Managers' Round Table section of MOTION PICTURE HERALD were used as examples to show the group how to take advantage of the material contained therein. Shepherd took several issues of the HERALD and pointed out various stunts in the Managers' Round Table Department which could be worked in various Wometco theatres, showing the men how to localize the stunt to fit their own situations.

Booking Procedure Explained

The ramifications of "Distribution and Booking" were in the hands of Walter Klements, Wometco's booker, who explained how films are sold approximately a year before production, and then traced the evolution of a film from the West Coast to the East for preview by the National Board of Review, and final distribution through the country's exchanges.

Booking sheets were passed out among the usher-students as Klements took up, point by point, the complicated processes by which the exchange and the exhibitor use to keep films moving from theatre to theatre accurately and on time. Contracts, shipping instructions, exchange problems and the special handling of road shows were all covered in Klement's address.

To aid in the booking of "B" pictures, Wometco screens them for all the managers, usually once a week. After the showing, opinions are registered on Prevue Sheets, Klements explained, which Mr. Meyer examines carefully before deciding to accept or reject a certain film for a certain theatre.

Finds Accidents Controllable

On the subject of Workmen's Compensation Insurance, Allen Fuller, stressed that accidents are controllable, the controlling force being commonsense and thoughtfulness. Many accidents have befallen ushers because they walked down an aisle backwards and tripped over a patron's leg. Other sources of theatre accidents to employees, are in washrooms and locker rooms from soap or other slippery substances on the floors and from open locker doors, Fuller pointed out.

Falls constitute the majority of accidents to patrons, Joseph Williamson, insurance adjuster, declared, in pointing out that 92 per cent of such mishaps are preventable. Torn carpets, holes in the floor, nails or screws in seats, broken seat backs are the most frequent causes, he said.

The "use of the stage" was described by Gordon Spradley and Mark Chartrand, in stressing the value of special events, especially for neighborhood theatres. Aside from fashion shows, beauty contests, personal appearances, Boy Scout demonstrations, and other special stunts, the theatremen dwelt upon the circuit's own pet, the Mickey Mouse Club, developed by Shepherd and now active every Saturday afternoon in all neighborhood houses.

The workings of the organization were explained, each club having officers as any other social club with a Chief Mickey, Song Bearers, etc., selected by the children. Every club has its own band, which Spradley and Chartrand consider essential to a club's success. The most important thing, they emphasized from a manager's point of view, is never to fail to send each member a birthday card, and on time. A miss will bring down wrath on a manager's head, they said.

Need of Watchfulness Stressed

With more than four million dollars being disbursed yearly by his department, mainly in small amounts, accuracy is essential on the part of everyone. Larry Johnson, head of Wometco's accounting department maintained. "Isolated instances of carelessness are relatively unimportant," he said, "but in the operation of 22 theatres such as ours, carelessness will attain the status of major losses."

Every employee should regard everything that enters a theatre as just so much cash, whether it is advertising paper, film, or supplies, he continued. "A gallon of soap isn't only a gallon of soap, but a dollar and twenty cents in cold cash. If you spill a fourth of it, you have literally thrown away about 30 cents."

Wolfson Urges Community Cooperation

At the conclusion of the course, Wometco staged a banquet at which Mr. Wolfson urged all the employees to participate eagerly and earnestly in all civic and community activities. "For Wometco Theatres and for you, individually, to prosper," he declared, "it is necessary for this community to grow and prosper. In spite of every efficiency we might develop, we cannot go ahead unless the community grows." Civic clubs are looking for workers like you. Take pride in your work, whether it be in Wometco Theatres or for your community. And let Miamians know that the men and women in Wometco Theatres are willing to give unselfishly of time, effort and ability to make our community a better place to live, for ourselves and our neighbors."

Based on the talks made and subject matter covered in the eight weeks series of lectures, is a manual now in preparation by the circuit for distribution among the personnel.

School System Cooperates On "Geronimo" Opening

Week ahead of "Geronimo" date at the Rialto Theatre, in Woodbury, N. J., Manager Gene Stutenroth succeeded in having the American history and English classes begin a study of the life of the Indian chief, with all students required to submit an essay on the subject two days prior to opening. The six best selected by the teachers' committee were rewarded with passes, announcements made in assembly and school paper.

Another newspaper break was landed since Preston Foster, appearing in the picture is a local boy from a town nine miles distant from the theatre and his wife had been born in Woodbury. By arrangements with the Paramount Studio, Foster sent a telegram to Stutenroth greeting his old friends in both counties. Wire was blown up for display board in front of theatre in addition to letter of good wishes to the star which patrons were asked to sign.

Campaign Briefs On Recent Dates In Various Parts

Since the grandmother of the baby appearing in "Eternally Yours" is a resident of Delaware, Ohio, Johnny Manuel of Schine's Strand for that date contacted the studios and obtained special stills of the child which were used for window displays and lobby flashes. In addition, the grandmother who is employed by the school system obliged by permitting the posting of the pictures on bulletin boards two days ahead of opening.

For "A Child Is Born" at the Jefferson Theatre, in Punxsutawney, Pa. Mrs. Marietta McCartney promoted local children's shop for main window display of infants' apparel which was directly tied into the picture. Large credit cards and scene stills were prominently planted.

Eight-foot replica of "Grapes of Wrath" book was used as a street bally by Manager Erwin Westerman of the Casino Theatre, in Milaca, Minn., as advance for that date. Inside book was an endless belt on which there were 15 stills running on two drums powered by a small motor. Stills could be seen through a window eight by 10 inches in the back of the book. A switch operated by the public controlled the power so that they could stop it and look at one still.

As a buildup for their weekly stage shows, publicist George Shafer, working with Pete Egan at the Palace, in Calgary, has been running a small gossip column called "Party Patter." Planted day before the shows, it contains news about the artists and behind the scene happenings. Column which is promoted gratis is by-lined by George.

As advance on the Louis-Godoy at the Morin Theatre, in Brookville, Ind. Dale Morin circularized special list culled from the telephone book. In addition, the theatreman mailed his monthly program to fight fans within a radius of 15 miles.

As a teaser in advance of "Too Many Husbands" at the Paramount in Brattleboro, Vt., Manager Clifford Boyd mailed government postcards with copy reading "In all fairness to our patrons, we feel that you ought to be told that Jean Arthur, star of 'Mr. Smith Goes to Washington' and many other great hits, has 'Too Many Husbands' and its going to create a good deal of excitement and comment with Fred MacMurray and Melvyn Douglas when it starts," etc. We thought you'd like to know." Another gag was the distribution of tinted letters, signed by Jean and carrying picture copy.

Rules for the Quigley Awards

Awards are now voted on single exploitations and not on complete campaigns as formerly. This includes goodwill and institutional ideas, as well as those on pictures.

Each Quarter is divided into two-week preliminary contests.

Winners in each preliminary are appointed Fortnighters.

Entries of Fortnighters in each Quarter are judged for Quarter-Master Plaques, Medals, Citations.

Quarter-Master Plaque, Medal and Citation Winners are appointed Quarter-Masters.

Entrants registering the best records of Quigley Plaques, Medals and Citations in the four Quarters will be eligible for the Grand Awards judging.

There are no classifications of population or situation. Everyone starts from scratch.

There are no deadlines. All entries will be considered in the period in which they are received.

All product is eligible—features, shorts, serials. Also stage shows, amateur presentations, etc.

More than one idea may be included in one entry but Preliminary Awards will be voted for best individual idea.

No fancy entries are necessary. With the usual "evidence", submit brief description and "reasons why" an entry should be considered.

At this writing, the second Fortnight of the Second Quarter has passed with four more to go until the end of the Second Quarter. It is to be kept in mind that, with everything equal, theatremen who score more often in the Fortnighters will receive greater consideration in voting the Quarter-Master Awards.

Safety Short Made By De Grazia Tied to Accident Drive

Since Arizona state officials have lately been concerned over the increase in highway driving accidents, it was the idea of Ted De Grazia, to produce a short on the subject for general exhibition and especially as a buildup for the Lyric in Bisbee. The Round Tabler's past experiences in producing local pictures and newsreels stood him in good stead. With the sponsorship of local merchants who paid the costs, plus the cooperation of those who took the various parts, the resulting short was responsible for a tiein with the county for a Safety Week during the national celebration of the event. Titled "Toll of the Highway," the short told a dramatic story, graphically presented by the theatreman and his volunteer crew of writers, actors and production assistants.

Given a week's date at the theatre, attendance was stimulated during the showing with the advertised appearances of name speakers representing various organizations, which endorsed the picture. Among these was the state safety council, the Mayor, the Sheriff. Others which cooperated included the Elks, lunch clubs, Boy Scouts, church and fraternal bodies. Much was made of the event in the papers, which devoted space to all the locals who had to do with the filming. Radio stations also carried plugs, all the campaign including frequent mention of theatre and date.

For further local interest, De Grazia worked up a photo contest wherein amateurs were invited to take shots of the many window and street displays plugging the picture. Guest tickets were given as prizes, with extra advertising used to build up the offer. Joad family.

"LET'S HEAR FROM YOU"

McDonough's "Blondie" Co-op

Leading men's haberdasher cooperated with Jim McDonough for "Blondie on a Budget" date at the Grand, in Galt, Ontario, by running a six-column co-op ad, banner line across top to the effect that Blondie would have had to go on a budget if she bought at, etc. Featured also in the ad, in addition to title, theatre and playdates were thumbnails of the various characters in the picture which were directly tied to some piece of wearing apparel to be purchased at the store.

"LET'S HEAR FROM YOU"

Promotes Union on "Wrath"

In a strictly industrial town with a strong union organization, Karl Lindstaedt at the Paramount, in Austin, Minn., for "Grapes of Wrath," contacted head of local union for breaks in their paper; in addition, members were urged to see the picture. As a further buildup for the date, photos of the Joad family were planted on bulletin boards and through cooperation of union headquarters, head of each department made an announcement to their men and women in the plant that the first 300 people paying their dues that week would receive a picture.

The number immediately following the title is the production number. Also given is information regarding the classification of the subject matter. A melodrama is denoted by the abbreviation Mel., Comedy by Com., Comedy-Melodrama by Com.-Mel., Musical by Mus., Musical Comedy by Mus.-Com., Western by West. If the production is made in color, the letter "C" appears in parenthesis after the classification. Thus: Com.-Mel. (C) denotes a Comedy-Melodrama in Color.

Productions are listed according to the names of distributors in order that the exhibitor may have a short-cut towards such information as he may need, as well as information on pictures that are coming. Features now in work or completed for release later than the date of this issue are listed under "Coming Attractions." Letter in parenthesis after title denotes audience classification of production: (A) Adult, (G) General. Numerals following audience classification are production numbers. Dagger (†) symbol indicates picture is of the 1939-40 season. Asterisk (*) after title of feature denotes first appearance of picture in Release Chart.

NOTE: The totals for running time are the official figures announced by the home offices of the distributing companies.

When a production is reviewed in Hollywood, the running time is as officially given by the West Coast studio of the company at the time of the review, and this fact is denoted by an asterisk (*) immediately preceding the number. As soon as the home office has established the running time for national release, any change from the studio figure is made and the asterisk is removed.

Running times are subject to change according to local conditions. State or city censorship deletions may cause variations from the announced and published figures; repairs to the film may be another reason.
